HIGHER THAN WOOLWORTH BUILDING

The Yearly Sales of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

The Woolworth Building in New York City, which towers 792 feet above the street, is our highest building.

If all the bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound sold in one year could be placed end to end, they would make a column as high as the Woolworth Building with enough left over to extend from Lynn, Mass., to Cleveland, Ohio.

"I have lots of work to do and I am not very strong, but I was getting worse all the time until I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I used to lose my appetite completely at certain times, but I feel very well since I began taking this medicine. I think so much of it that I would go before a notary and swear to its merits. You could step into my home any time and you will find a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. FRANK M. CASEY, 220 South 11th Ave., Mount Vernon, N. Y.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. Marion Marshall of Lynn, Mass., has been visiting her cousin, Mrs. Hattie Johnson.

Misses Eleanor Crawford and Nellie Dainton of Willimantic spent the week end with their classmate, Miss Elizabeth Bertsch.

Miss Beatrice Collins was graduated from the Conn. Froebel Normal school at Bridgeport Friday evening, as valedictorian of her class.

The Pine street school children gave an entertainment at the town hall Friday evening, the program consisting of songs, folk dances, and two plays. Ice cream and cake were sold after the entertainment. The proceeds are to go toward the Dental Clinic.

The Columbia Christian Endeavor society held a social Saturday evening at the chapel. Each of the young ladies brought a lunch for two.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Hunt and family motored to Johnston, R. I., on Sunday and spent the day with Mrs. Hunt's sister, Mrs. Chester Winsor. On their return they were accompanied by Mrs. Louise Goff, Mrs. Hunt's mother, who will spend the summer in Columbia.

The state health board sends out the following notice:

The normal child, as well as those that are underweight, should have some period of rest during the day and should go to bed early, as growth is best accomplished during the sleeping time. Often all that is needed to bring a child up to normal weight is longer hours of rest. All children should go to bed early regardless of the change in the sun time. All these measured for health are discussed at the Well Child conference. The next conference in Columbia will be held Thursday afternoon, June 10th, in the town hall, from 2 to 4 o'clock.

FINE ARTS RESTORATION A VICTORY FOR CLUB WOMEN

Chicago, June 7 (AP)—The long fight of Chicago and Illinois clubwomen to preserve as a cultural landmark the fine arts building of the Columbian expostion, in Jackson park, has borne the fruit of reality in advertisement for bids for the restoration of the edifice. Work is to begin by midsummer.

The structure is the only physical survival of the World's fair, from which Chicago counts its blossoming into a metropolis. The building was constructed of steel and brick, but its stucco surface has cracked and at one time the landmark was about to be torn down.

Movie of an awful night

NO longer need your nights or days be ruined by mosquitoes. Flit destroys these pests.

Flit spray clears your home in a few minutes of disease-bearing flies and mosquitoes. It is clean, safe and easy to use.

Kills All Household Insects

Flit spray also destroys bed bugs, roaches and ants. It searches out the cracks and crevices where they hide and breed and destroys insects and their eggs. Spray Flit on your garments. Flit kills moths and their larvae which eat holes.

CUTTING FEDERAL TAXES

How soon there can be a further reduction in federal taxation is uncertain. It depends upon the manner in which congress respects the request of the president to keep down the expenditures and upon the revenue that is received from the prevailing taxes. Nothing would please the taxpayers or the administration more than to provide a further reduction next year, but it certainly cannot be done if congress insists upon extravagant appropriations.

There are of course two ways in which the federal taxpayer can receive a benefit. It can come through a direct cut in taxes or through a reduction in the federal debt, now amounting to about $20,000,000,000 and on which something over $500,000,000 in interest is paid each year. Every reduction in the debt not only reduces the amount of that big interest bill but it hastens the time when interest paying will stop.

According to the report of the treasury for 11 months of the fiscal year there is a surplus of $55,000,000. Whether that will be increased to $350,000,000 or more during the present month depends upon the revenue received, but it is expected to be somewhere in that neighborhood in view of the fact that June is a month of large receipts.

Debt cutting is highly advantageous. Unless it is done interesting paying must go on forever, and like the foreign governments in their debt settlements more would be paid in interest than the entire debt totalled. In the 12 months ending with May the treasury has brought about a reduction of $835,000,000 in the federal debt. Could another quarter of a million be added thereto it would not only mean more than a billion reduction but the elimination of the interest thereon

It is such good business methods that the administration is constantly applying to government operations and it has the desired effect upon the pocketbooks of the federal taxpayers.

GUIDEPOSTS IN CITY AND COUNTRY

In these days of constant development and a great number of visitors it is a wise community that provides for the residents as well as the strangers within its gates by placing conspicuous signs at the intersection of streets.

Boston has been giving some heed to this need and now it is reported that Springfield is considering having street numbers placed either on street signposts or painted by stencils on the walks at important intersections as a guide to drivers of vehicles used in public service and deliveries and as an aid to strangers.

There is nothing of much greater importance in a well ordered city, or in any city for that matter, than plainly marked streets and clearly numbered houses and buildings.

There is nothing of much greater importance in a well ordered city, or in any city for that matter, than plainly marked streets and clearly numbered houses and buildings.

The city that is growing is constantly adding new streets. It is only fair to the residents and those who are seeking them that there should be proper guide posts for even though the residents may know the general location there is some service that is owed to the army of visitors arriving each week by automobile. In addition it is one way of displaying the progressiveness of a community.

The need of catering to strangers was never more felt than during these days when so many of them are traveling by motor vehicle. And this is by no means confined to the city. They need the aid which the signposts can give in the country where roads branch off or at intersections. It is helpful when they can be informed as they ride as to where this road goes what this village is, where the crossroad comes from and leads to and which is the country road they are seeking. Much may be unnecessary for one but vital to another. Someone is constantly seeking the information that would be thus provided, whether it is in the city or the country and whatever can be done to add to the convenience and information of the many keeps traffic moving and everybody better natured, to say nothing of the bit of good advertising for the respective enterprising towns and cities. None more than the strangers are better impressed by such efforts.

CRIME PREVENTION

In connection with the many cases of murder, attempts at murder, the demands for quick justice, the leniency shown to the criminal class and the inclination to release dangerous prisoners so that they can once more prey upon the public, Washington furnished a few days ago an instance which showed need of greater provision for the prevention of crimes of violence.

A jealous individual had provided himself with a revolver and had threatened to kill the woman in the case. As was thoroughly justified the threat resulted in a complaint and the arrest of the fellow. When arraigned in court the next day the woman failed to prosecute and he was released but his gun was not taken away from him and he was not even prosecuted for having one without permission.

It was but a short time thereafter that he met the woman who had complained of him on the street, shot her dead, then tried unsuccessfully to commit suicide, was arrested and is being held on a charge of murder.

Just what more would be wanted in the way of evidence that a person was a dangerous character and deserving for the protection of at least one person's life to be placed under restraint is difficult to imagine, and yet nothing was done. Possibly Washington has no law under which anything different could have been done, but the situation stands out conspicuously as an illustration of what ought not to be.

Where jealousy exists there's little telling what may happen, although this case shows what may rightly be expected. No doubt it was a mistake for the woman to withdraw her complaint but when a threat to take a life has been made there should be something for the authorities to say in regard to the freedom permitted the threatener and opportunities permitted him for carrying out the deed which he had in mind. The opportunities for the prevention of just such crime are not always available but when they are the most should be made of them.

THE CITY ELECTION RESULT

With democratic weather and a division in the republican ranks, which meant either staying away from the polls or a vote for democratic candidates, everything was favorable for the democratic result in the city election.

Opportunity was given the voters of Norwich to express their preference for those to guide the city affairs for the next two years and that preference has been recorded. By the result the city government will be democratic until June, 1928, and whether intended as such or not it must be looked upon as a vindication of the Waters administration by the majority of those who went to the polls as well as those who stayed at home. Norwich by its ballots has called for the continuation of the same kind of government.

If the truth were known there is no doubt that much of the support in the democratic victory came from republican voters. Such must be regarded as a manifestation of dissatisfaction within the republican ranks over the lack of an effective party organization.

In view of the repeated losses in city elections barring an occasional off year which made no difference in control, the situation clearly demands a change. The belief has prevailed for some time that there should be a reorganization of the republican town committee and substantial confirmation is given by the election to the conviction that republican success is not going to be possible until that is done. An organization that cannot command united party support is striving for impossibilities.

SMUGGLING ALIENS

There are those who are finding out that it costs something to try to evade the laws of this country according to the statements by immigration authorities, but even when the aliens find out that they cannot get into the United States through the proper channels they do not hesitate to spend their money and take the chance of doing so illegally.

They are in fact able to find plenty who are ready to assist them if they have the ready money, but the smugglers promise little or nothing and leave the immigrants quickly once the border is crossed to shift for themselves and invariably get caught.

There are those who are put ashore from boats and those who are rushed across the borders. Canada at the present time being the point from which those from European countries are making strenuous and expensive efforts to sneak in. The head of one family of four has recently given up $375 to be put across the border only to be caught and held for deportation, and thereby preventing any possibility of getting in through legitimate methods.

The unfortunate part of such activity is that if those who pay to be smuggled are fortunate enough to get to a large city they stand little chance of being detected, whereas if aliens were required to register there would be a check on them and the knowledge of such a check would serve as a discouragement for just such methods. The ease with which the law can be violated if all goes well and the aliens are delivered in a large city spurs on the smugglers and those willing to take the chance. Even repeated failure does not deter those in Canada who are reaping a rich harvest from the aliens who trustingly pour out their funds only to find they have been swindled. There is no rebate if the smuggling isn't successful.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 7—In the senate the democrats have just put up a new complaint. It is over a Georgia judgeship which President Coolidge proposes to bestow on an eminent republican of that state, who happens to be a brother of republican floor leader, John Q. Tilson of Connecticut.

The Georgia Tilson is a lawyer of note, has resided in Georgia many years, was born in Tennessee, and is in no sense ineligible as he is not only well fitted by experience, southern born, and not only belongs to a distinguished family, but is thoroughly competent and qualified for a federal judgeship in his own right.

But the time is ripe, in the minds of Georgia senators and certain southern members of that body, for the appointment of a democrat in Georgia, no matter if the appointment comes from a republican president and is to be given to a man eminently fitted for it.

Nothing worse can be found against "Joe" Tilson than that he is a staunch republican. Senators Harris and George of Georgia, are said to have their knives sharpened for an attack on the nomination when it comes to the senate. They do not propose, so it is said, to go before the country as opposing Tilson on the ground that he is a republican, but on the ground that his brother is the eminent floor leader of the house who may have influence in securing the nomination for the Georgia branch of the family. Pretty thin ice for the Georgian delegation to skate on, but at the same time it is raising quite a rumpus in congress at this moment. And on an election year it don't take much to form a basis of "charges of undue influence" when congressional democrats are scouting for a cause of complaint. The fact is, however, that Mr. Tilson of Georgia was talked of as a candidate for the federal judgeship, long before Mr. Tilson of Connecticut became floor leader of the house, and while President Harding was in the white house, and when the appointment of an additional judicial district in Georgia was suggested.

Senator Harris of Georgia is especially bitter and today is quoted as saying "it is nothing short of an outrage that a Connecticut man (Tilson) can dictate the appointment of a federal judge in Georgia." All the same the nomination and confirmation of Joseph Tilson of Atlanta, Georgia, is fully expected at this session. The Tilson family has furnished a number of distinguished men—there is Floor Leader John Tilson of Connecticut, Joseph Tilson of Atlanta, and one or two distinguished physicians, who lived in southern states, all brothers.

A Pennsylvania newspaper correspondent is responsible for the statement that the farmers of that state have evolved a new idea for keeping farm hands contented with a long day's work: They are cultivating crops to the music of the radio. No longer do boys on farms quit before the days work is done, in order to go to a ball game, when they can keep tabs on the score with the family radio attached to wheelbarrow or a tractor; cabinet sets are transfered to barrow, truck and dog car and carried to the fields, where either the news of the day, athletic game scores or cleverly attractive tunes induce the field hands to step lively as they sow seed or till the soil, to the accompaniment of a loud speaker. Farmers not using daylight saving time, get the benefit of the "tea music" and as that is rag time the boys in the field are inspired to set a lively pace in working the hoe or the row.

Senator Bingham was the speaker on Memorial day at the great service held at the Cathedral, after Bishop Freeman had delivered a short address. Senator Bingham made one of the most inspiring addresses that has ever been heard in Washington. Having served himself with the "boys over seas" he knew personally the meaning of the word "war", and although making no personal reference to his own experience overseas, he pictured vividly to the throng of more than 20,000 persons who had gathered in the cathedral close for the service, the lives of the boys overseas, and what the death of thousands had resulted in, by their patriotic example.

"They believed in the idea of a self-governing community" said the Connecticut senator. "To their communities they were loyal, even unto death. They believed that without community life there could be no peace. Nothing was too hard, nothing too difficult for them when their ideals of local self-government, of the right of representative government or the right of free men were to be achieved." Senator Bingham said that the American people were living at such a rapid pace that in keeping step with the times they are quite apt to forget what has gone before "we do not spend enough time in reflection" said the senator. "Many citizens are too lax in exercising their right of citizenship." He indicated thatw hat America needs today is not more laws, but the keeping of the laws already made.

Persons visiting the senate are often confused by the exchange of seats by senators, during a daily session. Many republicans drop over to the democratic side, and many democrats slip over to the republican side of the chamber, during debates, to have a conference or chat with leaders of the opposite party. This results in many amusing mix-ups by visitors who consult the official "index to seats," showing who is who if the men are in their assigned locations. Two such instances come to mind at this moment, one that happened some years ago and the other last week. "Who is presiding over the senate?" asked one visitor of another a few days ago. "Why, Vice President Dawes, of course," was the reply, that's one of the things a vice president is elected for." The person making the query shook her head, and said, "Well, you never can tell by newspaper pictures just how a man looks, can you? Now that don't look a bit like the pictures of Dawes!" And no wonder, for instead of the clean shaven blond, medium height, slender Dawes in the chair, it was Senator Harris, democrat of Georgia, who is dark, short, and thick-set, who occupied the chair at that moment. The other instance was still more amusing—Senator Bois Penrose of Pennsylvania, whose death flung that state into a turmoil for republican leadership, was of unusual height, breadth and altogether an imposing figure, with a heavy shock of black hair. A chair of extra size was provided for him, although it was made on the same lines as other chairs in the senate chamber. It was a front row seat. One day Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi sauntered across the aisle separating the "sheep from the goats," and taking a seat in the ample Penrose chair fell asleep during a debate on the league of nations. Williams is short, exceedingly thin, with white hair, and a drawl and accent of the south. He walked up just in time to fire a few red hot democratic—Wilson forever, hosts at an opponent of the league to the horror and surprise of republican strangers in the gallery who, on consulting their "index" mistook Williams for Penrose.

The Irish republic bond holders committee have warmly thanked Senator Butler for his effort in initiating negotiations that it is hoped will result in full payment of those obligations.

Senator Butler did not hesitate to warn holders of such bonds to be on their guard against unscrupulous efforts by irresponsible persons to secure the bonds as practically worthless. There are something like 120,000 subscribers in Massachusetts the amount raised being approximately $2,000,000, and Senator Butler felt that his constituents in Massachusetts who held such bonds were likely to be victims for speculators. Mr. Butler is making active efforts to have the state department at Washington assist in bringing about payment of such bonds.

With the lows primary within a few hours away, President Coolidge gave a good turn to the regular candidates "wheel of fortune" when he made his address at the dedication of the Ericason monument. Speaking of the splendid citizenship and power for good exercised by Norsemen and their descendants in the United States the president paid a glowing tribute to the citizenships of Senator Lenroot, who will be renominated or defeated at the Wisconsin primaries soon to be held. Although not discussing senatorial candidacies the president's glowing tribute was taken on all sides as a tribute to the stalwart conservatism of Lenroot as against the radical element which will put up a candidate against him. Indirectly the president's tribute will be held, whether or not intentional, to all regular candidates who have insurgent candidates running for wiv-insurgent candidates running for victory at the primary.

GETTING HER HAIR CUT

"It was my barbershop and my barber," declared the man who was decidedly an injured party. "I've helped support the place for ten years and assisted that barber to buy his porterhouse steaks and fur coats and trips to Europe, and here today when I hurried in, saw my chair vacant and slid into it he sort of coughed, squirmed and then said, excuse him please, but the lady was first.

"And I climbed right out again and the lady was in my place before you could say baked beans. She wanted to get her hair cut and I was plentifully repaid for my ill treatment when I observed what she did to that barber.

"'What particular kind of a cut do you want?' asked the barber chattily and began rehearsing the various sorts, but she went right on. A man certainly always knew what was most becoming and please study her head from the right side because that was her worst side and if all women would have sense enough to take that standpoint rather than always thinking of themselves from their best angle how much more attractive a place this world would be. Oh, what was in that ducky bottle?"

"'A very fine tonic,' said the barber happily. 'If you will let me try—' but she was off. It was remarkable how much prattler bottles they put up perfumes is abroad than they used here? Sarahi Orchid had brought back three kinds of perfume that were like nothing on earth and the bottles were just indescribable.

"'Your ear,' said the barber, prowling among her locks. 'I just wanted to, locate your ear because it is so easy to snip the ear if it is not visible—' My grief! The lady wailed. Was he that kind, too? The last two barbers she had gone to had cut snitches out of her ears and he certainly must be careful, because if it kept on she would have no ears left and when the styles changed what on earth should she do then?

"'Wasn't it queer how nobody thought anything at all about a man's ear and scarcely knew it was there and all the newspapers printed column stories if a woman showed an ear or didn't show it, according to the fashion of the moment?

"'Oh, before she forgot it, don't, for goodness' sake, give her a haircut like Jannie White got—sort of up here and down there and curved around the outside—you know! She liked a haircut that was snappy but becoming—no, she didn't like that picture. Nor that. She wanted what she had had the first time it was trimmed—oh, sort of like a boyish bob but really not, if he gathered what she meant! Well, suppose he began cutting kind of carefully around the edge, not too much, and she could sort of tell him as he went along, how would that be?

"'Oh, my goodness, if he hadn't gone and cut off her special pet curl! No, she knew it was longer than usual right there, but she liked a touch of originality and she had just got that trained right! Now, that altered the scheme and he mustn't cut up in that direction any more, cut down—oooooooow!'

"She sprang straight up in the air, clapping her hands to her head, and the barber, much startled, simply sprinkled combs and scissors and paraphernalia in the air.

"'Her ear!

"'He had gone and cut her ear!

"'Five barbers, three customers waiting like myself and her husband, who just then dropped in after her, scurried around getting cotton and peroxide and iodine to staunch the wound which bled three drops. Her nerves were wrecked, she was certain she would have blood poisoning, and by the time the taxi to bear them home had come those of us left in the shop sunk down exhausted and silence reigned a spell, a blessed silence.

"'Finally my barber sort of staggered back to normal and wiped his brow. He looked pale, chastened, humble as he turned to me. 'Come,' he implored me, 'you're next! Hop in quick before some other durned woman blows in here for a haircut!'" —Chicago News.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Highway Problems In Ashford

Mr. Editor: One of your correspondents seems to feel that certain statements recently made concerning the condition of highways in the town of Ashford were hardly fair to the present board of selectmen. It appears that certain citizens are in error in assuming that the town meeting last October provided that $5,000 should be expended on the highways, being an increase of $1,500 over the year before. It is true that the meeting voted in favor of the increase to $6,000, but when the selectmen asked that the tax budget be increased from $11,000 to $13,000, to cover the extra for highways, the meeting voted that motion down, and therefore the selectmen haven't had the extra money. Moreover, it was explained, removing snow from the highways last winter cost an unusual amount and there were extraordinary expenses for schoolhouse repairs; so that there has been little available for highway improvement. This is the other side of the story, it is claimed.

But many feel that the point still holds that the selectmen are not giving the special attention to the local highway problem that the people of the town desire, and that the adoption of some definite policy of highway improvement would be an economy as well as an advantage.

In the informal discussion at the meeting in Knowlton Memorial hall last Friday evening, it was brought out that Ashford with its 21,610 acres is larger than Hartford with 11,158 acres or Bridgeport with 11,755 acres, or New Haven with 14,260 acres, and that Ashford has about 100 miles of highway to keep in order—practically an impossible task, to keep up with the demands of modern traffic. One citizen said that each citizen desired that the highway by his own house be kept passable, even in the remote districts, and many expected to work off some of their taxes by work on the road by their own premises, and that the selectmen were "expected to do five cents worth of work here and five cents worth there and keep everybody satisfied; else they could not hope to be re-elected." Another citizen remarked that the selectmen seemed to think it necessary to employ local labor of indifferent efficiency "so as to keep the money at home", with the result that many feel that it would be far better economy to secure more efficient labor.

It is evident from the general comment among citizens that there is a real and growing demand for some more definite and constructive policy of highway improvement. Nothing is more important for Ashford at this juncture than improved highways, and every citizen is financially interested in saving the wear and tear of the present conditions. It is a live question. It is known that certain well-to-do citizens would be glad to cooperate substantially with the town in highway improvement, if the selectmen will "get a move on" in this direction. One citizen has already offered to add $100 to the $500 expenditure supposed to have been voted last October, and made a definite offer to that effect. CITIZEN.

From Small Beginnings

Hazen S. Pingree, the Boy of the Cotton Mill, Governor of Michigan

If you had gone through a New England cotton mill some years ago, you might have seen a slender boy at work among the swiftly moving wheels. You might have thought of him as condemned to remain at that work, or in some similar work for the rest of his life. The boy was Hazen S. Pingree, who became the distinguished mayor of Detroit, Mich., and then governor of that state. What he did any honest worker can hope to do: at least, any honest and ambitious worker can hope to achieve some form of success, even if it be not so great.

Although Governor Pingree is so closely connected with the history of the state of Michigan, he was a "Down East Yankee," born in the rugged state of Maine, on a rocky farm. It was only a small farm, and it produced chiefly rocks and pines, but the boy had to work hard to help support the family. In the cold New England winters he found the opportunity to go to the little district school. That was his school and college combined. As soon as he was old enough to leave home he went to the nearest city and found work in a cotton mill. After a time he secured a better position in a shoe factory, but left this to serve in the Civil war. He was captured by the Confederates and put in Andersonville prison. After some months he was exchanged and again took part in fighting until the close of the war.

Soon after the war he went to Michigan and again worked making shoes. With the money that he had saved and with the help of a friend who joined him he set up a factory of his own. His energy and skill brought him business; his little factory grew into a great factory, and he became a rich man. His business ability and his interest in public affairs led to his election as mayor of Detroit. His work as mayor was so effective that he was reelected again and again, and finally was made Governor of Michigan. In all his public affairs he acted with such energy and with such personality that he became almost as well known throughout the United States as he was in Michigan. In all his work he showed the same high degree of courage that he had show both as a boy in the cotton mill and as a soldier on the battlefield.

Stories That Recall Others

Where Flu Comes From

David was playing that one of the dolls was seriously ill. He was heard to remark to Nancy, "This doll has the 'flu' so bad, she caught it from the back bedroom."

"Oh," laughed mother, "I didn't know you could catch flu from a bedroom."

"Why, of course," was the answer David gave, "that's where the flue hole is."

The Modern Cook

This woman had occasion to go on an errand about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Not caring to take an umbrella she wore an old coat, and was forced to carry a bundle under her arm. As she waited for a car, she noticed a very stylishly dressed woman also waiting. Her coat and dress were of expensive material, her shoes the very best and her hat of corresponding worth. She appeared to be much interested in the woman with the bundle under her arm. At last, walking over to her she said:

"Do you cook?"

"Why, some times," was the surprised answer.

"Well, I was just leaving a place and I thought maybe you would like to take it. It is good pay."

Obviously she was telling the truth.

MYSTIC-OWNED CAR BURNS BY ROADSIDE

A Chalmers touring car with Connecticut registration N-910 was reported to be on fire and burning up Monday night about 10 o'clock on Norwich-Westerly road where the car had run into a fence and a tree and had been abandoned near the junction with the road to Lantern Hill. According to the state motor vehicle department, the machine is registered in the name of Otto Wiersch of 2 Frazier street, Mystic.

The burning car was noticed by a passing motorist who came to this city and informed Captain Thomas Murphy at police headquarters, who sent out the motor patrol wagon to look up the burning car on the chance that there might have been some injured in the accident. As the burning car was in the town of Ledyard the patrol wagon did not go as far as that, but returned to the city and how the car hit the fence or caught fire was not learned.

WILLIMANTIC POLICEMAN RINGS DOUBLE ALARM

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 8.—The timely discovery of a blaze in a store room at the rear of the Atlantic and Pacific store, Alling block, at 715 Main street, by Officer Roderick Lariviere, at 1:50 o'clock this morning prevented what would otherwise have been a dangerous conflagration. The officer pulled in a double alarm from box 42, the police being made by Engine Co. No. 1 and Hose Co. No. 2, with Fire Chief Henry J. Kelly.

Several lines of hose were played on the blaze which was gotten under control within a short time. The fire was confined to the store room on the ground floor and to the first floor of the building. The cause of the fire and the loss was undetermined at press time. The Alling block is in the heart of the business section of the city.

MAYOR WATERS IN FOR THIRD TERM: COMPLETE DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

Mayor Milo R. Waters, the democratic candidate, led his party to victory Monday in the city election and went back into office for his third term as mayor when he defeated his republican opponent, George G. Engler, by 651 votes. Mayor Waters polled 3,066 votes, the most of any candidate on his ticket, while Mr. Engler had 2,415 which was exceeded by most of the other candidates on the republican ticket.

There was a democratic majority for mayor in each of the four city districts, the first giving 372, the second 121, the third 246, and the sixth 12.

With the mayor, the democrats reelected to the common council Aldermen Henry Gebrath and Patrick F. Sweeney. Councilmen Frank H. Quinley, Nicholas J. Spellman, Frank L. Rinella, William H. Aldrich.

City Treasurer Charles S. Avery was reelected by a majority of 616, having the second largest vote on the ticket, 3642, and Jeremiah A. Fitzgerald, who is the new water commissioner elected by the democrats, had the third largest vote, 3040. The republican water commissioner elected, Charles W. Burton, against whom it was apparent there was some cutting in his own party scored the smallest republican vote 2391, and Charles H. Raynes, the republican candidate for sheriff, scored the high party vote, 2486.

Early Inquiries for Results

There was evidently considerable interest in the outcome of the election for as early as 5 o'clock in the afternoon telephone calls began to pour into The Bulletin office. It was very evident that several hundred people did not know that the polls were open until 8 o'clock daylight time, Monday evening. The first call came in about one minute past five o'clock from some one who wanted to know how the election came out. From then on there was a continual string of calls for results of the election.

City Meeting on June 15

It was about 9 o'clock that Moderator Martin E. Jensen announced the election results to the approximate 100 people in the town hall. Following the announcement of the election resulted Mayor Milo R. Waters called the meeting to order. Corporation Counsel William H. Shields, Jr., offered a motion that the meeting adjourn until 7 o'clock standard time, Tuesday evening, June 15th. The motion prevailed and the meeting was declared adjourned until that date.

Democrats Had Parade

The democratic party celebrated their victory with a parade that got underway about 10 o'clock, starting from Union square. The long line of automobiles headed by a couple of trucks loaded with enthusiastic democrats covered the principal streets of the city, and it was close to midnight before the paraders disbursed.

JEREMIAH A. FITZGERALD
Newly-Elected Water Commissioner

Democratic Control

The democrats heralded the election results as a decisive victory pointing out that not for years has a democratic mayor been elected by as large a majority as 651. The election leaves the democrats in the majority in the council, there being six aldermen and councilmen on each side with a democratic mayor to sway the vote in case of ties.

The new council will meet Wednesday to organize and to make appointments for the ensuing year.

It was the coldest and most disagreeable election days in Norwich in a number of years but the workers got out a vote that was nearly 70 per cent of the qualified electors, men and women. Up to late afternoon it was said that the vote was fairly even but the avalanche of democratic votes piled up during the last three hours, from 5 until 8 o'clock. Four democratic votes to one republican vote piled in after 5 o'clock when the shops and factories closed for the day.

Those who claim to be in the "know" said this was a democratic "coup" as they claim an even vote up till late afternoon would throw the republicans off their guard and allow the democrats to sweep in to victory by piling up votes when the republican town committee least expected them.

Had the republican party elected one member to the council they would be in control of city affairs. As it stands the six republican members of the council, two aldermen and four councilmen, hold over another year and the democratic party by re-electing four of their men, have the same number of aldermen and council with a democratic majority at the polls which gives the Democrats a majority of one.

Voting started slowly in all the districts but speeded up in the latter part of the afternoon, the polls being open for 12 hours, from 7 a. m. standard time, to 7 p. m. standard time.

In the central district about 500 women and 1,175 men had voted by noon. One hour before the polls closed in this district the vote stood 1,126 women and 1,550 men. In the last hour 107 more women and 53 more men voted.

On the three machines in use in the first, or central district, there were 1061, 1043 and 778 votes cast.

5,462 Voted

Of the 4,604 men registered in the four city districts there were 3,158 who voted and of the 3,408 women registered there were 2,304 who voted. By districts the registration and vote was as follows, showing a total vote of 5,462 out of a registration of 8,010.

AGENT A. C. BROWN RESIGNS AT FALLS MILL

After 30 years service with the Falls Cotton company, Arthur C. Brown of No. 305 1-2 Washington street has resigned as agent of the company. Mr. Brown's resignation became effective last Saturday. Mr. Brown became an employe of the company June 6, 1896 and through industry and close application to his duties rose from bookkeeper to the superintendency of the mill, occupying that position for several years. Twelve years ago he was elected agent of the mill and has since held that position.

Since he became agent the mill has been newly equipped from picking machinery to new automatic looms. A total of 436 of these looms have just been installed. There has also been installed a new hydro-electric plant with a 1,200 horse power capacity.

Under the management of Mr. Brown the mill has prospered and during the 12 years he was in charge about $1,000,000 in profits has been realized. Mr. Brown remains a director of the company. The other two directors are Zadoc White, president and his son, Kenneth White, secretary and treasurer, both of Winchendon, Mass.

For the present Mr. Brown will remain in Norwich and he expects to spend a month at his Gardner Lake home. In August Mr. Brown is planning a three months trip to England and the European continent. He has no definite plan for the future, but probably will go back to the mill business eventually. Mr. Brown's successor as agent of the Falls mill has not yet been named.

FOUR HAVE FORTUNATE ESCAPE IN ACCIDENT

Judge Christopher L. Avery of Groton and three occupants of his new Chrysler sedan who were riding with him from New Haven to this city had a narrow escape from serious injury late Monday afternoon at Marlborough hill on the Hartford-Colchester turnpike where the machine collided with another and then rolled over.

The party of four included Mrs. Avery, wife of the judge, and Mrs. Allyn L. Brown of this city who were riding in the back seat, and Judge Earnest C. Simpson of Waterbury who was in the front seat. He was thrown out through the front door which was torn off as the machine rolled over, but the others remained in the car.

The accident happened on the steep grade where there is a railroad track at the foot of the hill and a dirt road from Westchester comes in on the west about half way up the hill. Judge Avery was driving down the hill when a Hupmobile suddenly appeared in the road on his right, coming at speed in order to turn and go up the hill on the cement highway. Both drivers put on their brakes, the Hup sliding in the dirt for about ten feet and turning to the right as it came onto the cement. Judge Avery veered his car to the left, but the two machines came together and the Avery car twisted toward the left and rolled over sideways and into a ditch, making a complete roll over until it landed on its wheels again up against the bank.

The other machine ran off the road to the right and was not much damaged but Judge Avery's car was wrecked, although the windshield was not broken. A passenger in the Hupmobile had a heart attack from fright and was prostrated for a while after the accident.

Passing automobilists took Mrs. Brown to her home in this city, and Judge and Mrs. Avery and Judge Simpson to Judge Avery's home, but Judge Simpson later came to this city where he is presiding at the superior court session. Both Judge Simpson and Mrs. Brown had medical attention for severe bruises.

State policemen from the Groton and Hartford barracks made an investigation of the accident.

WEDDINGS

Burnup—Graham

At noon Monday Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity M. E. church, united in marriage Russell J. Burnup of Orlando, Fla., and Miss Mary L. Graham of Haverhill, Mass. The bride is a sister of Rev. Mr. Graham and the wedding took place at his home, No. 86 Williams street. The couple were unattended. The bride was beautifully gowned in white flat crepe and carried a shower bouquet of roses. The ceremony was performed under a canopy of ferns and spirea to which floral wedding bells were attached. The double ring service was used.

Following the wedding a dainty luncheon was served, covers being laid for ten. The color scheme was pink and blue. Out of town guests included Mrs. Dora Fogg, sister of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Leland Burnup, brother and sister-in-law of the groom, of Haverhill. Mr. and Mrs. Burnup left during the afternoon by automobile enroute to Orlando where they will make their home. They will stop at Washington, D. C., Philadelphia and other cities on the way.

The bride received numerous beautiful and useful gifts, including money in gold. Mr. Burnup is a building contractor in Orlando. His bride has been superintendent of nurses at the Stephen Henry Gale hospital at Haverhill for a year and a half. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Graham of East Dubuque, Ill., and has been in the east eight years, having taken the nurses training course and graduated at the Deaconess hospital in Boston.

Murphy-Demute

At 8 o'clock Monday morning at St. Mary's Memorial church James Joseph Murphy of No. 26 Second street and Miss Mary Rose Demute of No. 621 North Main street, were united in marriage by Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor of the church. Relatives and friends of the couple were present at the wedding. Rev. Frederick M. Cohoolan presided at the organ and Edward T. Connelly sang several selections. The best man was Alfred Demute, brother of the bride, and the bridesmaid was Miss Beatrice Garceau of Putnam.

The bride was charming in a gown of crepe black satin with tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of roses. The bridesmaid was gowned in pale pink georgette crepe and carried pink butterfly roses. Following the wedding there was a breakfast at Pulaski hall with a reception afterwards, 100 guests being present.

The groom's gift to the best man was a pair of gold cuff links and the bride's gift to her maid was a ring. The groom's gift to the bride was a set of pearl rosary beads and the bride's gift to the groom was a pair of gold cuff links. The bride received many beautiful gifts including silverware, purses of money, cut glass, etc.

Mr. Murphy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy of No. 26 Second street and his bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolpheus Demute of No. 621 North Main street. Mr. Murphy is employed by the United States Finishing company. Following a wedding tour to Burlington, Vt., and New York city, Mr. and Mrs. Murphy will reside at No. 621 North Main street. They will be at home to their friends after June 15th.

SUSIE ILLUSTRATES HER LETTER WITH DRAWINGS OF PLAYERS

Susie in this week's letter to the sport editor has introduced a new feature, which shows how versatile the young lady is. She has made her letter a kind of guessing contest and has drawn a number of pictures of various ball players and leaves it to the public to guess who they are. Her letter follows:

Dearest Sports Editor: Did you ever get that feeling that you would like to express your self in something besides words. No I don't mean giving somebody a punch in the nose 'cause they spoke outa turn or anything like that. I mean did you ever wanta draw pictures of peoples and things? Well thats the kinda feeling I have now and I'm going to try my hand at it in this letter. I've been to a lotta ball games lately and some was good and some was worse but if its a ball game I gotta kick outa it anyways, be it funny or otherwise.

Well I ain't going to mention no names but I'll tell you something about each pichure what I draw and maybe you can guess who it is but don't tell nobody 'cause I don't wanta get in wrong. W this first piehure is of a feller what plays on a local team what breaks a lotta bats he hits the ball so mighty. I saw him in one game and this is what he looks like to me.

When he bus that willow he looks kinda surprised like and foolish and somebody yells "Atta boy Hooker" and a nother feller says "Hold them clubs right and you won't bust 'em." Now I ain't told you who he is but maybe you can guess.

Well in that same game I sees a feller what wears a big mitt on his right hand and catches what balls the other fellers throw at him. Sometimes he catches 'em and sometimes he don't. Not liking to make fun of a feller what misses 'em ones in a while I has drawed him after he has made a good cat . Take note of the big grin what has spread over his map. guess he ain't pleased with himself, wha'? Here's the way he looked to me, holding up his hand to cover up his smile.

One game I saw this spring they was a f in the outfield what missed a few fly balls and somebody what ain't got no heart yells "Get that guy a bucket and maybe then he can catch flies in. Well, Ed., I has drawed a pichure how this feller would look with that utensil chasing an elusive ball. If you think it would work I guess I'll send my idea to Judge Landis. Here's the picture.

A umpires life ain't no bed of roses but they is umpires and umpires. I seed one the other day what didn't know a fowl ball from one what was good and they was some argument but you couldn't tell that umpire nothing 'cause he was a college boy and he knowed a lot, more'n the feller what made the game. He's how that argument looked to me. I ain't going to tell which is the umpire. I'm going to let you guess.

There ain't no ball game complete without something being said about the Pastor of the team and here's where I draw a picture of the pitcher. This is the way this feller looks when pitchin from Jersey City. No I don't mean just that but he comes from the metropolis. I drawed him just as he's going to throw the ball. Looks like he was doing the Charleston don't he. Well anyway he's a good pitcher and no body ain't going to say he ain't where I can hear 'em.

The next picture is of a feller what plays short stop for a team around here. All the girls is crazy about him and they all say when they see him coming, "Here comes my ——" "Ain't he grand?" Well I guess they, ain't so far from wrong cause I think he's quite a kid myself. Well here's how he looks to me when he's making one of them grand stops.

There is just one more pichure what I drawed of a feller sliding into second base. He ain't so very graceful but believe me he gets there just the same. He's a feller what plays second base so I suppose he knows just how things is down here. Seems he aught to wear a couple sofa pillows if he's going to do much of it.

Well Ed. I used up all my pencils and paper I'm going to quit drawing. No Ed I don't think much of them myself I got them done. But maybe I'll be a great artist yet if I keeps it up.

As ever SUSIE.

YALE CREWS HAVE FIRST ROW ON THAMES

GALES FERRY, June 7.—(AP)—Yale oarsmen were late in starting the afternoon practice today because of examinations. Head Coach Ed Leader took the varsity upstream for a series of three minute runs and tried several changes in the boatings. Griggs was tried at number 3 in the first boat, in place of Bartholomew and later Crosby was given the position. Finally Coach Leader returned Griggs to this position and was apparently satisfied with the change.

The freshmen rowed down to the two mile mark at a low stroke and paddled back over the course at 24, using a racing start and a sprint over the last half mile. Long paddles down stream kept the combination crew busy.

RAIN CAUSES POSTPONEMENT OF N. E. TENNIS TOURNEY

HARTFORD, June 7.—(AP)—Rain today interfered with the opening of he New England tennis championships at the Hartford Golf club and t rnament officials announced tonight that first round matches will be played tomorrow morning and second round in the afternoon in order to catch up with the schedule.

William T. Tilden, 2nd, defending champion, won by default in the first round, when Clifford B. Marsh, Williams college star, returned to college tonight after rain had postponed the day's court activity. Willard Crocker, Canadian star, wired that he will not be able to participate in the tournament.

MISS WILLS EXPECTED OUT IN ANOTHER WEEK

PARIS, June 7.—(AP)—In another week it is expected Helen Wills, American Lawn tennis champion, will be out of the hospital. She is rapidly convalescing from the operation for appendicitis which she underwent on Friday last.

Mlle. Lenglen, a caller today, brought a bunch of posies. The French star was one of the few favored visitors permitted to observe the California girl enjoying her luncheon; most of the others had to content themselves with leaving bouquets and cards, while overseas tennis enthusiasts bombarded the American hospital with cablegrams conveying good wishes.

CHANCE PLAY WINS THE CAMPFIRE HANDICAP

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP)—Making his first appearance of the season here, the Log Cabin Stables Chance Play indicated his fitness for the classic $40,000 Belmont Stake event Saturday by scoring an impressive victory today in the Campfire Handicap at Belmont park.

Chance Play turned six muddy furlongs in 1:12 to lead Sandy Man by two lengths across the finish. Galetian was beaten by a nose for second place.

Carrying 126 pounds, the big chestnut broke in front of his field of seven rivals and made the pace throughout. Three lengths ahead coming into the stretch Chance Play won as he pleased under restraint.

Radbourne, one of the most phenomenal pitchers in the early days of the National league, made a record of 36 straight victories as a twirler for the Providence team.

DWARDS PITCHES WHITE SOX TO VICTORY OVER RED SOX

CHICAGO, June 7.—(AP)—Big Jim Edwards southpawed the White Sox to a 10 to 5 victory over the Boston Red Sox today in the final game of the series which was won by the locals, two games to one. Edwards allowed the visitors only four hits after Thomas had been driven off the mound in the first inning. The White Sox played an uphill game, Willie Kamm's triple following Barrett's single and Schalk's bunt for a squeeze play put Chicago ahead in the sixth and they were never headed. Wingfield's wildness in the seventh inning increased the lead.

TWO COURSES AVAILABLE FOR CORNELL REGATTA

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP)—Two courses will be available for the regatta between Cornell and California crews on Lake Cayuga next Friday evening.

If conditions of weather and water are favorable, the races will be contested along the east shore but if there is a repetition of conditions that forced cancellation of most of the spring day regatta, May 22, the crews will be sent over the more sheltered course on the west side of the lake. A system of whistle signals will acquaint spectators with any changes in schedule.

Two races, the first at 5 p. m., are on program. The varsity and junior varsity combinations of both colleges will race over a three-mile course while the freshman eights will have a two-mile contest.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Nordics-Federals Game Postponed

The game in the Twi league scheduled to be played at the Academy campus Monday evening between the Nordics and Federals was postponed because of inclement weather. This will be played later in the season.

Tonight's Game

The game this evening will be between the Centennials and Rubes. M. Ruffo will pitch for the Centennials with Vitiano catch while I. Steinman or Gribbens will pitch for the Rubes with B. Steinman catch. The game will start at 6:30 p. m. sharp.

Taftville Sluggers Win Again

The Taftville Sluggers won their eighth straight victory Sunday at Mohegan park by defeating the Cardinals by the score of 9 to 4. "Steamboat" Generio pitched for the victors and Lupi caught. The Cardinals were forced to take M. Pascoche out of the box.

STRIBLING'S CHANCES QUOTED AS EVEN WITH CHAMPION

NEW YORK, June 7—(AP)—Despite an impressive display of punching power in his workout today, William L. (Young) Stribling's chances of lifting the light-heavyweight crown from Paul Berlenbach Thursday night at Yankee stadium were quoted at even money. Until today, the Georgian had held the rare distinction as challenger of ruling a slight favorite.

Two of Stribling's four sparring partners found the southern contender in an aggressive mood. Jake Warren, a negro heavyweight, retired after one round with an injured shoulder, while Lee Anderson, negro light heavyweight, was knocked out in the second round with a right to the jaw. Stribling then closed by stepping three fast rounds with Benny Touchstone, Florida heavyweight, and one round with his brother, Herbie Stribling.

Both champion and challenger, reported by their trainers as under the weight limit of 175 pounds, will have their final workouts tomorrow.

RICKARD DOES NOT FEAR NEW YORK COMMISSION

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP)—Tex Rickard said today he is not worried concerning the state athletic commission's threat of disbarment over his negotiations for a heavyweight title match between, Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney.

Furthermore, the promoter added, he is not yet prepared to reveal his plans to the fistic fathers. He intimated, however, today he may visit the solons next Tuesday and sketch his plans for official review.

"I have never officially made public my plans," he said today. "And believe Chairman Farley should have withheld judgment in the case until he hears directly from me just what I plan to do."

Rickard said today he would be busy on his arrangements for the Stribling-Berlenbach light-heavyweight championship fight this week and could find no time to visit the commission unless summoned.

FIVE HARVARD CREWS IN TRAINING AT RED TOP

RED TOP, June 7—(AP)—Five crews, the largest number ever sent to the Thames by Harvard in preparations for the annual regatta with Yale spent the morning in short paddles and the afternoon periods with long, low stroke runs on the river today.

The second varsity crew was not timed before leaving Cambridge, and thirteen candidates for this boat were brought down. They are being tried out in various positions and at the end of this week the first boat will be selected from that number.

John Watts and Emerson Smith are competing for the position of varsity stroke, while the coxswains of the varsity and second varsity boats will be selected from three candidates by Head Coach Bert Haines. These men are Beer, Pforzheimer and Sullivan. They are now alternating in this position.

Examinations have limited practice to the early morning and late afternoon. During the afternoon period today, the varsity crew paddled down to the railroad bridge, about four miles, at a low stroke.

AMONG THE GOLFERS

This season it is estimated 350 golf clubs will be in operation throughout Canada.

Miss Alexa Stirling, of Atlanta, is the only southern woman to win a national golf title.

Jack Westland has won the University of Washington golf championship during four of the five years of his collegiate career.

Only five times since the inception of the United States amateur golf championship in 1894 has a winner been able to repeat.

The American Golf Association of Advertising Interests has arranged to hold its annual spring tournament at Cooperstown, N. Y., the week of June 19.

Both the British open and amateur golf championships have not been won by players of American birth. Walter Hagen having captured the open and Jess Sweetser the amateur title.

Miss Marian Turpie, the new champion of the Southern Women's Golf association, learned the game under the tutelage of her father, who is a well-known professional at one of the New Orleans clubs.

Goodyear Beats Quinnebaug

The Quinnebaug B. B. C. of Danielson lost Sunday June 6 to Goodyear at Brooklyn fairgrounds by the score of 1 to 1. It was a pitcher's battle from start to finish. Goodyear's first run was scored in the seventh inning on Merriman's single a passed ball and Stasklewicz's double. The winning run came in the eighth winning on Child getting on by a error, a sacrifice and LaForest's wild throw to third.

TAIL END CLUBS CAUSE TROUBLE FOR LEADERS

NEW YORK, June 7.—(AP)—Belief that the Boston Braves and St. Louis Browns would crop out as the trouble makers to the front rank contenders in their respective major circuits was justified by performances of the past week.

The outstanding reversal of form was that of the Braves who won five consecutive games, three from National league leaders, the Reds, and two from Brooklyn. As a result, Dave Bancroft's club topped the week's standing in the National with five triumphs in six contests.

In the past five games, Boston collected a total of 71 hits and 49 runs off 14 opposing twirlers. In three of the games alone the Braves scored 36 runs and their run total of 51 for the week along with the same number gathered by the Cardinals was high for both circuits.

Cincinnati's slump of one victory in six struggles cut down its lead and Pittsburgh trails today but two games distant.

After a long siege of defeats, the Browns started a comeback in the American winding up the week with four successes and three setbacks. Sisler's outfit, which lost 16 of 19 games away from home, had won seven of 10 contests on the home stay up to yesterday.

The Yankees headed the American with but one loss in five games, the setback coming on their first engagement in the western invasion.

Cleveland gained an even break by coming out in front of four of eight frays. A small margin separates the Indians from the first division White Sox and Senators. The Tigers concluded the week half a game from Tris Speaker's tribe.

The return to form of Dazzy Vance the speedball king, gave the Robins hope of recovering lost ground in the pennant chase. Vance's first victims of the season were the New York Nationals.

Hard slugging by the Giants and Cardinals marked five victories and two reverses for both lubs. St. Louis led the National with 83 safeties. The Detroit Americans 90 hits were high for all teams.

National league clubs nosed out the junior circuit in the number of hits, however, by 503 to 511. The Chicago Cubs led the teams with a total of seven home runs. The Yankees, Athletics and Cardinals chalked up five homers apiece.

RUTH IS AHEAD OF HIS 1921 HOMER RECORD

CHICAGO, June 7.—(AP)—The runaway race in the home run festival today found "Babe" Ruth six days ahead of the schedule of his 1921 record of 59 circuit wallops. Three four-base blows last week gave him a total of 19, which brought his record for 12 years at bat to 228. His 19th round-trip in 1921 was on June 13.

Jimmy Bottomley of the Cardinals, with nine home runs, is Babe's nearest competitor, George Kelly, Giant infielder him three homers to raise his total to six. Lewis Wilson of the Cubs scored himself twice to total 5 and press Bottomley for his laurels, while Simmons of the Athletics got one long drive to score 5 and make himself next best in the American League.

The week saw 43 home runs divided 22 for the Americans and 26 for the Nationals.

THREE HARD MATCHES FEATURE WOMEN'S TENNIS SINGLES AT PARIS

PARIS, June 7.—(AP)—The women's singles in the international hard court tennis tournament today furnished three of the most keenly contested sets witnessed here in many a day. The semi-finals brought together Joan Fry, a young English girl who had her first test in tournament play against Suzanne Lenglen at Wimbledon last year and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, former Californian and veteran of the world's tennis courts.

The English girl won in a gruelling three-set match by a score of 7-5, 3-6, 11-9, and thereby has the privilege of meeting the French champion, Suzanne Lenglen, in the semi-finals this week.

Both players gave a wonderful exhibition, but after two sets had been played, a downpour of rain interrupted the battle. When they met for the third set, it was a keen struggle all the way, with Miss Ryan leading at 9 to 8. Then the English girl broke through Miss Ryan's service and made it even. The 19th went to deuce four times, and this Miss Fry annexed, as she did the 20th, when she broke through Miss Ryan's service after the game went to deuce, and took the two winning points and the set.

Miss Ryan was the favorite according to the form sheets, but, as sometimes happens, they were all wrong. The English girl was the steadiest player that has looked across the net at the centre court of the Racing club in this tournament. She played a high class game throughout.

The American spectators shivered a bit when Miss Ryan lost the first set 5-7; they smiled confidently when she won the second, 6-3. Then it deluged, and both girls hung around the courts for an hour or so while the officials tried to decide whether the match would be played out. It was, and the versatility of the English girl gave her a victory over the experience and smashing play of her rival.

The critical point in the third set was reached when they stood at 6-all. Miss Fry then broke through the Californian's service for the game. Miss Ryan tied the score again and a few minutes later won her own service game at love to make it eight-all, and broke through Miss Fry's delivery to the score of 9-8.

Toward the end Miss Ryan tired rapidly, and in the very last game, the 20th, the English girl came up from love-30 in a series of magnificent drives, and secured the advantage, only to lose it; she then brought off two placements that retired the Californian from the tourney.

Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey, overwhelmed Count Ludwig Salm Von Ho ogstraeten and Baron Von Kehrling, 6-1, 6-3, 7-5. The Americans set down in the last set.

Miss Mary K. Browne, captain of the American women players, paired with Baron Von Kehrling, defeated Mlle. Deve and Paul Feret, 6-1, 6-3.

There was a good match between R. Robson of Argentina, and C. G. N. Turnbull, veteran British star. The Argentine won, 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

The scheduled match between Suzanne Lenglen and Mme. Rene Mathieu was postponed on account of rain. It will be played tomorrow afternoon.

ODDS AGAINST HAGEN IN BRITISH OPEN TOURNEY

NEW YORK, June 7—(AP)—Betting odds against Jim Barnes and Walter Hagen, American stars in the British open championship on June 21 and 22 are 13 to 1, according to London bookmakers' figures received here today by the United States Golf association.

Despite the fact that Hagen twice won the tournament and that Barnes led the field last year, three British players, Abe Mitchell, George Duncan and Arthur Havers, are favorites in the betting. Odds of 10 to 1 are offered against them. Bobby Jones American amateur and former open champion, is rated a 16 to 1 shot.

Chances of other players are rated on the following basis: Joe Kirkwood, 25 to 1; Roger Wethered 50 to 1; Tommy Armour, 100 to 1; Archie Compston, 20 to 1; Harry Vardon 80 to 1.

Challenge From Red Tops

The Red Tops challenge the Versailles Cubs for a twilight game to be played at Taftville Thursday evening at 6:15 sharp. This game to decide the winner of the series both teams having won one game.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Chicago promoters are planning to stage a big boxing show next month during the national convention of the Elks.

Rowing at Washington and Lee university dates from 1874, and is the oldest organized athletic sport at that institution.

It costs between $15,000 and $20,000 to stage the English Henley regatta each year, the most of which sum is raised by private subscription.

Tacoma is to have a municipal fishing pond, ten miles long and one mile wide, which will be stocked with trout to provide sport for the local Izaak Waltons.

Surf-riding, as practiced by the Hawaiians, is one of the most thrilling sports imaginable. Their prowess on the surf boards is such that many can stand on their heads, carry a passenger or two on their shoulders and execute numerous other amazing tricks when the slippery slanting board is traveling at a speed of 20 to 30 miles an hour.

With the exception of archery lawn bowling is the oldest British outdoor pastime and has been traced to the 13th century.

The Western Chess association has decided to hold its 1926 convention and tournament in Chicago beginning August 21 and continuing ten days.

The $77,000 receipts of the Pete Latzo-Mickey Walker welterweight title bout held at Scranton on May 20 represented the biggest "gate" ever recorded for a boxing show in Pennsylvania.

Jess McMahon, the Madison Square Garden matchmaker, is negotiating for a return bout between Champion Tiger Flowers and Harry Greb for the world's middleweight title on a date early in July.

The first American player to win the British amateur golf championship was Walter J. Travis, of the Garden City Golf club, who captured the title in 1904. Travis at the time was 42 years old.

Hurling is expected to gain many devotees as a result of the present American tour of the Tipperary team, champions of Ireland. The game, which is one of the world's oldest sports, bears a close resemblance to hockey. It is played by teams of 15 men on a side and already has made considerable progress in Canada and the eastern states.

Speaking of the lively ball, the four games played in the Texas league on May 20, produced 21 home runs, three three-baggers, 23 two-baggers and 62 singles, making a total of 66 hits.

Cincinnati baseball fans are inclined to hand Manager Jack Hendricks the full limit of credit for boosting the Reds to the top of the heap.

Rogers Hornsby of St. Louis, whom many consider to be the greatest natural batsman of modern times, has led the National league hitters six consecutive seasons.

In these days of huge stadiums and big "gates" it is interesting to recall that time was when a crowd of 20,000 baseball fans would bring the police reserves to the old Polo Grounds in New York

"Saying It with Flowers" by Telephone

THE florist of today has the opportunity to sell flowers not only in his own city but in other cities as well.

"It is the toll telephone service which makes this possible, and at the same time insures the customer of a satisfactory delivery," says Mr. C. C. Reck, of John Reck & Son, florists, in Bridgeport.

Anxious to meet every detail of his customers' orders, Mr. Reck states: "To talk personally with the florist with whom we are dealing makes it possible to determine exactly what flowers he has on hand and those he will use in filling our order."

Every day cheer and joy is sent over the wires by similar enterprising florists who realize the value of this business brought about by the slogan "Say It with Flowers" and made possible by the extensive use of toll telephone service.

Retail business, awake to the advantages of the toll call, needs quick and efficient service. Various classes of toll calls have been introduced to meet these demands.

Do you know the possibilities of each kind?

Our local Exchange Manager will be glad to explain the various classes of toll service, and their particular advantages, to you.

WESTERLY

TOWN COUNCIL CANVASSES THE LIST OF ELECTORS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, June 7.—At the June session of Westerly town council Monday, lasting from 9:30 until after 12 o'clock, there were present Council President John D. Nichols and Councilmen Rogers E. Trainor, Peter Nardonne, A. Clifford Holdsworth and Thomas Moore. The absentees were Councilmen Harry H. Coleman, and Isaac G. Smith. The others present were Council Clerk Whipple, Town Solicitor Ferguson, Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton.

Fred N. Wheeler and John H. Farnsworth, having the approval of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, were voted constables by the council.

Acting as a board of canvassers, the list of qualified electors to be used at the next financial town meeting was examined, corrected and approved.

Changes made were as follows:

Added to real estate voters—Thomas White, 67 Cross street; James Gadilone, 85 Oak; George J. Ferraro, 47 Tower; Everett A. Kingsley, 47 Spruce; Angelo Servidio, 27 Railroad avenue; Grace S. Himes, 20 Spring; Sylvestor Morrone, 168 High; Antonio Tribisacci, 67 Pleasant; Ernest F. Boyington, 10 Spruce; Carlo Magni, 125 High; Frederick C. Buffum, Jr., 22 Elm; James H. Nugent, 148 Granite; Gilbert Hicks, Greenman; Philip R. Leobovits, 52 Summer; Lydia F. Matthew, 24 Hobart; John Bogan, 8 John; Domenica Gradilone, 85 Oak; William J. Bannon, 38 Pleasant; Mary A. Kingsley, 47 Spruce; La Verne D. Langworthy, 21 Grove; Arthur L. Fraser, 94 Main; Eliza J. West, 129 Main; Beatrice Means, Benefit; Mary A. Salimeno, 57 Pleasant; Joseph A. Morrone, 79 Oak; Harry A. Littlefield, Watch Hill; Nellie Tribisacci, 57 Pleasant; Ethel D. Boyington, 19 Spruce; Teresa Magni, 125 High; Alfonso Gulluscio, 80 Pleasant; Antonio Genese, 90 Oak; Edna Nugent, 148 Granite; Augusta Hicks, Greenman; William A. Matthew, 24 Hobart.

Removed by reason of death — Charles W. Gray, Peter M. Rose, E. M. Dodge, John B. De Rocco, W. Clark Rathbone, Beth L. Saunders, Charles M. Keebe, Luigi Toscano, B. F. Greenman, William J. Veal, Dwight H. Rogers, E. J. Burdick, Margaret Allen and Antonio Desimone.

The action of Town Treasurer James M. Pendleton, in issuing his notes for $22,200 on payment of the legal outstanding debts of the town, dated June 30, 1926, payable December 30, 1926, was approved by the council.

May police bills amounted to $290.31 and were voted approved.

The report of Superintendent of Health Dr. Samuel C. Webster, showed 26 cases of contagious diseases, as follows: Chicken pox 1, diphtheria 1, German measles 3 and measles 21.

The report also showed 74 permits issued for the keeping of swine. The health officer asked that a resolution be passed that none be granted after June 1. He recommended that formal notice be given to connect the properties, 40 Pierce street and the Krebs building on Main street. On May 8th he reported that the carcass of a dead cow floating in the Pawcatuck river had been removed by George H. Williams, opposite 20 Margin street.

Report of Dr. Thomas E. Robinson, milk inspector, showed that 86 applications for the sale of milk had been received. The milk inspector reported that after July 1, 1926 a new Rhode Island state law would become operative concerning certain milk standards. Sixteen diseased cows had been removed from herds by state and federal inspectors. He recommended a thorough reading of the new law.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown reported 11 arrests during May, divided as follows: Embellment 1, track walking 2, selling junk without license 1, parking automobile in a restricted fire crossing 1, manslaughter 1, intoxication 4 and tue operating an automobile under the influence of liquor 1.

Tavern licenses were voted as follows: C. B. Bliven, Wigwam; Pleasant View; E. B. Langworthy, Rockhaven, Weekapaug; Alice Bicknell, Andrea, Pleasant View; James Collins, Pleasant View House, Pleasant View; Elizabeth Edwards, Atlantic View inn, Atlantic Beach; J. Frank Champlin, Ocean House, Watch Hill.

Victualizing licenses were granted: Anna E. Ford, Golden Glow Tea Room, Watch Hill; George H. Williams, White Rock Arena; Frank Cappizzano, Riverside Park; Mary E. M. Crosley, Pleasant View; Charles D. Haven, Pleasant View; Fontana Brothers, The Terminal, Westerly; and John W. Neild, Jr., Atlantic Beach.

Milk dealers were voted licenses as follows: Hobart B. Ayers, Edward Man, E. Barber and Sons, Otto Nurmi, James Metcalf, Henry F. Johnson, Leo C. Nye and H. P. Wheeler.

Solicitor Ferguson reported that people were coming to him with complaints that property owners connected with sewers continued to use outdoor toilets, with a result of a possible saving in water bills. It was the opinion of the council that these matters should be investigated and reported on.

A. Clifford Holdsworth named a committee at the last council session, to look into the complaint of Frank W. Coy relative to procedure in tax levies reported. He said that the same proceedure was followed this year as in past years and he did not think that the town should go to the expense of getting outside legal opinion and recommended that Mr. Coy make it an issue when he next paid taxes.

The town bills were all voted paid with the exception of a bill for $140.50, clean-up week expenses.

Clerk Whipple brought a message to the council by telephone from Town Treasurer Pendleton asking that some action be taken on the new bookkeeping system, or go back to the old system. Word was sent Mr. Pendleton to visit the council in person. Later Councilman Trainer reported that Councilman Smith was a committee with him on the securing of John Wall of Providence, installer of the system, to come to Westerly every three months and check up on the system and prepare for the closing entries of the year. Mr. Trainer asked for a little more time for consultation with his committee.

Two town ordinances were voted by the council, one concerning the leaving of rubbish in streets, allys and on vacant lots within 30 feet of highways. The other concerned the burning of rubbish. Penalties on their passage are not be less than $10 or more than $20.

A. Clifford Holdsworth reported progress in the building code laws, on which he is a committee.

Tax Collector Pendleton reported an $800 tax assessed against the Doane estate. He said that the executors claimed the assessment illegal, but the Rhode Island state tax commission had said the tax was assessed properly. This matter was left for the Westerly tax assessors, Collector Pendleton and Solicitor Ferguson to straighten out.

Engineer Thomas McKenzie, superintendent of Westerly Water Works, came before the council with plans, maps, drawings, tracings and estimates on the elimination of the brook menace between Pleasant and Pierce streets. This brook, with little grade, becomes an open cesspool for slaughter house and all kinds of refuse. Engineer McKenzie gave a historical resume of former conditions and present day problems. He said there were 240 acres of land that had to be drained and that the estimated flow of storm water was 40 cubic feet per second. To remedy the conditions he recommended the installation of two 30-inch corrugated iron pipe set in cement and one 18-inch drain of similar construction. He described there as "tremendously unsanitary." On cost he said that $4,800 dollars would be required of which $2,600 was for material. Solicitor Ferguson said that proper procedure would be to come before the annual financial town meeting and asked for an appropriation for the same. "Why is it called Pleasant street?" queried Councilman Holdsworth.

Councilmen Holdsworth and Trainer were named a committee to confer with the health officer relative to the cleaning up of drain and brook situation in Pleasant and Pierce streets and to bring about the removal of a certain slaughter house west of Pierce street and near the intersection of Pleasant street.

As the next council meeting comes Monday, July 5th, it was voted to meet Monday, July 12th.

Councilman Holdsworth was voted a committee to continue in the procuring of 90 to 100 new street signs of aluminum alloy and letters whose color continued clear through from the Evernue Century Sign company at a cost from $1,000 to $1,400.

Town Clerk Everett E. Whipple has received word from the Rhode Island state board of public roads that a representative of the department will be in Westerly on Wednesday next and each succeeding Wednesday until further notice to care for applications for operators' licenses.

NOANK

STRANGE TRAFFIC COP HOLDS UP DANCERS

(Special to the Bulletin)

NOANK, June 7.—Four young men returning home from a dance at Waterford, by automobile, were held up by a skunk at Main and Pearl streets. The animal sat in the middle of the road just like a cop doing traffic duty. The driver did not want to run over the animal so he had to wait until Mr. Skunk ran across to a neighboring yard. The men claim it was the largest skunk seen around here in years. It is odd to see such an animal on the street in the village so late in the season.

The walking contest between Lem Main and Alfred Crowell was held Saturday afternoon from the waiting room to Ledyard and return. Raymond Coon fired the pistol and the men were off. Both men's managers followed by automobile. Main was taking a long and quick step, while Crowell was holding back his speed for the finish. A large crowd lined East Main street, waiting for the men to come down the home stretch. Crowell won the match, besting his rival, Main, by five minutes. Time: Crowell, 3 hours 55 minutes; Main, 4 hours. Distance to Ledyard and back 16 miles. The judges were L. Thompson L. Andrews, R. Frances; timer, Porter. Crowell is therefore the champion walker of Noank and Edward Searles, Main's manager, will arrange another match for his man later in the summer.

Lewis Thorsen's picture was in a Sunday paper. It showed an English immigrant ship. It was on exhibition in New London a few months ago. Mr. Thorson has painted some fine pictures. He has followed the sea for years. This summer Mr. Thorsen will leave for Marblehead, Mass. to paint sailing types at the races there, in July.

Lem Sistare has returned from Middletown, after a visit.

The Go-getters club held a whist at the home of Mrs. John Daboll recently with eight tables in play. The prize went to Keith Ebbetts; low prize was made by Ellien Rathbun. The first ladies' prize was won by Mrs. Sophia Tylin of Mystic. Refreshments were served by the committee. A piano solo was given by Ellien Rathbun and several songs were sung by Miss Dorothy Ivers. The money is to be used for camping this summer. The committee was Miss Elizabeth Daboll, Mildred Daboll and Grace Rathbun.

Miss Mary King of Longmeadow, Mass., is at her cottage at West View.

Jasper Murphy is employed at the West Mystic Market as clerk.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rug of Greenfield, Mass., are at Groton Long Point for a few days.

John Cannery has returned from Boston after a visit with relatives.

Capt. Albert Banks of boat Ada and Shear, while putting ice aboard his boat for a few days' fishing around Block Island, jammed his thumb badly when he got in caught in the door of the ice box. It was dressed by a doctor. His place will be taken by Walter Willis as he will be laid up for a few days.

Arthur Jackson is visiting on Fisher Island.

Frank Ball of Essex was home over the week end with his family.

Harold Butson of Essex recently spent the day in the village.

Edward Ellis and T. Bracci went aboard the Chinese junk anchored at New London. The boat is making a trip around the world.

Raymond Rathbun is truck driver for the Bergman Ice Co.

William Banks went to East Providence over the week end.

Miss Jean Bentley is in Waterford for a few days.

GULF NO-NOX MOTOR FUEL STOPS KNOCKS

PUTS CARBON TO WORK

PUTTING the old demon, carbon, to work sounds like a paradox—nevertheless that's just what GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel does and here's how it happens: Compression is power. The more compression the more power. Greater compression is secured by reducing the displacement or space in the combustion chamber. Carbon deposits materially reduce this space—old time gasoline would not withstand this added carbon compression — clicks — knocks — pings or detonations of distress quickly following sudden acceleration or heavy pulls.

No-Nox withstands higher compression—stops the knocks or detonations, thereby increasing engine efficiency. GULF No-Nox and Carbon Deposits work together for more power and greater mileage.

Turns Mountains Into Mole Hills

This guarantee goes with it: GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel is Non-Noxious, Non-Poisonous and no more harmful to man or motor than ordinary gasoline—that it contains no dope of any kind—that the color is for identification only—that it positively will not heat the motor, winter or summer.

GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel is priced three cents per gallon higher than ordinary gasoline—and is worth it.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Snow That Was Alive

Lucky he who knows he knows.
And so of doubt ne'er feels the throes.
—Peter Rabbit.

Curiosity grows when unsatisfied. You know most things grow only when satisfied. But curiosity is just the other way. The less it is satisfied the more it increases. Peter Rabbit tried to forget that snow that wasn't snow on the alders. He tried to make himself believe that he didn't care what it was. The more he tried to do this the more anxious he became to find out about it.

"I don't care what it is," said Peter to himself. "It is no business of mine, anyway. It won't do me any good to know what it is. I just won't think about it any more. I'll go off somewhere."

But the farther Peter got from that alder the more he thought about those white patches which aroused his curiosity. He found he couldn't forget them, so of course he didn't go very far before he went hippity-hoppity back to the former place under the alder. There he once more made himself comfortable and looked up. Of course he saw the patches of white still there. By and by Peter began to get sleepy. Seeing still that way one more made him sleepy. He dozed. Pretty soon he was asleep.

He was awakened by sneezing. Yes, sir, he sneezed. Something had made him sneeze. What it could have been he hadn't the least idea. He winked and blinked and then something tickled his nose so that he had to sneeze again. Something was crawling on his nose. It was something very small. That was why it tickled. He rubbed his nose. Then he remembered the white patches on the alder above him and he looked up. He was exactly under one of these white patches. Just as Peter chanced to look up, Redwing the Blackbird alighted on that alder branch right on the edge of one of those white patches. Peter saw some tiny white specks fall and then right afterward he felt that funny tickling on the end of his nose. It made him sneeze again. He looked down, and there on a leaf were two tiny white specks, which seemed to be moving ever so little. Peter looked very close. He saw that they had legs.

"Why," said Peter right out loud, "it's an aphid. It is just like some of those little green aphids, I've seen up in Farmer Brown's garden, only this one is all white."

"But what are they doing?" asked Peter.

Aphids, you know, are what people call plant lice. Almost always you can find green ones on the rosebushes. You will find them crowded together along the leaf stems and on the leaves. Sometimes you will find them all up and down the flower stems. People call them plant lice, but aphids is a much better name for these funny little creatures.

If Peter's curiosity had been great before, it was greater now. He understood just what had happened. Redwing's foot had knocked some of those aphids off the branch. One of them had fallen on his nose, and it was this that had tickled him. He knew now that those white patches must be composed of nothing but aphids crowded together. They were crowded so closely that they made little patches of white.

"Redwing!" called Peter. "Redwing!"

"Hello, Peter," exclaimed Redwing looking down. "I didn't see you before. What is on your mind now?"

"Aphids," cried Peter.

Redwing blinked very hard. "What's that?" said he. "You have aphids on your mind?"

Peter chuckled. "Of course not really," said he. "They're up on that branch by you. But I've had them on my mind, too, because they've been puzzling me. I couldn't think what those white patches were, until you scraped some of them off with your foot. That's what those white patches are, aren't they?"

Redwing nodded. "Of course," said he.

"But what are they doing?" asked Peter. "I've seen aphids on leaves and tender green things, but there's nothing tender or green about those alder branches where those aphids are."

"That may be, Peter, but just the same they are getting their living here," retorted Redwing. "They are sucking juice out of the bark and I guess they are making honey-dew just the way the green ones do, for the ants seem to be very busy with these fellows up here."

"What is honey-dew?" demanded Peter.

THINNESS NOW YOUR OWN FAULT

New Way Found to Take Time-Tried Flesh Builder

To be thin is to be scorned. No one likes a thin, scrawny man or woman. We all admire the strong, robust, healthy individual. And there's no need to be underweight either. It's just a matter of getting your body to absorb the vital elements of health and strength, the vitamins and organic plant salts of phosphorous, iron and lime, as found in fresh vegetables and good Cod Liver Extract.

Don't turn to drugs for they only goad your jaded nerves and leave you worse than before. Everybody knows how Cod Livers abound in the essential food factors that make solid, firm flesh, strong bodies and sound teeth. But because of its nasty, fishy taste and odor, many people would rather suffer than take it.

Now Science has removed all objection to this wonderful medicine of Nature, for a way has been found to concentrate the vital parts of Cod Liver Extract into easy-to-take sugar-coated tablets. They are called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets and have accomplished wonderful results in thousands of cases everywhere.

Run-down men and women have been quickly brought back to buoyant health and strength. Pale, listless children have regained the sturdy strength that belongs to childhood. Many underweight people have gained from 15 to 20 pounds of solid flesh in 30 days' time.

In fact, the results have been so remarkable that you can now buy McCoy's Tablets, 60 tablets for 60 cents at Lee & Osgood Co., or your favorite druggist anywhere with a specific guarantee that if after 30 days' use you do not add at least 5 pounds of healthy flesh, your money is to be instantly refunded. You'll feel better generally after just a few days' treatment and in a few short weeks you will gain normal weight and will be well and strong again. No finer tonic has ever been produced than these wonderful little McCoy Tablets. Begin taking them today. You'll join the crowd of thousands who praise their results.

Breaks all Tire Records

The 500 Mile Speed Classic at Indianapolis has always been a Battle of Tires. In 1911, Firestone won with fabric tires at 74.59 miles per hour. In 1920, Firestone won with cord tires at 88.55 miles per hour. In 1925, Firestone won with Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons at the record breaking average speed of 101.13 miles per hour.

In 1926, Firestone again won with Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons. The ten cars to finish "in the money" were all Firestone-equipped. They went the distance without a single blowout and with but two tire failures—one due to a puncture and the other to a leaky valve.

The Firestone Record in Battle of Tires at Indianapolis

Year	Driver	Car	Tires	Miles Per Hour
1911	Harroun	Marmon	Firestone	74.59
1912	Dawson	National	Michelin	78.70
1913	Gaux	Peugeot	Firestone	76.92
1914	Thomas	DeLage	Palmer	82.47
1915	DePalma	Mercedes	Goodrich	89.84
1916	Resta	Peugeot	Goodrich	83.26

The Mark of Quality

This performance is even more remarkable when you consider the terrific speeds at which the cars traveled over this fifteen-year-old, rough brick track.

Experienced race drivers will not risk their lives or chances of victory on any other tires. And in the commercial field, large truck, motorbus and taxicab fleet operators, who keep careful cost records are among the big users of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires.

The City Transportation Co., of Tacoma, Wash., writes: "One of our 12 buses on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires has gone over 40,600 miles and still looks good for many miles of extra service. For all around tire safety and mileage, Firestone cannot be beat."

From Calumet Motor Coach Co., Hammond, Ind., the following: "We operate 40 buses all equipped with Gum-Dipped Tires. The very low cost per mile on which these tires operate is considerably less than that of any other make." Hayes Bus Lines, Columbia, S. C., say: "We operate 19 buses equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. A number of these tires have run over 45,000 miles without ever having been removed from the rim."

The largest taxicab companies in the world standardize on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. W. R. Rothwell, taxicab operator, Detroit, Mich., writes: "Two of my Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have run 76,000 miles."

Hundreds of thousands of car owners voluntarily testify to the safety, comfort and economy of Full-Size Gum-Dipped Balloons. W. H. Peacock, Birmingham, Ala., testifies: "I have had Firestone Balloons for thirteen months and they have delivered in that time 24,469 miles." H. C. Staehle, Minneapolis, Minn., says: "My Firestone Balloons have gone 49,900 miles and are still in good condition."

These records of endurance, speed, safety and mileage could only have been made because of Firestone development of the Gum-Dipping process which insulates and saturates every fiber of every cord with rubber, reducing friction and heat and building greater strength and endurance in the cords—assuring you at all times—

Make Bed-Bug Killer This Easy Way

You can easily make at home a quart of the cheapest bug killer for the—enough to kill a million bed bugs, roaches, ants and flies. The recipe, known as P.D.Q., can do no damage to your carpets or furnishings, won't rot or stain anything. P.D.Q. is used and recommended by hundreds because it is so cheap and effective. One ounce of P.D.Q. mixed with a quart of water will kill all of the insects mentioned and also the living crustacean which lays eggs and stops them from hatching and multiplying, but P.D.Q. can also be used to make enough liquid bug-killer for one dollar. Three ounces of P.D.Q. mixed with a gallon of water makes

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

That Norwich was at one time well represented in navigation and that the Thames river was known as the home of the fastest and best steamer afloat on any United States body of water, is noted in the columns of the Norwich Courier of 1851, by articles copied from Boston and New York papers, which stated that the Norwich route was the most popular one between New York and Boston.

Other items of the week as taken from the Courier of 75 years ago are as follows:

Tuesday, June 3, 1851—There are petitions before the legislature for 17 new banks, two to be located in New Haven, and one each in the following places, viz:—Hartford, New Britain, New London, Mystic (Groton,) Stonington, Danielsonville (Killingly,) Madison, Guilford, Seymour, Bridgeport, Bethel (Danbury,) Middletown, Westport, Woodbury and Clinton.

The menagerie of Messrs. Raymond and company arrived in this city yesterday. As usual the animals attracted a crowd but not as large as would have been present if it were not for the fact that Barnum's Asiatic Caravan is soon to arrive here.

The standing of the legislature has been completed and is as follows: 110 democrats, 107 whigs, 3 free soilers, 1 democratic free soiler, 1 whig free soiler, 2 independents. In the senate—12 whigs, 8 democrats and 1 free soiler.

The American Railway Times of Boston has the following to say of the Norwich route:—The Norwich route to New York is the favorite one—especially for business men and travellers from this section. This line has in successful operation two of the finest steamers ever employed on the sound, if not upon any waters of the United tSates. They ply between Allyn's Point and New York with regularity and speed altogether unprecedented in steam navigation. The Connecticut, admitedly the fastest boat on the sound, is in other respects the most comfortable and magnificent steamer afloat. With Capt. Williams in charge nothing is left for the desire of the passengers. The officers of the Knickerbocker are also highly popular with all who travel by this route and Captain Wilcox is a favorite.

Thursday, June 5, 1851—The engagement between Jenny Lind and Mr. Barnum will come to a close with the concert at Boston on June 16th. The original concert contract called for 150 nights, with conditions that it might be terminated at the giving of the 100th concert. Mr. Barnum and Miss Lind will part on the 16th with the same feelings of friendship as at the time of her engagement.

The subscription for the Plainfield railroad is already above the $500,000 required to build it and the route will immediately be surveyed. It is expected that practically all land damage will be subscribed in stock.

The Rev. William Tracy, missionary at Madura, South India, is now at his home in this city, previous to returning to the missionary field where his family now await him.

Jesse D. Noyes was elected street commissioner at the meeting of the court of common council last evening. The petition of F. W. Treadway and others in relation to the manufacture of coal and gas bills in the city, was referred to a special committee consisting of Alderman Hovey and Herrington and Councilman Pendleton. O. W. Freeman was appointed to take care of the city clock for the coming year at a cost not to exceed $20.

Saturday, June 7, 1851—A New York paper estimates that 3,700,000 tons of anthracite coal will be sent to the markets this year, which, along with bituminous coal, will show a valuation of $17,099,000. The product of Pennsylvania coal increases about 100 per cent every seven years.

The legislature of California recently adjourned after a 20 minute session to attend a body fight between a bull and a bear. As a redeeming feature it was stated that not a woman of Anglo Saxon blood was present at the fight.

A call has been issued for Massachusetts people for the purpose of nominating Daniel Webster for the presidency of the United States.

A mad bull which broke loose in New York this week gored a woman and two children. All three are not expected to recover from their wounds.

The brig Penquin, has captured at sea an eastern built brig with a cargo of 400 slaves on board. 200 of whom were dead when the brig was captured. The brig has no papers or name and the officers refused to furnish any. Another vessel was recently captured at Sierra Leone and the crew lodged in jail. Both brigs are to be broken up and sold.

Mr. Ashmead, Connecticut commissioner at the Great Exposition in London, writes home that there is a scarcity of American exhibits there.

Lubricoat insurance- for your motor

WIN $1,000 by the Veteran Motorist

THIS is the third of a series of five advertisements written by The Veteran Motorist for the Standard Oil Company of New York. Each ad contains a definite question on lubrication, and the Standard Oil Company of New York will award $2,500 in cash to the 79 contestants who write the best answers to the whole series.

Two questions already published in this paper are:

1. What is the principle of Lubricoating, and how does the consistent use of Socony Motor Oil carry out this principle?
2. Of what service has a Lubrication Chart been to you?

Question Three will be found at the foot of this column. Question Four will appear in this paper two weeks from today.

Rules of the Contest

1st Award	$1,000
2nd Award	500
3rd Award	250
2 awards of	100 each
4 awards of	25 each
20 awards of	10 each
50 awards of	5 each
79 awards, totalling	$2,500

Any one may compete in this contest, except those connected directly or indirectly with the Standard Oil Company of New York.

The answers to the five questions may be typewritten or written with pen and ink—one side of the paper only—one answer to each question.

No single answer may be longer than 150 words, and each answer must be numbered to match the number of the question. All answers must be written in the English language and are the property of the Standard Oil Co. of New York.

All five answers should be sent in together and the contestant's name and address should be plainly written on the first page of answers.

No answers will be considered which are received later than Saturday, July 17th, 1926. The award will be made to those who write the BEST answers to the five questions. That is, to those whose answers, in the opinion of the judges, indicate that they have given most thought to the subjects covered by the questions and have learned most from The Veteran Motorist's investments in the Standard Oil Company of New York's advertisements.

Address all answers to "The Veteran Motorist," c/o Standard Oil Company of New York, Room 611, 26 Broadway, New York City.

Question Three

Why is poor oil the most expensive?

GOOD motor oil is highly refined. It has great resistance to normal motor heat. Its quality is uniform both when originally obtained and when in service under heat and pressure. A good motor oil will not form hard carbon that must be scraped out at large expense.

SOCONY MOTOR OILS ARE GOOD OILS

Good motor oil will form a COAT between all bearing surfaces, and this COAT will reduce friction. This is the principle of Lubricoating.

SOCONY MOTOR OILS WILL LUBRICOAT

Good motor oil, by preventing friction, lessens wear of bearings, cylinders and rings. It also maintains proper compression and prevents gas leakage. This, in turn, reduces power loss and gives you more miles per gallon of gas.

SOCONY MOTOR OILS REDUCE REPAIR BILLS AND OPERATING COSTS

Socony Motor Oils Lubricoat and cushion every moving part; maintain compression and power; resist high temperatures; are always of uniform quality; are found everywhere throughout Sconyland.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

That the building situation in Norwich is looking up is evidenced by the fact that during the first week in June there were three permits issued by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton for new dwelling houses in the city. This is more than has been issued during the five months preceding. Six permits were issued in all the other three being for smaller buildings.

A large amount of work was done last week on building projects now in hand although the raining weather of the latter part of the week interfered with the exterior work. On West Town street the new brick and hollow tile building for the Franklin Dairy is well along. The walls are up and the roof on by the brick facings have not yet been laid. The building is approximately 70x40 feet.

A number of new houses have been started in the East Great Plain section of the town. The cellar for one has been started and the frame work on another has been erected while a third has been finished on the exterior and the plasterers are at work on the interior.

The building permits issued by Fire Marshal Stanton are as follows:

To Arthur Grodotzke to erect a frame house on Fowler avenue for Dennis Sullivan. The house will be 22x32 feet and will contain six rooms and bath. The foundation will be of brick and stone and the building will be of frame construction. The exterior finish will be in clapboards and shingles and the interior in hardwood and hard finish plaster.

To Margaret G. Holmes to erect a frame garage at 18 John St. The garage will be 10x18 feet.

To John Urick, Jr., to build a frame house on Russell road for Walter Goselewski. The house will be 24x26 feet with six rooms and bath. The floor will be of hardwood and the walls will be of plaster with cypress trim. The exterior will be in clapboards and stained shingles.

To Wilfred Peltier to add a frame perch to the house on Raymond Place owned by Jeremiah Lynch.

To George Lambert to erect a frame bungalow on Marjorie street. The house will be 26x22 and will have six rooms and bath. The foundation will be stone.

To Anna Hurinowich to erect a frame barn at 98 Peck street. The barn will be 16x16 feet with stone foundation.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

During the past week there were 15 sales of real estate as compared to 18 sales for the same week in 1925. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $27,800 and $165,950.

In New London during the past week the number of sales of real estate was eight as compared to 20 for the corresponding week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $29,640 and $59,887.

Building Permits in State

The building industry in Connecticut is maintaining the high rate of activity that has been obtained since the first of May. There were 432 building permits issued in the cities and towns covered by the Commercial Record during the past week, compared with a total of 362 for the like week in 1925. The estimated cost of construction work started was less, however, than last year, the week's total being $994,938 compared with $1,125,559 a year ago.

New London

Little change was noted in the building situation locally in the past week. Similarly to the general situation throughout the state New London is maintaining the high rate of activity obtained since May 1. Although there has been a slight decrease in the number of permits issued by the council recently, enough work is under contract to keep contractors busy for a few weeks. Ten permits were issued last week as against 14 the week previous.

With the setting of the heavy steel girders in the new addition to the Mercer building in State street, work progressed rapidly there the past week. Much of the tile interior walls and the brick exterior walls has been completed and part of the imitation granite front in the Meridian street part of the addition is in place. The new addition will provide three new stores and a number of offices with the addition finished similarly to the present building.

A frame garage 26 by 13 is being completed for the New England Collapsible Tube Co. at 170 Broad street. Work is being done by the company.

The interior alterations and redecoration are nearly completed at the Hallam chapel of the St. James Episcopal church in Federal street and work is now progressing on the memorial doorway to the chapel. The interior is plastered with ornamental arches while the floor is of large red tile. The new memorial doorway is of the same architecture and material as the church proper and is now about half completed.

Excavations are being made for the new gas station to be erected at Church and Main streets for the Good Gulf Refining Corp. Specifications call for a station 21 by 40. The work will be done under the directon of the company.

The Alling Rubber Co. has completed plans for the construction of a frame garage in the rear of its store in State street.

Work is started on a two-story veranda for Morris Mallove at 33 Tilley street.

A brick addition 22 by 35 has been enclosed in the rear of the building at 36 Bank street for Samuel Chertoff. Francis DeGrange, architect, designed the addition and the work is being done by Bartolucci Brothers.

The construction of a dormer window 12 feet long has been started by I. J. Dodds on the Masonic club building in Huntington street.

Thomas F. Moran has started work on a two-family house, 26 by 45, at 22 Linden street. Mr. Moran is building the house for investment purposes.

The contract has been awarded for the construction of a concrete garage 51 by 13 for J. J. Fins at 396 Pequot avenue. The garage will be of one story height and is estimated to cost about $1,000.

Ground has been broken for a house in Dell avenue to be built for Levi G. Raymond. The structure will be of frame construction 25 by 25 and will cost about $5,000. A garage will be erected later.

The Corticelli Silk Co. is making extensive repairs in the main mill at Union and Church streets. A large section of cement floor in the basement is one feature of the repairs. The company has completed a new archway over the large entrance of the building in Church street where the clinic is located.

Work is nearing completion on the addition to the house of H. O. Crandall at 44 Vauxhall street. The addition is 10 by 14. A garage 20 by 20 is also being finished.

Work will start this week on a cottage 24 by 26 for Lester T. Sherman in Beckwith street. The house will be arranged for one family.

The following ten applications for building permits were granted by the city council at its meeting Tuesday night:

Gulf Refining Co., gasoline station, 21 by 40, Main and Church streets.

Alling Rubber Co., brick and wood, garage 18 by 50, rear of Alling building, State street.

Thomas C. Speirs, concrete garage, 18 by 20, 109 Mohegan avenue.

Antonio Gigliotti, frame garage, 20 by 30, Front street.

Morris Mallove, two-story veranda, 8 by 30, 33 Tilley street.

Charles J. Beckwith and wife, alter barn to garage, 18 by 30, 138 Jefferson avenue.

Masonic club, dormer window 12 feet long, 105 Huntington street.

Joseph Sigal, sales stand, 2 feet 9 inches by 10 feet, Bentley avenue and Midway place.

Thomas F. Foran, two-family dwelling, 26 by 45, 22 Linden street.

Frank Saunders, interior alterations, Vauxhall street.

Stonington

Plans for a residence in Stonington for Joseph T. Joseph of Stonington, have been completed and are now being figured. The residence will be of frame construction, colonial design. It will be 40x36 feet, with a porch 38-12 feet. The plans call for nine rooms and three baths. All improvements will be provided, including hot water heat, tile baths, etc.

Westerly

Westerly Zoning Building Inspector Louis J. Rossi has issued the following zoning permits in Westerly for the week ending June 5th.

June 1. Pasquale DePlacido, 40 John street. Addition for bath room 7 by 5 feet at 38 John street.

June 2. Mrs. Thomas O'Brien, Pawtucket, R. I. Cottage, 24 by 24 feet, with garages underneath, south side of Atlantic avenue, Pleasant View beach, R. I. Contractor William Rinne.

GALES FERRY

The roadway which connects the entrance to Brown's crossing on the Military highway and the Bluff, which was built by the late Charles H. Brown, has been closed. For many years this roadway has been open for the use of the public most of the time, but on account of the increased automobile traffic the road will be closed for the present. Carl W. Brown, the present owner, has stated that all residents and their friends at Gales Ferry will be welcome to use the grove and grounds, as they have for many years, but the privilege of crossing the property in a wagon or automobile has been discontinued.

The graduation exercises of the schools of the town of Ledyard, held in the Congregational church at Ledyard Center, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the processional was played by Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt, of Gales Ferry, at the piano. The song "That Dear Old Mother of Mine," was given by the girls from Long Cove and the play, "Waiting for the Train," by the Gales Ferry school. The song, "'Tis Morning," was by Gales Ferry school and the pageant, "The Thirteen Colonies," by the Long Cove school. Of the eight in the graduating class, three were from the Gales Ferry grammar school, Miss Evelyn E. Whipple, teacher; Dorothy Louise Baudro, Rose Anna Norcross and William McNaught. Miss Baudro and William McNaught will enter Norwich Free Academy at the opening of the fall term and Miss Norcross, Chapman Tech, New London. The complete program of the exercises is given in the Ledyard news. Transportation was furnished the pupils of the grammar schol and the primary school, with Mrs. Rufus W. Hurlbutt, teacher, and some of their parents and friends, by automobiles of Mrs. Donald Irvin, Judge Billings F. S. Crandall, Mrs. Avery Main, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, Mrs. Emerton Whipple, Miss Whipple, J. Edmund Norman and Mrs. James Abbott. Pupils of the Long Cove school, Miss Belle Rifkind, teacher, were taken by U. S. auto truck from the submarine base.

In the Methodist church at the Sunday morning service, Rev. Wilfred D. Hamilton's theme was The Ideal Church, the text "A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid."—St. Matthew 5: 14. Rev. Mr. Hamilton made three divisions of his theme. First, What is the Church?; second, Who Should Belong to the Church?; and third, What is the Task of the Church? Following the offertory a duet, In "As Much (Tullar) was sung by Miss Grace A. Chapman and Mrs. Amos Main. The announcements for the week included the June meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary society at the home of Mrs. Henry W. Hurlbutt Tuesday afternoon, the 8th, and that beginning Sunday, June 13. Rev. Mr. Hamilton would preface his sermon with a five minute story-talk to the children.

Following the Sunday school session rehearsals were held for the Children's day service June 20.

Rev. Mr. Hamilton spoke on the Epworth league topic, Bursting Horizons, at the Sunday evening service.

Mrs. Lucy B. Hempstead has returned from a visit of several days with Mrs. Ella Bigelow and her sister, Miss Mary Wood, in Webster, Mass.

Mrs. A. C. Risdon and maid arrived from New York Friday at the summer residence of the family, preparatory to the coming of other members of the family the last of this week.

Mrs. Ellie B. Stoddard has returned from a visit to Mrs. Isaac G. Geer at Geer Hill, Ledyard.

The attendants at the public library for May were Miss Natalie K. Gibbs, Mrs. Delphine Fish, Miss Susan Mathewson and Mrs. Everett Noyes.

NEW LONDON AWAITS ONE-WAY RULES, IN EFFECT ON BANK ST. JUNE 12

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 7.—Sunday next, the city management will introduce new rules to govern traffic on Bank street. Hereafter no automobiles or trolley cars will go southward on that street. Travel will be made one-way for vehicles of every sort. The trolleymen declare that the change will bring confusion and dissatisfaction, while the traffic officers are quite certain that congestion on the street will be relieved by the change. Trolley travel from points north of State street cannot reach points south of State and Bank street corner, except by going to the end of Truman street and then coming north on Bank street. It would appear that such an arrangement will bring inconvenience. The trolley people would have preferred to put a second set of tracks in the street, but the city authorities did not deem the street sufficiently wide for more tracks, and the widening of the street by taking a couple of feet or so from the sidewalks was too expensive an arrangement to be attempted. So the new arrangement will be tried. If it does not prove a satisfactory undertaking another change will be made. City Manager Holt proposes to give the arrangement a trial. He should have the assistance of all that it may be demonstrated whether the making of a one-way street as proposed is the most convenient and sensible means of relieving traffic and preventing congestion.

VETERAN RODE IN PARADE, DEAD IN LESS THAN WEEK

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 7. — Joseph Peabody, 90, well known resident of Waterford where he resided on the Gilead road many years, died at his home late yesterday. He had been in failing health a long time, but he rode in an automobile in the Memorial day parade in this city a week ago. Mr. Peabody was a member of W. W. Perkins post, G. A. R., having served in the Civil war. He is survived by several children.

The New London police department had a busy time Saturday and Sunday, for the members arrested nearly a score of persons, mostly for indulgence in intoxicating liquors. It was the "after" effects that got the offenders into custody. In the number of persons informed against were several sailors, mostly from the submarine base. A bunch of these was taken into custody at Ocean beach where they were outside the recognized bounds of decorum. They claimed they resorted to the beach to dance, but their condition from liquor was such that they would not be admitted to the dance hall. They were advised by policemen to board a trolley car and get to the base, but this was not to their liking and they refused to leave. They were rather inclined to show their ability as fighters, but they were subdued and finally lodged in the lock-up. They attempted to show this morning in court that they were not under the influence of liquor but they did not succeed for the officers had massed testimony both from those at the beach and others at the police station to confirm the charge of drunkenness. For fighting, one of the three was fined $50 and he was ordered to pay $10 for intoxication. The other offenders were treated with leniency. A couple of Uncle Sam's sailors who engaged in a fight on Main street with officers were heavily fined.

Johnny Higgins, a fellow who has a long police record, added to it today. He was found driving a faithful little horse which he owns and which has helped him to earn a living. Higgins was drunk, but that was the minor offense he was charged with and convicted of. The horse showed welts upon his body, the result of blows from a whip that Higgins used. He denied that he had beaten the horse and declared that he had not drank liquor except early in the day, when he said he had two glasses of wine. The testimony was strongly and positively against him, so he was fined so heavily that he went to jail. A suspended sentence was hanging over him when he was presented in court this morning.

The cases mentioned were samples of the others. There seemed to be no difficulty for buyers to get liquor, though one of the sailors admitted that he became intoxicated on alcohol of the pure sort. The sailors had bottles of liquor as well as what was in their stomachs.

Wives complained of husbands in a couple of cases, and the cause of the complaints was indulgence in liquor. In another case trouble arose when bargemen encountered on the street declined to give money to a bummer that he might, as he said, get drink.

There were several violators of parking ordinances in the court notwithstanding there has been every publicity given to the offenses that have been prosecuted.

A young deer appeared on Bank street shortly after 5 o'clock, appearing from Howard street. The animal was timid and upon the approach of an automobile the deer dashed across Bank street and through a plate glass window of the Bon Ton store, No. 411. The shattered glass cut the animal, which was killed to end its suffering.

Albani Ferruccio, 32 Fourth street, made complaint to the police this morning that someone through malice destroyed his garden last night, scattering the earth where seed had been planted recently.

The capping of student nurses at Lawrence-Memorial hospital took place at the institution Saturday afternoon, the nurses capped being Miss Masine Russ Barry, 33 Main street, Thomaston, Me.; Miss Susan Chilkott, Eastford; Miss Ruth Rachel Mason, Oakville; Miss Ruth Gertrude Brown, 11 High street, Mystic; Miss Veronica Margaret Caset, 5 Grand street, and Miss Eleanor Thompson Murphy, 32 Walden avenue, New London; Miss Beatrice Elizabeth Potter, Westerly; Miss Mildred Elizabeth Matthews, 16 George street, Westerly; Miss Mary Frances Miller, 15 Terrace avenue, New London; Miss Ruth Turner, 321 Steele street, Herkimer, N. Y.; Miss Ellen Stapleton, Wilmington, Vt.

The funeral of Mary, wife of Patrick Wall, was held this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large number of relatives and acquaintances. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Michael Reagan. The bearers were Timothy O'Neill, Patrick McCarthy, Jeremiah J. Lyons, James Kennedy, Timothy Connors and Morris Connell. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Jane D., widow of Morris W. Bacon, was held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at her residence, 81 Granite street, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Funeral services for Mary E., widow of Captain Horace D. Newbury, were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the residence of her son, Christopher G. Newbury, Waterford, and were attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city, officiated. The bearers were Herbert Young, Frank A. Comstock, David Barnes, Dr. M. E. Fox, J. B. Getchell and Christopher G. Allen. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Harrison King, formerly of Clearwater, Fla., and employed at the Hotel Griswold, died at Lawrence hospital this morning. He underwent a surgical operation Sunday.

Mrs. Edward Murray, of 22 Mercer street; Mrs. Stephen Roche and infant daughter, Quaker Hill, Waterford; Mrs. Jess Maynard, 194 Shaw street; Mrs. Fred White and infant son, 334 Broad street; Mrs. Newton Rowley and infant daughter, 150 Ashcraft road; Mrs. Stephen Kalka and infant son, 451 Main street; John Santos, 22 Willetts avenue; Mrs. Henry Hasler, Eastern Point, Groton and Mrs. Wheeler Way and infant daughter, Saybrook, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

A Buick sedan, owned by Mrs. Annie Goss, 477 Ocean avenue, which was stolen from Golden street, last Wednesday afternoon, was recovered this morning by the Newton, Mass., police. Whether the thief was arrested the message received by the New London police did not state. John Goss, son of the owner of the automobile, will go to Newton tomorrow and drive the car back to New London. The automobile was stolen when Goss drove it to a point midway between Green and Bank street. Upon leaving the car, Goss failed to lock the door, also did not remove the key from the transmission lock so made it easy for the thief to drive the automobile away.

Miss Catherine Donovan, of 59 Truman street; David Howe, 11 West street; Mrs. Lester Sherman, and infant son, 25 Perry street; Mrs. Jefferson Wallace and infant daughter, Gales Ferry; Mrs. Henry Cohen, 16 Harris street and Mrs. Arthur Hall, 9 Hope street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Funeral services for Kenneth Watrous, formerly of New London, who was drowned in the Connecticut river several months ago while at work for the federal government and whose body was recovered last Friday, were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of his father, Horace G. Watrous, in Groton. Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, this city, officiated. The bearers were Major General Morris B. Payne, New London; Clinton D. Hanover, Groton; Edward Collins, Glastonbury, and Harry Whitcomb, New Haven. Burial was in Starr cemetery, Groton.

The scholarship committee of the New London branch of the American Association of University Women has announced that its scholarship of $300 to Connecticut College for Women for 1926-27, has been awarded to Miss Loretta Murnane, daughter of Mrs. Minnie Murnane, 15 Huntington street, who will be graduated from William Memorial institute this month. Miss Murnane was chosen for the award, not only because of her splendid record as a student, but also because of her versatility, personality and ability as a leader. The scholarship committee is composed of Miss Mildred Keefe, president of the association; Mrs. James E. Barlow, chairman; Mrs. Frederick S. Hitchcock, Mrs. Edward Eggleston, Mrs. Chester Dimick, Mrs. Robert McAdams and Miss Agnes B. Leahy.

Dr. Herman Katz of Philadelphia, and Miss Anna Ulanoff, daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Ulanoff, Howard street, were married at 6 o'clock last night at Ohave Sholem synagogue, Blinman street. The ceremony was performed by Rabbi Wolf Rokin and was witnessed by a large number of relatives and friends.

Harry Decktor, former proprietor of the Groton House restaurant, Groton, was presented in the Groton town court this morning charged with driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. A demurrer was entered, but was overruled by Judge Cornelius C. Costello and a fine of $100 and costs was imposed. Judge Costello ordered $50 of the fine remitted because Decktor has sold his business and will leave the town.

N. N. Culpepper, of Pequonoc Bridge, also was presented on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs. As in the case of Decktor, Judge Costello ordered $50 of the fine remitted.

Forrest R. Baker, of New London was fined $3 and costs on a charge of driving an automobile without having Connecticut registration.

Florence Sherburne, of Groton, charged with violation of the motor vehicle law in failing to keep to the right of the center line of the highway, pleaded guilty and was fined $3 and costs.

The case of Antonio O. Pajer, driver in the employ of the Springfield Coach and Transportation company, charged with reckless driving, was nolled. Pajer was represented by counsel and evidence introduced in court failed to reveal any act of recklessness on the part of the accused. The coach that Pajer was driving May 12 on Thames street, collided with an automobile owned and driven by Harry Ellon, Groton merchant, and then crashed through a fence on Thames street, near the approach of the Thames river highway bridge. Ellon's automobile was damaged and he received a lacerated hand.

In the case of Angelo Galli, of Mystic, charged with non-support, a second continuance was granted, this time until 15th.

The fruit and confectionary store of Chio Brothers, Fishers Island Navigation company's wharf, foot of State street, was slightly damaged by fire this afternoon. Mrs. Andrew Chio was engaged in filling the tank of a frankfurt roaster with oil, when the oil became ignited, the flames spreading rapidly. Mrs. Chio dropped the oil can when the flames appeared about her with the result that the liquid, which spattered about the floor caught fire. An alarm was sent in from Box 37, New England Steamship company's pier, but before the arrival of the firemen, sailors from United States Coast Guard patrol boat, 220 moored at the public landing, played chemicals upon the blaze. The firemen on arriving used additional chemicals and the blaze was quickly subdued. The damage will not exceed $1,000

A leak in the gas main on Bank street, between State and Golden streets, occurred late this afternoon, it being discovered when the fumes issued through the pavement and caused a nauseating odor to fill the street. The Connecticut Power company caused a force of repairmen to start work of making repairs and in order to reach the pipe hydraulic drills were used to break the pavement and concrete foundation before digging could be started. The repairs were made late tonight.

William Peloquin, a sailor attached to the submarine base, was arrested late this afternoon by Captain Charles A. Pitney and Motorcycle Officer George McCaskey charged with speeding. He will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Peloquin, it is alleged, was driving his automobile through Bank street at a rate of speed that endangered the life and limb of pedestrians as well as of other autoists.

PASSENGER LEANS ON RAIL, TUMBLES INTO THAMES RIVER

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 7.—The city council must see that repairs are made to the landing at the municipal pier which the ferryboat running between New London and Groton is using, or it will have to pay damages perhaps for the loss of a life. This evening a man awaiting the arrival of the ferryboat leaned on the railing and was thrown into the Thames river when the railing gave way. He was pulled to the pier by other passengers and went away refusing to reveal his identity.

Mrs. Rita Salvatore of Pleasure Beach, was presented in the Waterford town court late this afternoon charged with breach of the peace and community disturbance. The case was continued a week and the accused was placed on probation. Mrs. Salvatore was arrested Saturday by Constables Fred Peabody and Charles Brigham upon complaint of George Skinner, a youth, also residing at Pleasure Beach. The youth engaged in a war of words with Mrs. Salvatore when the woman presented the boy being an alleged trespasser. The boy declared that he was on the property owned by his father, while Mrs. Salvatore declared he was on her land. Finally the woman struck the boy.

Levi O. York of Madison, was presented on a charge of operating an automobile without having registration, not possessing an operator's license and speeding. He pleaded guilty to the latter charge and Judge Fred Dimmock imposed a fine of $10 and costs. The other charges were nolled.

THE LAKE, PARK AND BEACH TO BE FENCED; COST $27,000

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 7.—The city council this evening took steps to strengthen the service pipes which supply water to the city and to insure a greater volume of water for sections where the supply is regarded as not sufficient and where the force of water is not as great as desired. The city manager was authorized to make contracts with the R. D. Wood company of Philadelphia for 1200 lengths of 18-inch cast iron water pipe, at a price per ton of $50.75. There will be an estimated quantity of 591 tons to cost substantially $30,000. Delivery of the pipe is to be made by the 15th of July.

The council proposes to fence in Lake Konomoc, Williams Memorial park and the Green Harbor Beach at a cost for the same of about $27,000, including the cost of erection. Boys and others have rather abused the privileges accorded them at these points and now the privileges will be taken from them. The committee on public works reported on the matter of macadamizing Denison avenue that there were no funds available, but recommended that the matter be taken into consideration in the preparation of the next budget and that provision should then be made for doing the work. The mayor asked as to a walk in Ledyard park and brought out the information that there was some question as to just where the walk should be laid. It was suggested that the walk replace one there now.

The planning board suggested an interim ordinance for a zoning system. The report was received for record and the matter went to the committee on administration for a report.

A number of gasoline permits were granted. This brought the statement from the city manager that the inspection and care exercised in the granting of the permits during the past couple of years had haved the citizens from fires and the mayor pointed out that the precautions made had also saved in reducing insurance rates.

There were more than a dozen applications for building permits though not many of them were for new work. All were granted.

A couple of applications for licenses to sell fireworks were referred to the city manager, with power to grant or deny them.

Tony Di Maggio asked for the removal of a couple of trees from Willetts avenue in order that he might build there.

Permission was asked to erect several electric signs and these also went to the city manager with power.

Councilor May called attention to needed repairs in Pierce street and to the necessity for lights on new street signs just erected.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore.

Broadway Theater

Fortunately for all concerned the screen adaptation of The Cohens and Kellys, adheres closely to the original Aaron Hoffman's famous stage play, Two Blocks Away.

None of the delectable humor of the play has been lost in Universal's film version which returns by popular request Thursday at the Broadway theater. The plot has been preserved and the choicest lines of the play have been incorporated onto the screen in the form of sub-titles.

With an all-star cast the picture features Charlie Murray the father of all comedians, who started in the movies 16 years ago; George Sidney, an actor of unusual ability and a lifetime of experience, and Vera Gordon, the famous mother of Humoresque who has been on the stage since she was 12. Kate Price, another veteran, has an important role.

The romantic interest in the story is contributed by Jason Robards and Olive Hasbrouck, about whose love affair the action revolves. They seem perfectly cast. Another incident to the plays action is the sudden inheritance of $1,000,000 by the Jewish family.

Nat Carr, noted as a clever comedian, shows his versatility by playing the role of villain.

Two boy actors who should be a sensation as a result of thier work in The Cohens and Kellys, are Bobby Gordon and Mickey Bennett.

Five extra fine Keith Albee acts of vaudeville is on the same program.

Palace Theater

The drama of the most dangerous woman in London Lubitsch's Lady Windermere's Fan, written 38 years ago, is a thoroughly modern story of a beautiful woman's determined and successful effort to gain an entry into the society that had scorned her. Her charm wins her friends when she forces her way into the birthday party of Lady Windermere; and her sacrifice for her daughter results in ultimate happiness for the woman who risked everything she desired most, for love of her daughter.

Mrs. Erlynne is so full of repressed fire, and subtle mischief, that it is almost impossible to recall that she has been known as the "most deserted wife" on the screen. Miss Rich's performance is on a par with Lubitsch's direction.

In spite of May McAvoy's determined little chin and strong personality, her delicate beauty still labels her as sweet. That the word has been misused so often, is no fault of hers, for it belongs to this actress alone. Miss McAvoy as Lady Windermere is delightful in the role of the proud wife whose impulsive flight is saved from disaster by the sacrifice of that indiscreet Mrs. Erlynne.

Ronald Colman, thanks to the courtesy of Samuel Goldwyn, was free to give one of the best performances of his brilliant career as Lord Darlington.

POETRY

Unconquerable

Always we dream of things that cannot be,
Always we build bright castles in the air
Brave as Gibraltar rising from the sea,
Frail as the soaring splendor rainbows wear.
Clinging to beauty that will swiftly die
Stumbling across the world we take our way.
Trusting our path will somehow reach the sky,
Sure that the end is worth the price we pay.

Sharp are the stones that bruise and thorns that blind,
Desolate we climb to reach the singing stars,
Dreaming of happiness we shall not find
Dreaming of love that leaves no hidden scars.
Many the dreams that mock us from the dust,
Yet shall we dream again—for dream we must.

—Medora C. Addison.

A Painted Fan

Roses and butterflies painted on a fan,
All that is left of a summer gone by!
Of swift, bright wings that flashed in the sun,
And loveliest blossoms that bloomed to die!

By what subtle spell did you lure them here,
Fixing a beauty that will not change,—
Roses whose petals never will fall,
Bright, swift wings that never will range?

Had you owned but the skill to snare at will
The swift-winged hours that came and went,
To prison the words that in music died
And fixed with a spell the heart's content.

Then had you been of magicians the chief,
And loved and lovers should bless your art,
If you could but have painted the soul of the thing,—
Not the rose alone, but the rose's heart!

Flown are those days with their winged delights,
As the odor is gone from the summer rose:
Yet still, whenever I wave my fan,
The soft, south wind of memory blows
—Louise Chandler Moulton.

In Arvada, Wyo., there is a drinking fountain, the water of which can be set on fire at any time. Burning Water, exists in several places on Powder river, a Wyoming stream, where natural gas is found bubbling up through water. Some bubbles will ignite when a match is applied. During the winter peculiar formations are caused by the gas seepage. When the river is frozen over, gas accumulates under the ice and as the pressure gathers, it forces thin sprays of water through the weaker spots in the ice and these sprays freeze in curious formations of arches and low pillars.

A hawk that hunts snails is the unusual Florida bird discussed in the Auk, publication of the American Ornithologists' Union, by Donald J. Nicholson, of Orlando, who has made a detailed study of its nesting habits. The name of the bird is the Everglades kite, and it is found over a large part of the state of Florida. It likes to hover low over its marshy hunting ground, or perch on a post or stump, watching for its creeping prey. Once it spies a snail it swoops down upon it and deftly picks it off the plant on which it is feeding. It is able to extract the snail without breaking the shell, sometimes even performing this feat on the wing. More usually, however, it bears its prey back to its roosting place, which may frequently be recognized by the large number of empty snail shells scattered about it.

RAISE IN STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, June 7—(AP)—An outburst of buying carried prices sharply upwards toward the close of today's stock market after an early period of dullness and irregularity. Closing quotations disclosed along list of net gains ranging from 1 to 6 points interspersed with a much smaller number of losses, most of which were of a fractional character. Total sales were 1,107,300 shares.

There was nothing in the day's news to account for the sudden display of strength although the further indications of easier money rates furnished by the lowering of the charge on commercial paper, and the statement of President Parson and the F. W. Woolworth company that retail trade had definitely turned for the better also had a bullish effect on sentiment.

U. S. Steel common was prominent in the recovery, moving up a point to a new high on the current upswing at 127 1-2. Independent Steels also displayed a strong undertone, Sloss Sheffield advancing 3 1-2 points and Gulf States and Republic a point or so. The recent stiffening tendency in the prices of certain steel products has attracted fresh buying to the steel group.

Rumors of a price cutting war between the two largest interests in the motor industry had a restraining effect on trading in the motor shares, but special strength developed in Willys Overland common, which had advanced 1 5-8 to 27 on total sales of nearly 90,000 shares.

Pool operations and urgent short covering sent several issues, higher. International Combustion was bid up nearly three points to 57 3-4.

Rails were quiet but firm. Chief speculative interest centered in about a half dozen low priced issues including Erie common, New Haven and Wabash all of which sold a point or so above last week's closing quotations.

The commodity markets also pointed upward. The distant wheat options advanced more than a cent a bushel on reports on unfavorable crop weather. Cotton fluctuated within a narrow range, closing five points net higher to six points net lower. Sugar prices held relatively steady. Coffee advanced 13 to 25 points on reports that the Brazilian loan had been heavily oversubscribed in London.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent, and held steady at that figure all day. Time money rates were unchanged, but commercial paper rates were easier, being quoted at 3 3-4 to 4 per cent instead of on a flat 4 per cent basis.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. Renewed selling of French francs in New York and London carried the local demand rate on Paris below 3 cents for the first time since the middle of last month. Demand sterling held firm just above $4.86. Italian and Belgian currencies ruled slightly lower around 172 and 3.05 cents, respectively.

TAFTVILLE

Corpus Christi, the feast in honor of the blessed sacrament was observed on Sunday at Sacred Heart church, by an outdoor procession of the blessed sacrament from the church to an altar at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Authier on upper Merchants avenue, directly following the high mass of the day. The residences along the line of march were attractively decorated in the old European custom, with white birch trees and evergreens, and sacred picture were displayed at many houses. American flags were flown all along Merchant avenue, and the papal colors were also prominently displayed.

Music for the procession was furnished by the Baltic band, which played Onward Christian Soldiers while the long line moved slowly up the hill to the altar, led by Rev. Henri F. Chagnon as crucifer. The parochial societies, each headed by their banners were in line, and there were massed American and French flags. The Sodalities of the Children of Mary made a most attractive appearance with their white veils, and the children of the Sacred Heart school, under direction of the Sisters of Charity also made a very creditable appearance.

Members of Troop 4, Boy Scouts in their trim uniforms with gold neckerchiefs were very conspicuous in the line, as were also the members of Garde St. Jean d'arc of the Union St. Jean Baptiste, with their red lined blue capes and caps, each bearing a baton. The first communicants, who always have a place of honor in this annual service, showed their careful training. The little boys wore dark blue suits with white bands on their arms; the girls wore white dresses and veils and carried baskets of flower petals which they strewed in the path of the Sacred Host.

Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of the church, carried the monstrance, the people kneeling as the host passed. He was attended by Rev. John Malley as deacon of honor, and they walked under a canopy supported by George Lamothe, Delvica Benoit, Christopher Caron and Philemon Gauvin. An honor guard composed of the presidents of the parish societies accompanied them. Before the pastor, the red cassocked acolytes with their smoking censers and candles, marched.

The altar arranged on the porch of the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Authier was banked with spring flowers, and held candles and lights. The grounds had been attractively decorated, an archway at the entrance bearing the words "Sanctus, Sanctus, Sanctus." Over the altar was the inscription "Ecce Agnus Dei" (Behold the Lamb of God). Little girls representing angels, bearing harps, stood on the roof of the porch. Two others with censers stood at the foot of the steps.

While the procession was approaching the altar, the band played the Portuguese hymn, and the marchers took their places on the grounds, under the direction of John Daley and Joseph V. Marsan. The men's choir sang the hymns for the service which concluded with the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament by Father Bellerose, the great throng reverently kneeling.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Heselton and children, Kendall and Ravela of North Bristol have returned from a week's stay with relatives in Ballouville.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grimshaw and their daughter, Miss Ruth Grimshaw, of North Third avenue have returned from Fall River, where they have been spending a week with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Archer Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Baxter and son, Arthur, of Providence, have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earle M. Wood of North Third avenue.

McClure—Marien.

Sacred Heart church was the scene of a pretty wedding Monday morning, when Miss Mary Anne Marien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Marien of South A street, became the bride of Cyril McClure of Willimantic, the ceremony being performed and the nuptial high mass celebrated by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of the church. The edifice was filled with relatives and friends of the contracting parties, and while the wedding guests were assembling, Miss Alice Frechette, who presided at the organ, played Humoresque and Souvenir.

The bridal party entered the church to the strain of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, played by Miss Frechette. The bride was charmingly attired in a gown of white georgette crepe and satin. Her bridal veil of tulle was caught up with orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of roses, carnations and sweet peas. She was attended by her sister, Miss Albertine Marien, who wore pink georgette crepe with picture hat to match and carried roses and carnations. The groom had for his best man, his brother, Denny McClure of Willimantic. Louis Marien sang Adoramus, during the ceremony.

Following the church service there was a reception and wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents on South A street, which was attended by a large number of relatives and friends of the young couple. There was a lavish display of gifts. Later in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. McClure left on a wedding trip to Holyoke and Boston, and will arrive in Willimanatic next Saturday to attend a reception being given their honor at that time.

Among the out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. J. O'Brien of Woonsocket; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brunelle of Putnam; Mr. and Mrs. George McClure and daughters, Angeline, Alpeche and Dorilla, and Mr. and Mrs. George McClure, Jr., of Willimantic; R. Marien and daughter, Yvonne, and Mrs. A. Bourgette and son of Woonsocket, R. I.

MAKING STEAMER CHELSEA INTO FERRYBOAT FOR STAMFORD LINE

The old Steamer Chelsea, which ran for a number of years in the passenger and freight service between this city and New York, with a stop at New London, is in the process of being converted into a ferry boat at the shipyard at Noank.

The boat had been laid up at the shipyard dock for a few years but was recently purchased by Capt Leroy R. Swift of New York, who has put into operation his plan to remodel the steamer into a ferry boat. It will be 152 feet long, 48 feet wide, 12 feet deep and will have carrying capacity of 45 automobiles and 1,200 to 1,500 passengers. The boat will have dining cafe, and dock for dancing afternoons and evenings. It will be equipped with steam windlass, patent anchors, and the latest type of life boats.

The boat will make 13 knots an hour and will be used on a line from Stamford to a port on Long Island, taking 30 minutes to make the trip. Capt Swift is an expert boatman, having followed the sea for years and sailed to many parts of the world.

The Chelsea was built to run from Cuba to Cartegena and was then used in Delaware bay. For 12 years she was on the line between Norwich and New York. She was burnt to the water edge while tied up in a yard in New York waters. The hull was then towed to the Noank shipyard where Capt. Swift purchased it.

DELIGHTED WITH HELP CITY GAVE SALVATION ARMY

Eldred McCabe, who came here from Boston to be executive in charge of the Salvation Army maintenance campaign, in which $4,709.12 was raised, which was $209.12 more than the quota, left Saturday night for a similar line of effort in another field.

Mr. McCabe was highly pleased with the successful termination of the Norwich campaign, which closed with the great tag day response Saturday. Before leaving he said:

"I am leaving the city of Norwich with a very great satisfaction of having met the finest men and women that I have ever met in my experience. The kindness, courtesy, cooperation and material assistance rendered to me in this campaign will ever linger in my memory as a demonstration that the world is sound at heart and that good people will make real sacrifices to help a good cause. I want to express particular obligation and most sincere thanks to the following: The Norwich Bulletin and Norwich Evening Record for unstinted space in their newspaper which was the greatest influence for the success of the campaign; Manor Milo R. Waters for his kind encouragement throughout the campaign; Mr. Messter of Radio Station WCBR for broadcasting a publicity concert; Rev. David A. Poe and women of the Central Baptist church aided by the women of Rev. J. H. Graham's Methodist church for providing an opening luncheon and otherwise being of help in the appeal; John R. Tarrant of the Bankers' Trust company for acting treasurer to the funds; Earl G. Taggart chairman of the campaign who so valiantly carried the banner of the Salvation Army until glorious victory was achieved; Max Hanover for all publicity work; James L. Case for cooperation, advice and inspiration at all the meetings; Louis M. Crandall and the Norwich Commercial school for work on card file and all typing and other clerical assistance in connection with the complete and thorough system of the campaign; Mrs. Ebenezer Learned of the Second division for interest and assistance in organizing the women's division which were the real incentive to success during the entire time of the drive; Charles J. Twist for handling the Third division, industrial or factory division; John J. O'Rourke of the chamber of commerce who proved a real energetic friend and adviser and a tireless worker for the cause; the Lions' club and the Rotary club for endorsement and cooperation; all churches and church organizations for splendid cooperation; the team captains, namely, Louis M. Crandall, J. C. Macpherson, C. W. Taggart, Ernest Rodier, Abner Schwartz, T. R. Sage, Mrs. A. E. Payson, Mrs. D. M. Dean, Mrs. C. W. Burton, Miss Ruth Eaton, Mrs. Kalilla Taggart, and Miss Mary E. Richards; also to all the workers who put in such zest and enthusiasm in their work as I have never witnessed before in any campaign; local theatres for running publicity slides; all merchants of Norwich for kindly displaying campaign cards in store windows; Harry Pecan for loan of typewriter in campaign office; Southern New England Telephone company for kindness of installing telephone; Mandell's Waist Store for Salvation Army window display; to all citizens and friends who contributed and made this campaign a success.

"Our organization feels grateful for this munificent support and will leave nothing undone in order to merit this kindness and trust from the people of Norwich," Mr. McCabe concluded.

The following contributors have not as yet been acknowledged: Mrs. Sarah E. Woodworth; Mrs. A. P. Williams, Mrs. B. Welch, Edwin L. Tinkham, Frank Cranska, James F. Quinn, Simon Mandell, Union Sunday school association, Isaac Segal, A. Cramer, Miss Mary E. Roarke, Mrs. Grodotzke, Mrs. William Wade, Mrs. Caroline B. Beebe, Mrs. Frank Tyler, Dr. Paul F. CONTINUANCE IN THREE CASES IN CITY COURT

At the Monday morning session of the city court Judge H. H. Pettis continued the cases of three local men charged with statutory rape, the court granting the continuance at the request of Attorney Thomas M. Shields, counsel for the accused. The men facing the charges are Arthur Juneau, 18, Jerry Tempesta, 72, and Carmene Vichiarino, 56 and the girls in the cases are said to be 14 years old, one of them living on the West Side and the other in the Baltic and North street neighborhood. Juneau's bond has been set at $2,500 and the bonds in the other two cases were set at $5,000 each. Tempesta and Vichiarino went to jail in default of bonds. Juneau was found with a 14 year old girl in a parked automobile on Summit street Saturday night.

Tempesta was arrested Saturday afternoon in Mohegan park and Vichiarino was arrested Sunday at No. 56 North street where he has been living. It is expected that the girls will be sent to an institution.

Thomas Hospod, 25, of No. 22 Seymour street, New Britain, was fined $200 and costs and given a 30 day jail sentence, suspended for a year. Hospod could not pay his fine and went to jail. Judge Pettis told the accused that if he could not pay his fine he would give him a 60 day jail sentence instead. Hospod did not seem willing to accept the change. Judge Pettis then informed him that if he could not raise the fine he would see that he was released from jail August 5 after he had served 60 days.

Hospod was arrested in Taftville Sunday night by Constable Paquette after he had run into and damaged a machine owned by William Wright. Hospod's 1919 Ford roadster was wrecked and Wright's machine was damaged to the extent of $75.

Ernest Doyon, 34 of No. 232 Ash street, Willimantic was fined $75 and costs on a charge of reckless driving. Romanis Raquin 31, of Willimantic who was riding with Doyon was fined $10 and costs for intoxication. They were arrested early Sunday morning by Constable Fenton who found them sitting in a wrecked machine near the Norwich Town railroad crossing. The machine had collided with a 40-inch telegraph pole, which was broken off and moved a short distance. It was said that Doyon had been dressing her that if was doubtful if it could have been proven that he was operating his car while under the influence of liquor.

John Reggetto, 46, New London, was in court on a charge of driving a motor vehicle without having a license. He paid $23 and costs, total, $23.50.

Constant Beauregard, 27, Taftville, drew three fines on four counts. He was fined $10 for breach of the peace $20 for resisting an officer and $3 for violation of a parking ordinance, with costs attached. He was arrested about 6 o'clock Monday morning by Officer John Danion on Franklin square. The officer saw a machine parked in a no-parking zone on the square and going into the Chelsea lunch found the owner, Beauregard, informing him to move the machine. There were some words directed for the benefit of the officer by Beauregard, and as the trouble began to take on a serious aspect Officer Danion tagged the machine and took charge of Beauregard who started to make more trouble.

Officer Charles McFadden who was on the square hurried over to the scene of the trouble. Beauregard was landed in a cell at police headquarters where he continued his tirade. Beauregard had been drinking but was not drunk, it was alleged.

NORWICH MAN UNDER BONDS AFTER FATAL ACCIDENT

George B. Jobes, Westbrook ice crea mstore and restaurant proprietor, was fatally hurt and four others injured when the roadster operated by Jobes collided head on with a sedan operated by Andrew Jacobson of Norwich at Stannard hill just over the Westbrook line from Saybrook shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Jacobson is being held under bonds of $2,000 pending a finding by Coroner Alix who is conducting an inquest.

Jacobson, his wife and two children suffered severe bruises and a shaking up as did John Price of Westbrook who was riding with Jobes. Price was attended by Dr. Graham Wellman.

Jobes was on his way to Kelsey point to deliver ice cream when the collision occurred. The two machines came together with considerable force resulting in the roadster being turned over several times and finally coming to rest upside down with Jobes and Price pinned beneath. The steering wheel broke and crushed in the chest of Jobes, broke both shoulders and his neck.

The two men were removed from beneath the car and given temporary treatment at the roadside. Two state policemen patrolling the road arrived shortly afterward and commandeered a milk truck of Bryant and Chapman to take Jobes to the Guilford sanitarium. Jobes was dead when admitted to the hospital.

The Jacobson car was badly damaged but remained upright. Jobes' car was practically demolished.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. L. Smotrich of 20 North High street announce the engagement of their daughter Betty to Louis Libo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Y. Libo of this city.

COMPARING TRAFFIC RULES WITH CONNECTICUT LAW

The state motor vehicle department has notified Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover that recommendations for uniform traffic legislation adopted by the second national conference on street and highway safety at Washington recently are being compared from a legal standpoint with the Connecticut law and that such changes, if any, as are deemed to be necessary in the state law will be laid before Connecticut members of the national conference for consideration so that they may be prepared to recommend amendments to the Connecticut law, if thought desirable, at the next session of the legislature.

Notification to the same effect has been sent to Governor Trumbull, upon whose recommendation the Connecticut members were asked to participate in the conference. A draft of the conference report has been submitted to the governor by Secretary Hoover, who has proposed, on behalf of the conference, that the members of the conference from each state serve as advisory committee for their respective states in promoting the adoption of the conference recommendations through state, regional and local conferences or other appropriate organizations."

The members of the Connecticut committee are:

Howard D. Baldwin, Woodbridge; William Brownell, Hartford; Stanley H. Ballard, Bridgeport; Dr. Philip P. Bijur, Waterbury; William P. Eno, Saugatuck; Arthur Fifoot, Hartford; Pierrepont B. Foster, Hamden; Samuel Ludlow, Jr., Hartford; T. T. McCrosky, New Haven; John A. MacDonald, Hartford; Albert B. Meredith, Hartford; John H. Shaw, New Haven; F. C. Stanley, Bridgeport; Robbins B. Stoeckel, Hartford; Leslie G. Summer, Hartford; C. J. Tilden, New Haven; J. C. Truex, Yale university, New Haven; David Van Schaack, Hartford.

Several of the important features of a uniform vehicle code recommended by the Hoover conference are already embodied in the Connecticut law.

49 SHEEP, 50 LAMBS ARE KILLED BY DOGS

Attacked by two large dogs that ran amuck through a flock of 181 sheep, 49 sheep and 50 lambs were killed at the farm of John Ackley in Poquonoc Bridge Groton, recently. The loss is estimated at $1,000, for which, under statutory provision, Mr. Ackley will be reimbursed by the state.

The Ackley flock, one of the largest in the state, is now being guarded carefully by employes of Mr. Ackley and representatives of the state department of domestic animals, in hope of capturing the dogs, which are still at large.

Under cover of darkness, the dogs entered the pasture where the sheep had been grazing, killing many sheep outright, and hopelessly maiming others. Many of the sheep were badly mangled.

James M. Whittlesey of Hartford, commissioner on domestic animals, was notified of the occurence by First Selectman Clark B. Whaley of Groton. Deputy Commissioner Howard A. Elliot came to Groton Friday and shot a number of sheep that had been injured beyond recovery.

Made Plans for June Dance

Four candidates were initiated at the last regular meeting of Division No. 54, Ladies auxiliary, A. O. H., at which Mrs. Julia Brock presided, and Mrs. Dennis Garvey, chairman of the recent card party, presented a favorable report.

Final plans were made for the June dance for which Miss Catherine Coughlin was chosen chairman to be assisted by the Misses Mary O'Neil, Jane Breen, Monica Shea, Elizabeth Sullivan, Nonie Brock, Eva Hyde, Anna Connell, Nonie Nagle, Catherine Sullivan, Nellie McCarthy, Mary Fallon, Margaret Slattery, and Mrs. Julia Brock, Mrs. Bernard Breen, Mrs. Thomas Connelly, Mrs. Francis Williams Mrs. John McHale and Mrs. Mary McCarthy.

GLASS IN HIGHWAYS MENACE TO MOTORISTS

As a result of a number of complaints, the state highway department in a statement made public Sunday called the attention of motorists to the menace that exists to highway traffic in the great amount of broken glass frequently found on the roads. Due laggely to collisions and also falling glass from headlights, etc., the maintenance section of the highway department has been on the watch for these conditions, but it has been found that it is not always possible to keep the roads entirely free from glass.

The co-operation of motorists is asked to relieve the situation, and it is believed that conditions will be greatly improved if autoists whose cars are involved in accidents of this sort will take the trouble themselves to remove the broken glass from the highways before traffic spreads the material over the road. Much needless damage to tires has been caused in this way, it is pointed out.

FINED ON CHARGE OF EVADING RESPONSIBILITY

Bruno Gerri of New London, charged with driving without a license and evading responsibility, was fined $5 and costs on the first count and $50 on the second when he was arraigned in Stonington town court Monday morning before Judge William A. Wilcox. He paid a total of $79.95.

Gerri's arrest came as the result of an accident on June 3, between Stonington and Mystic, when his machine collided with a touring car driven by Miss Lelia Speirs of 109 Mohegan avenue.

H. W. Bode of Norwich was fined $5 and costs, totaling $15.50 in court when he pleaded guilty to taking wild ducks without a shotgun at arm's length. He was arrested Saturday by Deputy Game Warden George Denison.

Harry Frick of Newark, N. J., charged with speeding, and Frank Bova of Stamford charged with speeding and driving without a license, were granted continuances until June 12.

"COMMUTER" WAS NEW PARTY TO WORKER

One Democrat thought he had discovered a new party Monday while trying to round up votes for his ticket when he approached a resident of Norwich Town who does not vote in city elections. The man trying to secure votes was a person with a brogue as broad as a city street and the conversation was like this:

Well, well, Mr. M——, it's a foine day for the Dimocratic party, ain't it? And say, Mr M——, and have ye voted yit?

No, Mr. S——, I haven't, I am a commuter, you know.

Oh, begorra, begorra, and I always thot ye was a dimocrat. Say, but I ain't seen that party on the ballot yit.

POLITICAL WASHINGTON IS UPSET BY IOWA PRIMARY

Democrats and Insurgent Republicans in Congress Are Elated By the Brookhart Victory—There Was No Comment From Leaders of the Republican Party—Whisperings of a Definite Disagreement Between President Coolidge and Vice President Dawes.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—The Brookhart upheaval in Iowa hurled an overwhelming wave of political commotion into the national capitol today, splashing at the gates of the white house and churning up half-buried enmities as it stormed through congress.

Riding high on the whirling waters, farm relief was lifted into a commanding prominence among the issues that agitate political Washington, and hidden whisperings of a definite disagreement between President Coolidge and Vice-President Dawes were cast up for the first time into the open.

At the height of a senate debate, which started as a diagnosis of Iowa's political state and ran into a politico-economic analysis of farm relief, a staunch administration senator from General Dawes' native state of Ohio,—Simeon D. Fess,—declared the "Dawes-McNary-Haugen plan" of farm legislation would "ruin the country."

From none of the titular leaders of the majority party was there any word of comment on the Brookhart victory to match the triumphant shout that went up from democrats and insurgent republicans at the vanquishing of the veteran republican stalwart Cummins in yesterday's primary.

Senator Butler of Massachusetts, chairman of the republican national committee, and Senator Curtis of Kansas, the party floor leader, declined to express an opinion, and when a question about the Iowa turnover was handed in to the white house spokesman he ignored it. Senator Cummins himself merely issued a statement thanking those who supported him.

Even a derisive senate speech by Harrison of Mississippi, the perennial democratic prodder of republican candidates and issues, brought no reply from the republican side except a series of interruptions from Senator Watson of Indiana, who in turn was accused by Senator Harrison of having won his renomination by deserting "Cal and Andy" and accepting Vice-President Dawes as party leader.

The jubilation among the republican insurgents took the form of renewed demands for the equalization fee as a measure of farm relief, and renewed attacks on the republican administration. Senator Norris of Nebraska said the Iowa result was a plain warning to party managers "from the white house down" that the west would not follow those who sought to pacify it by half-measures, and Senators Lafollette of Wisconsin, McNary of Oregon and others declared the Iowa vote was a ringing demand for farm relief.

Senator Gerry of Rhode Island, and Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, chairmen of the democratic senatorial and congressional campaign committees, both pronounced the defeat of Cummins a sign that the popularity of President Coolidge is waning. Four administration senators, said Senator Gerry, had faced their constituents in republican primaries and all had been defeated Representative Oldfield added this suggestion:

"This administration has not enacted and will not enact real farm relief legislation. The first step toward this end is for the western farmers and their representatives in congress to join with the democrats in bringing about a downward revision of the tariff on the things the farmer has to buy."

The senate's debate on farm relief, after it had veered away from the Brookhart victory, centered about the McNary bill, embodying principles similar to those recently voted down in the house and based on an economic theory which has the approval of Vice-President Dawes.

Opening the discussion Senator Harrison said it was no wonder the senate chamber "looks like a funeral," with the defeat of Cummins following on the failure of McKinley in Illinois, Pepper in Pennsylvania, and Stanfield in Oregon.

"All four of the men defeated were able, experienced and fitted for their work here," he continued, "they were men who had made reputations, and whose fame was far flung. The only reason they went down to defeat was that they clung to Cal and stood by for too long.

"The only republican senator who has been able to squeeze through was the senior senator from Indiana, Senator Watson, but it wasn't by clinging to Cal and standing by Andy. He saw that was a little dangerous. So now he is clinging to the vice president."

BROOKHART'S MAJORITY IN IOWA MORE THAN 65,000

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 8.—(By The A. P.)—Once again Iowa voters are watching the maneuvers of Colonel Smith W. Brookhart who defeated Senator Albert B. Cummins for the republican senatorial nomination in yesterday's primary election. Interest centers in Brookhart's ideas of legislation designed to improve the condition of agriculture for the trend of his action on national issues by which they may judge his probable relations with republican party leaders and political developments that may have a bearing on his coming attempt to return to the senate at the November election.

Brookhart won the nomination in yesterday's primary although all precincts had not reported tonight, returns from 2,362 precincts of the state's 2,447 gave him a majority of more than 65,000. The count of the leading candidates was: Brookhart 203,077; Cummins 137,782; Clark 62,-[illegible].

Brookhart has planned to return to Washington where he was ousted from the senate two months ago and where he will take up his advocacy of farm legislation where he left it to return to Iowa to fight for the nomination. He reached here tonight en route to Mason City where he speaks at the State Federation of Labor convention tomorrow. Then he will depart for the capital.

The colonel's nomination had scarcely been definitely established when he announced his plans to join the corn belt committee in Washington and carry out his pledge to the voters that he would, if renominated, make farm relief legislation his chief purpose.

The nominee declared he would seek "real beneficial legislation" but did not go into details as to which of the numerous proposals before congress he would support. He has been a supporter of the Haugen plan, however, and it was believed he would endeavor, along with the other farm relief leaders, to work out a compromise along the lines of the measure, for the defeat of which he blames the administration and Secretary Jardine.

One of Colonel Brookhart's defeated opponents, Howard J. Clark, said he would ask Brookhart to incorporate some of the features of his farm relief programme in any programme the nominee adopted and such an agreement is not improbable. Mr. Clark bases his relief programme on a revision of the federal reserve act to give to farm property the same standing as a credit basis that is accorded the capital investment of other industry.

In all political quarters the large vote by which Brookhart defeated the veteran Cummins has been interpreted as a vote of dissatisfaction on behalf of the farmers. Cummins' campaign committee declared the Brookhart plurality which may mount to more than 70,000 was a "protest against existing conditions" and Chairman Fred E. Burnquist of the state central committee, said the Brookhart vote was a reprimand to the administration for not interesting itself in a satisfactory farm relief programme.

Indications late today were that Brookhart will oppose Claude R. Porter, Des Moines lawyer, in the November election. Mr. Porter was running well ahead of his three democratic opponents and maintaining a percentage of it against the 35 per cent. required for nomination.

The democratic party leader is also an ardent farm relief advocate, a conservative and a strong figure in his party, having carried the democratic column in several previous senatorial contests. Mr. Porter came into prominence during the war when he prosecuted numerous cases against the I. W. W.'s as assistant United States attorney general.

All the five republican congressmen who had primary contests were renominated. They are [illegible] Howell Ramseyer, Robinson and [illegible].

SENATE HAS SIDETRACKED THE DRY ENFORCEMENT BILL

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)— The administration bill for tightening up prohibition enforcement was thrown into the discard today by the senate republican steering committee along with several other important measures.

A program of legislation was outlined which leaders believe will permit adjournment of congress sine die by the end of the month.

While the French debt settlement was not technically before the committee, some republican leaders said there was little prospect of action upon it this session since the latest word from Paris was that there would be delay by the French parliament.

The committee sidetracked the administration prohibition bill only after a fight, with Senator Wills, republican, Ohio, demanding that it be given preferential status instead of being shoved over until the next and short session of congress.

While turning down his bill, the committee agreed to have the senate consider another administration measure creating separate bureaus of prohibition and customs in the treasury department with a director at the head of each. The house already has approved this bill.

A majority of the committee was of the opinion that it was useless to call up the bill to put more teeth in the Volstead act unless the senate was prepared to remain here for many weeks while the whole wet and dry issue was again fought out on the floor.

CONDITION OF POLITICAL SITUATION IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 8 (AP)—The New York political situation, carrying elements of nation-wide interest because of the importance to be played by prohibition issues, had crystallized tonight into approximately the form to be presented to the voters.

Acceptance by Former State Senator Franklin W. Cristman of an invitation to run against United States Senator James W. Wadsworth for the republican senatorial nomination with the organized support of the "bone-dry" forces of the state was followed at once today by a formal statement from Senator Wadsworth of his position on the liquor question. He asserted that the root of all prohibition evils was the eighteenth amendment, and that it was hopeless to expect real reform until that amendment is removed from the constitution.

The statement, contained in a letter to an anonymous persons here, was seen as an answer to critics who had accused the senator of hedging on the issue brought about in New York state by the enactment of the recent measure providing for a referendum on modification.

Senator Wadsworth pointed out that he was an advocate of modification of the Volstead act as the first step toward the elimination of the eighteenth amendment, and said that he favored ultimate adoption of legislation similar to that in force in the Canadian province of Quebec, where the government has established liquor dispensaries in communities which desire them, and sells intoxicants which are not to be consumed on the premises.

Before sailing for Europe last Saturday, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university and mentioned prominently as a possible republican candidate for the governorship this fall, also announced himself as in favor of a law similar to that of Quebec.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LONDON, June 8 — (AP)—Vera, Countess Cathcart, and Gideon Boissevain, of a Dutch-American banking family, the "Daily Graphic" asserts, are engaged to be married.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 8—(AP)—The condition of the Egyptian cotton crop, based on the normal percentage, is announced as lower Egypt 96, middle Egypt 97, upper Egypt 99.

PARIS, June 8—Wartime breadcards and coal coalcards are likely to make their reappearance in France soon in order to help win the "battle of franc," it was said at the ministry of finance.

CANCELLO, Italy, June 8—(AP)—One man was killed, one probably fatally injured and thirteen less seriously hurt when a freight train ran into the Rome-Naples express, which became stalled near here when the last car was derailed.

VIENNA, Austria, June 8—(AP)—Prince Cyril Vladimir Orloff, who was wounded in a duel with Baron Klinger on the latter's estate in lower Austria, told the newspaper men that the baron had retracted a promise to divorce his beautiful wife so she and Orloff could wed.

PLYMOUTH, Eng., June 8—(AP)—The Massachusetts nautical school ship Nantucket arrived here on a practice cruise. The voyage was marked by a tragedy when Senior Cadet Guy was swept overboard and drowned during a heavy gale. The Nantucket leaves for Amsterdam on Wednesday.

ROYAL COURT TO OPEN IN BUCKINGHAM PALACE TODAY

LONDON, June 8.—(AP)—Debutantes at the first of the season's royal courts, which will be held tomorrow evening in Buckingham palace, bid fair to make the occasion one of the most brilliant of pageants in recent years.

Among those presented tomorrow will be 15 American women, while nine will be presented on Thursday. All of them will attend the court under the wing of Mrs. Alanson B. Houghton, wife of Ambassador Houghton.

The official regulations have placed no restrictions on the coloring or materials of the gowns, so that every woman is free to indulge her taste and fancy. But the Lord Chamberlain with the queen's approval, has decreed that knees must be well covered so the skirts will not be as short as last year.

The function will be most "feminine" and as far as advance observation can go will be one of the prettiest and most colorful ever held at Buckingham palace. Although straight dresses are now fashionable, the crowns of the moment are softer and more elaborate in character than at any of the preceding courts.

Among the court novelties in adornment is a tiny mirror set at the back of each bouquet. This permits its possessor to inspect herself by raising up her flowers without being unduly conspicuous.

Tomorrow Mrs. Houghton will present seven Americans in the diplomatic circle in addition to the embassy staff. They are Miss Melanie Avery, Farmington, Conn., sister of the London military attache; Mrs. John Baird of Philadelphia, wife of the assistant military attache; Mrs. Roberts Burg of Boston, wife of the assistant naval attache; Miss Lindsay Beach of Rochester, N. Y., a friend of the Houghtons; Mrs. William Carleton Watts and Miss Emily Watts, wife and daughter of the naval attache; and Mrs. Charles Mettler of Atlanta, Georgia, wife of an assistant military attache.

SIX MORE DIVING DAYS BEFORE RAISING SUB S-51

NEW LONDON, June 8.—(AP)—Upon his return from the salvage fleet at the scene of operations of the navy department's attempt to raise the submarine S-51, Captain E. J. King, commandant of the United States submarine base, who is in charge of operations, tonight declared, "We will need at least six more full diving days before we will be ready to bring the ship to the surface." Captain King said that so far this month divers had been able to work under water but one day. He refused to predict even an approximate date for the raising, saying everything depended upon the weather.

All four pairs of pontoons have been lowered and the chains under the sunken vessel have been put into position, he reported, but added there was still much work to be done which was of a technical nature. There is a squad of between 15 and 20 divers available for the work, but it has been his policy not to employ more than four men under the surface at any one time. Working at a depth of 130 feet, the veteran submarine captain explained that safety limited the number of men who could be properly handled to four.

The commandant will return to the salvage fleet next Thursday.

U. S. WILL NOT RECOGNIZE NEW GOV'T OF NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON, June 8—(AP)—Announcement was made tonight by the state department that the United States does not and will not recognize as the government of Nicaragua the regime now headed by General Chamorro.

Asserting that the American government "continues to be, as it has always been, a warm friend of the Nicaraguan people," and that its attitude toward the Chamorro government remains unchanged, the department's formal statement continued:

"Needless to say the American government sincerely hopes that the Nicaraguan people will by a return to a constitutional form of government make it possible for the United States to extend recognition to such a government and enter into formal diplomatic relations forthwith."

The department also announced that Minister Eberhardt, granted a leave of absence, had left Managua yesterday for the United States. Lawrence Dennis, secretary of the legation, remains at Managua as charge d'affaires ad interim.

WALTERS TO RETAIN HIS SEAT IN THE HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 8—(AP)—The contest carried on for a year and a half by Warren W. Bailey, democrat, of Johnstown, Pa., for the seat in the house, of Representative Walters, republican, neared its conclusion today with the adoption by an elections committee of an unanimous recommendation that the contest be thrown out and Walters retain his seat.

Additional Federal Judgeship in Conn.

U. S. Senator George P. McLean Has Conferred With Lucius F. Robinson Concerning Possibilities.

HARTFORD, June 8.—(AP)— United States Senator George P. McLean has conferred with Lucius F. Robinson, of this city, president of the Hartford County Bar association and until recently president of the state bar association, concerning possibilities for the additional federal judgeship place. Mr. Robinson is now on a fishing trip in the woods of Quebec, but, up to the time of his leaving, about ten days ago, he had not made any recommendation for the appointment, although the judgeship was the subject of several conferences between him and other leaders of the bar.

It appears to be agreed in the legal fraternity that the appointee should come from this end of the state, since Edwin S. Thomas, the only judge now provided for the Connecticut district lives in Norfolk and was a resident of New Haven when appointed.

HOUSE VOTES 215-97 FOR MORE FEDERAL JUDGES

WASHINGTON, June 8.— (AP) —A bill to authorize appointment of additional federal judges in nine states was passed by the house today and sent to the senate. The vote was 215 to 97.

The states affected are New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Maryland, South Carolina, Michigan, South Dakota, Iowa and California.

Vigorous opposition to the measure was voiced by democratic members from New York city, who objected to the five additional district judges and one justice of the circuit court of appeals to be given their state. The prohibition issue was raised by several representatives who maintained that the docket congestion, resulting in the demand for new judges, was caused by petty cases which belonged in police courts.

Chairman Graham of the judiciary committee admitted that prohibition was the chief cause of the legislation, but urged enactment of the bill, declaring that under present conditions it was impossible to transact court business in certain sections.

The bill would provide judges for the following districts:

Three for southern New York, one each for northern and western New York, one each for northern and southern California; one each for Connecticut, eastern Pennsylvania, Maryland, eastern South Carolina, eastern Michigan, South Dakota and Southern Iowa.

An additional judge for the second circuit court of appeals (New York, Vermont and Connecticut) also would be authorized.

FLORIDA AUTHORITIES UNABLE TO LOCATE PONZI

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 8—(AP)—Florida authorities tonight had not located Charles Ponzi, Italian money maker, wanted in Boston.

A request was received by police from Boston asking that Ponzi be arrested. It was held pending the arrival of a copy of the examplified indictment returned against Ponzi in Boston.

No action was taken at the sheriff's office today, authorities asserting that Ponzi would not forfeit bail. In view of the complications that have arisen through the various charges against Ponzi, they said, they preferred to await further developments.

Frank D. Brennan, Ponzi's attorney, said he would advise his client to return to Boston, and Mrs. S. H. Mason, on a supersedeas bond under which Ponzi was released here pending an appeal to the Florida Supreme court from a conviction of irregularities in the real estate business he conducted here, said she had not seen him for several days.

Attorney Brennan indicated that the move of the Boston authorities to seek his arrest here was the first step in a course of action which would permit Ponzi to return to Boston without jeopardizing the interests of his Florida bondsmen.

NE WYORK RESTAURATEURS TO CONTEST CURFEW LAW

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—The restaurateurs Protective association was organized by night club proprietors today to combat the 2 o'clock curfew put into effect by police this morning.

Beyond formulating plans to send a committee to explain the financial results of the law to Mayor Walker no definite steps were taken at the meeting.

Police Commissioner McLaughlin defended the curfew, saying that some of the clubs were conducted by criminals and that after two in the morning honest people were in danger.

Taxi drivers joined with the club owners in protesting the ruling. They said that the financial loss of such a law would hit them as much as it would the club owners.

WOMAN AND TWO CHILDREN KILLED BY BLOWS ON HEAD

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—An autopsy today showed that Mrs. Mary Milazzo, 31 years old, and her two grandchildren, five and two years old, were killed by blows on the head and did not die in the fire which wrecked the interior of their frame dwelling in the old mill section of Brooklyn yesterday.

Medical Examiner Norris says the murderer fired the house to destroy the bodies.

The autopsy also showed, that life was not extinct in the little girl when she was thrown on the blazing bed where her body was found. Soot and smoke in her lungs indicated, he said, that although probably fatally injured, she was breathing when the fire was set.

THREE YOUTHS ON TRIAL FOR FIRST DEGREE MURDER

BOSTON, June 8.—(AP)—Three youths still in their teens tonight faced the first evidence in their trial for first degree murder. A jury, selected after two days of legal wrangling, visited the scene of the crime and the prosecution announced it was ready to proceed against John Sambursky and Albert Deshon, 17, and Stanley B. Toothaker, 19, for the murder of Patrolman Frank J. Comeau of the Dorchester police division last March.

Used Duplicity to Entrap Rum Runners

Coastguardsman Testifies of Ruse in Rum Conspiracy Trial in Boston—"Joined" a Gang.

BOSTON, June 8.—(AP)—A coastguardsman who played a rum runner's part to obtain evidence told his story in federal court today, where Alfred Savastano and Fred M. Snow, victims of his ruse, were on trial for conspiracy to smuggle liquor.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Nelson F. King was the star witness. He said he "joined" a gang, and took messages from shore to ships on rum row. But before each trip he visited federal officials who took copies of the notes and re-sealed them. His information led to a raid on a Haymarket square headquarters where Savastano and Snow were arrested. King today identified a black book in which he said he had seen Savastano make entries.

Among King's activities as a rum runner were the carrying of water and supplies to the French ship Cherie, a member of rum row, and the placing of an order for 1200 gallons of alcohol to be landed at Nantasket. The landing was never made on account of rough weather. On one of his trips King testified that he was fired upon by a coastguard patrol boat and taken to New London, where he was soon released. Marked bills which he received aboard the Cherie were turned over to his superiors by King and were produced as evidence today.

King was to be cross-examined tomorrow by counsel for the defendants.

A RIVER OF FLAME IN DOWNTOWN BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Md., June 8—(AP)—A river of flame swept through downtown Baltimore to the harbor today when oil ignited in the Fallsway—the downtown section of Jones Falls a city drainage stream. The Fallsway, covered for the greater portion of its length, suddenly belched fire and billowing clouds of black smoke as the Baltimore street, three blocks from the ship basin, where it becomes an open stream. The black pall coasted rapidly downstream to the harbor, to be met by three fire boats which prevented its reaching shipping. Buildings overlooking the stream were engulfed in smoke, and their woodwork seared and windows broken by the heat. The Lombard street and Pratt street bridges and the Folly theatre, a Jewish playhouse, were damaged.

Where the inflammable material came from, fire officials had not definitely established. Firemen draped curtains of water over nearby buildings and covered the surface of the stream with chemicals.

REVENUE AGENTS CHARGED WITH ACCEPTING BRIBE

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—Victor H. Berghois and Joseph M. Statler, internal revenue agents, were arrested today charged with accepting a bribe of $17,500 from Clifford W. Smith, a millionaire of Rockland, Me. The men are alleged to have promised Mr. Smith to reduce excess income taxes for him by $100,000.

They pleaded not guilty when arraigned before Commissioner Cotter and were held in $6,000 bail each.

Walter Murphy and Leo I. Keyes, secret service agents of the revenue department, said they overheard Berghois and Statler promise Smith to reduce his taxes and listened in while they made negotiations with him. They said they had been tipped off by Smith himself. Berghois, they alleged, was to receive $5,000 and Statler $12,500.

EARLY RETURNS FROM PRIMARY OF FLORIDA

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 8—(AP)—Senator Duncan U. Fletcher, incumbent, had a commanding lead in early returns over his two opponents for the nomination for U. S. senator on the democratic ticket in today's primary. Scattered returns from 192 precincts out of 1,296 gave Fletcher 9,739, Jerry W. Carter 4,883, John Van Zaizas, 500.

In the fourth congressional district, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen and Congressman W. J. Sears were running neck and neck for the nomination for congress. The vote from 39 out of 356 precincts gave Mrs. Owen 4,137, Sears 4,102.

CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT SPENT A RESTFUL DAY IN BED

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—Chief Justice Taft, recuperating from illness which prevented him from presiding yesterday at the final session of the supreme court for the term, spent a restful day in bed dictating correspondence and reading.

Although he is said to feel sufficiently recovered to start on the trip to his summer home in Canada, he has yielded to the recommendation of his physician, a heart specialist, and will rest, in bed until Friday when he expects to leave Washington.

INN PROPRIETRESS HELD FOR SLAYING EMPLOYE

MIDDLETON, Mass., June 8.—(AP)—Knife wounds caused the death in a Peabody hospital today of Timothy J. McCarthy, employe of the Maplewood inn here. The inn proprietress, Mrs. Margaret Scholten, had been arrested charged with assault with intent to kill, but police said the charge would be changed to manslaughter.

McCarthy, before his death, denied Mrs. Scholten had attacked him, and the woman disclaimed knowledge of the stabbing. She will be arraigned tomorrow.

CHAMPION SPELLER OF RURAL SCHOOLS OF STATE

HARTFORD, June 8.—(AP)—Undaunted by the most intricate words in the "school master's speller," Jennie Bryk, of Burlington, the smallest girl in the contest, spelled her way to triumph over 11 other district victors to gain the title of champion speller of the rural school of the state at the capitol today. Her victory came only after a stirring race for honors with Helen Mayor, of Pomfret, whose failure on the word "chrysalis" forced her to take second place.

FORMULATING PLAN TO HELP SAVE THE FRENCH FRANC

Restrictive Measures of a Far-Reaching Nature to Be Put Into Effect—Importations Are to Be Reduced to a Minimum and State Expenditures Are to Be Reduced—Premier Briand is Hastening Homeward From Geneva to Take the Situation in Hand.

PARIS, June 8.—(AP)—Wartime rationing of food and other necessaries of life will not prevail in France, even for the purpose of rehabilitating French finances, but restrictive measures of a far-reaching nature will be put into effect.

This decision was reached today at a conference of the ministers under whose control the task of restricting consumption and instituting economies has been placed—the ministers of interior, public works, commerce and agriculture.

No new embargo on imports or exports will be imposed, but measures designed to reduce importations to a minimum, both by controlling consumption and by bringing producers and consumers together, have been prepared, which it is believed will serve the purpose. The expenditures of the state will also be reduced, notably those designed to increase the state's land and property holdings.

Premier Briand is so concerned over the fall of the franc and so anxious to take the situation in hand immediately that he started homeward tonight from Geneva, where he had been attending the meeting of the league council, for the purpose of placing his views before the council of ministers, which will meet tomorrow under the presidency of M. Doumergue.

A feature of the day was the report emanating from Geneva, that M. Peret, the finance minister, had placed his resignation at the disposal of the premier, that M. Briand had decided to rush back to Paris and that he had implored M. Peret by telegraph to reconsider his decision until he should arrive.

PARIS, June 8.—(AP)—The political situation tonight is growing more and more disturbed and seems heading for a crisis. M. Peret, the finance minister, who is the principal advocate of the government, is representing to all parties as indispensable the rapid passage of measures for financial rehabilitation, and is understood to be so insistent on this point that he may go so far as to resign if he fails to have his way.

Should the cabinet share his opinion it would be necessary for the minister to resign in a body, to enable Premier Briand to reconstitute his administration, and there is a strong feeling that a ministerial crisis, however, rapidly settled, would have serious disadvantages at a moment when all efforts are being bent upon raising the value of the franc.

Premier Briand is on his way to Paris from Geneva and will have consultations early tomorrow with his ministerial colleagues at the foreign office previous to the formal cabinet council at the Elysee palace, where President Doumergue will preside and at which the momentous decision will be taken as to whether the government will continue at present or adopt M. Peret's proposal for a national union ministry.

In any case, should the decision go against M. Peret nothing will be left undone to induce him to remain in the cabinet.

It is not impossible, although highly improbable that M. Briand may decide to resign altogether, in which case the name of Louis Barthou would be put forward to head a national union ministry.

NEW HAVEN SUNDAY UNION AS OFFICIAL DEM. ORGAN

HARTFORD, June 8—(AP)—Negotiations looking to the official adoption of the "New Haven Sunday Union" as the official organ of the democratic party of Connecticut have been opened with Philip Troup, president and treasurer of that newspaper, by a special committee of the democratic state central committee.

Democratic national committeeman Thomas J. Spellacy, a member of the special committee, confirmed a report to that effect today. The plan is in accordance with a proposal made by Mr. Spellacy at the last meeting of the state central committee, held in this city February 25, which led to the creation of the special committee to make a study of the matter and report back to the next state committee meeting. Associated with Mr. Spellacy on the committee are State Chairman James J. Walsh, of Meriden, national committee woman, Lillian S. Abbott of Norwalk, state vice chairman, Alice B. Mooney, of Waterbury, secretary, Alexander S. Lynch, of West Haven; assistant secretary, Mabelle Fletcher, of Hartford, and treasurer, Fred P. Holt, of this city.

L. A. TOBIE RESIGNS FROM STATE BANK DEPARTMENT

HARTFORD, June 8—(AP)—Llewellyn A. Tobie, of Broomfield has resigned from the state bank department, where he was an examiner, to become field assistant at the life, accident and group department of the branch office of the Travelers Insurance company in this city. State Bank Commissioner John E. Byrne announced today. The resignation is effective July 1.

Mr. Tobie has been with the department for about a year and a half and previously had been in the banking business for ten years, entering the employ of the old Connecticut Trust and Safe Deposit company, later merged with the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company in 1914. His employment there followed immediately his graduation from the Hartford public high school and he held various clerical positions until becoming assistant auditor.

USE OF INTOXICANTS CAUSED FAMILY DISCORD

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Dula, Jr., maintained a happily married life until promiscuous use of intoxicants caused trouble, witnesses said today during trial of the young Mrs. Dula's suit against her mother-in-law, Mrs. Josephine Dula, for $250,000 for alleged alienation of affections.

Neighbors and visitors of the Dulas said that young Dula had developed an illness which prompted his father, the late Robert E. Dula, tobacco magnate, to consider placing him in a sanitarium. They also said that both the young couple drank.

Mrs. Dula recently obtained a separation and alimony of $5,000. The late Mr. Dula was made a defendant in the action but died before it went to trial.

NEW HAVEN POLICEMEN CONTESTING DEMOTION

NEW HAVEN, June 8.—(AP)—The case for the plaintiffs in the mandamus proceedings brought against the board of police commissioners by four demoted probationary police sergeants, was rested by their counsel just before the close of civil superior court here today. The sergeants are William Doherty, James McTirnan, Michael Quinn and Thomas Reynolds.

Testimony of four members of the board brought out that the president of the board, Major John B. Kennedy and Commissioner Joseph H. Mulvey knew nothing of the contemplated reductions until a story predicting the demotions of certain police officers appeared in a New Haven paper, that Chief Philip T. Smith's monthly reports made no recommendation that the department was over-manned, and that, at the present time, the streets of the city were not sufficiently patrolled in the early morning hours.

Judge Arthur F. Ells denied a motion of Samuel Persky, corporation counsel, for a non-suit. Mr. Persky contended that the plaintiffs had not sustained the allegations of their applications or even slightly shown the demotions were tainted with politics.

Counsel for the sergeants in stating the theories on which he was contending claimed that the action of the board was without any resort to bona fide usage and even if the members acted in good faith they had not acted in conformity with the charter or the rules of the police and civil service; that they had not acted in conformity with laws or rules in accomplishing their desired object, and that there was no consistency in the action taken and ground for believing a strong influence of some bias.

ROBBED FOR THE SECOND TIME WITHIN TWO MONTHS

PORTCHESTER, N. Y., June 8—(AP)—Two armed men entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coster R. C. Speers here early today and robbed them of jewels and other valuables worth about $2,500. This was the second time within two months they have been robbed within two months. The men escaped.

Mr. and Mrs. Speers were awakened by footsteps in the bath room of their home and a short time later two robbers entered the room with revolvers and flashlights. They demanded the combination of the wall safe which Mrs. Speers gave them. One covered the couple with a revolver while the second opened the safe. Upon leaving, one of the burglars remarked: "You needn't bother spreading the alarm, we've cut the telephone lines."

Mrs. Speers hastily dressed and went to the garage, where she found that his automobile had been rendered useless also. The men entered the house with a ladder at a second story window. Mrs. Speers furnished the police with good descriptions of both thieves.

MAN KILLED OUTRIGHT IN MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT

NOROTON, Conn., June 8.—(AP)— One man was killed outright and another probably fatally injured in an accident early this evening on the Post road at Noroton. The two men, who are as yet unidentified, were on a motorcycle, one of them in the sidecar. Details of the accident are lacking and no actual eye-witnesses have been discovered by the police. The authorities believe that the men tried to pass an automobile and in some manner collided with an iron electric light pole on the north side of the road.

They had only had the motorcycle a couple of days. A man named Polprack, of Stamford, said that he saw them trying to operate the machine and had helped them the day before to get it up a hill, although he did not know their names. They were evidently unfamiliar with a motorcycle. The registration marker plate bore the number 1347 Connecticut. The state motor vehicle department at Hartford informed the police of Stamford that the highest number registered as yet was 1314.

HOMER L. WILLIS DIES AS THE RESULT OF FALL

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 8.—Homer L. Willis, 46, died Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's hospital as the result of injuries received Monday while engaged in repairing a chimney on the J. O. Blanchette property, 81 Prospect street, shortly before 9 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Willis, a stone mason, was repairing the chimney of a barn near the Blanchette residence. The ladder which he was using slipped and he fell to the ground, a distance of 20 feet. He sustained a fracture of the elbow and internal injuries. Not being rendered unconscious, he was taken to the office of Dr. Clarence E. Simonds and later went to his home on South Park street. Later in the forenoon he was taken to the hospital. Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason conducted a preliminary examination, pronouncing death due to internal injuries. Mr. Willis was born in this city November 22, 1879, a son of Leander and Alice Lee Willis. He had resided here all his life and had been engaged in the stone mason trade for many years. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Hattie Neff Willis, a daughter, Mrs. A. J. Leblond of this city, two sisters, Mrs. Florence Hampston of Schenectady, N. Y., and Miss Alice V. Willis of Willimantic and his father, Leander Willis, also of this city.

FIFTEEN ROTARIANS AT AMHERST CHARTER NIGHT

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 8.—The session of the Willimantic Rotary club Tuesday was of short duration, the formal program being omitted, owing to the fact that 15 of the members were preparing to leave for Amherst, Mass., where a new club held a big Charter Night Tuesday evening. President James P. Bath was in charge of the session. Secretary Gerard E. Loisell, who leaves this (Wednesday) afternoon to attend the Rotary International convention in Denver, Colorado, was given a send-off with a gong. Albert O'Neill was appointed secretary pro tem for the two meetings during Secretary Loisell's absence.

Roland B. Jordan extended an invitation to the Rotary and Exchange clubs to hold a joint meeting with a golf tournament at the Willimantic Country club some Thursday afternoon soon and his invitation, given on behalf of the directors of the Country club, was accepted. It is planned to have the wives and girl friends of the members of the two service organizations guests at the meeting. A card party will be held in the club house during the tournament on the links. Chairman Charles B. Pomeroy announced that the regular Tuesday meeting would be omitted the week of the joint session. He further announced that an evening meeting would be held at grange hall, Scotland June 25th, the program to be in charge of the Rotarians having birthdays during the month. On motion of Raymond A. Parker a committee of three will be appointed to join with Exchange in making arrangements for the Country club meetings.

James B. Fullerton called attention to the serious condition of Rev. Willis G. Norris, a patient at St. Joseph's hospital and at his suggestion it was voted to send another bouquet to Mr. Norris, who has often been a guest at the club. John F. Ahern acted as song leader for the day, with John T. Quinlan at the piano. It was voted to discontinue "The Cog", the weekly publication of the club, until September 1st, making exceptions for special meetings.

When Mayor Tracy learned that the power of revoking show permits rested with the common council he got in touch Tuesday with practically all the members of the board of aldermen and Corporation Counsel William A. King. All agreed that they were against shows if there were gambling features in connection with them, but in view of the fact that the outfit in question was already on the field with a legal permit, it would be well to let the matter drop. This was agreeable to Mayor Tracy.

The funeral of Miss Flora A. Casey was held Tuesday morning from her home, No. 71 Jackson street. Solemn requiem mass at St. Joseph's church at 9 o'clock was celebrated by Rev. John S. Nelligan of Glenville, N. J., a cousin of the deceased; the deacon was Rev. Paul Bartlewski and subdeacon, Rev. Charles M. Kelly. Seated in the sanctuary were Rev. Fathers Dennis F. Moran of South Coventry and A. A. Jalbert of Baltic. Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance was at the organ. As the body was borne into the church, Miss L. Monica McKeon, Mrs. Henry Mathieu, Mrs. John Doyle, William A. Costello and Arthur Roy sang "Lead, Kindly Light." At the offertory, Mrs. Mathieu sang "O Salutaris." At the elevation, Miss McKeon rendered "Pie Jesu" and as a waiting hymn, Mr. Roy was heard in "Farewell". For a recessional, the group united in singing "Nearer My God to Thee." The bearers were William Brown, Leon Carpenter, John Shea, John O'Neill, Michael Casey and Arthur E. Welch. Burial was in the family plot in St. Joseph's cemetery, Rev. Father Nelligan reading the committal prayers, assisted by Rev. Fathers Bartlewski, Kelly, Jalbert and Moran. Killourey Brothers were in charge of the arrangements.

Funeral services for Mrs. Celesty Keith Bidwell were held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the First Baptist church, Rev. David Winslow Lovett, pastor, officiated. Miss Ines Paton sang "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me." Mrs. Charles Tucker was at the organ. The body was taken on the 3:30 train to Northbridge Mass., for burial in Riverview cemetery. The bearers were Charles L. Crane, Henry Fryer, George S. Andrews and Frank S. Pendleton. Avery and Van Zandt had charge of the arrangements.

ALLING BLOCK DAMAGED BY FIRE—LOSS $8,000

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 8.—Damage by fire in the Alling Rubber company block on Main street early this morning is estimated to be about $8,000. Manager Daniel Wade of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea company store, which was hardest hit, announced in the afternoon that the loss in equipment, fixtures and contents of the store would amount to about $5,000. It is generally believed that the blaze was caused by spontaneous combustion. The damage in the two upper stories was entirely by smoke. Starting in the rear of the A. & P. store the flames spread to the front of the building and then shot through a vacant storeroom into the alleyway next to the H. C. Murray company building. Members of the local fire department, both regulars and volunteers, were receiving praise for their good work in confining the flames to such a small area and keeping the loss so low.

The Variety Pioneers, a vaudeville quintet of which Samuel E. Johnson and Louis E. LEDYARD

The annual graduating exercises of Ledyard public schools were held in the Ledyard Congregational church on Friday afternoon, June 4. The church was decorated and the exhibits of the different schools were on display in the basement of the church. The work was very meritorious. The exhibits were the largest and best of any school year. Four schools had on display a 100 per cent. school business, meaning that every pupil in these four schools had deposited $1 or more in a savings bank during the year. These schools are Church Hill, Gallup, Cider Hill and Long Cove. The exhibits were highly commended. The church was filled with parents, pupils and friends.

The graduates are: Earl Farrington Babcock, Unionville; John Campbell, Cider Hill; Anna Delight Crouch, Church Hill; John Kwaisniewsky, Church Hill; Lucy Planko, Church Hill; Dorothy Louise Baudro, Gales Ferry; Rose Anna Norcross, Gales Ferry; William McNaught, Gales Ferry.

Today's Chrysler "70"—changed in no way except new lower prices which save you $50 to $200—is more than ever the car of public preference.

Long lived; characteristic Chrysler beauty; compact to meet today's traffic needs; roomy for comfort and luxury; easiest to handle on any road; flashing pick-up; 70 miles an hour plus; safe—little wonder that none of its more than hundred thousand of owners who have driven their cars thousands upon thousands of miles, will ever willingly go back to the less modern type of cars.

And now with its savings of $50 to $200, Chrysler "70"—the identical car in every single respect that has won such universal enthusiastic admiration—is beyond all doubt the best motor car investment in its class.

We are eager to demonstrate its outstanding superiorities.

DANIELSON

A. H. DAWLEY, OF NORWICH, IS CLEARED OF CHARGE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June —Albertus H. Dawley of Norwich was found not guilty of a charge of embezzlement, when presented before Judge W. Fenner Woodward in the town court Tuesday morning. The charge had been preferred by Joseph Ouilette, as owner of a garage where Dawley had been employed for a time as manager and in charge of the accounting. The allegation was that Mr. Dawley had embezzled $300. This was denied.

The state produced a number of witnesses in the case, but Mr. Dawley relied exclusively upon his counsel, Edmund W. Perkins of Norwich, to present his side of the matter to the court. Judge W. Fenner Woodward, after hearing the statements made by Prosecuting Attorney Arthur G. Bill and Attorney Perkins, after taking the testimony of the state's witnesses, found Mr. Dawley not guilty.

TEACHERS ARE APPOINTED FOR COMING SCHOOL YEAR

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 8.—Principal Ernest R. Warren has been re-elected for another year as head of Killingly high school. Other teachers elected for the high school faculty for the school year 1926-27 are: Ralph D. Brundage, Miss Marion D. Chollar, Miss Louise W. Danielson, Miss Adah Danielson, Miss Roberta A. Horton, Mrs. Flora L. Shippee, Miss Esther J. Sauter; junior high school, Miss Catherine Devitney, Mrs. Alma K. Saylor; Danielson graded, Miss Elizabeth R. Woodworth, Miss Grace M. Stanton, Mrs. Emma J. Keach, Mrs. Beatrice E. Beckett, Miss Anna M. Hammett, Miss Edith L. Fuller, Miss Esther C. Holly, Mrs. Clara M. Williams.

At the Goodyear school the teachers elected are Carl L. Sears, Miss A. Laura Chase, Miss C. Ella Day, Miss Grace E. Janes, Miss Mabel C. Frink, Miss Agnes A. Jacobs; Dayville, Miss Rebecca Hollowell. Miss Mildred E. Kelley, Miss Maude D. Capron, Mrs. Sophia H. Burdick; Attawaugan, Miss Margaret M. McConnell, Mrs. Rena B. Morse, Miss Corrine Lappin; Ballouville, Mrs. Marion P. Miss Hallowell, who comes from Norwich to the Dayville school, will succeed Miss Ransome, who is to enter Connecticut Agricultural college to study for a degree. Mrs. Sophia Burdick, teaching at East Killingly this year, is transferred to Dayville to succeed Miss Arline Babson, who is to teach at the Noah Webster school, in Hartford. The new teachers for East Killingly are graduates in the class of 1926 of the State Normal school at Framingham, Mass. Miss Esther J. Sauter of Turner's Falls, Mass., will be the new commercial teacher in the high school. Miss Parmenter, to teach at East Brooklyn, comes from Quincy, Mass., and is a graduate of the Framingham Normal school.

Organization of the Twilight league has done more to revive baseball interest in Danielson than anything that has occurred in a decade. It is a surprising thing to many that upwards of 70 capable baseball players have been rounded up right in Danielson. Their enthusiasm, backed by good playing, seems to have become contagious and now teams of boys are being organized to add to the gaiety of the season and a revival of interest in the national pastime. Danielson has the promise of many good ball games this summer, and it so happens that they will be played in the early evening when hundreds can see them without being away from work or without too much inconvenience.

Dance in Pellett's Hall, Danielson, Wednesday, June 9, auspices Killingly Grange, old and new dances, everyone welcome.—adv.

This season's stocking of trout brooks in the territory is under way, 6500 fingerling trout already having been released. These fish have gone into trout streams other than Snake Meadow brook, which is state-leased. They were furnished by the state board of fisheries and game and distributed by members of the Danielson Rod and Gun club.

Eighth grade graduates of all the schools in the town of Killingly will have their graduation exercises in the town hall tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and the exercises will be open to the public. A program that will be thoroughly interesting as well as entertaining has been arranged and will serve to give considerable insight into what the town has done to prepare the pupils for higher courses of study. The hour of the exercises is stressed because some printed announcements have gone out giving a different hour than that of 2:30, Thursday evening, eight grade graduating exercises are to be held in Brooklyn in Unitarian hall.

A quarterly meeting of the poultry division of Windham County Farmers' association is to be held Friday at Grange hall, Brooklyn. The meeting will open at 10 o'clock, standard time, with an address on Summer Feeding and Care of Pullets by R. E. Jones, poultry specialist at the Connecticut Agricultural college. At 11 o'clock, C. A. Brenn of Scotland will talk to the meeting on Careful Breeding and Vigorous Chicks. County Agent Frank L. Davis of Putnam will follow Mr. Brenn, at 11:30, with a talk on The Progress Being Made in Growing Healthy Chicks. At noon there will be a box lunch period.

At the afternoon session, at 1 o'clock, Paralysis in Poultry will be the subject of a talk by Dr. L. C. Dunn, geneticist at Storrs. Mr. Jones will talk again at the afternoon session, discussing Giving the Old Hen a Vacation. The closing period of the afternoon, at 2:30, will be concerned with the Question Box, this affording all to present any problems they may have relative to poultry to the experts attending the meeting. The county committee is made up of John Z. LaBelle of Ballouville, C. F. Brenn of Scotland and C. A. Brenn of Hampton.

July 12 has been set as the date for the opening of the daily vacation church school in Danielson.

John F. Lewis recently has been in the White Mountain region on a motoring trip.

Officers and enlisted men of the Service battery are beginning to turn their attention to the annual field of service, which will come in July.

There was attendance from Danielson Tuesday evening at a cottage prayer meeting held at the home of George Richardson, in Brooklyn.

An electric street light bulb, exploding on Broad street, showered a passing car with broken glass.

A little thundershower Tuesday afternoon brought rain to this area for the fourth consecutive day.

A Boston brokerage house has circulated stockholders here of the Connecticut Mills company with quotations for the various issues of the stock as a trading proposition. The offer on second preferred, par value $100, is $16 a share.

PUTNAM

MOTORISTS TAKE CHANCE IN TURNING NEAR TRACKS

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 8—The strip of land between the old Chickering house and the tracks of the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R. is a dangerous place for automobiles to enter and turn. The space here is small and much congested, especially on Saturday nights. When backing out and when going from Union street to turn, drivers back their cars against the west bound tracks of the railroad company, regardless of approaching trains. Engineers of the west-bound trains, because of the curve and being on the outside of the curve, cannot see an obstruction on the tracks at this point until too late to avoid possible accident. The railroad management has become alarmed at the increasing of the practice and feels that it should be stopped. There is room to turn without getting too close to the tracks.

BURT'S STORE ENTERED BUT NOTHING MISSED

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 8—Burt's Drug store on Main street was again broken into, some time between Saturday night and yesterday morning. Entrance was gained by forcing a door leading into the cellar from the rear of the building. So far there has been found nothing missing from either the cellar or the store. This is the second time that the store has been broken into within two weeks. The first time about fifteen dollars was taken from the till.

Edwin Hall, a member of the police force of New York city has been spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hall of Walnut street.

State Bank Commissioner John B. Byrne of this city and Roy T. Barne of West Hartford have returned from a three weeks' fishing trip to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Stanton of Ring street have been entertaining Mr. Stanton's father from Fillmont, N. Y. Mr. Stanton was formerly a resident of New Canaan, Conn.

An automobile bearings a Rhode Is-land license crashed through the fence near Harrisville and but was stopped at the edge of the Little River near the swimming hole. A man, woman and several children were in the car, but no one was injured. The car was towed back on the highway.

The Vernon Stiles Inn at Thompson has opened the season with a number of guests, among them Mr. and Mrs. Phetteplace of Providence; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loring of Huntington, Long Island; Henry Marston of Providence; Miss Mavis McFarland and Miss June Craig of New Zealand.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hilda Hibakka French was held at her home in Woodstock Tuesday afternoon. Burial was in Woodstock cemetery. Mrs. French died Saturday afternoon after a long illness. She was born in Wasa, Finland, but came to this country as a young woman and has lived in this vicinity ever since. She married about six years ago Francis G. French, who shortly after his marriage was made superintendent of the Woodstock Town farm and Mrs. French became the matron.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brownlie have been recent guests of the daughter, Mrs. Jack Lachance at Hartford.

VACATION RESIDENCE OF PRESIDENT RUGGED

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., June 8 (AP)—The Adirondack wilderness of northern New York state, a half century ago shunned by all except the most venturesome vacationists, this year will furnish the president of the United States a residence more luxurious in its appointments than many a city dwelling.

White Pine Camp on Osgood Lake, near here, where President and Mrs. Coolidge have elected to spend their summer vacation, is looked upon in this section as one of the most remarkable examples of woodland luxury and improvement in the mountain district. Started in 1905 in a virtual wilderness tract on the north shore of the lake, it had grown by 1915 to the proportions of a small village, and the final touches of civilization have been added in the succeeding 11 years.

Yet despite the modern character of the camp itself, enough of the true old-time Adirondack atmosphere remains to impress its reality upon visitors. The impressive stands of Norway pine on the camp grounds, the hazy blue mountain wall which forms the southern horizon as one looks from hilltops near the camp, and the balsamy odor of the pure mountain air all go to complete a picture in which may be recognized the Adirondacks of history.

The nearest telegraph and telephone lines are in this village, three and a half miles distant from the camp, but the facilities are good.

The whole area of White Pine camp comprises some 60 acres, mostly on a peninsula jutting into the lake. Flat along the shore, the camp ground rises gradually until it takes the form of an easily sloping hillside a short distance away. Virtually all of the land in the vicinity is owned either by other wealthy campers or by the Paul Smith Hotel company, all of whom have stringent regulatons against trespassng. This makes for seclusion.

Were the camp nearer civilization, it might with propriety be termed an "estate," for it comprises two dozen buildings and numerous decorative structures. Landscape gardening effects make the artificial portions of the camp harmonise with its natural surroundings. All of the buildings are finished in rough planking or bark slabs.

The nucleus of the camp is the owner's cabin and the adjoining living cabin, both of which will be occupied by the president and his family. Routh-finished timbers and huge stone fireplaces inside of each building give them a woodsy appearance, while all modern conveniences take away the harsher aspects of camp like. The living cabin is a long, low-lying structure with overhanging eaves. The dining cabin is connected with the living cabin by a tiled walk.

In the vicinity also are bachelor quarters with baths and sleeping rooms for five men.

Additional buildings consist of a double bowling alley and a billiard house, a Japanese tea house, a tennis structure, an open air theater, stables, two garages, two boat houses, a green house with a large variety of flowers and plants, a store house, a chicken house, and cabins for 24 servants in addition to those taken care of in connection with the dining room.

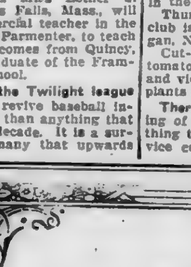
Lydia E. Pinkham and Her Great Granddaughter

IF Lydia E. Pinkham were alive today she would be 107 years old. Her memory is revered by her descendants who continue to manufacture and market her famous Vegetable Compound.

From Lydia E. Pinkham to her great granddaughter, four generations have relied upon this dependable medicine. The happy school girl of today, like the demure maiden of the 1870's, knows that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps to restore and preserve her health.



Years ago, a mother gave this medicine to her fifteen year old daughter. The daughter married and became the mother of seven children. She writes, "I always took it before my babies were born and I know it gave me strength to keep up and do my work. I am now taking the Vegetable Compound again and I am giving it to my oldest daughter."

Because this dependable medicine has proved its worth in her own family, she will answer letters from other women asking about it.

GLASS IN HIGHWAYS

When the state highway department calls for the cooperation of motorists in keeping the highways free from broken glass of all kinds which ought to be its belief. Everyone knows the effect of broken glass on the tires and there should be a desire to afford the same protection for others that is desired for [illegible]

For the most part the broken glass in the roads comes from accidents or the falling out of loads. There are not many instances when those who cars are involved do not know that the glass is where it will do harm to others, but there are [illegible] to be unwilling to clean up what had caused.

There are those however who [illegible] to that [illegible] to [illegible] thing into the [illegible] glass, paper or [illegible] with them, of course, [illegible] look out for the [illegible] a matter of [illegible] those [illegible] were to kick them [illegible] they happen to [illegible] are picked up broken [illegible] the gutter into [illegible] liable to be driven [illegible] the center of the [illegible]

What [illegible] is no secret and the [illegible] means expense [illegible] ance, all of which would be avoided if those who [illegible] in the highways would remove the menace they [illegible] whether it was done accidentally or intentionally. The [illegible] be much less contempt for the person who [illegible] leaves glass in the [illegible] is for the [illegible] and public [illegible]

The state [illegible] an opportunity [illegible] much glass is [illegible] how much time is required to [illegible] it and how [illegible] work could be quickly [illegible] responsible for it [illegible] which it makes [illegible] alone and there [illegible] ness to come. It [illegible] for those [illegible] mean a [illegible] of highway [illegible]

GASOLINE PRICES

When the [illegible] new investigation [illegible] price of gasoline [illegible] number of people. [illegible] seven owning an [illegible] parent that [illegible] the pocketbook and [illegible] really interest a great [illegible] than the owners.

Whether the [illegible] amount to anything [illegible] disclosed. It has been [illegible] it has been [illegible] tion. The federal trade [illegible] will proceed to probe and [illegible] granted the [illegible] tion to [illegible] advance was [illegible] cheap of the [illegible] is even opportune to [illegible] instituted. By the [illegible] ever it will be [illegible] relief from [illegible] reason. It is [illegible] recommend any [illegible]

What seems to be [illegible] lightness on the part of [illegible] companies in the raising of the price of gasoline is that they give no reason for it. The announcement is made that the price has been advanced. If you want it you must pay the price or otherwise it need have no concern for you. But when explanations are given, whether the public really understand them or not, it relieves suspicion, and the elimination of that monster makes it easier for everybody.

The public does not for the most part understand the manifold fluctuations in gasoline prices each year. It cannot understand why if gasoline can be sold several cents less a gallon at one time a year when it cannot be sold at, or near, that same figure during the rest of it it is not in touch with the oil industry. It doesn't keep tabs on new fields and the [illegible] which may influence prices through competition and price cutting, but a big step toward keeping them posted might be taken by setting forth the facts when cuts or boosts are made, and particularly when the boosting is being done.

OILY WASTE DISPOSAL

It is interesting to note that a [illegible] fire has caused extensive damage to an important New York pier, caused by spontaneous combustion in the oil soaked debris accumulated under it, on the eve of the opening of the international conference in Washington which is seeking the prohibition of oil pollution of navigable waters.

This furnishes a fresh instance of the menace which the dumping of oily waste creates for the harbors, the river fronts and the vessels and it is one of the things which the advocates of prohibition set forth as justifying an international agreement for stopping it.

Those vessels which have oily waste matter to discharge recognize that the easiest way for them to do it is to throw it overboard. That ends their concern in it. But that simply means the beginning of troubles for others and there is no justification for such a means of disposal in view of the nuisance and damage that is caused.

What the agreement will be, if one is reached, is not known. What is needed is that there should be a common understanding which all will respect and that such an agreement should be adequately meet the requirements. In view of the fact that there is a method of getting rid of this waste that will perhaps more than meet the expense and at the same time permit of some use being made of it, it is entitled to a thorough hearing.

When oily waste becomes objectionable, as it has, to beaches, shore front property, harbors, piers and vessels to say nothing of the effect upon fish, it is time to correct the situation. The international conference indicates that it is not a condition peculiar to this country, but exists in others, and where such a common problem prevails the quicker it can be tackled and solved by joint action the easier will be the task of enforcement and the quicker the relief.

NEEDLESS ACCIDENTS

How [illegible] some children are [illegible] and how important is the [illegible] parents and others [illegible] upon them the need [illegible] for their own safety is [illegible] the two items in [illegible] news.

One [illegible] boy was riding on the [illegible] of a coal wagon. He was [illegible] and oblivious to the [illegible] him. When the time [illegible] tired of riding or he [illegible] stop he jumped off [illegible] to run across the [illegible] not giving heed to what [illegible] ing. As he dodged in [illegible] auto it was too late [illegible] and he was taken to a [illegible] with a fractured skull from [illegible] died.

The youngster, impelled by the [illegible] to touch something moving, [illegible] and persons put out [illegible] often done with [illegible] and persons put out [illegible] the locomotive of [illegible] train while in motion. He [illegible] succeeded for he was [illegible] down an embankment but fortunately escaped with a broken arm. [illegible] boys perhaps did nothing [illegible] hundreds of others [illegible] but it is evident that they were [illegible] would not have been. EDITORIAL NOTES

Elections come and elections go but the city is expected to survive.

The man on the corner says: Can you anticipate a happy vacation without a red hot summer?

No one seems enthusiastic about staging any more bathtub parties and then [illegible] about them.

Thus far in June we have escaped a killing frost, but it is hardly safe to let the heater go out.

Think of considering it necessary to advise Americans in Paris to drink wine because the water is bad!

The election result was in marked contrast to those days when the successful mayor won by majorities of 75 and 1.

It will cheer anyone up to learn that the national wealth is $353,000,000,000, even though it isn't ready for distribution.

The decision doesn't say but it is inferred that when Earl Carroll goes to Atlanta he will not take his bathtub with him.

The new president of Poland is taking his time in being inaugurated but when it comes to being thrown out he will have little to say.

Herbert Janvin Browne is confident certain parts of New England will have little or no summer. He was also equally certain it would be pleasant on a day when it never rained harder.

MY SON'S MY SON

"You'll love her, father," Jefferson Potter went on when his father did not speak. "No one could help loving her. She's such a dear girl that no one could help loving her. When I think she loves me it makes me feel—queer."

Still his father said no word.

"Look at her, father, once more, and tell me just what you think of her. Isn't she pretty?"

His father steadied the photograph on his knee that his son might not see ho whis hand was trembling.

"It's a pretty picter, son," he said. "Does she look like that?"

"Oh, much prettier; I wish you could see for yourself, but you soon will. I can scarcely wait for you to see her."

The eager praises went on and the silence of the father passed unnoticed. Presently the son opened his watch and shut it with a snap.

"I must go in 10 minutes," he said. "Violet'll be expecting me. It seems too wonderful to be true. I must make you comfortable before I go. I'll make you eggnog and put it in the safe."

"He ain't forgot me entire," the old man said to himself.

With a word of good-bye he was gone. His father sat where he had left him, his faded eyes on the dying fire in the grate. So low the coals had burned, so cheerlessly, hopeless it looked, that it might have been his own life laid out before him. But the dreariness of it suited the old man's mood.

He went over the past and future step by step. The past—its brightness dimmed, his eyes more than the thought of the gloomy future. It had come as a bolt from a clear sky. Jefferson had never cared for girls; had always said he would never marry. And at 40, it seemed to his father, he might have been expected to know his own mind.

A few tears trickled down on his wrinkled hands. This giving up of all came hard. And he felt that the choice of Jefferson had not been wise. If he must marry, why not have chosen a girl whom he had known all his life? Why a stranger and an actress, at that?

"No good'll come of it," he muttered to himself, groping his way to bed.

He did not take the eggnog though it had been prescribed for him. He felt that it would choke him. And, either from that reason or the disturbing thought of Jefferson, he did not sleep. But he feigned sleep when Jeff came tiptoeing in. The old man watched his face from under his eyelids. He saw the shining eyes, the lips smiling or pursed in a silent whistle.

"He's happy," the father said to himself. "I hadn't ought to mind."

The days passed on and Jeff brought home the stranger girl. The father gave her a welcome that he did not feel. He could see, too, that she did not like him.

As time went on she showed her dislike in many ways. Jefferson, dazzled, blinded, never noticed. But the old man knew. Many little comforts were wrested from him, but always so that Jefferson could not blame her.

The old man had been accustomed to having a cup of coffee and the paper before he got up. Now he had only the coffee. Violet liked to look over the paper, Jefferson apologized. And unless his son remembered the coffee even that was taken from him. He was cold when he woke up in the morning. The hot coffee had warmed him before he dressed. He missed it more than one would have believed.

His eggnog, too, was not the same. Violet objected to the spoonful of good whisky that the doctor had ordered.

"It's bad for any one," she said to Jefferson. "I've read that even a spoonful a day hurts a person. I put vanilla in instead. It's much better."

"But the doctor ordered it," urged her husband. "Father's cold so often.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Not the least notable figure among the scores of eminent prelates who will attend the Eucharistic congress about to assemble in Chicago will be Cardinal Bourne, archbishop of Westminster, who represents the Roman catholics of Great Britain in the Sacred college. Cardinal Bourne is a Londoner by birth and was reared in poverty. Notwithstanding the unpromising prospect of his youth there was one person who not only foresaw but foretold, a great future for the lad. This was a maiden aunt with whom the future cardinal lived in a poor quarter of the great metropolis. A friend who called on the aunt one day found her making a magnificent piece of Irish lace, and in reply to an inquiry, she said, "This is for my little nephew when he becomes bishop." Not many years later the lad did become bishop, of Southwark. In 1903 he was made archbishop of Westminster, and at the comparatively early age of 60 he was elevated to the cardinalate.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Highway Improvement in Ashford

Mr. Editor: Please correct typographical error in communication concerning highway problems in Ashford. It is not $100 but $1000 which one citizen has offered to contribute to highway improvement if the selectmen will actually spend the proposed $5000. There is reason to say that there will be further cooperation in a well-defined and executed program of highway development. Public sentiment is becoming aroused in this matter and some good ought to come out of it.

Stories That Recall Others

A New Name

Roger was in the country with his father one day and asked the name of some wild flowers he saw. His father told him they were called "Dutchman's Breeches."

The next time they were driving in the country Roger exclaimed when he saw the same flowers:

"Oh, Daddy, look at the rompers."

Way Animals Do

Mother had taken her small daughter, Edith, to a store to buy her a coat. As this was one of her first shopping trips, she seemed interested in everything the saleslady said, especially when she was told that she should shake the fur collar and cuffs downward like the animals do.

A few minutes later Edith began scratching her face. Her mother said: "Don't do that; it doesn't look well."

"But, mother, that's the way the animals do," was the quick reply.

From Small Beginnings

Charles T. Yerkes, the Clerk, the Great Railroad Developer

When a man has struggled hard to rise from the position of a clerk to that of a man of great wealth, and then sees all his fortune swept away from him by a great disaster it requires not only great ability but also great manhood to begin once more in a humble way and to make a greater fortune than before. Charles T. Yerkes, who founded the Yerkes Observatory of Chicago university, and who developed the street railway system of Chicago, as well as the subway system of London, began life as a clerk who worked without pay, made a fortune, saw it destroyed by the Chicago fire and "came back" greater than before.

By birth Mr. Yerkes was a "Pennsylvania Dutchman," born in Philadelphia. In his boyhood he went to the Philadelphia schools and gained a good general education. He found an excellent position as clerk in a financial house and there became familiar with the methods of finance and of large business. For him this was a far better training than college would have been. He was observant, quick, accurate, and thrifty. By the time he was 25 he set up an office of his own, and there put into practice the principles that he had learned while working for others. In 12 years' time he had amassed a fortune, the Civil war giving him and others unusual opportunities. Then, on Oct. 8 and 10, 1871, a great fire destroyed a large part of Chicago, and brought about conditions that resulted in the complete overthrow of all his prosperity.

In spite of this sudden catastrophe Mr. Yerkes did not give up. People commonly believe that highly successful men have had no difficulty to overcome. The fact is that most men who succeed are men who are not overthrown by any trouble, however great. They rise superior to it.

Charles T. Yerkes, in Chicago, opened a new office, took an active hand in the development of the Chicago street car lines. Interested himself likewise in the financing of the underground railways in London, and became one of the most prominent business men of the United States. He interested himself not only in matters of finance, but also in work for the public good, and thus gave much energy to making plans for the Chicago World's Fair and founded the great Yerkes Observatory for the University of Chicago.

Setting fire to the barn of his former employer, C. Empey, to escape capture after an unsuccessful attack on Mrs. Empey and her young son, William Clark, a young farm hand, was burned to death at Smith's Falls, Ont.

Why the Ants Love The Apids

Be gentle to the one who feeds you
And make him think he really needs you

The Ant.

Peter Rabbit looked up at Redwing the Blackbird sitting in the alder above Peter's head. "What is this you are telling me about ants and honey-dew? What is honey-dew and what have ants got to do with it? And what have ants and honey-dew got to do with those white aphids up on that alder branch close to your feet?"

Redwing chuckled. "One question at a time, Peter," said he, "one question at a time. Do you mean to tell me you don't know what honey-dew is?"

"If I knew I wouldn't ask, would I?" replied Peter rather saucily. "I know what honey is. Bees make honey and Buster Bear likes to eat it. And I know what dew is. Dew falls at night and gets the grass wet. But what dew has to do with honey or what honey has to do with dew, I don't know."

Redwing the Blackbird chuckled again down in his throat. "Honey-dew," said he, "isn't exactly honey and it isn't exactly dew. The aphids make it. It looks like a tiny drop of dew and it's sweet and rather sticky. So it is called honey-dew. The ants love it. That's why they take such good care of the aphids."

"I never have heard of ants taking care or aphids," said Peter in an unbelieving sort of voice.

"Oh, that's all right," replied Redwing. "There are many things you haven't heard of, Peter. I wouldn't be surprised if there were a billion more things that you haven't heard of than that you have heard of. But this is true just the same. Ants take care of aphids and they do it so that they may be sure of plenty of honey-dew. I can see one now getting some honey-dew."

"Oh dear, I wish I could see it," cried Peter. "How is that ant getting the honey-dew?"

"By tickling an aphid," chuckled Redwing.

"You're just trying to stuff me full of nonsense," protested Peter very indignantly.

"Not at all, Peter. Not at all," replied Redwing. "I'm not doing anything of the kind. You know those two little feelers which ants have growing out of their heads?"

Peter nodded. "Yes," said he. "What of them?"

"Well, this ant is patting one of these aphids on the back with those feelers of hers and the aphid likes it and is making a little drop of honey-dew for the ant. And over there is another ant doing the same with another aphid. I guess if you look down there on the ground you'll see some ants just starting up the alder."

"How can ants fight birds?" demanded Peter

Peter promptly went over to the foot of the alder, and looked carefully. Sure enough, there were ants going up and others coming down. He saw that they were all going or coming from the branches on which those white aphids had collected. So he began to suspect that what Redwing had said must be true.

"I never have heard of such a thing," said Peter. "I didn't suppose ants had anything to do with aphids." He said this out loud. Redwing heard him.

"I guess," said Redwing, "you haven't used your eyes a whole lot, Peter. Ants take the greatest care of aphids. They even fight their enemies for them. Yes sir, they even fight their battles for them. I wouldn't be a bit surprised if some of these ants up here are on guard now."

"How can ants fight birds?" demanded Peter.

Redwing looked quite as puzzled as he felt. Then it came to him what was in Peter's mind. "Ho, ho, ho, ha, ha, ha, ha," he laughed. "Do you think birds are the only enemies aphids have? Some birds do eat aphids, but the numbers they kill is nothing to the numbers that their other enemies kill. There ought to be some of these enemies around here now. I must look closely and see if I can't find them."

The Mission of the Modern Dentist Is to Save

There was a time when a person who went to a dentist with a cavity or aching tooth went with the full belief that the tooth would have to be extracted.

The dentist was not to blame for that—he did his best and gave the service that his patients demanded. The science of caring for the teeth was then not so thoroughly developed or generally understood. Today, however, when it can be done with safety, the dentist would rather repair the damage done than merely to remove the affected tooth.

If you would save the teeth you have you must learn to keep them in good health. The best way to be sure that your teeth are kept in good condition, is to come to us for regular examination and advice.

Howard's Buttermilk Cream Must Give Results In One Week or Money Back. Big Demand for New Jars, Says Lee & Osgood Co.

Every woman reader of this paper who prizes a clear creamy white complexion and snow-white hands and arms will be glad to know that while preparing this old-time recipe at home was always mussy and troublesome they can now obtain at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation called "Howard's" Buttermilk Cream.

The directions are simple and the woman who has hitherto refused to indulge in such so-called "vanities" might well be excused for using Buttermilk Cream since beauty simply thrives on buttermilk. No pimples or uzly sallowness, no wrinkles or lines around the eyes and mouth, but just that creamy delicious color that makes even a good-looking woman still more beautiful.

You can get it at any pharmacy or department store simply asking for "Howard's" Buttermilk Cream and remember it's only sold on a postive guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

IMPORTANT—Even the finest face creams fail if the soap you use is harsh. Howard's Buttermilk Cream Soap keeps skin smooth, soft and pliable. Lee & Osgood Co.

Explains How Enlarged Veins Can Be Reduced

Often Times Veins Burst and Cause Much Suffering, Expense and Loss of Employment.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it at home as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil has brought much comfort to worried people all over the country; is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Lee & Osgood Co. sells lots of it.

EVENING OF WHIST WAS HELD ON PORCH

Mrs. John LaValle held a very successful whist Monday evening, for the benefit of the Mooseheart Legion's trip to Meriden. There were ten tables at four. Prizes were awarded as follows: First ladies; Mrs. Marie Retkovsky, bath towel with crocheted edges; second, Mrs. Hastings, combing jacket; third, Margaret Sadunsky won in the cut with Mrs. Fournier and Mrs. Bush, a three piece toilet set; gentlemens first, Julia Barry, tie and handkerchief set; second, George Morse, tie, donated by Mrs. Ethel Hoelck; third, Mrs. Sibourin gold plated ash tray, donated by Mrs. E. Reynolds. The ladies' prizes were all donated by Mrs. John LaValle. The whist was held on the porch, which was beautifully decorated with blue and yellow streamers, and with the shaded lights presented a very pleasing sight. Score cards with a large red heart, the emblem of the order, were used and the committee wore bands of yellow on their heads. The scorers were: Mrs Clara Murphy, Mrs Irene Burns, and Mrs. Teresa Watters.

After the cards refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Nora Willett, Mrs. Irene Burns, Mrs. Clara Murphy, Miss Edith Bronofske, Mrs. Irene Burns donated a large orange cake which was sold. A good sum was realized and all were unanimous in agreeing they had had a very pleasant evening. Courtesies were extended by Church and Allen.

NEW HIGHWAY LINE ON GROTON SIDE OF BRIDGE

Excavations preparatory to laying out a new highway line at the Groton entrance of the military highway from the state highway bridge over the Thames river were begun Tuesday morning by employes of the D Arrigoni Construction Co. of Meriden. Charles Arrigoni, son of the Meriden contractor, is in charge of the work. Joseph Diffley of the state highway department in Hartford, has been assigned as inspector.

A three-quarter cubic yard steam shovel was moved into the basin between the present highway and the old railroad embankment and the actual process of digging was begun on Tuesday morning. The D. Arrigoni Co. has received contract for grading the new approach to the military highway and another for grading work to be done at the double curve near the Submarine Base.

According to the plan of operations laid out by Mr. Arrigoni the first step will be the removal of about 4,000 cubic yards of gravel and earth from the easterly end of the old railroad embankment. This will provide access to the basin from the military highway. The equipment will then be moved to the Submarine Base where excavations for grading the proposed highway foundation will be made. Rock and earth taken from the double curve area will be taken to the basin in trucks and used for filling.

Given Miscellaneous Shower

Miss Madlyn McCann of Lisbon was given a miscellaneous shower by her friends in the recreation room at the J. B. Martin mill Friday evening.

Refreshments were served at a table decorated by the girls and a pleasant evening was spent.

Among the many lovely things that were received was a Seth Thomas clock, linen and cut glass.

RURAL ASSOCIATION HAS MANY PLANS FOR FUTURE

With the president Walter T. Camp, presiding the 57th annual meeting of the Norwich Rural association, was held Monday evening in the chapel of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town, with a good attendance.

The meeting was called to order at 7:45 o'clock d. s. t. The secretary and treasurer, Leonard A. Hough, submitted his annual report which not only displayed much enthusiasm on the part of members assigned to special duties in furthering the progress of the associations never ceasing activities in beautifying Norwich Town; but disclosed a very liberal balance in the treasury. In the course of his remarks Secretary Hough made mention that the books had been audited by Joseph L. Underwood and found correct. Upon motion of Attorney G. Houghton Gilman, the secretary's interesting report was approved and ordered on file, as were several other matters of interest throughout the meeting.

The chairmen of the several committees reported as follows: Trees, Miss Charlotte Gardner; road, Clyde M. Beebe; meeting house rocks, Frederick H. Wyant; community Christmas tree, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey; publicity, Mrs. Charles H. Lamb. No report was given by the sidewalk committee, because of the absence part at least, of the chairman, Bartholomew Sullivan; nor the committee on health and sanitation in the absence of Dr. Leone F. LaPierre, chairman.

President Camp made mention of the laying of the board walks for winter use, also reported for Robert Bolgson, treasurer of community Christmas tree project in his absence. From this fund there is a good balance in the treasury, which is to be returned over to the association, to reimburse it for the expense of the permanent Christmas tree, set out a few years ago on the Norwich Town green.

A membership committee was suggested and this, with arrangement about the collection of annual dues was left in the hands of the incoming treasurer. Four new members were received into the association Monday evening.

In furthering improvements in this community in which this association is deeply interested, various subjects brought before the meeting for discussion included better lighting facilities in several locations and lights installed where at present there are none at all, oiling Elm avenue, and the spraying of numerous trees about town to protect them. This not only involves the property of the Rural association, but it is earnestly desired that property owners as well, will cooperate in this and thereby overcome existing pests. From time to time different varieties of trees in large numbers have been set out by the association, which is endeavoring to protect them, this being only one factor in its many assembly interests.

Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, chairman of the nominating committee, which included Herbert L. Yerrington and Henry T. Fowler, presented the following list of officers for the ensuing year: President, Walter T. Camp (renominated); vice president (a new office created) Leonard A. Hough, secretary and treasurer, Philip A. Johnson; and the following chairmen on committees: Health and sanitation, Dr. Leone F. LaPierre (renominated); care of meeting house rocks, Troop No. 20, Boy Scouts of Norwich Town, Frederic H. Wyant, scoutmaster (renominated); walks, Bartholomew Sullivan, (renominated); trees, Leonard A. Hough; community picnic President and Mrs. Walter T. Camp; roads, Clyde M. Beebe (renominated); community Christmas tree celebration; programme, Frederic H. Wyant; lighting, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey; treasurer Robert Bolgson (renominated); Mrs. Charles H. Lamb was received chairman on publicity. All were unanimously elected. At the conclusion of business Mr. Hough the retiring secretary was given a rising vote of thanks, for duties faithfully performed during his year in office. The meeting adjourned at 9:15.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY HOLDS GARDEN PARTY

Tuesday afternoon, in the garden at the residence of Mrs. Charles W. Prentice on Washington street, the woman's auxiliary to the Young Men's Christian association held its annual party. Under direction of the president, Miss Marion Lee Bishop, the auxiliary planned the party to help toward raising a pledge of $300 made by the auxiliary in aid of the Y. M. C. A.

Mrs. Frederic W. Cary, chairman for the afternoon, received with Mrs. Prentice. In charge of the tables where punch was served were Mrs. Frederick W. Lester and Mrs. Frank Brigham of Washington street. Miss Marion L. Bishop, Mrs. Shepard E. Palmer and Miss Miriam Campbell assisted, as did also Misses Marion Mitchell and Dorothy Prentice with Frances Porteous, of Portland, Me.

The attendance was large and the results of the afternoon were very gratifying to the members of the auxiliary.

NORWICH EAGLES DID INSTALLATION IN HARTFORD

A large delegation of Norwich Eagles accompanied State Treasurer W. R. Hastedt when he journeyed to Hartford to install the officers of Charter Oak aerie, No. 406, Tuesday evening.

After the installation and business was transacted the Norwich delegation was invited to the banquet hall and was given a fine repast.

The automobile party from Norwich included W. R. Hastedt, E. J. Mullins, N. Petrone, W. Caushey, E. P. Mullins, A. Hastedt, C. O. Wright, H. Herring, J. Shegoda and J. Oney.

These officers will have charge of the installation of the officers of New London aerie on Tuesday evening, June 22.

NORWICH PER CAPITA FIRE LOSS IS NEAR SMALLEST IN THE STATE

Except for Torrington, which had a per capita fire loss of 65 cents in 1925, Norwich had the smallest per capita fire loss of any of the 13 cities of this state, while New London had the largest. Each of these three cities is figured on a population of 30,000, according to the report made for 1925 by the national board of fire underwriters through its committee on statistics and origin of fires.

The Norwich per capita was $1.12, but the New London record was $7.85. In three of the five years from 1921 to 1925 inclusive, New London was in the list of cities having an annual fire loss that exceeded $5 per capita. In 1925 it was $7.85, as already stated, in 1923 it was $5.60 and in 1921 it was $5.86.

Statistics on the per capita fire loss in 1925 in the 13 Connecticut cities with population over 20,000 furnish an illuminating commentary on the very efficient fire protection given to Norwich property holders by the city fire department.

The following are the per capita fire loss figures, the population of the cities being shown in parenthesis:

Torrington (30,000) 65 cents; Norwich (30,000) $1.13; Meriden (27,000) $1.22; Bridgeport (145,000) $1.25; New Britain (68,000) $1.80; Hartford (160,000) $1.86; Stamford (47,000) $3.08; Waterbury (125,000) $3.76; New Haven (179,000) $3.83; Danbury (25,000) $4.54; Norwalk (31,000) $5.79; New London (30,000) $7.85.

The number of fires to 1,000 population were as follows: Bridgeport 6.12; Danbury 8.08; Hartford 6.70; Meriden 4.38; New Britain 6.13; New Haven 7.65; New London 7.77; Norwalk 7.74; Norwich 6.90; Stamford 6.78; Torrington 4.13; Waterbury 4.93.

The amount of fire loss is shown as follows:

CITY	Insurance Loss	Insured and Uninsured
Bridgeport	$134,816	$181,324
Danbury	111,665	113,440
Hartford	259,919	297,729
Meriden	37,608	45,124
New Britain	117,097	122,790
New Haven	675,875	685,780
New London	196,100	235,542
Norwalk	174,626	179,602
Norwich	33,894	33,894
Stamford	138,080	144,639
Torrington	———	19,650
Waterbury	399,510	469,900

BACKFIRE STARTED BLAZE IN MYSTIC MAN'S CAR

The Chalmers touring car belonging to Otto Wiersch of No. 3 Frazier street, Mystic, which burned Monday night at a point in the town of Ledyard on the Norwich-Westerly turnpike, was found to be almost a total loss when Mr. Wiersch visited it on Tuesday afternoon.

The accident happened, he said, when the machine backfired and ignited gasoline from the tank which he had just had filled when leaving Norwich for Mystic. When his attention was attracted by the blaze, he looked around, unconsciously turning the steering wheel at the same time so that the car left the road, crashed through a highway fence and went down a bank until it came to a stop against a tree. He jumped out as the machine was running down the bank and struck his head against a stone, partially stunning him, but he got away from the machine and was found lying on the bank by two petty officers from the submarine base who were driving by. They took him to his home in Mystic.

Mr. Wiersch's hair was singed a little in front and the back of his left hand was slightly burned. He had recently had his car re-painted and overhauled, putting in a new battery and equipping it with new tires. The two rear tires were burned and one of the front tires had a large piece torn out of the rubber. He had no fire insurance on the car.

MAKES $150 ANNIVERSARY GIFT TO HOME MISSIONS

The Woman's Home and Foreign Mission circle of the First Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. William G. Gilchrist of No. 54 Peck street Tuesday afternoon. The meeting opened with Mrs. F. L. Lathrop reading the first chapter of Phillipians followed by prayer. The treasurer's report was most gratifying as it showed $12% in the treasury and other pledges sufficient to make the sum $150, which was voted by the society as an anniversary gift commemorating the 50th year since the home missions society was organized.

The program for the meeting was arranged by Mrs. Herbert Willey, consisting of miscellaneous topics along religious lines and was participated in by a number of those present. It was voted to discontinue the meetings through the summer months and to meet again in September.

LEBANON JUSTICE HELD COURT IN EARLY DAWN

Justice of the Peace John Kinniard and Grand Juror Elmer Lord opened court at dawn Saturday in Lebanon. Despite the unseemly hour, Albert O. Diva of Hall street, Lebanon, charged with violating the liquor law and illegal possession of a firearm, stood before them wide-eyed and profane and argued for a continuance. Diva was arrested at his home at 2 o'clock Saturday morning by Deputy Sheriff George H. Hoxie, Federal Prohibition Officers Stanton L. Briggs and Harry W. Avery and Detective William E. Jackson of Windham county.

The still found in his home, Diva claimed was in Windham county, not New London. His house is on the boundary of the two counties and the line also separates the towns of Windham and Lebanon. The police claimed that the still was in New London county and won their point. Diva was fined $174.75.

WHIST AND PINOCHLE BY A. O. H. AUXILIARY

A successful evening of whist and pinochle was held Tuesday at the Buckingham Memorial by Division No. 18, A. O. H. Ladies' auxiliary, with 16 tables playing. At whist the prizes went to Mrs. Timothy Donovan, Miss Graham and Miss Garvey on the ladies' counters and to James Barry, George Mc Namara and Mr. McAllister on the gentlemen's counters.

In pinochle those to take the prizes were Mrs. Prodell, Miss Enid Senser and Mrs. Dwyer among the ladies and Frank Burke, John Donohue and Mr. Morse among the gentlemen.

The evening of cards was under the direction of Mrs. David Dunn, assisted by Mrs. Annie Niles, Miss May Nolan, Mrs. James Fox, Mrs. Mary Harrington, and Miss Nellie Gleason.

VERDICT FOR $69.30 IN SUIT FOR BUILDING WALL

John Cafaro of Groton was given judgment for $69.30 against Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Vincent, also of Groton, according to a decision handed down Saturday by Judge Charles B. Waller of the court of common pleas. Cafaro sued for $350 damages claimed on a contract for building a certain wall and performing other services for the defendant.

TWO TEACHER RESIGNATIONS RECEIVED BY BOARD

Resignations of two teachers were received and accepted at the June meeting of the town school board Tuesday evening at the office of Supt. E. J. Graham. Miss Mary M. Shannon of the Elizabeth street school and Miss Lillian J. Brewster of the Bishop school are the teachers who submitted resignations. The board appointed Miss Katherine Curry and Miss Serena Bono members of the teaching staff. Beyond the hearing of the ordinary reports and action on bills, etc., little business out of the ordinary was transacted at the meeting.

ADDRESS ON "PROMISES" AT Y. M. C. A. MEETING

An audience filled the parlors assembled at the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The final part of the great Bible feature moving picture, "The Chosen Prince", featuring David and Jonathan was shown on the screen, and it proved most interesting and inspiring to all present. The friendship of David and Jonathan was shown impressively, and the scene of battle in which Jonathan was slain and Saul killed himself was most realistic. The reception to David and the making him king was also touching; the whole picture was very true to the Bible narrative.

Between the reels Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk on the subject of "Promises", and spoke in part as follows: "A promise is valuable only as it is kept. It was beautiful to see the fine fidelity to the oath between David and Jonathan; they were absolutely true when it was hard to be true. The sea of life is strewn with broken promises. Here is a man who takes an oath to be true to his country, but he soon ignores that oath and becomes a traitor, at least, a traitor. Here is a man who has promised to pay his just debts, but he forgets or ignores his promise, and the business man has misplaced his confidence. Far too many of us have not always been true to the vows we made to the church. Many a young man has promised mother as he left home for the big city, that he would be true and pure and noble in life, but soon has forgotten that promise and the result is that he is prodigal, and mother's heart is broken. There are those who have broken the sacred promises made at the marriage altar; now sacred these promises and yet now soon some seem to ignore them, and the result is unhappy homes or no home at all, and hearts broken never to be satisfied again. We Christians have at times been untrue to the promise we made when we accepted Christ as our Savior and Lord, and the result is that we have been untrue to him who is always so true to us. We will never be perfect in this life, but we can all be more true to our promises. There are many noble souls who are loyal to their promises, but many there are who are at least careless in the keeping of them. If God broke his promises to us as we sometimes have broken our promises to Him, what would happen? Let us do our best to be true to all of our promises even though it is hard at times."

Emery Davis operated the moving picture machine.

VERDICT FOR $1,750 IN AUTOMOBILE SUIT

A verdict for Mrs. Lucy Shalkowski, wife of Aleck Shalkowski of 92 Boswell avenue, to recover $1,750 damages from Joseph Paradis of Taftville was given Tuesday afternoon by the jury in the superior court here after the 12 men had been out about an hour. John H. Powelson of this city, foreman of the jury, presented the verdict, which was accepted by Judge Earnest C. Simpson, who then excused the jury and had court adjourned until this (Wednesday) morning at 9 o'clock, standard time.

Mrs. Shalkowski sued Paradis for $10,000 damages for injuries she received when she was struck and pinned against a tree on the night of Sunday, May 24 1925 by an automobile driven by Paradis on the Newent road at the corner of the road to the shooting club.

Mrs. Blanche Shalkowski of Lisbon, a sister-in-law of the other plaintiff, also sued Paradis for $10,000 damages and her case was tried at the same time as the other, but it was taken from the jury and will be decided by the judge.

Most of the evidence was heard last Thursday but Laura Blais and Florida Gladue were called to testify Tuesday morning before both sides rested at 9:30, standard time. Attorney Thomas M. Shields made the arguments for the plaintiffs and Attorneys Arthur M. Brown and Charles V. James for the defendants. Judge Simpson concluded his charge to the jury just before noon, and had the jurymen go out to dinner before they took up consideration of the case in the attempt to reach a verdict.

GROTON DISPUTE OVER BOUNDARY IN COURT

Judge Charles B. Waller in the court of common pleas at New London Saturday heard the evidence in the trial of the boundary dispute in which Amelia F. Safford, of 137 Thames street, Groton, seeks damages of $2,000 and judgment regarding the alleged infringing upon her property of Henry Brown, who owns adjoining land.

The plaintiff claims among other things that the defendant has placed cement posts and threatens to place more which go over on to her property. She alleges that some dirt from one foundation he has made sifts over next to her house and has rotted the wood.

OIL TRUCK OVERTURNED, BUT MEN ON IT NOT HURT

Richard Fargo and Lee Andrews, two New London men, escaped serious injury about 5 o'clock Monday night on the Norwich-New London highway, just north of Connecticut college, when a two and one-half ton oil truck operated by Fargo skidded on the slippery pavements and overturned. Both men were severely shaken up and suffered bruises and minor cuts. The truck was badly damaged. Employes of the state highway department were notified of the condition of the road at the curve and the highway was sanded for about ¼ mile at that location.

WEDDINGS

Leonard-Brennan

At St. Mary's Memorial church, Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, M. Frank Leonard of No. 306 Hickory street and Miss Mary M. Brennan of No. 176 Prospect street, were united in marriage by Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor of the church. Only relatives and friends of the immediate families were present. Rev. Frederick M. Coholan presided at the organ and Miss Elinor Donovan sang Ab Dawning. Edward T. Connelly sang Ave Marie. The altar was prettily decorated with cut flowers, the color scheme being pink and white.

The best man was Leo Maynard and the bridesmaid was Miss Anna Brennan, sister of the bride. The bride was charming in a gown of flesh colored chiffon and carried sweet peas and orchids. The bridesmaid wore a gown of blue chiffon and carried yellow roses.

During the day Mr. and Mrs. Leonard left for a tour of the White Mountains and on their return they will reside in a newly furnished home at No. 585 Main street, East Side. They will be at home to their many friends after July 1st. The bride's traveling costume was a navy blue georgette ensemble.

Mr. Leonard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Leonard of No. 206 Hickory street. He is proprietor of The Photo Shop on Franklin street and is well known in social and business circles throughout the city. He is a prominent member of White Cross council, No. 13, Knights of Columbus and also belongs to other local societies. Both bride and groom are well known and popular with their many friends who extend them best wishes for a happy married life.

Blanchette-Friese

Saturday morning at 10:30 in the rectory of Sacred Heart church, Taftville, Lionel Francis Blanchette of Taftville and Miss Elsie Helena Friese of 61 Bentley avenue were united in marriage by Rev. Henri F. Chagnon. Relatives and friends were present at the ceremony and Miss Henrietta B. Friese sister of the bride, was maid of honor, while a brother of the groom, Aurelle J. Blanchette, was best man.

The bride was charmingly gowned in oyster white georgette crepe with silver trimmings, with a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid was also becomingly attired in a honeydew georgette crepe gown with gold trimmings and she carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley.

Following the ceremony, the bridal couple and guests, numbering over 100, repaired to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Friese, at 61 Bentley avenue, Laurel Hill, where a wedding breakfast was served and a reception was held. Mrs. Charles Walker rendered several pleasing solos on the piano. The home was fittingly decorated for the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. A. Friese and Mrs. Delphine Blanchette welcomed the guests.

To his bride the groom gave a string of pearls, and she presented him a pair of gold cuff links. The bride gave her maid a jeweled bracelet and to the best man the groom presented a gold pen knife.

The bride received an abundance of beautiful and useful presents, including cut glass, silverware, purses of money, cheques, jewelry etc.

Mr. Blanchette who is the son of Mrs. William Blanchette of Taftville, is employed as a clerk at Liggett's drug store. He is a graduate of the Sacred Heart school, Taftville. The bride is a graduate of Baltic public school and of the Windham high academy. She has been employed as a dentist's assistant in the office of Dr. Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Blanchette left by auto for an extensive honeymoon trip through Connecticut and New York. Upon their return they will make their home at 61 Bentley avenue. The bride's going away dress was a Nile green georgette crepe.

LeNoir-Burns

At 9 o'clock Tuesday morning William Francis LeNoir, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Shrimpton of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Mary Elizabeth Burns, daughter of Michael S., and the late Elizabeth McNally Burns of No. 51 Division street, were united in marriage at the rectory of St. Mary's Memorial church by Rev. Frederick M. Coholan. Only relatives of the immediate families were present. The best man was James P. McNally and the bridesmaid was Miss Mary Louise Mara.

The bride wore an Elizabeth blue crepe wedding gown and carried roses and carnations. The bridesmaid's gown was of coral georgette. After the ceremony there was a wedding breakfast and a reception at the bride's home. She received numerous useful and beautiful gifts.

Mr. LeNoir is employed as a clerk in the U. S. postal service in New York city. The bride and groom will make their home in Brooklyn, N. Y., following a wedding trip to Atlantic City and other places.

FUNERALS

Mrs. William H. Fells

With relatives and friends from New York, Long Island, Providence, Mystic, Stonington, New London and other places in attendance, the funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Fowler, widow of William H. Fells was held Tuesday morning at 8:15 from the family home, 33 Baltic street. At 9 o'clock, in St. Patrick's church, the high mass of requiem was sung by the assistant rector, Rev. Myles P. Galvin. The altars had been hung with violet by the Sisters of the parish convent and on either side of the sanctuary arch were lighted the branching torches upheld by the marble angels, a memorial to Rev. John H. Broderick, to which costly church adornment Mrs. Fells had been one of the subscribers.

In the absence from town of the regular organist, the Gregorian mass was played by Miss Helen Dougherty. The solo portions were sung by Roderick F. Sullivan and at the offertory the same singer gave De Profundis. Following the final absolution pronounced by Father Galvin, Mr. Sullivan sang Cardinal Newman's "Lead Kindly Light."

Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May who in conclusion paid tribute to the worthy and edifying life of Mrs. Fells and the inspiring example she has left her devoted children and grandchildren.

There were choice flowers and floral forms from relatives, neighbors and friends. The bearers were Prentiss Hutchinson, a nephew, from New York, Maurice E. Loobv and Charles M. Shannon, with Mrs. Fells' three grandsons, Fred F., E. Joseph and Clarence E. Jackson.

H. Clinton Eccleston

It was with a feeling of sadness and a sense of loss that the residents of North Stonington learned that H. Clinton Eccleston after a lingering illness of more than two years, passed away on Monday evening.

He was the youngest of the family of nine children of the late Avery N. and Sally Ray Eccleston and was born at Island Vale, North Stonington, April 16, 1850. On Oct. 27, 1870, he was united in marriage with Louisa Bailey who survives him.

To this union were born two children, a daughter Vernie, who died in infancy, and a son, Irving Clinton Eccleston who resides in North Stonington. In early manhood, Mr. Eccleston united with the Bethel Methodist church of Griswold where he retained his membership till the end. He served as selectman of the town at several different times and in June 1892 received appointment as postmaster.

The funeral was held at the home in the village June 3rd. Rev. C. E. Burdick officiating assisted by Rev. Lucien Drury. Mrs. Burdick rendered a favorite hymn of the deceased "Take Time to Be Holy."

Among the many beautiful floral tributes were designs from the family, Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Burdick, Women's league and Sunday school, of the Third Baptist church, John Lillibridge, Mr. and Mrs. Albertus Kinne, Miss Alice Eccleston, Mrs. Grace Frink and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wareham Bentley, Mr. and Mrs. William Kilroy, Elmer Miller, Thomas Macnair, Mrs. Elizabeth Y. Main and daughter Jennie C. Main, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur S. Main, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Culver, Mr. and Mrs. George Tryon, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Ives.

The bearers were Reuben D. Cook, Charles E. Gray, S. Frank Palmer, F. Mason Partelo, George W. Stone and George W. Tryon. Interment was in the family lot in River Bend cemetery.

Wladyslaw Zahaba

At 7:15 o'clock Tuesday morning the funeral of Wladyslaw Zahaba was held from his home, No. 67 Sturtevant avenue, with many relatives and friends present, including people from New York and Massachusetts. At 8 o'clock there was a requiem mass at St. Joseph's church, Rev. S. A. Iciek celebrant, M. Chancin presided at the organ and sang Pie Jesu as the waiting hymn. The bearers were six members of St. John's society, Andrzej Gwiardowski, Fanciesk Sakowski, Macep Zainonckowski, Farmiers Suplicki, Jan Brakowski, and Antoni Smurkowski, and burial took place in St. Joseph's cemetery. Rev. Father Iciek conducted a committal service at the grave.

The floral remembrances included the following:

Standing cross from family; standing anchor from J. B. Martin Co.; standing crescent from brothers and sisters; heart, from mother; spray from Sadie Shea; spray from Ethel Smith; spray from C. M. Beebe; spray from Tillie Lewis; spray from Will Boller; spray from the Awizye and Dutch families.

Miss Agnes Connor

The funeral of Miss Agnes Connor was held from the rooms of Undertakers Cummings and Ring Tuesday morning at 8:15 o'clock followed by a solemn requiem mass at 9 o'clock in St. Mary's Memorial church. Relatives and friends were present and there were many beautiful floral forms. Rev. Alfred Driscoll, cousin of the deceased, was the celebrant of the mass, Rev. John J. Reilly was the deacon and Rev. ACADEMY CLOSES SEASON TODAY WITH LEAGUE GAME AT WESTERLY

The Academy winds up its 1926 baseball season this afternoon at Westerly when Westerly will be met in the last league game of the season. It is imperative that the Academy win this contest if they would have a chance at the league title. A win for Westerly will mean that the title and the cup emblematic of the championship will become the permanent possession of the Westerly team. Westerly has won the cup twice before and a victory this year will give them permanent possession. A win in today's game means that the Academy is certain of a tie for the league and a win if Westerly loses its postponed game to Stonington. The Academy has won the cup once and a victory today will give them a chance to take the title in the play-off and get an equal grip on the trophy with Westerly.

Coach Brigham will use Lloyd Jarvis in the box against the Westerly team and if he goes as well against Westerly as he did against Stonington it will be well with the Academy. Goldblatt will do the catching and Mish will play right field, Greene will play left field and Sadinsky will be in center. Burke will be at first; Cimikoski at second; Tombari at short and Yerrington at third.

Westerly will throw its strongest combination against the Academy for a victory means much to the Westerly school. Henderson who proved so effective in the previous game will be Coach Joe Sherman's choice for today.

In looking over an old scrap-book of 20 years ago we came across a box score of a game between Westerly and N. F. A. which will prove interesting to those who played on the Academy team. The Academy swamped Westerly 17 to 4. Jack Flynn, a local letter carrier was a member of the Westerly team. It is hoped that history will repeat itself in today's game. The score of that game follows:

Westerly	ab	h	po	a	e	Academy	ab	h	po	a	e

WINDHAM CLOSES SEASON AGAINST CHAPMAN TODAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 8—Windham High school varsity baseball team will wind up its home season tomorrow afternoon at Recreation park when Chapman Tech of New London, conquerors of Norwich Free Academy furnish the opposition. The Whalers come here with a most favorable record for the season. Their feature accomplishment was the 11 to 2 trouncing administered to the Academy in Norwich a short time ago. Defeated by Windham 3 to 2 in New London early in the season, they are coming here determined to reverse the count.

A large crowd of fans is expected to witness the game. Chapman Tech has an evenly balanced outfit and in Ponsetti one of the best schoolboy fly chasers in Eastern Connecticut. Gero, their star moundsman will probably be sent in against Windham. As "Lorie" Hagberty, W. H. S. premier twirler will be unavailable for this game, either Captain Mello or Dillon will start on the mound for Windham.

PANDERA WINS CLOSE RACE FROM GLEN SPRITE

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—H. P. Whitney's Pandera captured a hard-earned victory in the fashion stakes at Belmont park today, with Glen Sprite second and Lodina, a first timer, third. The time for the 4 1-2 furlongs was 53 2-5 seconds.

The Sun Briar handicap went to Dangerous, at 15 to 1, the mile being covered in 1.52 3-5. Sunspero was second and Rockman third.

Princess Doreen ran the fastest six furlongs seen at Latonia this season, registering 1.12 to win the fifth. She passed the half in 48 seconds. Teak captured second place and Little Visitor was third.

Fairmount's best offering, at six furlongs, went to My Colonel, followed by Princess Pan and Stampdale. Time was 1.13.

MISS BROWNE REACHES SEMI-FINALS AT PARIS

PARIS, June 8.—(AP)—The United States may have a share in the finals of the women's singles in the hard court championship after all, despite the sudden illness of Helen Wills, that seemed at first to crush all hopes. Miss Mary K. Browne, captain of the American Wightman cup team, today restored confidence in a measure when she defeated Mrs. L. A. Godfree, the former Kathleen McKane, one of the strongest among the English women players, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-0.

Miss Browne's victory carries her into the semi-finals against Mlle. K. Bouman, of Holland, and with what is considered an excellent chance of meeting Suzanne Lenglen in the last bracket. Mlle. Bouman today defeated Mlle. Contoslavos of France, 6-2, 7-9, 6-6.

Miss Browne shared the honors with Howard Kinsey and Vincent Richards, both of whom won their way into the quarter finals, Kinsey by defeating the Belgian crack, M. Aslangul, 6-4, 6-0, 6-3, and Richards taking the measure of the sterling young British player, J. C. Gregory, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-3, 6-2.

All three will play critical matches tomorrow, Kinsey meeting Jean Borotra, one of France's topnotchers, and Richards facing Baron Von Kehrling. In the meantime Mlle. Lenglen put out next to meet Joan Fry, the English girl who defeated Miss Elizabeth Ryan, the former Californian, yesterday.

HOFF TAKES FIRST STEP AGAINST A. A. U.

LOS ANGELES, June 8 (AP)—Charley Hoff, the Norwegian pole vaulter, recently barred from amateur competition in the United States, took the first step today in his previously announced plan to bring suit against the Amateur Athletic union.

Having declared yesterday that he would sue for $50,000 damages for alleged defamation of character if A. A. U. officials refuse to reveal why his permit was revoked, the athlete telegraphed William C. Prout, secretary of the A. A. U. and chairman of the foreign relations committee, demanding a full explanation of the suspension.

Hoff said that he intends to send three such messages before placing the matter in the hands of an attorney.

The text of Hoff's first telegram follows:

"Your wire of May 6 says foreign relations committee voted unanimously to cancel my permit for further connection if I failed to compete in San Francisco. I cannot suppose that the committee with a lawyer-chairman, reached unanimous vote without giving me chance for defense unless committee has absolutely proved material on hand. Kindly advise me on which proved material you reached decision May 6 and inform me exactly by wire regarding my status and reasons. Not living in the middle ages, I ought to have at least a right to know why I was condemned without a hearing."

RICKARD IS LICENSED AS PROMOTER IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—Tex Rickard came under the official jurisdiction of the state athletic commission today when he was licensed as the matchmaker at the Yankee Stadium A. C., which will promote the light-heavyweight title match between Paul Berlenbach and Young Stribling Thursday night.

While nothing was added to the bare announcement by the board, observers interpreted it as a strategic move on the part of the commission's license committee to put an official thumb on Rickard for use in the future, particularly in view of the present controversy with the promoter over the heavyweight situation.

Heretofore Rickard has not been licensed personally in this state, the permit under which he has been operating being held by the Madison Square Garden Corporation of which he is president.

HAINES PUTS HARVARD CREWS THROUGH LIGHT WORK

RED TOP, June 8.—(AP)—Head Coach Bert Haines who has been working with the varsity and freshman Harvard crews at the same time took them out separately this afternoon for easy rows on the Thames river in preparation for the annual Yale-Harvard regatta June 25. The first year eight went out at 5 o'clock. The varsity followed an hour later.

All five Crimson crews rowed today at a 1.w stroke, the coaches working to get the men to pull together. Coach Haines does not expect to have any time trials until next week. The two second varsity crews had several impromptu brushes today with honors even.

The majority of the men had examinations today.

GOLF STARS TO PLAY EXHIBITION AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, June 8—(AP)—Jess W. Sweetser, Francis Ouimet, Jesse Guilford, and Dexter Cummings, will play a four ball foursome of 36 holes over the new Yale golf course here on June 19, it was announced by John T. Bonsom, graduate director of athletics tonight. Sweetser will be paired with Cummings, former intercollegiate champion, who graduated from Yale last year, and Ouimet with Guilford, famous for the power and distance of his tee shots.

This game will probably be the first for Sweetser since he won the British amateur title recently.

Twilight League Meeting Tonight

Tonight the managers of the teams that will make up the Norwich Twilight league for the 1926 season will meet at the Duwell club's rooms to complete all arrangements so that the league can swing into action next week.

No doubt the fans throughout the city will welcome the opening of the league schedule which should furnish as good if not better baseball than last year.

Practically everything is ready with the exception of the schedule and the division of the $200 worth of prizes donated by the Duwell A. A.

Kaplan Gets Verdict

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP)—K. O. Phil Kaplan, of New York received the judges' decision over Joe Simonich, of Butte Mont., in a slow ten-round bout here tonight. The rugged western fighter was outclassed throughout but by clinching repeatedly was able to evade dangerous punches and stay the limit. Kaplan weighed 155 and Simonich 152 3-4.

In the semi-final Joe Malone, of New York, 137, outpointed Lew Hurley, of New York 136, in ten slashing rounds.

RUTH'S HOMER IN 11TH WINS FOR YANKEES

DETROIT, June 8—(AP)—Ruth's 20th and 21st home runs of the 1926 season, added to circuit clouts by Pat Collins and Bob Meusel, were factors deciding today's seven inning game in favor of New York 11 to 9. Detroit, which at one time was six runs behind, climbed into a tie in the ninth on Koenig's error. Cobb's single and Heilmann's sacrifice fly, only to lose in the eleventh when the Babe smashed the ball out of the playing field, scoring Gehrig ahead of him. Ruth's first homer came in the third, also scoring Gehrig, who had doubled. In the first inning with Gehrig on second and two out, Ruth was purposely passed but Meusel hit over the fence to score both of them. The score:

MELHORN PLAYS BRILLIANT GOLF IN QUALIFYING ROUND AT FORMBY

LIVERPOOL, June 8—(AP)—Turning in a brilliant card of 71 for the eighteen hole round, William Melhorn of Chicago, American-born and bred player, today came within two strokes of leading an international field of 150 contestants in the first day's play for the English northern professional championship at Formby.

By equalling the course record of 70, George Gadd of Roehampton and W. L. Davies of Prenton took first place and virtually assured themselves a strong position in the qualification test, which will be completed tomorrow with another 18-hole round. All players within 21 strokes of the leader at the close of the first 36 holes will be eligible to continue in the final two rounds of 18 holes each on Thursday, when a prize of 1,000 pounds sterling will go to the low scorer for the complete 72 holes.

Today's play furnished more than the usual round of surprises, not the least of which was the poor exhibition of the American professional champion, Walter Hagen. Hagen's card of 82, if he does no worse tomorrow, may not keep him out of the final 36 holes, unless one of today's leading trio comes within a stroke or two of the record again.

Next to Melhorn, Cyril Walker, former national open champion of the United States, turned in the best round with a 74, tying eight other players for eleventh place.

Jim Barnes, with a 75, was next in line for the American team, the present British open title-holder tying four others for twentieth place. Watrous of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Joe Kirkwood, trick-shot artist, each required one stroke more than Barnes to take twenty-fifth place.

Other scores by the American players were: Tommy Armour 77, Emmett French 80, Jose Jurado, Argentine entrant 81.

Good weather prevailed, except at midday, when there were slight showers. Scores of the United States professionals follow:

Bill Melhorn	37	34	71
Cyril Walker	39	35	74
Jim Barnes	37	38	75
Al Watrus	39	37	76

NO MORE "IRREGULAR" BATTING PRACTICE BEFORE GAMES

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)—National League club owners today abolished "irregular" batting practice before games, announced approval of the new ball, and received reports indicating record prosperity as a result of one of the closest races in years.

Accident resulting from balls hit into the stands at many parks developed recently that all hitting before games to the regulation practice, with the batting cage in position behind the plate.

For years, it was pointed out, groups of players have gathered on the sidelines to bunt and bat fungoes before and after the regular practice sessions. It was the opinion of owners that this custom has produced too much activity on the field for spectators to be adequately protected.

The new ball and use of resin by pitchers has generally improved the game this year, in the estimation of the magnates, who indicated at the close of the meeting that no change in the sphere will be made for some time to come.

With only one more week within which to make player deals for the current season, trade talk buzzed, but representatives of the eight clubs adjourned announcing that they had been unable to "do business" and that their line-ups would not be radically altered during the remainder of the campaign.

Announcement was made that Mayor James J. Walker of New York, as chairman of the Citizen's Mathewson Memorial committee, would call a meeting at the city hall June 24, at which boxes for the memorial game between the Giants and Washington Senators on July 7 will be auctioned. Proceeds will be contributed to a fund for a memorial at Bucknell for the former Giant pitcher.

The league voted to defray expenses of the illness of its veteran umpire, Hank O'Day, who underwent an operation in St. Lou

WESTMINSTER

School closed Friday noon the 28th for the holiday recess to allow Miss Gold to attend the wedding of a friend, recommencing Tuesday morning. Schools close for the year June 18th.

The 26 Revolutionary graves and others were decorated by the church school. Flags given by G. Hale Nutting of Boston, when he made his personal gift of S. A. R. markers, which he had set in concrete were placed in the holders of each marker, being removed at night. This has been the course pursued from the time Mr. Nutting's gift was received. No flags from any organization had marked the graves of the men who helped give the country its independence and who rest in Westminster church yard, previous to Mr. Nutting's gift.

"Ye shall tell it to your children and your children's children unto all generations." Westminster has a remarkably fine patriotic history from pre-Revolutionary through the World war, this should never be forgotten nor lost from sight, was the Memorial day thought at the church.

SUPREME COURT HAS ADJOURNED UNTI OCT. 4

WASHINGTON, June 8—(AP)— The supreme court ended its term today and adjourned until October 4 without decidin: several important cases which have been awaiting decision for many months.

Among them are the case against Mal S. Daugherty, involving the right of the senate to compel him to testify and produce books of his bank at Washington Courthouse, Ohio, in the investigation of the department of justice by his brother, Harry M. Daugherty, awaiting decision since December, 1924.

STATE CONSTITUTION TO BE SHOWN AT PHILADELPHIA

The first Constitution of Connecticut known as the Fundamental Orders 1638-39 has been engrossed on parchment for the first time and has been pasted on cardboard. It is now at the state library and will be shown in the Connecticut exhibits at the exposition in Philadelphia. It measures four feet, three inches by two feet. When framed it will fit the inside door of the charter vault in Memorial hall at the state library where it will be preserved with the charter granted by Charles II in 1662, the second constitution, and the Constitution of 1818, under which the state is now governed.

AMERICAN CROOKS ARE INSTRUCTING PARISIANS

NEW YORK, June 8—(AP) — An American crime wave is lapping the shores of France and robbery "in the American manner" is being practised along the Paris boulevards by young Frenchmen "of the better class" under the tutelage of 5,000 American crooks posing in the fashionable hotels as prosperous business men, according to a French police official who has come to learn methods of crime invention.

Rene Casselari, former police commissioner in Paris, arrived today to study American methods of signals and other means of checking crime. He said that hold-ups of jewelry stores and banks had so increased in Paris that "we have become appalled."

He said that not the Apaches, but the sons of middle class families were taking up "two-gun crime" as the result of examples set them by American robbers who swarmed Europe. These Americans, he asserted, were almost impossible to trace as instead of occupying underworld haunts and the "bright light" resorts where the local criminals flock they live in the best hotels, dress richly and well, and look just like "the average well-to-do American living abroad."

$20 CASH STOLEN AT OAKDALE POST OFFICE

The state police were conducting an investigation Tuesday into the robbery of the Oakdale post office Sunday night when $20 in cash is reported to have been stolen. The thief or thieves gained entrance by use of a key and rifled a cash drawer. As far as can be ascertained, no stamps or mail was stolen.

WESTERLY

BREAK AT WHITE ROCK MILL NETS THIEF ABOUT $84

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 8—Officials of the B. B. and R. Knight Mills at White Rock, Westerly reported to Westerly police early today that $84 had been missed from the safe of the plant when the offices were opened in the morning. The theft was discovered by Charles Nichols, clerk in the office of the company.

Entrance to the plant, according to report of the police was effected by forcing a window open in the office building. It was evident the combination was worked on the safe. No signs of any attempt to blow the safe or use tools were evident.

An inside door of the safe was unlocked with a key taken from a drawer in the office. Force was used to open the drawer, according to the report of investigating officers.

The investigation is being conducted under Chief Brown of the Westerly police. Patrolman Leroy Norman was assigned to the case this morning.

FRANCIS J. M'MAHON GETS OFFICE OF CHIEF ENGINEER

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 8—The election of Francis J. McMahon to succeed Pierce A. Morrison as chief engineer, the granting of permits for the construction of about a mile of new sidewalks and report of activities of the zoning commission for the year featured the 40 annual meeting of the Pawcatuck Fire district held last evening in Pawcatuck.

Mr. McMahon, who has come up in the ranks of the local department has served 18 years with the firemen, the last six as first assistant engineer. He was first considered after it became known Morrison would not run again.

All the other elections were without contest, although a new candidate, Joseph H. Purtill was given the office of first engineer. The elections were as follows: Moderator, Albert G. Martin; clerk, William A. Hilliard; treasurer, Claude J. Spencer; collector, Charles J. Norris; auditors, Albert R. Stillman, William A. Hilliard; fire wardens, Charles J. Norris, Albert G. Martin, Edward W. Taylor; assessors, William A. Hilliard, Frank L. Furness, Richard Morrison; trustee, Peleg S. Barber Memorial fund, Albert R. Stillman.

Chief Engineer, Francis J. McMahon; first engineer, Joseph H. Purtill; second assistant engineer, James McNight; third assistant engineer, Noah N. Morse; committee on garbage disposal, Charles J. Norris, Alexander Marr, Pierce A. Morrison; member of zoning commission for three years, William S. Crandall.

Sidewalk construction was voted as follows: West side of Courtland street; east side of Courtland street and north side of Palmer to William; south side of Downer street; east side of Moss street from West Broad to Cedar street; west side of Liberty street from St. Michael's church to premises of George R. Cella; West Broad street from the Babcock property to the Denison garage on south side.

John F. Gallagher, member of the zoning commission reported sidewalks had been laid during the year on the following highways: Noves avenue, Stanton street, Morgan street, Washington street and Palmer street. Tentative plans were made to construct on Courtland street.

One of the problems pointed out by the zoning commission was in collecting some of the bills from abutting owners of property where sidewalks had been laid. It was stated that the commission did not want to have recourse to law to have the amounts paid.

The report of the treasurer, Claude I. Spencer showed that the indebtedness of the fire district had increased from June 2, 1925 to June 1, 1926 from $5,637.50 to $7,137.50 or $2,152.63.

Dr. Thomas E. Green director of public speaking for the American Red Cross is to speak Wednesday in Westerly at the Colonial club under the auspices of the local chapter. He will also speak at some of the public schools.

Tony Gousalves of Stonington was found guilty on a charge in connection with arrest for molesting a young girl in Stonington borough last Sunday evening when he was presented before Judge Wilcox in the town court Tuesday. He was fined $75 and costs. Gousalves was arrested by Patrolman Ostman on Palmer Lane shortly after 10:15 o'clock Sunday night after the girl had called for assistance from the police. She said that she noticed someone following her and stepped aside to allow the man to pass. He made a hissing sound and a few remarks, she declared. A warrant for the young man's arrest was issued by Prosecuting Attorney George R. McKenna. He was presented on a charge of breach of the peace.

Samuel Lorello, 18, was presented on an assault charge on Peter Lorello. J. H. Weeks was named his guardian. He was adjudged guilty and fined $25 and costs. The case resulted from an alleged family disturbance.

A New Deodorant Especially Recommended to FAT PEOPLE

Send for a Free Sample Today!

FOR YEARS WE have been in touch with fat people and have been able to make a study of their troubles—Swollen feet, excessive perspiration, chafing, sores, are only a few of the annoyances they are subjected to during the hot weather—A reliable effective deodorant especially adapted to relieve FAT people was greatly needed. BON ODOR (a soothing, refreshing powder) has been sold during the past year to our own customers with remarkable success—We have now decided to put it on the market and we will be glad to send every reader of this paper a free sample of BON ODOR, together with an interesting booklet.

We consider BON ODOR the ideal deodorant for everyone but more so for FAT People because while it relieves excessive perspiration it does not entirely suppress the necessary amount needed to promote healthful conditions—Health authorities agree that to keep well a certain amount of perspiration is needed—BON ODOR answers this purpose and will not clog the pores as many pastes and deodorants do. It quickly does away with unpleasant odors and greatly relieves sores, chafing, redness. When shaken on swollen, aching feet there is a great beneficial effect—if a foot bath is taken twice a week with two spoonfuls of BON ODOR mixed in warm water, walking should become a pleasure—BON ODOR is advised for men as well as women.

BON ODOR is guaranteed not to contain any ingredient injurious to the most delicate skin—Sells for 50c a large sized can (comes in one size only) at all good drug stores—If your druggist is out of it order directly from THE SCIENTIFIC CO., 1841 Broadway, New York City.

On sale at Lee & Osgood's, Dunn's or Morgan's drug stores.

MANAGER HOLT, NEW LONDON, SENDS POLICE CAPTAIN NEW TRAFFIC PLAN

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 8—Here are the instructions Manager Holt sent to Police Captain Charles A. Pinney today for the inauguration of the new traffic plan:

In accordance with Sections 6 and 7 of the traffic ordinance, passed July 7, 1924, the following traffic regulations will be effective at midnight on Saturday, June 12, and until further notice.

Bank street—No vehicle or street car shall be driven on Bank street between Tilley and State street, except in a northerly direction. Traffic entering Bank street from Pearl street and Golden street will direct their movement to conform to the movement of traffic on Bank street.

So much of Section 13 of the traffic ordinance as has to do with restriction to no parking after 6 p. m. on the easterly side of Bank street is hereby suspended.

On both the easterly and westerly sides of Bank street, between Tilley street (except in restricted zones) no vehicle shall be parked between the hours of 6 o'clock a. m. and 6 o'clock p. m. for a period of longer than 30 minutes within any one hour. Vehicles will park parallel to the curb and head in the direction of traffic.

Suitable signs bearing the legend, "one-way traffic" will be placed opposite the intersection of Tilley, Pearl and Golden street and a sign bearing the legend "one-way street—do not enter" will be placed at the intersection of State and Bank streets.

Arrows indicating direction of traffic into Bank street from Golden street and Green street will be painted on the pavement.

Order of June 16, 1925, establishing a no parking zone between numbers 149 and 165 Bank street is hereby cancelled.

A no parking zone is hereby established in front of the Capitol theatre building 29-41 Bank street. Iron standards bearing discs marked "no parking between signs" will be placed at the end of the no parking zone and the curbing between the signs will be painted white.

Signs on the east side of Bank St., bearing the legend "no parking 6 p. m. to 12 m." will be removed.

Signs on the west side of Bank street bearing the legend "20 minute parking 6 a. m. to 6 p. m." will be placed on the opposite side of the pole so as to be visible in the direction of traffic.

Green street—No vehicle shall be given on Green street between State treet and Pearl street except in a southerly direction.

No vehicle shall be parked on the westerly side of Green street between State street and Pearl street for a period exceeding 45 minutes in any one hour except on Sunday.

Suitable signs bearing the legend "one-way traffic" will be placed at the intersection of State and Green street and Green street and Golden street and a sign bearing the legend "one way street—do not enter" will be placed at the intersection of Green street and Pearl street.

Washington—No vehicle shall be parked on either side of Washington street, between Methodist street and Tilley street.

Suitable signs bearing the inscription "no parking" will be placed at this section.

Time changes all things and perhaps it is to effect a change in the number of intoxicated persons appearing in the police court here. This morning the business before court was chiefly auto cases. There was one violation of the state laws and two of failure to comply with ordinances governing parking of vehicles. Philip Jewett, whose father purchased a truck a couple days ago, got upon the machine and drove it from Morgan street to Broad street, south; to turn the vehicle. State Policeman George Sisson happened along and observed that Philip was a novice. The officer asked for the operating license of Philip but the latter could not show it and the youth, for he is only 15 was ordered into court. There he and his father explained the situation and their stories won a suspended judgment.

Warren R. Hamilton a New Haven salesman, had business in a Park street store, and stopped to transact it. While he was there his machine was stolen and Hamilton was forced to explain what happened and how it occurred. Judgment was suspended in his case also.

Harry Wolfe was ordered into court Monday, but he misunderstood things and did not get there till this morning. He, too, didn't heed the traffic laws. His failure to do so was responsible on his part for he seemed too dull of comprehension. He was released on payment of $5. Wolfe said he would not be caught again.

John Redfern came here on the way to Fishers Island he said but the way he said it convinced the court that he was telling the truth. He was given a chance to get out of town and hurried to make good. Redfern had $20 in cash and a membership card of the order of Moose. He admitted that he was intoxicated when arrested but said that was a mistake on his part. He declared that he was not addicted to the use of liquor.

Mrs. Nettie Howard of Niantic: Mrs. Joseph Renfield, 76 Golden St., Mrs. George Pelkey and infant son, 21 Huntington street; Mrs. George Brubnis, and infant son, 32 Walden avenue; Mrs. George Moran and infant daughter 18 Lewis street and Mrs. George Brown and daughter Mary of 8 Grand street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Mrs. Rachel B. Hewitt, 83, widow of Alden W. Hewitt, died late yesterday at her residence, 28 Cleveland street, death ending a lingering illness caused by Mrs. Hewitt's advanced years. She is survived by two sons, Wheeler and Albert Hewitt and two daughters, Misses Amy and Alice Hewitt, all of New London. Mrs. Hewitt was born in New London and was a member of the Second Congregational church.

Mrs. Lydia C. Lawrence, about 65, died late yesterday at her home in Jerome court. Mrs. Lawrence had been a sufferer from a weakened condition of the heart for a long time.

Ernest E. Rogers, state treasurer, returned to his home, Pequot avenue last evening after spending a few days in Philadelphia.

Annie B. Keeney has sold to Walter A. Towne a house and lot on West street.

Lillian I. Bindloss has sold an undivided interest in a lot in Gardner cemetery, Ocean avenue, to Henry A. Ratcliff.

Annie Russell Gourley has sold to David Lubchansky a house and lot on Huntington street.

John R. McLean, Fountain court, Medford, Mass., today communicated with the New London police, asking for assistance in locating his brother William F. McLean, 34, who, it is understood by the former, has been seen recently in New London. The mother of the brothers is seriously ill and her physician has stated that if the absent brother communicates with the mother an improvement in her condition doubtless would result. The missing man is described as four feet, four inches in height, has brown hair, blue eyes and the middle finger of the left hand is missing.

William Burmeister, a sailor stationed at the submarine base, was arrested this afternoon by Sergeant John Cavanaugh charged with indecent assault upon a minor female, the girl in the case at first stating that she was 19, later contradicting herself by stating that she was only 17. Burmeister is locked up at the police station awaiting presentation in the police court tomorrow morning.

Burmeister and the girl, who originally comes from Lyme, attempted to obtain a marriage license during the day and that was what led up to the arrest of Burmeister. The girl had not reached the age of consent and her parents who reside in New Haven, had not granted permission for the marriage. The girl has also been residing in this city with her grandmother and the latter, although without legal authority to grant the privilege of her granddaughter to become a wife, had no knowledge of the intended alliance. When the couple sought to leave the city and go to New York to be married, was when they were intercepted by Sergeant Cavanaugh. Then the commission of the alleged assault was revealed on a statement made by the girl.

Sergeant Henry, of Centerbrook state police barracks, notified the New London police late this afternoon that he had arrested four youths, whose ages range from 12 to 16, and who, it is believed, have run away from home. Sergeant Henry requested the New London police to notify him in the event that any of the boys resided in New London.

ELKS SEND CIRCUS GROUP TO SEASIDE SANITARIUM

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 8—Following their practice of several years whenever a circus exhibits in New London, the local lodge of Elks arranged for the entertainment of the children at Seaside sanitarium, Crescent Beach, by members of the show troupe. Today Sells-Floto circus exhibited in New London and hardly had the officials of the circus appeared at the grounds than a committee representing the Elks was there to arrange for the entertainment of the tubercular children. The management of the circus gave assurance that plenty of talent would entertain the children and the assurance was realized, for shortly after 4 o'clock 13 full blooded Indians, two cowboys and 11 clowns, accompanied by a band went to the sanitarium where a varied entertainment was provided for the boys and girls. The Indians gave a series of native dances and Indian songs. The cowboys gave an exhibition of trick roping and the clowns proved the head-line attraction by their stunts. Following the entertainment the troupe was conveyed to a hotel at Crescent Beach where a shore dinner was served. The committee of the Elks consisted of James J. Grudy, George E. Fisher, Francis McCormick and Louis L. Allen.

Fred Nichols, 202 Ocean avenue, made complaint to the police late this afternoon that his son's bicycle had been stolen. The boy went to the show grounds of the Sells-Floto circus and left his wheel on the grounds, but when he returned for it the wheel was missing.

Mrs. Edith Reid, 35 Truman street, reported to the police this afternoon that a fellow was in her house who did not belong there. Captain Charles Pinney and Patrolman George Laboue went to the house in a public service automobile, but when they searched the house no one other than the complainant was found. The bathroom had been closed by a draft and it was the sound of the door closing that gave rise to the suspicion that some one other than those who belonged there was on the premises. When the door was opened no one was found in the room.

Helen, Jean, Mildred and Hilda West, patients in the contagious ward of Lawrence hospital, returned to their home, 263 Thames street, Groton, today.

Mrs. Josephine Hill, 72, widow of Benjamin Hill, of Middletown, died last night at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Frank Etts, 19 Mahan street. Mrs. Hill was visiting her daughter, having been taken ill several days ago.

Charles M. Adams, for seven years a member of the board of water and park commissioners, Groton borough, has tendered his resignation. Henry Lumber, of Fort street, has been appointed to the office by Warden George R. Hempstead. The resignation of Mr. Adams was received at a meeting of the board last night; his reason for declining to longer serve in office was the pressure of other business.

Announcement is made of the wedding last Friday night of J. Donald McMahon, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McMahon, 149 Williams street, and Miss Elizabeth Philbrick, daughter of Walter Philbrick, 260 Broad street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley at the rectory of St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The best man was Charles Barnes. The matron of honor was Mrs. Ruth O'Brien.

Herbert Fern, a student at New York university, is spending the summer at the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Fern, of Ocean avenue.

Police Sergeant Patrick Murphy today received a check for $25 from the American Railway Express company in token of services rendered officers of the express company and special agents of the New York, New Haven & Hartford police last month when Russell Taylor and Joseph Burnham were arrested for the theft of miscellaneous articles from the express company. Taylor was fined $100 in the police court and sentenced to six months in jail, while Burnham was fined $25. Both are married. When the series of thefts, which comprised principally articles of women's apparel, although toilet articles and a small quantity of butter was included in the thefts, was revealed, suspicion pointed to Taylor, who had been employed as a platform man at the Union station. His arrest was made by the officers, but as the express company and railroad officers did not have authority to make arrests in the city limits, the services of Sergeant Murphy were resorted to. After Taylor had been arrested his statements implicated Burnham and the latter was taken into custody. Practically all of the stolen goods were recovered.

Mrs. Otto Aimetti was unanimously elected president of the Italian Ladies' Aid society for the sixth term at the recent annual meeting held in Temperance hall. Other officers unanimously elected were:

Vice president, Mrs. Louise Zuliani; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Caracausa; assistant treasurer, Mrs. Antono Leverone; recording secretary, Miss Adeline Zuccardy; corresponding secretary, Miss Mary Barca; degree master, Mrs. Joseph Coppo; marshal, Miss Rose Caruso; trustees, Mrs. Rose Di Biasi and Mrs. G. B. Musante.

It was voted to give an outing for the needy children of the city at Ocean Beach some time in July.

All officers and committee chairmen of Lucretia Shaw, Daughters of the American Revolution, were re-elected at the last meeting of the season, held yesterday afternoon in the Nathan Hale schoolhouse. The slate presented by Mrs. E. G. Abernethy, chairman of the nominating committee, and unanimously elected, follows:

Vice regent, Mrs. Herbert L. Crandall; corresponding secretary, Miss Elsie Fengar; recording secretary, Mrs. Lucian H. Beebe; treasurer, Miss Marjorie Denison; registrar, Miss Nettie J. Bishop; historian, Mrs. William D. Harris; librarian, Miss Alice Rogers; chairman of ancientist burial ground, Mrs. Joseph W. Dean; chairman of Nathan Hale school house, Mrs. Clark E. Smith; chairman of patriotic education and Americanization, Miss Dorothy Dart; chairman of magazine committee, Mrs. John W. Boylston; chairman of correct use of flag, Mrs. Henry S. Dorsey; chairman of entertainment, Mrs. Edwin C. Chipman; chairman of refreshments, Mrs. Cornelius Holmes; board of management, Mrs. George S. Palmer, Mrs. Benjamin T. Marshall, Mrs. Thomas W. Rogers, Mrs. William S. Starr and Mrs. Hill F. Warren.

Mrs. Abernethy, in behalf of the members of the Lucretia Shaw chapter, presented Mrs. Miner, who is entering on her 10th consecutive year as regent of the chapter, a handsome bouquet of roses. Mrs. Miner, Miss Bertha Perry, Mrs. Holmes and Miss Bishop told of the various activities of the national D. A. R. congress in Washington, D. C., in April.

Following the business meeting Miss Marjorie Palmer entertained with songs.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

"Bride of the Storm," the I. Stuart Blackton production for Warner Bros., opens today at the Palace theatre.

The story concerns a lovely orphaned girl (Dolores Costello), who has been brought up by three Dutchmen, owners of a lighthouse near where she and her mother had been shipwrecked. In order to win her huge fortune, the scheming old grandfather (Tyrone Power) plans to marry her to his idiot grandson Haus (Otto Matieson). His own son Piet (Sheldon Lewis), decides he wants to marry the girl himself, and Faith's life is made up of horrible quarrels.

Finally, when they have sent for a justice to marry Faith to Hans to definitely settle matters, Faith meets a handsome young American naval officer, Dick Wayne (John Harron), who has come to mend a broken cable. Dick falls in love with Faith and after a series of thrilling fights and daring rescues, the three cruel Dutchmen are killed and the girl taken to her native Maryland and to happiness.

"Bride of the Storm," is the screen version of "Maryland, My Maryland," written by James Francis Dwyer and adapted by Marian Constance.

Dolores Costello is the star. Her beauty, personality, charm and sheer dramatic power make her one of the most important stars of the screen. You will love this little Maryland girl.

Broadway Theater

Laughter is the most infectious of all human experiences.

One incident during the filming of The Cohens and Kellys, the Universal-Jewel coming to the Broadway theater on Thursday proves it, which is a return engagement.

Harry Pollard, the director, was making a scene in which Charlie Murray draws the laughter from a large group of extras. The set was surrounded with a fence to keep visitors away and the scene was ordered shot. Inside, extras laughed their heartiest, while outside, people passed by on their business. As the laughter struck their ears they smiled, for no logical reason at all. While they were within hearing of the mirth, they beamed, but as soon as they got too far away, the contagion of joy left them and they became serious again in their pursuit of the fruits of life.

The very contagion of laughter is one of the reasons for the popularity of comedy-drama such as The Cohens and Kellys.

This picture was produced with an all-star cast headed by Charlie Murray, George Sidney and Vera Gordon. Others in the cast are Kate Price, Jason Robards, Olive Hasbrouck, Nat Carr, Mickey Bennett and Bobby Gordon.

In addition to this wonderful comedy feature there will be five Keith-Albee vaudeville acts featuring the variety Sextette.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

The Breed theater is all ready for the arrival of The Fighting Buckaroo. The trail has been cleared so that Buck Jones as the battling Arizonian can appear in the latest Fox Films production in a three day engagement, commencing Thursday.

This new Fox Films picture shows the buckaroo in a fighting race for a girl and a gold mine. Sally Long, one of the 13 baby stars selected by the Wampas for 1926, is the society girl who owns the Arizona ranch on which the mine is located.

The picture was directed by R. William Neill, and the cast includes many well-known players.

OVER 60 TO RECEIVE DEGREES AT STORRS

The 42nd annual commencement at Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs will be held next Saturday, when 60 members of the class of 1926 will receive their degrees. With few exceptions, the class is made up entirely of Connecticut young men and women.

Rev. Dr. James Gordon Gilkey, pastor of the South Congregational church of Springfield, Mass., will deliver the commencement address Saturday evening.

Commencement exercises began with the baccalaureate service in the Storrs church and the dedication of the new Community house Sunday afternoon. Throughout the week various activities have been planned which will draw hundreds of Connecticut's alumni back to Storrs.

The annual Junior-Senior banquet will be held Wednesday evening in the college dining hall, when the graduating class will be the guests of the class of 1927. Following the banquet, speeches will be made by class officers and faculty advisers. President Chas. Lewis Beach of the college will hold a reception for the senior class in Hawley armory on Thursday evening.

Class Day exercises will be held in the new Community house Friday afternoon, after which Connecticut's varsity baseball nine will cross bats with the Massachusetts Aggies on Gardner Dow field. The day's programme will be rounded out with the presentation of one-act plays by the Dramatic club in the evening, and an informal dance.

Commencement exercises on Saturday will begin with the ivy planting at Holcomb hall by the senior women. At ten o'clock, the academic procession will form at the main building and march to Hawley Armory for the Commencement exercises. The ceremony for the naming of the William Henry Hall dormitory will be held at 11 o'clock, with Professor E. O. Smith making the address. After an alumni lunch in the dining hall, portraits of Connecticut's war heroes will be unveiled in the dining hall. A ball game with the New London Submarine Base team will be played in the afternoon. In the evening there will be an alumni entertainment in Hawley Armory.

On Saturday, the last service in the old Storrs church will be held, after which ground will be broken for the new church, which will be erected with funds raised by the Connecticut Federation of Churches.

Attended Boston Meeting

Rev. Charles H. Ricketts spent Monday and Tuesday of this week in Boston attending the annual meeting of the Congregational Board of Pastoral Supply for New England.

POETRY

Swallows

Wide fields of air left luminous,
Though now the uplands comprehend
How the sun's light is ultimate;
The silence grows; but still to us
From you air-winnowing breasts elate
The tiny shrieks of glee descend.
Deft wings, each moment is resigned
Some touch of day, some pulse of light
While yet in poised, delicious curve,
Ecstatic doublings down the wind.
Light dash and dip and sidelong swerve
You try each dainty trick of flight . . .

Hush, once again that cry intense!
High-venturing spirits, have your will!
Urge the last freak, prolong your glee
Keen voyagers, while still the immense
Sea-spaces haunt your memory,
With seats and pangs ineffable.

Not in the sunshine of old woods
Ye won your warrant to be gay
By duteous, sweet observances,
Who dared through darkening solitudes
And 'mid the hiss of alien seas,
The larger ordinance obey.
—Edward Dowden.

Albatross

Time can not age thy sinews, nor the gale
Batter the net work of thy feathered mail,
Lone sentry of the deep!
Among the crashing caverns of the storm,
With wing unfettered, lo! thy rigid form
Is whirled in dreamless sleep:

Where shall thy wing find rest for all its might?
Where shall thy lidless eye, that scours the night,
Grow blank in utter death?
When shall thy thousand years have stripped thee bare,
And sealed thy giant-breath?

Not till thy bosom hugs the ice [illegible]
Not till thy palsied limbs sink in that [illegible]
Caught by the shrieking blast,
And hurled upon the sea with broad wings locked,
On an eternity of waters rocked,
Defiant to the last!
—Charles Warren Stoddard

HUMOR OF THE DAY

I want you uto understand, sir, that I'm a self-made man.

Who interrupted you?—Life.

Teacher—Johnny, you flunked in French. I can't understand it.

Johnny—I know, that's why I flunked, too.—Detroit News.

Boss—What keeps that delivery boy out so long?

Clerk—Oh, he's out with Sal.

Boss—Sal? Who is Sal?

Clerk—Sal Soda.—Progressive Grocer.

Jim is a tremendously convincing talker, don't you think so?

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
New York

Stocks: Higher; U. S. Steel makes a vigorous advance.

Bonds: Firm, investment bonds strong, American writing paper 6s rally.

Foreign exchanges: Mixed; French francs fall below 3 cents, then recover.

Cotton: Barely steady; favorable weather.

Sugar: Easy; increased spot offerings.

Coffee: Lower; commission house selling.

Chicago

Wheat: Higher; unfavorable Kansas reports.

Corn: Strong; revived talk farm relief.

Cattle: Steady; to strong.

Hogs: Firm.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, June 8.—(AP)— Heavy selling of the motor shares, based on the announcement of a price cut by one of the leading manufacturers developed considerably irregularity toward the close of today's stock market after an early period of outstanding strength. Trading showed a substantial increase in volume, the day's sales aggregating 1,562,100 shares, as against 1,057,300 yesterday.

The early buying movement was generally attributed to the unexpected announcement by Secretary Mellon that no new financing would be necessary this quarter, tax payments and other receipts being large enough to meet government maturities and other obligations from now until September. Prospects of easier money rates when the June 15 payments are out of the way, accompanied by rumors of another decrease in the New York Federal Reserve bank rate in the near future, also had a bullish effect on sentiment.

Wall street apparently was not surprised by the victory of Smith W. Brookhart in the Iowa republican primary which was without influence on the price movement of securities.

U. S. Steel common was the market leader, climbing 3 3-4 points to 131 1-4, the highest price on the current recovery, and closing at the top.

Public offering tomorrow of a $10,000,000 note issue for the Bethlehem Steel corporation was announced after the market closed.

Oil shares showed signs of activity and strength under the leadership of Atlantic Refining and Pan American B, but the buying soon peter out. Private trade reports estimated a decrease of 10,000 barrels in the daily average of gross crude oil production last month. Local traction, which have been heavy recently enjoyed a brisk upturn during the afternoon.

Hudson Motors broke from 66 1-2 to 63 1-2 as a result of the price cut, closing slightly above the low for a net loss of 2 points on the day. Other motors reacted in sympathy. Mack Trucks slipping from 114 7-8 to 112 1-2, General Motors from 130 3-4 to 129 1-8. White from 56 3-4 to 55 1-4 and Studebaker from 51 3-4 to 50 1-8, all closing at or near the day's low levels. Pierce Arrow preferred responded to the resumption of dividends by soaring nearly six points to 97 5-8.

Rails were quiet but fairly steady; special strength in Atlantic Coast Line and Louisville and Nashville, the so-called Walters stocks, led to a revival of rumors of a consolidation plan.

The principal commodity market pointed upward. Wheat advanced fractionally in further response to unfavorable weather reports. Cotton prices were mixed the July option closing 11 points higher, while October and the later months sold down 2 to 5 points. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee advanced 1 to 10 points.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent, and remained at that rate all day. Time money rates were slightly firmer, presumably in anticipation of a heavy demand for funds in connection with June 15 income tax, dividend and interest requirements, being quoted at 4 1-8 to 4 1-4 instead of on a flat 4 per cent basis. Commercial Paper rates were unchanged at 3 3-4 to 4 per cent.

Foreign exchanges were inclined to heaviness but late quotations were around the highs of the day. Demand sterling held firm around $4.86 1-8. French francs dipped to around 2.96 cents but later rallied to around the 3 cent level. Italian lire were slightly easier around 3.70 cents. Polish zloty rallied 15 points to 3.15 cents.

After spending a week in Berkley, R. I., with friends, Miss Mabel Mather has returned to her home on North A street.

The Community Sewing class held its regular weekly meeting Monday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

William Pollard and his niece, Miss Emily Pollard of South Second avenue, are to leave the latter part of this month for a vacation trip to England.

Roland Moreau and Raoul Moreau of South A street have returned from a three weeks stay in Quebec, Canada.

Miss Selena E. Adams of North Third avenue spent last week in Hartford, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Seamen. She returned to her home in town with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Adams and family who motored to Hartford Sunday.

The regular monthly business meeting of the Taftville Social and Football club was held Monday evening in the rooms at the Ponemah house. President Allan Boyle presided. One new member was elected to the club, and Fred Ince, chairman of the committee appointed to draw up rules and regulations read his report. It is expected that at the next meeting action will be taken on the new constitution. The new shower bat at the club is now in use.

Ladies' auxiliary, Division 28, A. O. H. held a whist party in their rooms on Merchants avenue Friday evening, which proved to be a great success. The prizes which were donated by the members were awarded as follows: Ladies, first, Mrs. Joseph Larmie; second, Miss Mary Shea of Norwich; consolation, Miss Eva Hyde of Norwich. Gentlemen, first, Mr. Sullivan of Norwich; second, Patrick Hartnett; consolation, Peter McKelvey of Norwich. A social hour followed, refreshments of lemonade and cookies being served. The committee in charge of the enjoyable affair were Mrs. Thomas Phalen, Mrs. Henry Troland, Mrs. Joseph Waldron, Mrs. Patrick Hartnett, Mrs. William J. Malone and Miss Pauline Hasler.

Miss Violet Blanchard of Providence street has been in Hartford attending the graduation exercises of St. Francis' hospital training school for nurses, as the guest of Miss Solfried Fregeau.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taylor of Westerly, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor and family of North Fourth avenue.

Herbert P. Hoyle of South B street has returned from a few days' stay in Boston, with his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hoyle.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Lambert and their daughter, Miss Marie Lambert, of Providence street have left town for Chicago, where they are to visit Mr. and Mrs. Lambert's son, Moses.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Caron of Central Falls, R. I., spent the week end with the former's mother, Mrs. Joseph H. Caron and family of School street.

Thomas Hospod of New Britain, a former resident of this village, motored to town over the week end, and while here, imbibed too freely of the wine when it was red. Officer Louis Paquette arrested him for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor, and took him to the Bastile.

INVITATIONS SENT OUT FOR COMMUNITY PICNIC AT LOWTHORPE MEADOWS

The annual community picnic of the Norwich Rural association will be held on Friday afternoon, June 11th, at 5 o'clock, D. S. T., on the hillside in Lowthrope meadows, Norwich Town. It will be a basket picnic and all are cordially invited. If rainy the gathering will take place the next fair afternoon. Sunday excepted. The retiring secretary, Leonard A. Hough, has this week sent out the above notice to the members of the association. The picnic, however, is not limited to members, as it is a community affair. Judging from the exceptionally large gathering last year, in spite of extreme heat, as well, the attendance in preceding years, the community picnic has proven a popular affair and has elicited wide-spread interest among Norwich citizens from all districts, classes and creeds. Each year a happy company has assembled in this restful spot for a few hours of recreation, just at the setting of the sun, to enjoy an out-of-door luncheon and to enter into the community singing that follows in the evening. The meadows are quite accessible from the rustic gate on Town street, through the attractive archway on Upper Washington street also through the gateway on Schoolhouse lane.

The programme this year is not planned on quite such an extensive scale as last year, although there will be a good time for all and an opportunity to meet friends and old acquaintances. It is hoped by those in charge that all who are interested in music will come and bring their voices with them to help out with the chorus numbers. The picnic each year is looked forward to with much enthusiasm by the general public, including old and young. The entire arrangement is under the supervision of Walter T. Camp, president of the Rural association, and Mrs. Camp and all that is hoped for is fine weather to make the picnic the success it has been in former years.

Among the many things spoken of at the annual meeting of this association, on Monday evening was the picnic.

Attorney G. Houghton Gilman, from whose ancestors this liberal gift of land was made possible to the Lowthorpe association, from which the meadows received its name, mentioned emphatically that in behalf of the Lowthorpe association he was pleased that the picnic was again to take place there. This is one of the prettiest spots in this part of New England and was given for such purposes for the pleasure of Norwich people etc.

Among the formal invitations sent out, the following organizations as in former years, will be expected to unite in the picnic festivities:

The Italie club, Norwich Golf club, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, Arcanum club, Elks, Loyal Order of Moose, Owls, Knights of Columbus, Men's league of Norwich Town, I. O. O. F., Sedwick post, G. A. R., Hope Rebecca lodge, Spanish War Veterans, World War Veterans, St. Agnes Guild, Patrons of Husbandry, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, Pythian Sisters, Daughters of Veterans, Order of Eastern Star, Connecticut Council of Catholic Women, Women of Moosehcart Legion, Norwich Teachers league and Norwich College club.

EXPECT 10,000 FOR I. O. O. F. HOME DEDICATION

An attendance of 10,000 Odd Fellows from all parts of the state is expected for the dedication next Saturday of the new infirmary building at Fairview home, Groton, which has been erected at a cost of $200,000.

Dorr R. Whitney of Bridgeport, president of the Odd Fellows home, will officiate at the exercises, which begin at 2 o'clock. Assessor Frederic C. Burrows of New London is vice-president of the home corporation.

Divine invocation will be delivered by Grand Chaplain Charles H. Smith of Granby, Mass., and the proclamation of the day will be delivered by Grand Secretary William S. Hutchison of New Haven.

Remarks will be made by Past Grand Master Alfred L. Lilley, grand representative, and Grand Patriarch S. J. Austin of Mystic. Past Grand Master Herbert J. Phillips, superintendent of the Fairview home, and chairman of the infirmary building committee, will present the keys of the building, which will be accepted by President Whitney of the home corporation. An address by Grand Master Leo Davis of the grand lodge, presentation of a portrait of Past Grand Master Alfred L. Lilley, and benediction will complete the program.

The infirmary building was recently completed at a cost of approximately $200,000. The committee in charge of the construction of the building consisted of Superintendent Phillips, chairman; Harry Hirsch, New London; Philip Pond N. H.; C. J. Fowler, Thompsonville, and Dorr R. Whitney, Bridgeport.

The structure is built of native stone and tapestry brick, has 50 private rooms with baths, men's and women's wards and operating rooms. It is equipped throughout with every modern hospital convenience and equipment. The building is the first of three such structures that will be erected at the Fairview home. Its completion likewise marks the consummation of plans conceived many years ago.

Fairview Heights have been prominent in the eyes of Odd Fellows the country over since 1871, and it was at the annual session of the grand lodge at New Haven on May 17 of that year, that a committee was appointed to consider the establishment of a home for valetudinary members in the jurisdiction of Connecticut. At a special session of the grand lodge held in the hall of Mohegan lodge, New London on July 19, 1892, it was voted to purchase the property located at Fairview.

On Columbus day, Oct. 12, 1892, the home was formally opened and on April 26, 1893 the dedication was held with appropriate exercises at the home and a parade in New London. Almost from the beginning the need of an infirmary was recognized and the need became more evident as the years went by. Like the establishment of the home, the agitation for an infirmary continued year after year, but nothing definite was done until the annual meeting of the home corporation at New Haven on March 17, 1920, when Sidney W. Challenger of Middletown submitted a resolution providing that the home corporation request the grand lodge to lay an assessment equal to $1 per member upon each lodge, the lodges to have the privilege of raising the money as they see fit, the proceeds to be used in making repairs and providing additional buildings at the Fairview home.

The grand lodge approved the action of the home corporation at a meeting in New Haven. At the next meeting of the home corporation, at New Haven March 16, 1921, a committee recommended the erection of the infirmary building and recommendation was approved and the building committee was named. The grand lodge in session at South Manchester May 16, 1922, appropriated the sum of $275,000 for the erection of the building, and asked for bids on the same. Work was started in November, 1924, and the cornerstone was laid by Grand Master James Cooper on June 12, 1925. The building is now completed and occupied and will be dedicated on June 12.

Jolly Social Club Met

The Jolly Social club met last week at the home of Mrs. Hoy Lee Hill. The evening was spent at sewing and fancy work after which refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary La Valle.

Entertained At Base

Miss Elizabeth King, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Ernest J. King of the submarine base, entertained at a supper party and bridge at her home Monday night in honor of Miss Charlotte Woodruff of New London, whose marriage with Robert S. Skinner of Baltimore will take place in the fall.

WEST SIDE COUPLE FIFTY YEARS MARRIED

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Enos, well known residents of the West Side section, observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage Tuesday at their home, No. 60 Ward street. Relatives and friends called to congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Enos during the day and evening. There was no special observance of the anniversary owing to Mrs. Enos' delicate health.

It was June 8, 1876 that Mr. and Mrs. Enos were united in marriage, the wedding taking place in this city and they have since made their home on Ward street. Mr. Enos is a lifelong resident of Norwich, being born in this city, and Mrs. Enos who before her marriage was Miss Mary Smith, was born in New London.

For some years Mr. Enos was employed at the Cranston Press Works in Thamesville and later he was employed as a machinist by the Lester & Wasley company. Afterwards he became president of the Norwich Automatic Feeder company. Of late years he has led a retired life. Mr. and Mrs. Enos attend Trinity Episcopal church. They have two daughters, Mrs. George O. Hathaway of No. 26 Ward street and Mrs. Frank J. Fagan of No. 139 Rockwell street and one granddaughter, Miss Gertrude Hathaway.

CONNECTICUT IS BEHIND ON C. M. T. C. ENROLLMENTS

This state is 66 per cent behind its quota in application for enrollment at the Citizens' Military Training camps to be conducted during July and August, Colonel Charles Gerhardt of the reserve officers corps in Hartford reports. He also finds that Connecticut is behind all other New England states, Massachusetts having supplied 98 per cent of its quota, Rhode Island 67, Maine and New Hampshire each 60 and Vermont 38 per cent.

Litchfield county is the only one in the state that has supplied more than 50 per cent of its quota up to the present time, Fairfield with 40 per cent and Hartford county with 33 per cent are next in line, the others showing reduced percentages to the 9 per cent in Tolland county.

The Connecticut stations for first year men are in Fort Adams and Fort Terry, both excellently situated on waters of Long Island sound. Coast artillery training is given for this group, members of which must be between 17 and 24. Every applicant is carefully examined, so that each learns his exact physical condition. Complete uniforms of regular military clothing are provided and good, wholesome food is supplied at regular hours. All transportation is paid by the government.

There are three advance courses designated red, white and blue, for those who have been at camps in previous years or who have had military training. Wider fields of service in special branches of the army are opened for these classes, including duty at infantry, cavalry, signal corps and engineer stations.

Citizens' Military Training camps are conducted by the war department under the national defense act. This is the basic law which governs all military training. A 30 days' course is provided for all applicants accepted.

ST. MARY'S PASTOR WILL ATTEND EUCHARISTIC CONGRESS

Rev. W. A. Keefe of St. Mary's Memorial church and his brother, Martin Keefe of Waterbury, who are to attend the eucharistic congress in Chicago June 20-24, will also visit relatives in the west. They are to leave for the west next Sunday evening.

The eucharistic congress is held but once a year in a selected country of the world, Montreal, Can., having entertained the congress a few years ago. Outside of when it is held at Rome, reports have it that the Chicago session will be the most elaborate held in the 21 years of its history. Pilgrims from all parts of the world will attend and prominent members of the hierarchy and laymen will address the gatherings.

The gatherings are to be held at Soldiers' Field and in the public parks of Chicago, as well as at Mundelein, Ill., named in honor of Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago. Special graces are to be obtained by all who receive the sacraments throughout the world on Sunday, the 20th, the opening day. On Monday, the 21st, the special feature will be the mass of The Angles sung by 65,000 school children of the city of Chicago, which is to be reproduced on the phonograph. Pope Pius XI. is to be represented by Cardinal John Bozano, a former apostolic delegate to this country. A large delegation of tourists' parties will attend from New England states. It is estimated that 2,000,000 persons will attend the congress.

PAYS $200 FINE FOR DRIVING UNDER INFLUENCE

At the city court session Tuesday morning John Ladyka, 32, of Second street, was presented before Judge Arthur F. Libby on a charge of driving a machine while under the influence of liquor. From the evidence presented, Ladyka indulged in an election day spree and started to smash things up at his home, afterwards chasing his wife about the house. She called in the aid of the police and Officer John Carroll was sent to investigate.

The officer arriving at the house, learned that Ladyka had departed in his Ford machine. The machine was sighted on Central avenue by the officer but before he could reach it, it had crashed into a telegraph pole near the residence of Dr. Paul A. Gadle. It then started on its way down the street, Officer Carroll jumped on the running board and shutting off the engine and pulling up the emergency brake, brought the machine to a stop.

Ladyka objected to being arrested and a scuffle ensued during which the officer was kicked in the shins, Sergt. Myron O. Morgan was despatched to the scene in the patrol wagon and Ladyka was landed in a cell at police headquarters.

In court Tuesday morning Ladyka pleaded not guilty to the charge. However, he was fined $200 and costs, total $211.50, which he paid. He also had to give up his driving license.

Two men of the same name were in court on intoxication charges. They were arrested Monday night by Constable Fenton. Both were fined $5 and costs and went to jail as they had no money.

Samuel Raucher of Sturtevant avenue, who turned his machine around on Broadway in front of the theatre and started down the street, was in court for violation of the local traffic rules. He drew a fine of $5 flat. He was summoned into court by Chief George Linton who saw him make the turn on Broadway which is a one way street at that point.

A New London man was fined $5 and costs for intoxication and went to jail. Thomas Gryskiewicz of this city was fined $5 for violation of a city ordinance.

FRANKLIN COURT GIVES FINE FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Benjamin Bugacuk of Franklin was fined $25 and costs in the Franklin town court Monday night on a charge of reckless driving. He was arrested by State Policeman Arthur Whitmarsh following an auto crash Sunday afternoon at North Franklin between Bagacuk's car and one operated by Leo Inhof of Scotland.

Andover Machine Collided With Judges

The automobile that was in collision Monday afternoon on Marlborough hill with the sedan of Judge C. L. Avery of the superior court was owned by Charles S. Bart of Andover and driven by Alton Bartholomew. Mr. Bart was the only one of the six occupants of the machine who was injured. He suffered from cuts and bruises, shock and fright.

Field Day At Montville

The annual field day and picnic of the Waterford schools will be held today (Wednesday) at the Montville school grounds.

NORWICH TOWN

Under the auspices of the Home and Farm bureau, the Norwich Town class, Mrs. William Weaver leader, is to hold an all day meeting Saturday, June 12th, from ten o'clock on, at the home of Mrs. Wellington Miner, of Vergason avenue. Miss Lillian Shaven is to give a demonstration on Quick Bread. Anyone outside of the class who is interested will be privileged to attend the meeting. Members and others will bring their lunch.

The June meeting of the Dorcas Home Missionary society of the Methodist church, is to be held Thursday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. George Manning of Taftic. This also is the closing meeting for this year, at which time the nominating committee, Mrs. Frederick H. Bushnell, chairman, is to report.

"Childlike But Not Childish," was the theme of Rev. Albert E. Whitten at the Sunday morning worship at the Methodist church, when the Scripture was Mark 9:35;36-37. And He sat down and called the 12, and saith unto them, if any man desire to be first, the same shall be last of all, and servant of all. And He took a child, and set him in the midst of them, and when He had taken him in His arms, He said unto them: Whosoever shall receive one of such children in My name, receiveth Me: and whoever shall receive Me, receiveth not Me; but Him that sent Me. Other Scripture reference used was I Corinthians 13-11. When I was a child I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child; but when I became a man I put away childish things.

Rev. Mr. Whitten began his services at Gardner Lake Methodist church, Sunday afternoon. Next Sunday afternoon, he will be accompanied by the district superintendent, Rev. Myron E. Genter, who at the close of the service will hold the first quarterly conference.

At the Methodist church Sunday evening, Le Roy Miner was in charge of the Christian Endeavor service, when the topic was, How May We Create and Spread Happiness? Matthew 5:1-12; Acts 8:4-8 (Consecration meeting.) This service usually held at 6:30, is to begin at 7 o'clock during the remainder of the summer, until about the first of October, omitting the Sunday evening preaching service.

A report of the Epworth League convention held in Willimantic during May, was submitted by one of the delegates, Mrs. Richard Carter.

A children's address is to be given in connection with other special features at the Methodist church, Children's day, by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Whitten, at the morning worship. That evening, under direction of Miss Florence M. Brown, a concert will be given.

Significant of the day, special exercises with special music, etc., will be provided at the First Congregational church Children's day, Rev. William C. Prentiss pastor of Plainfield Congregational church, and Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey pastor of the Norwich Town Congregational church, exchanged pulpits Sunday morning. Preach the Gospel By the Way, was the main theme of Rev. Mr. Prentis's sermon. The Christian Endeavor service in the evening, had for its leader, Ralph H. Marsh. How May We Create and Spread Happiness? was the theme assigned.

It is expected that a delegation from this church, will attend the meeting Wednesday at Park Congregational church, by the Woman's Board of Missions, at 10 o'clock.

For the Congregational mid-week service for conference and prayer Friday evening, the topic will be Youth and the Church. Scripture references are Luke 2:52;40-52.

This week Thursday evening closes the ten weeks' session of the Norwich Teacher-Training class, for which a large delegation from the Norwich Town Congregational church enrolled as members. The meetings have been greatly enjoyed and all regret that the term is to close.

After this week, the prayer meeting service will go back to the regular schedule, Thursday evening.

Mrs. Charles F. Geer of 76 West Town street, recently had as guests for a few days, relatives and friends from Waterbury, who motored to Norwich Town. While here Mrs. Geer and guests motored to Providence to call on friends, thence to Clinton, where the party had a shore dinner.

Mrs. Geer recently had as a caller Clement Mathers, of Clinton.

Among Norwich Town people who have changed from a party line also private line to a two party line for telephone service are: Mrs. S. I. Bonney, 2970-W; Miss Rose K. Durr, R. N., 2935-W; Miss Mary Bachelier, 2952-J; and Frederick H. Bushnell, 2956-W.

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE?

If some good fairy should appear, as they did in the old fairy tales and offer to grant your heart's desire, what would you choose?

Wealth? It's a transient thing that brings its own cares.

Happiness? It's an elusive thing which we keep by giving away.

Health? That's the best gift. Health is riches that gold cannot buy, and surely health is cause enough for happiness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound may be the good fairy who offers you this priceless gift of better health.

COMPLETE REPORT MADE ON GILPATRIC'S TRANSACTIONS

Governor Trumbull's Special Committee Makes Final Report —Found Nothing to Criticise in Any Transactions Between Treasurer Gilpatric and Any Agency Other Than the First National Bank of Putnam—Gilpatric's Use of $230,000 of the Funds of Putnam Bank to Buy Bonds For Delivery to the State Treasury Was Only Restoration of Property Previously Appropriated.

HARTFORD, June 9—(AP)—Governor Trumbull's special committee on investigation of G. Harold Gilpatric's transactions as state treasurer submitted to him today the final report of its accountants saying that when $230,000 of the funds of the First National Bank of Putnam, were used to buy bonds for delivery to the state treasury, "it was only a restoration of property previously appropriated." The accountants explained that, as cashier of the bank, Gilpatric had previously misappropriated at the bank the same amount from funds which had been received by the bank from the state for the purchase of such bonds.

The committee, consisting of ex-Governor Marcus H. Holcomb and Morgan B. Brainard, republicans, and Charles G. Morris, democrat, presented the accountants' report without comment.

"We found nothing to criticise in respect to any transaction between the treasurer of Connecticut and any agency other than the First National Bank of Putnam," said the report of Stevens, Wellington and company, auditors employed by the special committee, and they endorsed the letter which Receiver George M. Cohn, of the bank wrote to the governor April 19 saying that the bank had no claim against the state."

State Auditor William P. Bailey, republican, and former state auditor James F. Tobin, democrat, were criticised for "passing over a delayed delivery of $100,000 bonds from the First National bank, of Putnam, as of June 30, 1919, when four other Connecticut banks had made deliveries of similar purchases in the previous March" and action by them in June 30, 1920, "when they again passed over this delayed delivery of $100,000 and in addition $230,000 more purchased in August 1920 and remaining undelivered as of June 30, 1926," was also criticised as a "failure."

When this record was called to the attention of the auditors, according to the report, "they stated to us in a letter under date of April 7, 1926, that all the deferred deliveries were represented by 'subscription receipts'. Of this reply, Stevens, Wellington and company said in the report: 'It is our opinion that this was not satisfactory evidence for $100,000 which on June 30, 1919, was more than three months overdue from a bank of which the state treasurer was also cashier, and entirely inadequate evidence for the same item a year later, then 15 months overdue when at the same date there was another item of $200,000 (making a total of $300,000), which was ten months overdue from the same bank.' It is explained that the interest on these bonds was received at the state treasury.

Among the irregularities which had been called to public notice before the investigation started were the purchase of fourth Liberty loan bonds for the teachers' pension fund in August, 1920, and for the sinking fund in November 1920. Scovell, Wellington and company in their report say that they undertook to establish the facts in respect to these two transactions and "to review all of Mr. Gilpatric's similar operations as state treasurer, to determine if possible whether there were any other irregularities in the purchase and sale of securities." Later on in the report, they say that they "investigated every purchase of securities made by Mr. Gilpatric during his term as state treasurer."

There was a purchase of $200,000 par value of fourth Liberty loan bonds for the teachers' pension fund for which the state paid the Putnam bank in August, 1919, but on which no delivery was made until January 1921. None of the particular bonds which the First National bank, of Putnam, bought to fill this order were in fact ever delivered, but these bonds were diverted for the benefit of the bank and the bonds which were delivered in January, 1921, after a delay of 17 months, were in fact part of a new order of $300,000 purchased for the sinking fund and appropriated by Mr. Gilpatric to make the delayed delivery. In the meantime the state paid $30,000 for bonds for the annuity fund which the Putnam bank also converted to its own use.

At this point Mr. Gilpatric was in the position of owing to the state of Connecticut $330,000 par value of bonds on which he was in a position to deliver only $100,000. Facing this situation he manipulated funds of the Putnam bank so that in February, 1921, he had purchased the bonds necessary to make up the shortage of $230,000, and on March 9, 1921 the account of the state was squared by the delivery of $330,000.

In addition to these irregularities in the transactions of the fourth Liberty loan, Scovell, Wellington and company investigated the transactions between the state of Connecticut and the First National bank, of Putnam, in regard to the fifth or Victory loan.

Their report says: "In our opinion the First National bank, of Putnam, had the benefit of $115,000 belonging to the state of Connecticut from the time installments began in May 1919 until the transaction closed in December 1919."

In addition to the important irregularities above mentioned, the report cites two irregularities in regard to a mortgage loan for $40,000 on which no papers were recorded for one month and another loan for $15,000 on which no papers were recorded for over eight months.

The report also cites the temporary conversion for the benefit of the bank of a $5,000 bond from a total of $30,000 purchased by the state in November, 1922, with delivery deferred until February 1923. This transaction is in substance like the irregularities in respect to $200,000 and $20,000 above referred, except that the time interval was brief and only one out of ten $5,000 bonds was converted.

$375,000 FOR REPAIRS OF WHITE HOUSE REQUESTED

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(AP)—Long delayed repairing of the white house, including the construction of a new roof was recommended to congress today by the budget bureau with the approval of President Coolidge under a programme to be carried out next summer at an estimated cost of $375,000.

The request for an appropriation includes $25,000 for temporary living quarters for the President and Mrs. Coolidge should they be forced to leave the executive mansion during the six months it is estimated the work will require.

While detailed plans are yet to be worked out by the office of public buildings and grounds, the programme calls for putting in steel trusses and a new ceiling to the second floor as a step in making the mansion safer and as nearly fireproof as possible.

For several years the roof, with its old timbers which were put in when the mansion was rebuilt after it was burned by the British in 1814, has been regarded as unsafe and it is planned to supplant the timbers with steel trusses and sheath the roof with copper.

New plumbing also probably will be installed, with brass pipes supplanting iron pipes which are rusty and worn to the point that full water pressure cannot be turned on. A number of other minor changes are contemplated, such as removing old and disused electric wiring, but when completed no visible change in the mansion itself will be apparent with the rooms and arrangement remaining the same as at present.

Minor repairs are to be made this summer on the white house under an appropriation already made calling for painting the interior and installing a new elevator.

President Coolidge is understood to be adverse to moving from the white house for the repairs and it is regarded as possible that the heavy work can be completed in two months or more next summer during his absence on vacation.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Appropriation of $375,000 to repair the white house was asked of congress.

Department of agriculture reported the condition of spring wheat on June 1 as the poorest on record.

Inquiry into senatorial campaign expenditures commenced before a senate committee with Governor Pinchot on the stand.

The presidential prohibition order was upheld by the senate judiciary committee; its non-use for present was indicated.

Over the Georgia senatorial protest President Coolidge nominated William I. Tilson as the new federal judge in that state.

SOUND OF HEART BEATS ON PHONOGRAPH RECORDS

BOSTON, June 9.—(By The A. P.)—For the first time, in the history of medical science, the sound of heart beats has been recorded on phonograph records and reproduced for a class of physicians. A hundred doctors from all parts of the United States and from Canada, gathered at the Massachusetts General hospital, today and listened simultaneously through individual stethoscopes to heart beats engraved on phonograph records. The sounds were recorded and reproduced in such minute detail that they served for studies in diagnosis.

The invention, designed for analysis of study of both cardiac and respiratory disorders, is expected to be far reaching significance to both the medical profession and the general public. The recording and reproducing devices were developed by Dr. Richard C. Cabot of Boston, noted physician and educator, and Dr. Clarence Gamble of Philadelphia, and they crown 18 years of study and experimentation. Engineers of the Western Electric company and the Columbia Graphaphone company co-operated in the development.

GANGSTER GIVEN 25 TO 30 YEARS IN STATE'S PRISON

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 9.—(AP)—John Miller, 24 year old Brooklyn, N. Y., gangster, was given 25 to 30 years in state's prison today for his part in a $50 grocery store hold-up here a month ago. Judge Flynn imposed sentence after Miller pleaded guilty to robbery while armed with intent to kill if resisted.

"There is only one place for these men who go about with loaded guns looking for victims when by the grace of God they do not take a life," said Assistant District Attorney Bushnell in moving for sentence. "That place is state's prison. And when they do take a life, there is also only one place for them—the electric chair."

Miller was one of four men who drove five customers and two employes to the back of a store here, clubbed the proprietor with a revolver butt and escaped with $50 from the cash register. The men were arrested the next day in Darien, Conn., but the others were turned over to the New York police for questioning in connection with three Brooklyn murders.

WILD CHASE IN HARTFORD AFTER A BOND JUMPER

HARTFORD, June 9.—(AP)—Traffic Policeman Max Kole, of East Hartford fired five shots, none of which took effect, in a wild chase through traffic and along the Connecticut river bank this afternoon, which finally resulted in the surrender of Anthony Scaglia, of Gilsonbury, wanted by the Hartford police on charges of theft and bond jumping. The chase lasted 15 minutes.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

HONOLULU, June 9—(AP)—Sanford B. Dole, president of the republic of Hawaii at the time of its annexation by the United States, died today.

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—Five-point fringers are the latest thing in bags for the London shingled girl. The middle vandyke point reaches the bridge of the nose and two points on each side come down to the eyebrows. These points are usually worn with curls over the ears.

WARSAW, June 9.—(AP)—A threatened duel between former Premier Skrzynski and General Szeptycki, growing out of a quarrel over the recent coup d'etat in Poland has been dropped on the suggestion of Count Skrzynski, who proposed that the quarrel be referred to a mutual court of arbitration.

LONDON, June 9.—(AP)—Brigadier General Edward A. Plunkett was knocked down by a motor van while crossing Piccadilly. He died on the way to the hospital. General Plunkett served in the Nile expedition, in the Balkan war and the great war, with marked distinction. He was born in 1870 and was retired with the honorary rank of brigadier general.

LISBON, Portugal, June 9.—(AP)—The new government set up following the military coup under Generals Gomes Da Costa and Cabecadas is considering the dissolution of parliament. Army leaders are reported to favor the appointment of General Da Costa as provisional president until another parliament is elected.

HAVE PROTESTED FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION

NEW BRITAIN, June 9.—(AP)—A letter of protest holding the Fourth of July celebration in Walnut Hill park here this year, was written by Superintendent T. Eben Reeks, of the New Britain General hospital to Mayor Gardner C. Weld today. For several years past this park has been used for the fireworks celebration at night, each year over a similar protest of the superintendent. While Mayor Weld gave out no official statement it was reported that he had assured the hospital authorities that another location would be selected.

Harry C. Jackson, head of the public amusement commission, who is also state commander of the American Legion, is in charge of the programme. Walnu. Hill park is one of the best parks of the city to hold the demonstration as over 60,000 persons can watch them from the hillside. At the top of the hill, however, is the hospital and the authorities claim that the noise of the bombs and large crackers is harmful to the patients.

In his letter Dr. Reeks wrote that the celebration of last year was responsible for the death of one patient and to painful suffering of many others. He described in particular the case of one 10-year-old girl who was in the institution at that time. It was pointed out that there were several other suitable places for the festivities this year and in all probabilities one of them will be decided upon soon.

FURTHER TESTIMONY IN NEW HAVEN POLICE CASE

NEW HAVEN, June 9.—(AP)—Chief of Police Philip T. Smith while on the stand in the case of the four probationary sergeants who were reduced in rank and started mandamus proceedings on the question of the legality of the board's action, said that he had not recommended that they be demoted. Chief Smith also explained that probationary appointments were frequently made so that a really competent man, whose mental rating was not as high, might be chosen.

Most of the afternoon session was taken up with the summaries of the case by the attorneys before Judge Arthur F. Ells. Attorney George W. Crawford, representing the plaintiffs, William Doherty, James McTirnan, Michael Quinn and Thomas Reynolds, defined a probationary sergeant as a "grade a patrolman who was given a definite trial period of six months for the appointment. He declared that the maintenance of the merit system and the maintenance of the morale of the force were of vital importance.

Attorney Samuel A. Persky, representing the defendants claimed that the commissioners had acted in a fair and equitable manner in demoting the men.

At the trial it was also claimed that the recommendation for a reduction in the personnel applied to captains and not to sergeants.

SAVED FROM ELECTROCUTION BY RUBBER-SOLED SHOES

NEW HAVEN, June 9.—(AP)—A pair of rubber-soled shoes which acted as a partial insulator when 11,000 volts of electricity passed through his body, is believed to have saved the life of Peter Carlin, 30, of this city, today. Carlin, an electrical engineer employed by the New Haven road, was about to remove a defective pole from an electric engine in the West River railroad yards, when the pole slipped from his grasp and touched the wires overhead.

He was still touching the pole and the shock threw him forcefully on his face. Fellow workmen seeing his predicament rushed to his assistance and removed him to the ground. He was taken to Grace hospital where though suffering from severe burns on head, hands and body it was said he had a good chance of recovery.

BANQUET OF VETERANS OF THE NEW HAVEN ROAD

NEW HAVEN, June 9.—(AP)—John H. Keeler, of New Haven, was elected president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Veterans' association at the annual meeting and banquet at Savin Rock tonight. Edward J. Pierson, president of the road, was one of the principal speakers at the meeting which was attended by representatives of every state through which the company operates.

The other officers elected were vice president, W. P. Ingersoll, Great Barrington, Mass.; secretary, Fred J. Curtiss, New Haven; assistant secretary, A. H. Mays, New Haven. Other speakers were Edward E. Regan, general superintendent of the railroad; John J. Shaveley, of the Waterbury division and Ben S. Chapin, of Newark, N. J., who is editor of the Railroad Employe.

FIVE LIVES LOST WHEN LOG JAM CRUSHED BOAT

ST. MAURICE DE GASPE, Que., June 9—(AP)—Five men lost their lives today when a boat from which they were breaking up a huge log jam, was crushed by the timber as it rushed down stream. The dead are all of this city.

State's Att'y Alling Exonerated by Judges

Committee of Superior Court Judges Unanimously Recommends That the Charges Be Dismissed.

NEW HAVEN, June 9—(AP)—By a unanimous vote of the judges of the superior court charges brought last year against State's Attorney Arnon A. Alling of New Haven county by the Public Welfare association have been dismissed, Chief Justice George W. Wheeler announced today. The judges voted for the dismissal of the charges at their annual meeting in Hartford, June 7, at which time they accepted a report of the committee appointed with power to act concerning the complaints against Mr. Alling.

The committee Chief Justice Wheeler, Associate Justice George E. Hinman and Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin and Allyn L. Brown, in including its report says:

"Since this association (the Public Welfare association) has entirely failed to support its charges and since we have not received from any source an information of any kind touching the above charges (the very general charges against State's Attorney Alling) during the time they have been before us, we submit this report and request that it be received, and the committee discharged from further service and we recommend that the above charges of the Public Welfare association be dismissed."

LOUIS SHERRY, FAMOUS RESTAURATEUR, IS DEAD

NEW YORK, June 9—(AP)—Death today claimed Louis Sherry, restaurateur of international fame.

He had been ill several weeks in his apartment at the Hotel Ambassador.

Death was unexpected, however, and none of his immediate family were with him at the end. A doctor and a nurse alone attended. Thus passed on one of New York's most noted bonfaces.

The restaurant bearing his name at 44th street and Fifth avenue was for years a center about which the social list of the old 400 revolved. The name Sherry's was synonymous with social success.

The original Sherry's came into being at 38th street and Sixth avenue. It was started with a capital of $1,300 and its patronage was drawn from the host of friends its proprietor had made during a period of service with the old Brunswick hotel. Fame and fortune came rapidly to Mr. Sherry and in 1919 he retired as one of New York's foremost caterers, after entertaining notables from the world over.

Louis Sherry was born in New England about 70 years ago. He began his hotel and restaurant career in Montreal and came to New York with experience gained there.

His name will be carried on by Sherry's Inc., a leading Park avenue restaurant.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

POLICE USED TEAR BOMBS ON PRINCETON STUDENTS

PRINCETON, N. J., June 9—(AP)—Two thousand Princeton students in riot on the campus were dispersed with tear bombs tonight after the mob had attempted to take three prisoners from the police.

The riot took place when firemen attempted to extinguish a blaze the students started on top of Blair tower. When the firemen arrived on the scene a large crowd gathered and attempted to "mob" them. Police were called, and four tear bombs were thrown into the milling mass. The crowd scattered but regathered at police headquarters and shouted demands for release of the prisoners.

At a late hour the crowd was spread from the police station to Lincoln highway tying up traffic on the road. Several members of the senior council exhorted the mob to scatter. No injuries were reported.

FIREMEN OVERCOME AT $200,000 FIRE IN LOWELL

LOWELL, Mass., June 9—(AP)—A fire for which a general alarm was sounded burned out the interior of a four story brick business block today causing a loss of $200,000. The structure is owned by the S. H. Harrison company, was formerly known as the Dartmouth building and is located in the business district at the corner of Shattuck street, on Merrimac street. This is only a hundred yards from the scene of a disastrous fire that wiped out the city's largest department store five days ago. The loss in the department store fire was $1,500,000.

Two firemen were overcome by smoke today in fighting the flames which destroyed the stock of the Samuel H. Thompson Hardware company, principal occupant of the Harrison block and Lowell's largest hardware firm. Stores of oils, paints, varnish and gasoline, and a small stock of explosives in the hardware store made the fire a difficult one to fight. For a time the adjoining Y. M. C. A. building was threatened.

LONE BANDIT ROBBED ABBEVILLE, ALA., BANK

ABBEVILLE, Ala., June 9.—(AP)—A lone robber today attacked Assistant Cashier Arthur Searcy of the Abbeville state bank, locked him in the vault and escaped with $5,000. Searcy was alone in the bank at the time. No one else saw the robber enter or leave. Cashier O. M. Stegall found Searcy some time later and rescued him.

OBITUARY.

Col. H. Martin Brown.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 9.—(AP)—Col. H. Martin Brown, vice chairman of the board of the Industrial Trust company of this city and a director in many Rhode Island corporations, died here late this afternoon after a long illness. He was 76 years old and was born in Bolton, Conn.

Col Brown was president of the Industrial Trust company for 12 years, declining re-election in 1924. Previously, he had been treasurer and general manager of the U. S. Bobbin and Shuttle company. He was long prominent in republican political circles, having been a presidential elector in 908 and a delegate to the republican national convention in 1904. He was colonel and chief of staff under Governor Brown, his brother, from 1832 to 1835. He leaves a wife and two daughters.

France to Resort to Drastic Economies

An Appeal is to Be Made to Consumers to Avoid Waste of All Kinds, Particularly Bread and Sugar.

PARIS, June 9—(AP)—The Briand cabinet, which lately has acquired the habit of wobbling every time the premier left Paris and was reported in a precarious state last night, showed itself sturdy today when its chief returned from the league of nations headquarters.

At two long meetings, the cabinet discussed the important questions of enlargement of the ministry and protection of the franc. When the sessions were over, the members announced every thing was going well. Finance Minister Peret, instead of resigning, outlined a series of measures destined to tighten the hold on tax payers and suggested means to reinforce the movement for protection of the franc. He told the department heads that they must plan closely when putting in their demands for appropriations in the budget of 1927.

It was a day devoted to a cry for economies and restrictions. The committee of four ministers, charged with the task of studying measures to decrease importations, made a preliminary summation of their findings, setting out the details of their conclusions.

They are expected to appeal to consumers to avoid waste of any kind particularly of bread and sugar. It was intimated the proposed economies might be effected without resorting to bread cards and sugar cards as used during the war.

Gasoline is understood to be a product which is consuming particular attention. An investigation is being made as to what possible saving there would be through restrictions on the importation of motor cars. The principal French imports—copper, wool, cotton and wheat—seem to offer little chance for retrenchment. Economy in bread consumption is not likely to show its effect in time to avoid the necessity of importing wheat to carry over to the new crop, while the French export trade would be disastrously hit if the importation of raw materials were reduced.

The possibility of forming a coalition cabinet by adding new members from the different parties to the present ministry is still holding attention. One member of the cabinet said today that Premier Briand was ready to adopt the plan for a national union ministry provided the socialist leaders Blum and Auriol would accept portfolios along with leaders of the moderate and conservative groups.

CONCEALED SLEEPING SICKNESS FROM WIFE

TRENTON, N. J., June 9.—(AP)—Concealment by her husband of the fact that he was a victim of sleeping sickness was held by special Master Charles E. Roberts in a report to Chancellor Walker today as sufficient grounds for the granting of a decree annulling the marriage of Mrs. Kathleen Drye McAlevy, of Jersey City, to former Lieutenant Vincent McAlevy, of Pawtucket, R. I.

According to the testimony of the wife, she was married to McAlevy at Jersey City in July, 1923.

For a time the couple lived in the Philippines, where McAlevy was stationed. The wife returned to this country following the alleged confession of the army officer that he was suffering from the disease.

INTERIOR OF TUG BOAT JOHN GLEN WAS BURNED

BRIDGEPORT, June 9.—(AP)—Hundreds of spectators lined the Stratford avenue bridge and watched flames devour the interior of the tug boat John Glen which was tied up at the Park City dock owned by the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. The boat owned by the Bridgeport Towing line was valued at $35,000 was badly damaged by the flames, which were extinguished by firemen despite many hazards. Neither fire officials nor the president of the company, Robert Ferrett, would estimate the damage although they agreed that the loss would be heavy.

GINSBERG MYSTERY HAS BEEN CLEARED UP

BRIDGEPORT, June 9.—(AP)—The mystery surrounding the sudden disappearance last April 12 of Joseph Ginsberg, 343 Bond street, former president of the Gray Line Bus corporation, has finally been cleared. He has been located in the United States army and is stationed at Fort Jay, Mare Island.

According to Mrs. Ginsberg tonight, who was reticent to discuss the latest developments in the case, her husband communicated with her, but police say that the man was in this city in plain clothes last Saturday.

SPEAKERS OF PROMINENCE AT EASTERN POINT JUNE 23

HARTFORD, June 9—(AP)—Philip H. Gadsden, of Philadelphia and Major J. S. S. Richardson, of Philadelphia will be among the speakers in the public utilities section of the 27th annual convention of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce in Eastern Point on June 23. The committee in charge of the program includes J. K. Punderford, New Haven; Irvin W. Day, Waterbury; Samuel Ferguson, Hartford; Harrison B. Freeman, Hartford; Benjamin B. Spock, New Haven; J. D. Veitch, New Haven, and E. G. Mooney, Hartford.

TWO BOYS CRUSHED AGAINST TREE BY AUTO

QUINCY, Mass., June 9—(AP)—Two boys were killed today when crushed against a tree by an automobile. The victims, Jakes Gallagher, Jr., 14 and George R. Doucette, 12, were struck by a machine driven by Mrs. Ivy MacDonald as it rounded a corner and crashed into the tree. Both were killed instantly. No charges were made against Mrs. MacDonald pending an inquest.

NO IMMEDIATE CHANGE IN PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT

Senate Judiciary Committee Split 4 to 3 on Legality of President Coolidge's Order to Utilize State, County and Municipal Police as Federal Prohibition Agents—Minority Report Has Been Filed by Senator Cummins—The Majority Report, Sustaining the Legality of the Order, Has Been Withheld Until Today to Permit Revision.

WASHINGTON, June 9—(AP)—No immediate use of President Coolidge's order to utilize state, county and municipal police as federal prohibition agents is contemplated by treasury officials, although its legality was upheld today by a majority of the senate judiciary committee.

Although the order was signed by the president more than a month ago, no appointments have been made under it and it has been decided that none will be made unless a request is received from prohibition administrators in the field.

The order was issued primarily to meet a situation in California, but word came today from Ned M. Green, administrator there, that the government's plan for that state probably would be dropped. He said the usefulness of the order was "likely to be destroyed" by opposition of state and local officials.

The senate committee, split as to the legality of the order, Senators King, Utah, and Caraway, Arkansas, democrats, filing minority reports in which they contended the order struck a blow at the very life of the state and republic.

After the minority reports had been filed Chairman Cummins informed the senate that the majority report would be held back until tomorrow to permit revision.

In submitting his report, which he said was his individual views, Senator Caraway declared that if the principle of the order was carried out the president could confer federal commissions on state officers and control the states entirely.

"Such a policy would destroy the state and set up a centralized," he added. "Under this doctrine the state could be controlled by these state federal office and no measure would be transferred to federal authorities.

"The majority report of the constitution gives the president authority because it has no provision in it. The federal constitution is not a constitution of inhibitions but one of permissions. All authority not granted to the federal government is reserved to the states by the constitution."

Senator King declared the adoption of officers would create a dictatorship, the powers of the federal government and weaken the states and "tend to compound in one mass the states and federal governments."

"There are those who contend for a unitary system and centralization of government. They argue that such a consolidation would result. This I deny, but it is certain that dangerous conflicts and irreparable loss and the end of local independence and home government is the consequence of the destruction of the sovereignty and independence of the states and unimpaired, would be seriously impaired."

TO STUDY THE FEDERAL ESTATE TAX AND AID PLANS

HARTFORD, June 9—(AP)—Governor Trumbull's committee on federal relations, appointed to study the effect on Connecticut of the federal estate tax law and federal aid programs, will meet for the first time Friday following a dinner here, former Lieutenant Governor Zenus W. Bliss, of Rhode Island, chairman of the tax commission in that state and Harold James, a nationally known tax expert will be present.

Governor Trumbull will meet with the members who are state Senator Frederic W. Walcott, of Norfolk, Henderson H. Hewitt, of New Haven, Elijah Rogers, of Southington and State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett.

The beginning of the committee's study to determine whether recent federal enactments infringe on state rights comes almost simultaneously with the opening of campaigns in several states against the federal estate or inheritance tax law.

Florida, which has no state inheritance tax law, has begun litigation in the supreme court to enjoin the treasury department with a view to enjoining that department from collecting the federal estate tax in that state, and also with the hope of having the measure declared unconstitutional. A similar suit is contemplated by the attorney general of Alabama, while like Florida, has no inheritance tax.

CONGRESSMAN SEARS LEADS RUTH BRYAN OWEN

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 9—(AP)—Congressman W. J. Sears, incumbent, took a lead of 223 votes over Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, in the race for the democratic nomination for election to congress from the Fourth Florida district, after a day of suspense in which one candidate first had a lead and then the other.

It was belated returns from Monroe county, a Sears stronghold, that turned the tide definitely for Sears. The city of Key West turned in 1,534 for Sears and 429 for Mrs. Owen at the time when Mrs. Owen had a margin of 149 votes or so. The count, with 14 small scattered precincts missing from 336 in the district, shows Sears 20,146; Mrs. Owen 19,823. The battle which raged along the Florida east coast in the primary campaign brought out the largest vote the Fourth district ever has cast in an off-year democratic primary election.

Interest in the Owen-Sears contest far outshone that in any other primary race in the state.

INDICTED FOR OFFERING GRATUITIES TO POLICEMEN

BOSTON, June 9—(AP)—Nathan Ullian, a Boston attorney, was indicted today in the so-called "take the rap" cases under the investigation by the Suffolk grand jury. He was charged in 12 counts with "promising, giving and offering gratuities" to two Boston policemen with intent to influence their action on prohibition enforcement.

The investigation which had resulted previously in the indictment of five police officers, an attorney and several other persons, began when a defendant in the Roxbury court admitted that he had been retained to appear for the real offender. The district attorney's office charged that the practice of hiring bogus defendants to "take the rap" for those actually named in liquor cases was widespread.

COW TREE FROM HONDURAS THAT GIVES REAL MILK

NEW HAVEN, June 9—(AP)—A "cow-tree" one that gives real milk, was among the new species of plant life collected by Professor Samuel J. Record of the Yale School of Forestry on his trip to British Honduras and Guatemala last winter.

"At the first stroke of the native's axe a creamy white latex fairly gushed out of the thick bark," Prof. Record said today in describing the tree. "It looked so much like real milk and was so free from stickiness that I could not resist the temptation of tasting it. I found it sweet and palatable and my only regret was that I had no way of taking back a quantity of it to try on a dish of bananas. When we left the fallen tree milk was flowing out of every break of the bark. The species proved to be new to science and the genus had not previously been reported on the continent."

Brazil will be more difficult in this respect, because European diplomats feel that Brazil's claim must be regulated by the consensus of Latin-America, but it was pointed out that with three seats adjudicated to Latin-America Brazil would practically be certain of an intermediate chair for a considerable part of the time, perhaps dividing permanency with Argentina and Chile, to prevent rivalry.

DR. A. MEIKLEJOHN AND MISS HELEN EVERETT MARRIED

BOSTON, June 9—(AP)—Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, former president of Amherst college and now Brittingham professor of philosophy at the university of Wisconsin, was married here today to Miss Helen Everett, daughter of Prof. Walter Goodnow Everett of Brown university.

The ceremony was performed in the new Old South church, Copley square, by Prof. George Herbert Palmer of Harvard and Dr. George A. Gordon, pastor of the church. Only the immediate family were present. The bride was attended by her niece, Miss Elizabath Mercer.

The bride is a graduate of Bryn Mawr, class of 1915, and received her master's degree from Radcliffe and the degree of doctor of philosophy from the Robert Brookings graduate school of politics and economics at Washington. She formerly taught economics at Vassar and was for a time with the American association for labor legislation in New York. For the past two years she was a member of the research staff of the institute of economics at Washington.

Dr. and Mrs. Meiklejohn plan to spend the month of June in Maine and the remainder of the summer in Concord. In the autumn they will go to their home in Madison, Wis.

DRIVERS GET DEFECT CARDS TO BE MAILED BACK TO HTFD.

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 9—Several automobile drivers were handed "defect" cards by State Policemen Harjesty and Willis of the Stafford Springs barracks who were stationed on the highway between Perkins' Corner and Willington, last night. Owners of cars found to have defects in the headlights or brakes were given a card of which the officer holds a duplicate, giving the name of the car, owner or driver, registry number, nature of the defect and other data. The defect must be corrected within a certain period and the card held by the driver mailed back to the motor vehicle department, showing date of repair and signed by the person who did the work. The driver is liable to arrest unless he returns the card within the allotted time.

'BUNK OF 1926" CASE IS OF LOCAL INTEREST

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 9—Ramsay Wallace, one of the producers of "The Bunk of 1926" the New York show condemned by a jury, is well known in this city. His wife, Lesley Dondero Wallace, a native of Willimantic is sister of Louis N. Dondero of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace have come here each summer and spent part of the time at the home of Mrs. Wallace's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Dondero. Mr. Wallace is a graduate of Yale and has always taken a keen local interest in the outcome of the jury verdict which recommended a suppression of the show Monday, on the grounds that certain acts were of an immoral nature. Mr. Wallace has succeeded in securing a temporary injunction from Supreme Court Justice Aaron J. Levy of New York, restraining the Actors' Equity association the district attorney and the New York police from interfering with the production. He has instructed his attorney to begin suit for $100,000 damages against each of the nine members of the jury who passed a vote of condemnation.

ENGINEER JOHN A. POWELL DIES AT HYDE PARK, MASS.

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 9—John A. Powell, [illegible] died at his home in Hyde Park, Mass., last Wednesday morning after a long illness from pneumonia contracted during the flu. Mr. Powell was an electrical engineer of years having been retired from active service a few years ago. He at one time resided in this city, where engaged as engineer of the silk mills in the local cards. He is survived by a son, Leonard Powell of Hyde Park and by three grandchildren.

A slight automobile accident at the corner of Main and Watson streets about eight o'clock Wednesday morning resulted in a heated argument between the drivers, Andrew Lavigne of 77 South street, this city and Thomas McNally of 62 Eastman St., Central Falls, R. I. After listening to the disagreement until his patience became tried Chief of Police Thomas F. Grady halted all proceedings with the order "Tell it to the judge."

Lavigne was driving a delivery truck owned by Eugene J. Lescoe, local baker and McNally had a touring car. As Lavigne started to turn from Main into Watson street, McNally driving closely in the rear, drove his car into the truck. Paint on the truck was marred and the right front fender on the Rhode Island car was slightly bent. McNally contended that Lavigne gave no signal before turning and Lavigne blamed McNally for driving so close to his car that he could not see when he gave him a signal. The men were notified to appear in court to settle their difficulties. They went from the police station back to the cars and summed up the damage which amounted to less than ten dollars. Both then returned to Chief Grady and announced that they had reached an agreement, so the court date was cancelled.

From the family home at 29 Jackson place, the funeral of Mrs. Charles H. Fancher was held Wednesday morning. A high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's church at nine o'clock was sung by Rev. Charles M. Kelly. The organ music was by Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance and the mass was sung by Miss L. Monica McKeon. For the processional she sang He Wipes the Tear from Every Eye; Pie Jesu was sung at the offertory and Face to Face as a waiting hymn. Rev. Father Kelly conducted the committal service at the grave in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were Jeremiah Sullivan, Edward Driscoll, Fred Coriarty, William Geary, John Killourey and Daniel Sullivan. Arrangements were in charge of Killourey Brothers.

Anne Wood Elderkin chapter, D. A. R. closed its season with a splendid meeting at the home of Mrs. Marjorie G. Bartlett in Andover Tuesday. Flag day was observed, each member giving a quotation about the flag as she was called to answer to the roll. The regent, Mrs. Isabel Chappell called the meeting to order. The Lord's Prayer and the Salute of the Flag followed. At the close of a brief business meeting Mrs. Chappell turned the meeting over to the entertainment committee.

Mrs. Cornelia Bass presented Mrs. G. L. Wright of Andover who gave interesting readings from several present-day poets. She also gave a history of the composite flag which was planned and carried out by a Hartford span and had been previously presented to General Foch. Mrs. Bass gave a review of a field day meeting held in Andover 19 years ago. Miss Lois Caswell gave pleasure with flute solos accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Helen Gatchell. During a social hour Mrs. Bartlett served luncheon assisted by a committee comprising Mrs. Cornelia Bass, Mrs. Helen Gatchell, Mrs. Joanna Turner, Miss Dorothy Gorton, Mrs. Nina Harroun and Mrs. Bertha Thompson. Among those from out of town present were Mrs. Maud Remmington Korper and Mrs. W. J. Asher.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma G. Crane were held at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Mansfield Center Congregational church with Rev. Mrs. T. Hawthorne Jones officiating. Burial was in Atwoodville cemetery. The bearers were four sons, Luther, Conrad, Burdette and Rexford Crane Avery and VanZandt had charge of the arrangements.

The Wonder Stove Embodying The New Exclusive "Lively Heat" Principle

"Lively Heat"

The Triumph of Modern Oil Stove Construction

"LIVELY HEAT" is the dancing, vigorous, active heat above a bed of red-hot coals—above a modern gas burner—above the glowing electric burner. In each case it is the same heat. Only the fuel is different.

"LIVELY HEAT" is produced by burning vapors or gases. Contrasted to it is the languid, lifeless heat of a candle flame.

Red Star engineers have found a way to produce "LIVELY HEAT" in an OIL stove. The Red Star Burner converts common kerosene or gasoline into a gaseous vapor, which is then burned and produces the same "LIVELY HEAT" as coal, gas or electricity. Naturally they are no wicks or wick substitutes.

Attend This Unusual Event! See How "Lively Heat" Makes Perfect Oil Stove Cooking

We want the women of this community to see the vast improvements which have been made in oil stoves. We want you to know the joy of deliciously cooked foods—of baking that "comes out right"—of an oil stove that gives an abundance of clean, fast GAS heat.

Red Star Has No Wicks or Wick Substitutes

Red Star—the modern wonder stove—burns oil WITHOUT WICKS. The famous Red Star "LIVELY HEAT" Burner converts common kerosene (or gasoline) into gas—and it is this gas that produces "LIVELY HEAT." You get gas heat, gas speed and gas stove results. Cooking starts the instant burner is lighted. Happier hours in your kitchen—better cooked and more healthful foods for your family—time and drudgery eliminated from your daily work!

Come and See For Yourself

Before you buy an oil stove see the Red Star. Come tomorrow or during the next week—while special terms and "Free Dishes" offers are in effect. Every day the Red Star will be demonstrated. You will see—with your own eyes—how easily this stove is operated—why it gives the same fine results as the best gas range. And you will see the glistening white porcelain and black enamel finish that is so easily cleaned—the sanitary features—the sturdy gas range construction—and all the others that make the Red Star the modern wonder stove.

Low Prices Will Amaze You

Beautiful as the Red Star is—wonderful as it works—it is not expensive. In fact, it costs no more than any good oil stove. There is a size for every need—from two to six burners.

A Week of Demonstrations

Come as quickly as possible. Learn just what science has accomplished in the famous Red Star. See what improved cooking service the Red Star gives, no matter where you live. And, remember, our special terms and "Free Dishes" offers are good only during this one week demonstration.

Note These Red Star Features

Sturdy gas range construction. Good for a lifetime of service.

Smooth, sanitary, streamline construction. All corners and edges rounded.

DANIELSON

THE CIVIC FEDERATION HAD MOST SUCCESSFUL YEAR

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 9—Reports of the secretary, treasurer and visiting nurse of the Civic federation covering the past year show that the organization had a 12 months filled with good work, that the giving to it was generous and that the balance in the treasury is greater than ever before, at this period of the year.

The officers elected are: President, Mrs. H. D. Crosby; first vice-president, Mrs. Esther A. Jacobs; second vice-president, Mrs. Alfred L. Reed; third vice-president, Mrs. James M. Paine; secretary, Miss Emma F. Pilling; treasurer, Mrs. A. H. Armington; auditor, Miss Ada F. King; executive committee, Mrs. M. V. Woodworth, Mrs. John Merrick Paine, Mrs. Ella Stone.

The 13th annual report of Mrs. Susan A. Armington shows the balance on hand as of May 31, as $1,722.04. Including the cash balance on hand a year ago of $1,475.00, the receipts of the year just closed were $3,018.72. The expenses during the past year were $1,296.04. The receipts included gifts of $100 each from the Quinebaug company and the Goodyear Mills, Inc., and $50 from the Paco Mfg. Co. District Nurse Tag day, Mrs. Armington's report shows, netted $370.19 and $200 came from the Danielson chapter of the American Red Cross. Patients paid in $208.35 and there was $10.50 from membership fees. From the town the federation received $75 for the work of its nurse in the schools and there were other minor sources of revenue.

The expenses included $1,000 for the salary of the visiting nurse for ten months, $187 for traveling expenses and $34.64 for supplies these being the large items of expense.

Mrs. Armington's report on the Christmas seal or tuberculosis fund shows receipts, including the cash balance from last year, of $715.31, and expenses of $479.96, this leaving a cash balance on hand of $235.35. Out of this fund two months' salary of the visiting nurse was paid, $200, and 971 1-2 quarts of milk purchased at a cost of $106.10.

The reports of Miss Emma F. Pilling, secretary, and Miss Miriam Boomhower, visiting nurse, follow:

In presenting this 13th annual report of the Civic Federation its secretary would voice the keen appreciation for the federation for the continued generous support given to the work of the visiting nurse, by the community at large, and by individuals, without whose loyalty, the work of necessity, would be much restricted. The interjection, "Inasmuch as we have done it unto the least" will always be the potent urge that opens purses and hearts in providing for this appealing philanthropy of our community. A conclusive evidence of this is the fact that the balance in the treasury is the largest in the history of the federation, at this time of the year, a fact that relieves those who have the administering of its affairs, of finger nail anxiety felt sometimes in former years.

May reference again be made to the expert service rendered all these years by the treasurer, Mrs. A. H. Armington. It guarantees that the finances of the organization are ably managed.

The membership of the federation the past year includes 90 active members, and 7 associate members. Nine meetings have been held with an average of eight members in attendance. Although these few have ably administered the work of the federation, as the year's record shows, it would be most gratifying if a larger proportion of the members would interest themselves more directly in the work that is being accomplished.

The work of the nurse, Miss Boomhower, has maintained the same high standard as in former years. It has followed the varied lines already established: bedside nursing, social service, class examination of the public school children, conducting of the tuberculosis clinic and miscellaneous duties. The details of all of this work will be found in the nurse's report.

At Thanksgiving and Christmas valuable help has been given to the various organizations in the community, in directing the charities of these organizations, church, auxiliary of the American Legion, the Girls' club, and the Rotary club.

Because the usual theatricals were not held at the Day Kimball hospital last summer, the federation was not able to render the service of former years. However, six cases were cared for, the major part of the expense borne by the federation. Other cases are now under consideration, and will be cared for as soon as arrangements can be made.

This report would not be complete, if reference were not made to the visits of Miss Boomhower to the town farm. Each month she carries cheer to the people there, and no one who has accompanied her on these visits will question if it is worth while.

The federation is a member of the Connecticut Association of Public Health Nursing, and through its nurse is affiliated with the Social Service council of Windham and New London counties. It is, too, in close touch with the social and child welfare agencies of the state who investigate cases of neglect, abuse, and possible delinquency. During the past year the service of some of these workers has been valuable in caring for cases in Killingly.

Tag day of this year gave the largest return of any year. The Christmas Seal sale, under the able management of Mrs. James M. Paine, yielded net returns of $350.28. From this fund $5 was contributed toward furnishing milk for undernourished children in one of our public schools, beside other larger amounts for a like purpose to needy families.

A bill was indorsed for appropriating, by the legislature, of $35,000 for the purpose of enlarging the grounds of the State Seaside Sanatorium at Niantic, and Senator Child of this district was asked to support the bill.

A few changes in the administrative affairs of the federation have been made. An auditor has been added to the list of officers.

To facilitate the work of the nurse, she has purchased an automobile, a part of the maintenance of which is met by the federation. This expenditure takes the place of hired service in former years.

For the first time, the annual report of last year's work was published in pamphlet form, that it might be sent to other health agencies in the state.

The federation acknowledges gratefully the gift of $100 from the Quinebaug company, $100 from the Goodyear company, $50 from the Paco Manufacturing company, $200 from the Danielson Chapter of the American Red Cross and $24.28 from the Good Samaritan association.

It would again express its great appreciation to the town of Killingly for the use of the room at the Health station, and to The Norwich Bulletin and The Windham County Transcript for so generously presenting the work of the federation in their columns.

And so this report is presented with satisfaction for the past year, and a forward look for the coming year to be filled with thought and work for others.

EMMA F. PILLING, Secretary.

PUTNAM

NORWICH BALL PLAYER IN HOPEFUL CONDITION

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 9.—Norman Courbois of Norwich, thought to have been seriously injured while sliding bases last Sunday afternoon at Dayville, when the Warriors of Norwich played the Askawagas of Dayville at the grounds of the latter, has been found, after an X-Ray examination at the Day Kimball hospital, not to be so seriously injured as at first feared. He is still suffering from a severe strain of the back, but no bones are broken.

STAFFORD EXPRESS AGENT SKIPS OUT, PAPER STATES

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 9.—Putnam citizens are interested in the reported disappearance of Frank F. Hart, agent of the American Express company at Stafford Springs. For two years before he was appointed there he was a clerk in the express office here. "Red" Hart, as he was known here, was considered fortunate in the promotion given him by the company and it was believed that he was making good.

According to a Rockville paper, Mr. Hart disappeared from Stafford Springs last Thursday after auditors of the company had arrived there and had begun an examination of his books. This paper further says that they have not been able to explain an apparent shortage in his accounts. While they were engaged in this work Mr. Hart left the office, ostensibly for a short time but he failed to return. A search made to locate him has thus far proved unavailing.

YVO O. WALN CHOSEN FOR STUDY IN GERMANY

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 9.—The name of Yvo Orestes Waln was among the ten names recently announced by those in charge of American-German student exchange of the Institute of International Education. Mr. Waln has been pastor for the past three years at the Congregational church in Abington and has many friends in this vicinity. This appointment comes as a signal honor since he is one of the select ten chosen from the entire United States to do graduate work in German universities during the coming year. This exchange of students between the two countries is done with an aim to promotion of good will and understanding between the two nations. Mr. Waln will be registered at Halle university which is in the Saxon region; however, he hopes to spend part of his time in study at Leipzig.

Halle is rich in historical associations and surroundings; since 1880 it has been further enhanced as a seat of learning by absorption of the ancient University of Wittenberg. Halle has a student enrollment of approximately three thousand.

Mr. Waln expects to sail about the first of September, landing at Cuhel Humberg or the nearby port of Bremen. He will register for the school year, which begins on the 15th and then spend four or five weeks in the Hartz mountains, acquiring the idioms and observing the every day life of the German people. After this he will take up his college work at Halle.

In Germany the college work is divided into two semesters, of five months each; all marks are determined by period-end tests, and class or lecture attendance is not required, neither is there any time limit as to how long one may attend school, some continuing as long as 40 years.

Mr. Waln is admirably fitted for his mission across the seas. Back before the World war began, when he was at Wilmington college in Ohio, his friends were not slow to discover how easily he mastered the German tongue and he was soon translating for his classmates as well as for the upper classmen.

Upon becoming business manager for the college paper, he rendered a German play into English, that it might be presented to help clear up debts left by a former manager.

He was graduated with highest honors in studies and deportment in 1914 from Wilmington college, receiving his B. S. degree; in addition he was awarded a scholarship at Haverford, Penn. After Haverford he taught for two years and preached in small rural churches during the summer months; then he took up farming for a while. During that time he was frequently called upon to preach and speak at various gatherings.

In 1919 Mr. Waln decided to enter the Seminary at Hartford. In 1922 he received his S. T. B., graduating at the head of his class with M. C. L. honors. A year of post-graduate work on a fellowship followed. His thesis was of research work which might well be termed his specialty. He is rated as one of the best, if not the best, research student who has ever attended the Hartford school. A knowledge of ten languages shows the wide range of his interests and abilities.

Home town and college friends and acquaintances made as he has traveled through the country, talking, preaching, teaching and attending various gatherins rejoice with Mr. Waln in his appointment and wish him success.

Charles S. Sheldon of South Woodstock, widely known through the county, is at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester, Mass., for observation. Judge M. H. Geissler drove him there Saturday in his car. Mr. Sheldon's health has been impaired for some time and it is hoped that the diagnoses of specialists and the treatment they may prescribe will prove beneficial.

William S. Johnson returned to his home here Monday night from Tampa, Florida, where he spends more than half of the year. The temperature that greeted him on Tuesday morning was not like the spring weather he had left in Florida. Mr. Johnson said that it had been one of the most delightful spring seasons that he had ever known in the many years that he had been going to Florida, but he described the three winter months as incomfortably cold. During the latter part of the fall and for part of the winter, Mr. Johnson was seriously ill but he is now much improved and he hopes soon to be entirely recovered.

Dr. F. A. Morrell, his son Frederick Morrell of New York city, and J. Otis Fox returned Wednesday from a ten days' vacation spent at Rangeley Lakes, Maine. This is an annual trip that Dr. Morrell has made for years. The fishing was good by the weather was anything but good.

The alumni of Tourtelotte Memorial high school will hold their annual reunion at Webster Lake Friday evening, June 26. There is to be a banquet from 7:30 to 8 (daylight saving time), followed by dancing until midnight. An orchestra will play. Leon Baker of North Grosvenordale has the arrangements in charge.

Miss Constance Russell, daughter of Judge and Mrs F. F. Russell of Grove street will go abroad during the last week in June on what promises to be a most delightful trip. In company with Miss Harriet Bettes of Jacksonville, Florida, and other friends she will leave New York Friday, June 25, on an Italian liner which will dock at Naples. After visiting Rome, Florence and Venice they will tour continental Europe and later the British Isles. They expect to return about the middle of September. Miss Bettes is a former classmate of Miss Russell at Vassar and has visited in Putnam several times.

Frank Syle and Kenneth Hitop of Pomfret and Leo Reeves of Putnam are planning to enter the citizens' training camp this summer. All three of the boys are high schol and trade school boys in this city.

George Poirrier of North Grosvenordale has been granted a patent on an automatic filling replenishing loom.

Franklin Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Perry of this city, is one of three members of the freshman class at Amhurst college to be elected to the editorial staff of the Amhurst Student, the semi-weekly newspaper of the school. The competition has been open to the freshmen since the Easter vacation and the announcement of the winners was made on last Sunday afternoon. For several weeks prior to entering Amhurst, Mr. Perry had been doing newspaper work in Putnam.

Dr. Willard Burr Soper, of Saranac Lake, N. Y., was appointed Tuesday by the department of health to take charge of the new tuberculosis bureau to be established in New Haven on September 1. Dr. Soper who will receive an annual salary of $6,000 was selected from more than 30 prospects

BOSTON SCHOOL of COOKERY Tests and Approves

Miss Lucy G. Allen, director of the school, tells her experience with the Perfection Oil Stove.

MISS LUCY ALLEN, director of the conservative Boston School of Cookery, is one of six famous cooks who recently put the Perfection Stove to a rigorous, practical cooking test. Like the other five famous cooks, Miss Allen cooked by every cooking process, and gave us her opinion of the Perfection.

Uniformly Good Results

"I cooked many meals on the Perfection Stove," says Miss Allen. "The results, whether using the top of the stove, the oven, the broiler, or the toaster were uniformly good. There were several features sufficiently pronounced to recommend the stove to the most particular people.

Easy to Work on

"The Perfection is an easy stove to work on. There is no reaching across several hot plates, as there is with a gas or coal range.

"The flame never varied from the point at which it was set, whether it was low for stewing down pumpkin or high for baking beans several hours.

Clean Kettles

"There was no black deposit on the cooking utensils, even when the high, yellow tipped flame was used for broiling steak.

"The long chimneys burn every drop of oil completely before the heat reaches the utensils.

"We were so well pleased with the 1926 Perfection Stove, both as to results and operation, that after completing the test we kept it to use for auxiliary work in our classes," she concluded.

• • •

Tested and approved by the Boston School of Cookery! That means that the Perfection was used under all possible cooking conditions—for slow cooking, for fast cooking; for baking, for frying, and for broiling. In every case it was found efficient.

Six Cooks Agree

The other five famous cooks who tested the Perfection were enthusiastic, too, about the results obtained. And, every day 4,500,000 women get real cooking satisfaction from their Perfections.

See these 1926 Perfections at any dealer's. All sizes from a one-burner stove at $6.75 to a five-burner range at $120.00. When you cook on a 1926 Perfection, you, too, will be well pleased with it.

HAND PICKED

"I thought you weren't coming!" said the pink and excited debutante as she edged his way through the homeward bound guests to the corner, where the receiving party was at last breaking up with relieved sighs.

"I wasn't," the gloomy young man informed her. "I was staying away particularly, but somehow I got away from the office earlier than usual and had time to dress, and—doggone it Caroline, I couldn't stay away and you know it."

The pretty girl in pale blue chiffon dimpled and led the way to a secluded seat. "Everybody came," she told him, "except you—and I thought you didn't care a bit about my party or how I looked— or anything!"

"Didn't make any difference if I didn't", the gloomy young man muttered, gazing about. "Seven million dollars' worth of bouquets—I sent a measly bunch of violets, but I don't suppose you ever saw them!"

"They're up in my room," murmured the pretty girl with extreme carelessness. "Of course I had to carry dad's sweetheart roses! They are lovely violets, Peter, and my favorite flower."

"Who sent those crackling orchids?" demanded the gloomy young man, frowning with great dislike at a huge and ostentatious bouquet nearby. "They look exactly like that Wendell fellow. Algonquin's worth their weight in gold, not to be found in any casual shop; exclusive!"

"I think Tom Wendell did send those," she confessed with what seemed indifference. "I thought there were far too many—the florist ought to be able to retire soon from business if Tom sends many bouquets like them."

"Huh!" the gloomy young man interrupted, "a man doesn't waste flowers like those on a girl unless he—"

"Do you like my gown?" the pretty girl interrupted. "You haven't even looked at me since you came in—"

"Don't hafta," the young man told her coldly. "Know all about how you look, see you in my dreams and all that sort of thing! You always look so much more expensive than any girl should look, according to my lights, that I don't enjoy gazing at you, Caroline! Flops my heart down into my shoes, sort of. Your mother seems to be hunting for you out there!"

"Does she?" asked the pretty girl, with utter disregard, shrinking farther back into the corner. "I've shaken hands with 200 persons and I deserve a rest. I should think you'd be interested in finding me look—er—nice! Tom Wendell said so!"

"I know what he said," the gloomy young man interrupted fiercely. "If I said all the things I thought I guess you'd listen, but they won't come out! Haven't the gift, and I'm not knocking when I say Tom has. It's an asset, because when a fellow can get off nice things it pleases people."

"Try it," suggested the pretty girl innocently.

"Say!" the young man said huskily, "don't you know if I started in— Besides, I have sense enough to know exactly where I get off with your father and mother. They've a right to look for somebody more important than me when it concerns you! You don't forget them asking me to your dinner-dance for the receiving party tonight, did you?"

"I told mother I wanted you in it," the pretty girl said distressfully. "She—there were so many others that had to be included—so, Peter—"

"Caroline!" called an agitated voice as the mother of the debutante hurried toward them. "The Bogle boy is ill and it makes us one man short tonight. I haven't an idea to whom I can phone—"

"Oh, that's all right," said the debutante with great brightness. "Here's Peter and he'll fill in won't you, Peter—just to oblige me? Please?"

The young man and the older woman eyed each other for a cool second and then the handsome and no longer gloomy youth straightened his shoulders purposefully. "Delighted, if it will help you out," he said courteously, moving a trifle nearer the pretty girl who was waiting rather breathlessly.

"Thank you so much," murmured the mother of the debutante, smiling at them a bit wanly. She glanced at the orchids as she turned away and her expression was that of a general who has met his Waterloo and knows it.—Chicago News.

From Small Beginnings

Leland Stanford, the Horse Radish Boy, Founder of a Great University

From peddling horseradish to giving away a great university and $20,000,000 to run it is a great step, but that is the step that Leland Stanford took. He moved also from digging weeds on a farm to a place in the senate of the United States, to a position as governor of California, president of great railroads, and master of finance. As for opportunities, he may be said in the ordinary sense to have had none.

The New York State farm provided only opportunities for hard work, or for money making on a small scale. The boy gained what education he could, earned money, saved it, and at 21 began to study law. He had been admitted to the bar but a short time and had established himself with a small practice and a home, when a fire destroyed all he had. That fire was his greatest blessing, for it stimulated him to success. In one day the slate was wiped clean, and he was maddened into making a new venture. He would stay no longer where he had met misfortune, so he set off for what was then the almost unknown region of California, to which the gold miners and all sorts of rough adventurers were flocking.

Once in California, the young man set out into business. He was strong, friendly and enterprising, and he made money. He made so many friends, too, that he was given political preminence and then was made governor of California. That was in 1861 to 1863, the period of the Civil war. His loyalty to the Union aided greatly in keeping California on the side of the North. Twenty-three years after he had completed his term as governor he was made United States senator from California, and served until his death in 1893, at the age of 69.

Two of the greatest things he accomplished were the building of the Central Pacific railroad, that united California with the east, and the building of the Leland Stanford university in memory of his only son, Leland Stanford, Jr., who died at 16. In all his good work he was beautifully helped by his devoted wife, Jane Lathrop, to whose inspiration he owed much of his success in life.

Stories That Recall Others

What Did She Mean?

"I would like to try that dress on in the window?" said a demure maid as she approached the head of the dress department. After hesitating a moment there came the smart and smiling reply:

"I would certainly be glad to accommodate you, madam, but we are well satisfied with our window display now."

A Walking Delegate

Ted and Harry took two young ladies out for an automobile ride in the former's car. They had gone but a short distance when a tire blew out. This made necessary the using of the spare. Some miles beyond another tire blew out. Another tire had to be bought.

Harry was sent ahead to a garage where he met a friend. This friend asked him to ride home with him. This he did and went to bed, leaving Ted and the two young women, who were anxious to get home early, in the auto by the roadside. In the early hours of the morning a friend of Harry saw the three walking home, and of course Harry is still laughing about the way his friend and the young women walked back to town.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

It is again rumored that Prince Henry, third son of King George, is engaged to Lady Mary Scott, fourth daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch. There is no official confirmation. The Duke of Buccleuch, whose family dates back to the 12th century, is one of the greatest landlords and one of the richest and most powerful men in the realm. He owns close to half a million acres, the yearly income from which is something like $1,100,000. He is, by the way, a duke three times over (nearly four times, in fact), and he also holds a marquisate, four earldoms, three viscounties and three baronies. His residences number seven, including stately Dalkeith Castle, where more royalties have been entertained at one time or another than at any other private residence in the United Kingdom. The present duke and duchess, like their predecessors, are numbered among the most intimate friends of the royal family.

The Hidden Monster

More often than you ever dream
Are things reversed from what they seem.

—Old Mother Nature.

Sitting on the ground down below the alder branch on which sat Redwing the Blackbird, was Peter Rabbit. Curiosity stuck out all over him. It fairly popped out of his eyes. Yes, sir, it did so. You see, Redwing the Blackbird had just told Peter that the aphids, or plant lice, which were on the branch of that alder close to Redwing's feet, had enemies other than birds and that he was going to look for some.

"What kind of enemies?" cried Peter.

Redwing said nothing. He just looked very sharply at that patch of white at his feet which was made of those tiny white aphids close together, all busy sucking juice from the mark. Redwing began to talk to himself. "Here are some big ants running around," said he. "Of course they are after that honey-dew which these funny little aphids make. But they are also watching for any enemies the aphids may have. They certainly pay for the honey-dew they may get. Yes, siree, they pay for the sweets they take from the aphids. They do it by taking care of the latter. It must be that if any of the enemies of these aphids have been here, these ants have killed them or driven them away, for I don't see any."

"But what kind of enemies are they?" cried Peter impatiently. "Tell me what they are like, Redwing."

"Ha!" exclaimed Redwing. "Ha! And ho ho! There is something that looks to me very suspicious."

Down below Peter was dancing up and down with impatience and curiosity. How he did wish he could climb like Happy Jack Squirrel. "What is it, Redwing?" he cried. "What is it?"

Redwing's bright eyes twinkled as he looked sharply at that mass of white aphids. Then he reached over with his bill and picked something up. Peter could see him. He seemed to be holding something white in his bill. He leaned over and dropped it so that it fell at Peter's feet. Peter looked at it eagerly. You can't think how curious Peter was. At first he thought it was just a mass of those white aphids clinging together. Then he made an astonishing discovery. "Why!" exclaimed Peter. "Whyee! It's a caterpillar! As sure as I'm a rabbit, that's a caterpillar!"

So it was. But such a funny-looking thing as it was then. You see it was covered all over with those white aphids, or rather with the skins of white aphids. It was so covered with these that it couldn't be seen itself. That was why the ants hadn't discovered it.

Peter was still puzzled. "What was that caterpillar doing up there?" demanded Peter.

"Having an aphid dinner," replied Redwing.

"Do you mean he was eating those aphids?" asked Peter.

Redwing nodded. "That's exactly what I mean," said he.

"But I didn't know caterpillars ever ate anything but leaves and things like that," exclaimed Peter.

"Then you've learned something," replied Redwing. "This is a butterfly caterpillar."

"I suppose you mean by that that some day it will turn into a butterfly?" said he.

Again Redwing nodded. "It will if nothing happens to it," said he. "It is the only butterfly caterpillar that eats other insects, and it is smart to cover itself up with those cast-off skins so that it will not be found. Now what do you think of that?"

"I think," said Peter, "that I never have heard of anything like it. That caterpillar is smart. It certainly is smart."

The next story: "Another Smart Enemy."

"Do you mean he was eating those?" asked Peter

When tobaccos are good enough to speak for themselves

—let them say it!

THAT'S the one way to give men what they want in a cigarette—natural tobacco taste. Each type of tobacco should contribute — one its spicy tang, one its rich aroma, one its mellow "body," one its mild sweetness; and if the quality is right and the blend is right, that's all there is to it.

Sounds easy!

But to create a blend that combines fullness with mildness; that removes heaviness while retaining "character"; that makes a cigarette that is smooth and mild yet "satisfying"—to do all this is not easy, far from it.

It is so difficult, in fact, that millions of smokers sincerely believe it has been achieved in only one blend in the world.

This blend—and they swear by it—belongs to Chesterfield. It embodies the finest of Turkish and American tobaccos — and it can't be copied.

This program was in charge of Edward [illegible], chairman of the committee. President Gilbert A. [illegible] presided. Alfred Abbe was appointed chairman of a committee to arrange for an outing next week. Another committee was appointed to join with Rotary in preparing for a joint meeting of the two service clubs at the Willimantic Country club.

DR. R. P KEEP'S NIECE PRESENTED AT COURT

There was special Norwich interest Wednesday in The Bulletin's cabled news concerning American society women to be presented at court. Miss Melanie Avery, one of those named as a niece of the late Dr. Robert Porter Keep, for years principal of Norwich Free Academy, Miss Avery, one of seven Americans presented at Buckingham palace Wednesday, is a former Hartford woman. Her father was a Hartford clergyman, and her mother was a sister of the late Dr. Keep. She is cousin of Robert Porter Keep, present head of the Porter school for girls at Farmington. A sister, Mrs. Alice Hunsaeker, is wife of an American naval attache in London.

The young ladies frequently visited in Norwich when their uncle's home was the F. S. Camp residence, on Broadway, recently purchased by Mrs. Archibald Mitchell.

Arrangements for the surprise party were made by the entertainment committee of the club.

FINDS BLAZE GOING IN HALLWAY OF THREE-STORY BLOCK AT THE FALLS

Fire starting from an unknown cause in rubbish placed in a narrow hall way threatened the three-story wooden block at No. 20-22 Lafayette street, with destruction about 5.15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. There was no one in the block when the fire broke out in the hallway on the second floor apartment occupied by L. B. Holbrook, owner of the building.

William McBurney, returning from the office of the Chelsea File Works where he is employed, discovered the fire. Mr. McBurney found his apartment, on the same floor, and on the north side of the building, filled with smoke. He hurriedly called to John Kane to pull in the fire alarm and then forced the street door to the Holbrook apartment, discovering that the hallway was in flames.

Mr. Kane pulled box 316, Lafayette and Sherman street and the fire department made a prompt response. Engine Co. No. 3, first on the scene, ran a chemical line into the hallway and soon had the fire under control. Other companies laid water lines but no water was used.

The hallway was badly scorched and it was necessary to tear away some of the plastering on both sides in order to get at the fire which had eaten its way into the partitions. Mr. Holbrook, who purchased the block recently, was absent on business and Mrs. Holbrook left the building a short time before the fire was discovered. There was no one at home in Mr. McBurney's apartment as Mrs. McBurney is out of town. These are the only two apartments in the block occupied at the present time. Mr. McBurney's apartment suffered considerably from smoke.

GAVE PRACTICAL ADDRESS AT RADIATOR PLANT

Under Y. M. C. A. auspices Wednesday noon at the plant of the Richmond Radiator, Rev. C. H. Ricketts gave one of the most practical and interesting addresses of the year. His topic was "Paul and Felix," and Mr. Ricketts spoke in part as follows: "Paul was undoubtedly one of the greatest, if not the greatest character the Jewish race has ever produced. While he did not repudiate the Jewish religion, he went farther than they did and they refused to follow him. His great mission was to proclaim Jesus Christ the saviour of the world. The Jews opposed him greatly, and under false charges had him brought before Felix the governor. Felix was a fair minded man, and he saw in Paul a very unusual man, with a great personality. When Paul was brought before him, he demanded proof of the charges, but the charges were not forthcoming, so he dismissed the case Paul addressed Felix in his own defense, and Felix was so moved by his message, that after he had told his wife about it both he and his wife heard him again, and as Paul spoke Felix trembled.

"The preaching of Paul was different than some of the preaching we hear in these days. He did not, like some preachers, shoot all around, but he was a direct, personal preacher; he did not deal in personalities, but he made one feel that he was preaching to him; he had a target with a bulls eye, and he shot at it and hit it. Dwight L. Moody was just such a preacher; he was very direct and personal, and therefore he moved the people. He had a great burning message and that was Jesus Christ. The pulpit is not leadership in a class room; some of the things we hear in the pulpit in these days belong to the Seminary, and not to the pulpit. The people in the pew want and need the great themes of the gospel such as Paul preached. He was intensely practical in his preaching; he called things by their right names, and the people knew what he meant. He spoke to Felix of righteousness and temperance and judgment to come. It took great courage on Paul's part to preach thus to the man who could have ordered his execution, but Paul was fearless in the proclamation of his message, and Felix, though it probably cut him, admired the frankness of Paul because he knew he was right. It costs something to live a Christian life; we are not to be swept into heaven easily; we must fight hard to win the reward. Felix trembled at the words of Paul. This man Paul was an alarmist in his preaching, that is, he sounded the alarm. When he saw sin he sounded the alarm and told of the consequence of sin. He did say as some do, "I want to lead you to live a little differently," but he emphasized the judgment for sin. The preacher needs to sound the alarm. I knew of a case where a rich man had given a million of dollars to a college, and his son, a student there was neglectful of his studies, and the president of the college sounded the alarm by saying to the young man, "unless you greatly improve, you will have to leave the college." At first it made the young man mad, but after a while he saw that the president was right, and he graduated with honors. A young physician was consulted by a wealthy man about his eyesight rapidly failing; the young physician told him that unless he quit drinking liquor he would be blind. The rich man resented it at first, but finally decided to take the doctor's advice, and his sight was restored. If there is a fire in a home, someone sounds the alarm if any one of you men saw a girl drowning in the river, you would at once sound the alarm; so the preacher must sound the alarm regarding sin and its consequences. While Paul preached Felix trembled; trembling is not enough; there must be conviction and action. Paul reasoned with Felix; preaching must be with reason. We need preaching like Paul's, direct, personal, practical, alarming and well reasoned out; such preaching will move the people to right living."

WESTON, FAMOUS WALKER DAZED IN NEW YORK

Edward Payson Weston, now 88, a famous walker of years ago, who visited this city and lectured here about 1907, was found on the streets of New York Wednesday in a dazed condition and was sent to Bellevue hospital.

Mr. Weston was police-aid and unable to explain his presence to a patrolman who found him at First avenue and 23rd street.

Clippings found in his pocket, dating back half a century identified him as Weston.

Mr. Weston said he could not remember anything that had happened to him since leaving his home in Philadelphia, and did not know how he got to New York or when he left Philadelphia.

Notification was sent to Mrs. Anna Curtis, a sister in Providence, R. I.

Mr. Weston attracted attention in 1861 by making the 443 mile trip from Boston to Washington in 208 hours. He started in his professional career in 1867 by making the 1,326 mile trip from Portland, Me., to Chicago in 26 days. He marched 5,000 miles in 100 days in England in 1874-5 giving temperance lectures each night under the auspices of the Church of England. He walked from New York to San Francisco in 1909, and back in 1910.

NORWICH ELKS WILL GREET G. E. R. ATWELL

Norwich Elks are to make arrangements to attend the meeting of the New London lodge on June 16 when William H. Atwell, grand exalted ruler of the order, will visit the New London lodge which has invited lodges from all the surrounding territory to be there to greet the head of the order. The transportation arrangements are to be made at a special meeting of Norwich lodge on Friday evening.

Will Celebrate Pastorate Anniversary

The Central Baptist church is to celebrate the fifth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. Dr. David A. Pitt with a big church social on Friday evening. The programme will be in charge of the Woman's league and the church through the board of deacons.

CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN HEAR MISSIONARY REPORTS

The Eastern Connecticut Branch of the Woman's Board of Missions held its 51st annual meeting Wednesday morning and afternoon at the Hugh Henry Osgood parish house. Miss Abby G. Willard, president of the branch for 28 years, presided. The morning session opened at 10.30 o'clock with the singing of a hymn, scripture reading and prayer. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read by the recording secretary and were accepted.

A resume of the year's work was given by the various officers. The home secretary, Mrs. Samuel E. Smiley of this city, spoke of the jubilee meeting held in June, 1925, in New London; and the Young People's Jubilee Rally, held in Norwich, June, 1925; the fall meeting in Hampton; the November meeting in Wauregan; with reports from the annual Woman's board meeting and the spring meeting in Mystic. She spoke of the loss by death during the year of many members specially noting Mrs. Burgess of Colchester and Mrs. George Hyde of Norwich.

Mrs. Dwight C. Stone of Hanover told of the work of the branch auxiliaries during the year. Her report covered activities in about 50 of the churches. The Young People's work report was given by Mrs. William M. Zumbro of Norwich. She told of the Young People's Jubilee meeting held in Park church, Norwich, June, 1925; Older Girls' conference, Norwich Town, November 1925, 90 present; Junior rally, United church, Norwich, with 40 present, April 1926; Leaders' conference, United church, Norwich, May 1926; Christian Endeavor rally, Norwich Town, May 1926. She urged that each church send their young people to summer conferences and told of a total gift to the treasury from the junior department of about $400.

Miss Annie C. Learned of New London gave the treasurer's report. The goal was $8,750 and $8,489.43 was received. Miss Elizabeth F. Pullen of this city gave the report on the work abroad. This included mention of the missionaries supported by the Eastern Connecticut branch, with personal messages from Miss Gertrude Avery and Mrs. Sara B. Howland. These missionaries follow: Miss Susan B. Howland, Ceylon; Mrs. Sara B. Howland, Mexico; Miss Mary W. Riggs, Turkey; Miss Anna Clarke, South Africa; Miss Gertrude Avery, India.

The prayer of consecration was offered by Mrs Manson of New Haven. Miss Edith M. Bliss extended a cordial invitation to luncheon at noon and Mrs. Archibald Mitchell, Jr., explained about the literature on sale. The closing devotional service was led by Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor of Park church.

After the luncheon, the afternoon session opened with the singing of the hymn, God of the Strong, God of the Weak, and the first address was by Mrs. Warner L. Carvey, assistant home secretary of the woman's board of missions. She spoke of the relationship between the board in Boston and the Eastern Connecticut branch, of the young candidates who are going out to the field, and of the plans for a merger with the men's association, which are to be consummated in another year.

Vachel Lindsay's poem, Foreign Missions in Battle Array, was read by Miss Anna Peck of Hanover, and after the offering had been taken, Mrs. Otis Cary spoke upon Japan—Yesterday and Today, relating the incidents of her acquaintance with many individual Japanese and of the wonderful transformation wrought in many ways through the influence of the missionary work.

After the hymn, O Word of God Incarnate, prayer was offered by Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, who pronounced the benediction that closed the meeting.

HORSEMEN ARE SPEAKERS FOR ROTARY MEETING

One of the most interesting meetings in a number of weeks for the Norwich Rotary club was that on Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel with a large number in attendance. President Edwin A. Harris presided and Charles J. Twist was song-leader with Johnny Egan, the talented pianist, at the piano. At the business session there were matters of club routine transacted and three new members were welcomed into fellowship by President Harris. Announcement was made of the coming community picnic at Lowthorpe Meadows and of the state chamber of commerce golf tournament at Shenecossett the latter part of the month.

President Harris took the opportunity of congratulating Mayor Milo R. Waters on his re-election and assured the mayor of the Rotary club's willingness to co-operate in anything beneficial to the city. The mayor responded briefly, saying that he assured the club that the same good government of the past four years would continue.

One of the guests, Lucius S. Bigelow, president of the Periodicals Publishing Co., of Buffalo, spoke briefly, complimenting Norwich on its municipal gas and electric plant, saying that it was one of the few successful plants in the country.

Alfred G. Lillibridge was named as secretary of the club during the absence of Edward W. Jewett, who is a delegate from the local club to the International convention of Rotary at Denver, Col.

Willis Austin was the current topic speaker of the day, who described the development of the cement business, which he said had grown from a production of one million barrels in 1896 to 115 million barrels in 1922.

The meeting was then turned over to Judge Nelson J. Ayling who introduced A. W. Lombard of Boston, secretary of the Massachusetts Agricultural Fairs association. Mr. Lombard spoke briefly on the meeting of the Bay State Short Ship circuit which is to be held in Norwich during the fourth week of this month. The speaker said that racing is closely allied to agricultural fairs and that the majority of meetings held throughout the country are sponsored by men who are also interested in agricultural fairs. He told of the advantages of having a light harness meeting in a community which greatly benefit a community from a financial standpoint. Have horse owners are men of wealth for the racing game is not for the poor man. These men come to your city with their string of horses and retinue; they put up at your hotels, patronize your restaurants, mercantile houses and grain and feed stores; all of which brings money into your community. In the meeting to be held here there are horses representing 22 states from Texas to the Dominion and these owners and drivers will race their horses on all the large tracks of the country this year. From an advertising point of view it is good advertising for your city. These men will leave Norwich and will discuss the meeting here all over the other tracks and the opinion they formed of your town will be passed on. If it is good, it's a great boost for Norwich and the reverse if it is bad. It is up to Norwich people to see that the visiting horsemen are favorably impressed. They are not in the game for profit but to promote an age-old sport, competition between thoroughbred horses. This meet will have a direct bearing on the agricultural fair later in the summer for many of these stables will return here during the fair.

D. J. Kays of Ohio State university and representing the Horse association of America spoke on the freight transportation problems, telling how it was affected by the motor truck and how the use of horses was falling off. Mr. Kays said that embargoes, demurrage and slowness in movement of freight were working in favor of the motor truck. This in turn cuts out the horse for the shippers who used to haul from factory to freight yard by horse are now loading their trucks at their doors for shipments. Mr. Kays paid high tribute and recited several poems dedicated to the horse. His talk was exceptionally interesting and was warmly applauded.

DEBATE FOR MERCHANTS ON INSTALMENT SELLING

This year's programme for the "merchants' luncheon at noon Wednesday, June 23, during the annual convention of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Griswold, Eastern Point, will have as a feature a debate on the merits and demerits of instalment selling which subject is of outstanding importance to the merchants at the present time. P. W. Haberman, vice president of the Commercial Investment Trust of New York, will discuss instalment selling from "the affirmative" and Creighton J. Hill of Babson's Statistical Organization will discuss the subject from the standpoint of "the opposition." There will be opportunity for discussion.

The third speaker before the merchants will be Ernest Katz, executive vice president and controller of R. H. Macy & Company of New York, who will take as his subject the general problem of "overhead" and how it may be kept within sound limits.

In arranging the foregoing programme the Trade and Commerce committee of the state chamber was strongly of the opinion that instalment selling was the outstanding subject before the merchants of Connecticut today and that a debate on it would prove extremely helpful to merchants in general.

The New London committee in charge of the luncheon comprises Nestor Dreyfus, William D. Harris, William Savard.

GROTTO CEREMONIAL TO HAVE LARGE CLASS

Quite a good sized class is expected to the short form ceremonial which will be conducted this (Thursday) evening by Nemrod grotto. The festivities will begin with a supper at 6 o'clock at Masonic temple, which will be served by ladies of the Grotto and the subsequent programme of the evening will take place in Grotto hall. Grotto orchestra will play, both at the supper hour and at the ceremonial.

Knocked Down By Automobile.

Mrs. Louise, alias Beulah Potter, wife of Howard, alias Chick Potter, colored, was knocked down and slightly injured shortly after 6 o'clock Wednesday evening near McMahon's market, West Main street, by a Ford coupe driven by Charles Heebner. It is said that Mrs. Potter stumbled in front of the machine and was knocked down. Dr. Louis T. Cassidy was called and attended her injuries. She was taken to her home nearby.

Norwich Bankruptcy

John Paracenti, a Norwich contractor, filed a bankruptcy petition on Monday in the United States district court at New Haven, listing liabilities of $1,603.55 and assets of $1,500.

ADMIRALTY SUIT IS TAKEN FROM JURY

What is said to be the first case of its kind in 45 years to be tried in the superior court in this county, an admiralty suit, was commenced here Wednesday morning before Judge C. L. Avery and a jury.

After an all-day trial, in which there was much contention over legal points and admissibility of evidence between the counsel on both sides, the case was taken from the jury and is to be tried to the court after pleadings have been amended by counsel for the plaintiff.

Judge Avery had court adjourned to this (Thursday) morning at New London to continue trial of the case, but counsel for the plaintiff said after the court session Wednesday that they expected to ask for further continuance when the case is called in New London this (Thursday) morning.

The case is the $10,000 damage suit against the Automobile Insurance Co., of Hartford which is brought by Capt. Melville Smith of New London and the Central Fairfield Trust Co., of Norwalk. Capt. Smith has been a marine engineer for 56 years and was formerly captain of the steamer Chelsea, which ran between this city and New York. He sues to collect insurance on the steamer Atlantic, which he claims the defendant company agreed to insure for $10,000 on a voyage from Charleston, S. C., to Bridgeport, Conn., but which sank at the dock while loading at North Charleston, July 10, 1935. The plaintiff claims that the sinking was by reason of perils against which the boat was insured by the defendant company. The plaintiff claims that the company agreed to insure the boat and issued a binder but never issued the policy and has refused to pay the insurance claim.

In the answer by the defendant company, it is admitted that it issued a binder but it is denied that the policy was never issued. The claim is made that a policy was issued, as agreed, but the plaintiff refused to accept it, and the defendant company denies that it agreed to issue a policy in the form the plaintiff claims. The defendant denies that the boat was seaworthy, denies that the voyage was ever commenced and denies that the steamer sank from causes insured against. It also denies the value of $10,000 as set up by the plaintiff.

Capt. Smith bought the boat when it was at Charleston from Reuben K. Hagarty, who assigned his interest in the claim to Smith.

Attorney George Houghton Gilman of this city, who is counsel for Capt. Smith, has associated with him Attorney Raymond E. Stefferson of New York, a former Norwich boy, and attorney Quinlan of a New York law firm. Attorney Frank L. McGuire, who is counsel for the defendant company, has associated with him Attorney James M. Ryan of New York.

The jury which was hearing the case until the change in the plans for the trial were announced comprised George L. Randall, John H. Powelson, Norwich; James G. Ayer, Appleton Main, Daniel Lynch, Robert A. Peckham, Preston; Arthur L. Standish, Colchester; Patrick F. Driscoll, Griswold, Frank B. Miner, North Stonington; Ernest E. Smith, Franklin; Harry Remick, Lisbon; Edward H. DeWolf, Salem.

When the case was taken from the jury, Judge Avery excused them until next Tuesday morning.

Witnesses testifying Wednesday were Capt. Smith, William P. Lambert, U. S. inspector at Charleston and Andrew P. Murtha, a marine insurance expert. The testimony they have given will be used when the case is tried in the court, according to counsel for the plaintiff.

TWO NORWICH DRIVERS IN SUSPENDED LIST

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out Wednesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are 22 names on the list. Three cases are appealed. Five were Connecticut operators arrested in other states. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles. The list is as follows:

David J. Achin, Somersville; Walter Allen, Montville; Ernest J. Armstrong, South Manchester; Peter Bergon, Hartford; Alfred F. Bouret, Norwich; George F. Brewin, New Britain; Fred Carling, Niantic; Clifford D. Cowles, East Hartford; Claude Daigle, Plainville; Joseph Damlow, Manchester; Lawrence Gowitt, Meriden; Thomas B. Hosking, St. George, State Island; Harry F. Jones, Derby; Peter Kulikwik, Bridgeport; William McDonnell, New Haven; John Mistier, West Haven; Konstanty Orzel, Terryville; Wilfred Parr, Norwich; Raymond C. Frisque, Killingly; Frank B. Smith, New Haven; Andrew Suhle, Jr., South Manchester; Albert Venesia, Norwalk.

6,000 CHILDREN TO BE DUWELL'S CARNIVAL GUESTS

Over 6,000 tickets which will admit school children today (Thursday) to every ride and show in Coleman Bros. carnival shows will be distributed in the schools today by the Duwell A. A. which is to have the school children to guests on the grounds on the East Side. It is expected that the gathering at the carnival grounds this afternoon will constitute the largest group of school children ever witnessed in Norwich at one time.

This open house for the school children is only one more step towards promotion of clean entertainment by the progressive Duwell club and will no doubt make a big hit with the children.

So as to give every one an equal chance to take in everything, which will be quite a job, the merry and early arrivals are requested by the Duwell management to have their fun and then make room for those children coming from the more distant sections of the city who may come later than those living nearby.

JUDGE SIMPSON'S INJURIES KEEP HIM FROM BENCH

Judge Earnest C. Simpson, who has been presiding at the superior court session here, did not preside Wednesday but returned to his home in New Haven and Judge C. L. Avery took his place on the bench.

Judge Simpson was feeling sore and shaken up generally from his experiences Monday afternoon when he was thrown out of Judge Avery's automobile when it was in collision with another machine on Marlborough hill on the Hartford-Colchester turnpike.

NEW HAVEN, June 9—(AP)—Mrs. Earnest C. Simpson reported that Judge Simpson was resting comfortably at his home here tonight. She said that he had complained of lameness following a recent automobile accident in Colchester and that the pains had become more serious and he was forced to leave the bench today. It was not believed that he suffered internal injuries or a fracture and was reported that he would probably return to his judicial duties at Norwich next Tuesday.

Should you ever have occasion to express your sympathy for a poor relation, mail him a check.

SHOULD HUSBANDS DO HOUSE WORK?

How Mrs. Dyer Solved the Problem.

Mrs. Mildred Dyer was lucky. She had a good-natured husband who helped her with housework. Because she was in ill health for five years, it was often necessary for him to do this. But it bothered Mrs. Dyer. She felt that he had to work hard enough anyway. The time he spent in doing her work was needed for his own. She determined to find the road to better health.

She writes: "I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is simply wonderful. My health is better than it has ever been. I am getting stronger and gaining in weight."

The Dyers live at Redlands, Calif., Route A, Box 153.

How often does your husband have to do your housework? No matter how willing he is, no woman feels comfortable about it. Perhaps you, too, will find better health through the faith

ACADEMY WINDS UP 1926 SCHEDULE WITH VICTORY OVER WESTERLY HIGH

Scoring six runs in the first three innings the Academy closed its 1926 schedule with a 6 to 3 victory over Westerly High at Westerly on Wednesday afternoon. This game assures the Academy of at least a tie in the Interscholastic league if not a win. Westerly has Stonington yet to play and a victory for Westerly ties the final league standing at six games won and two lost and another game with Westerly would be necessary. However if Stonington should win the Academy wins the title.

Jarvis pitched shut-out ball but hits in back of errors enabled Westerly to cross the plate three times. With the exception of a few lapses the Academy played good ball with Ray Yerrington leading the hitting with three hits in five times at bat. The Academy had men on base in every inning but fast fielding by Westerly kept the scoring to 6 runs. Westerly played a somewhat loose game in spots errors figuring in the scoring in the second and third innings.

Jarvis outpitched Henderson at all stages of the game allowing but four hits and fanning ten men and not passing a man. Henderson was touched for 11 hits and walked two. He had eight strike-outs to his credit.

Cimikoski opened the game with a hit over second base that Dabrowski stopped but was unable to get his man at first. Cimikoski stole. Sadinsky was out at first, DeRocco taking the roller and touching the bag, Cimikoski going to third. Jarvis hit sharply through third base and Cimikoski scored. Burke fanned and Tombari walked but Yerrington was thrown out, Henderson to DeRocco. Westerly had one man on in their half of the inning on a hit by R. Meikle but he stayed there.

In the second inning Mish was safe when Ribner fumbled his grounder. Goldblatt hit to right field and Mish went to third, scoring a minute later on Salimeno's error. Greene was thrown out at first and Goldblatt went to third on Turco's error of a passed ball. Cimikoski flied out to Salimeno and Goldblatt scored when Salimeno booted Sadinski's roller. Jarvis flied out to center field.

Westerly went out in order in their half of the second. The Academy completed their scoring for the afternoon in the third inning when three runs pattered across the plate. Burke hit the first ball pitched for two bases but was caught when he tried to stretch it into a triple. Tombari was safe when DeRocco dropped a thrown ball. Pheno stole second. Yerrington scored Tombari with a single to left. Mish walked and both Yerrington and Mish advanced on a wild pitch. Goldblatt scored Yerrington and Mish with a long hit to center field. Goldblatt was forced at second by Greene and Cimikoski was fanned. This ended the Academy scoring although in the seventh and eighth innings men got as far as third.

Westerly scored two runs in the fourth inning on an error by Yerrington, a fielder's choice in which both men were safe and a double to left field, by Pandiera. Jarvis fanned DeRocco, Turco and Henderson in this inning.

The other Westerly runs came in the seventh inning when Sadinsky misjudged Turco's fly ball which went for two bases. Turco went to third on a wild pitch and scored when Burke missed Yerrington's throw. This was the end of Westerly's scoring although they got a man as far as third in the eighth inning due to an error of omission by Burke in not touching first base after a batter had struck out and Goldblatt dropped the ball. The score:

BURKE LEADS ACADEMY TEAM WITH BATTING AVERAGE OF .357

Capt. Gerry Burke led the Academy team in batting for the season just closed with an average of .357 for the 14 games played on the schedule. Cimikoski and Jarvis were tied for second place with an average of .329 while Ray Yerrington was third with .304. Yerrington showed the most improvement during the last six games of the schedule for his average at the end of the first 12 games was .164. Yerrington found his eye in the Bulkeley game and since then has been climbing in the hit column. The home run honors are divided between Sadinsky and Greene, each getting two while Burke collected one. The average of those who played in half the scheduled games follow:

	G.	AB.	H.	Ave.
Burke	18	70	25	.357
Cimikoski	18	73	24	.329

Tonight's Game

The contest in the Twi league at the Academy campus this evening will bring together the Brassens and Federals. McGlone or Johndrow will pitch for the Brassens with Tombari catch while Pascoucke or Mullins will pitch for the Federals with Kapteina catch. The game will start at 6.30 p. m. sharp.

TAFTVILLE A. A. TO PLAY TRUMBULL STARS SATURDAY

At the Providence street grounds on Saturday afternoon the opposition will be furnished for the Taftville A. A. by the Fort Trumbull Stars of New London. The Stars have a fast aggregation of ball tossers that have been winning the majority of the games in New London and should give the Taftville team a busy afternoon. Zepp, former Chapman Tech star will do the pitching for the Stars with Gadbois doing the catching. Lefty Dugas will pitch for Taftville.

ASHLAND MEETS NEWPORT TRAINING STATION SUNDAY

Ashland tackles a tough proposition Sunday when they meet the fast Newport Training station of Newport, R. I.

This club comes here with an exceptionally fine record, having won ten consecutive games so far this season.

They carry a pitching staff of five and all good pitchers according to Lieut. Comdr. F. G. Reinicke, athletic officer at the station.

The local club seems to be playing in tough luck for the last two weeks, and a change will be made in the line-up Sunday to try to get together a winning combination.

Lineup for both clubs will be announced in Saturday's Bulletin.

SUGGS GETS DECISION OVER BABE HERMAN

BOSTON, June 9. — (AP) — Chick Suggs, New Bedford featherweight, won the decision from Babe Herman of California in a ten round bout here tonight.

Although Suggs went into the ring weighing three pounds less than his opponent, he had the better of the fight from the start. The weights were Suggs 126 1-4, Herman 129 1-4. The New Bedford boxer won seven rounds, Herman had the advantage in one and two were even.

RIVERVIEW TACKLES RED SOX ONCE MORE ON SATURDAY

For the second time this season the Riverview club will cross bats with the Corbin Red Sox, this time in an effort to get revenge for the 3 to 2 defeat administered by the New Britain outfit a few weeks ago. The Riverview club after hitting tough going for three games is out of the slump and on the right path again.

On Sunday Riverview plays at New Britain against the New Departure club of that city. This club is also a tough proposition and Riverview has a busy week end ahead.

Broad Street Sluggers Win

The Broad Street Sluggers of the fifth grade surprised the North Street team by beating them, 10 to 0 Wednesday afternoon. The game was played at the Mohegan park. It was a very exciting game till the finish. Stavero pitched for the winners while Loui pitched for the losers.

ALL AMERICAN PROS SAFELY THROUGH QUALIFYING ROUND IN BRITISH PLAY

LIVERPOOL, June 9—(AP)—Paced by another day of brilliant golf from the sticks of the Chicagoan, Wild Bill Mehlhorn, the American contingent in the British northern professional championship passed safely through the second round of eighteen holes today to qualify for the final 36-hole meet tomorrow.

Adding a sound card of 75 to his 71 of yesterday, Mehlhorn completed the first 36 holes of the 72-hole event with a score of 146 to share first place with George Gadd of Roehampton and James Adwick of Olton.

Jim Barnes, present British open champion, paced second to Mehlhorn among the Americans with 145 to tie four British players for fifth place. The only other player with a better card except the three leaders was C. A. Whitcombe. He turned in 147 for the two days' play.

Three other Americans were tied with 151 for seventeenth place, Emmett French of Youngstown, O., picking up from a bad start of 80 yesterday to post a fine 71 today. Cyril Walker and Joe Kirkwood, who shared the same position with French, played around in 77 and 78, respectively.

Tommy Armour, with a 78 today, was four strokes behind this trio, while Walter Hagen, American professional champion, improved on his first day's mistakes and came through with an excellent 74 after a bad start. After taking one over fives for the first four holes, Hagen braced and did the last fourteen in three under fours to bring in a total score of 156 for the two days. Al Watrous with 158 and Joe Stein with 159 completed the American team's efforts over the 36 holes.

The first two days' play, which served as a qualification test for the final 36 holes, was safely survived by 114 of the original 150 starters, including all the Americans. All those with scores of more than 21 strokes higher than the leaders were dropped.

Score of the American players follow:

Bill Mehlhorn	71	75	146
Jim Barnes	75	70	145
Emmett French	80	71	151
Joe Kirkwood	76	75	151
Cyril Walker	74	77	151

MILLER HOLDS SENATORS AND INDIANS WIN

CLEVELAND, June 9—(AP)—Miller kept Washington's hits scattered better than did the four pitchers called upon by the Senators and Cleveland made it two straight today, winning 11 to 5. Jamieson and Burns starred at bat, Jamieson making a single, two doubles and a triple in four times up, while Burns made two singles and two doubles in four chances, running his total of two baggers up to 26.

Catcher Luke Sewell of Cleveland retired from the game when his finger was mashed by being hit with a pitched ball.

YANKS BEAT TIGERS FOR SECOND TIME

DETROIT, June 9—(AP)—New York made it two out a row from Detroit today, winning 4 to 3, by failing on Earl Whitehill's southpaw delivery in the first two innings. Dutch Ritter Ward's single, followed by Koenig's home run in the eighth, tied the score, and Manush's triple ahead of Lazzeri's single drove in the deciding run in the ninth. Cobb benched himself today, following a batting slump and Menush was in center field. Score:

$200,000 GATE EXPECTED AT TITLE BOUT TONIGHT

NEW YORK, June 9—(AP)—Paul Berlenbach, whose willingness to meet all challengers for his world's light heavyweight title sets him apart among ring champions, encounters a formidable foe tomorrow night at the Yankee stadium. He battles William L. (Young) Stribling, rugged Georgian, in a 15-round title match that promises much action.

Close to 50,000 fans are expected to see tomorrow's battle. The "gate" may reach $200,000 in which case Berlenbach, receiving 37 1-2 per cent, will get about $75,000. Stribling's share will be 12 1-2 per cent.

LOCKE NOT TO COMPETE IN A. A. U. MEET AT PHILLY

LINCOLN, Neb., June 9—(AP)—Roland Locke will not participate in the National A. A. U. games at Philadelphia in July, preferring to let his competition at Chicago at the end of this week stand as his final competition this year.

While he would relish a race with Charles Paddock or Loren Murchison, the University of Nebraska sprint ace believes that Hank Russell at Cornell is one of the fastest runners in the country, able to afford him stiff competition.

VANCE PITCHES GOOD GAME TO BEAT REDS

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 9—(AP)—"Dazzy" Vance held the Reds to seven hits and fanned 14 batsmen and Brooklyn defeated Cincinnati today, 4 to 3 in ten innings. Bob McGraw, however, got credit for the victory as he replaced Vance in the tenth after "Dazzy" had been withdrawn for a pinch-hitter in the ninth.

A double by Wheat, Herman's infield single to Critz and the latter's wild throw past first which enabled Wheat to score gave the Robins the winning tally, the Reds broke a 1-1 deadlock in the ninth when Critz, who had fanned in his three previous trips to the plate, hit a homer with Bressler on first. The Robins tied it up again in the ninth on two singles, a pass and a sacrifice fly. Vance's strike-out feat establishes a season's record for nine innings. Score:

Thirty-eight half days have been spent in the school rooms. Nine tonsil cases were taken by the nurse to Day Kimball hospital for operation, many more were attended to by the parents.

Several children have had glasses fitted, and many have had dentistry done, but in many cases the teeth are being sadly neglected. We are still hoping to have a dental clinic to help in this work.

The tuberculosis work under Dr. Hugh E. Campbell's direction has been carried forward with unfailing interest. He has been here ten times during the year, to hold clinics. These clinics have been attended by 140 people, 46 of whom were new patients. Among these were found 4 cases of glandular, 2 of laryngeal, and 10 of pulmonary tuberculosis. Six of these have been hospitalized; 29 cases have been under observation.

Milk has been furnished to three families in which are 10 children. This was paid for by the Christmas Seal fund.

The social service visits to the town farm have been made each month. The nurse carrying candy, fruit, games and magazines for the people there. This work was started by Miss Mary Dexter who left money to be used for this purpose.

We are glad to have the public make use of the articles in our store closet.

We have 6 wheel chairs, 2 hospital beds with mattresses, 3 bed pans, 2 air cushions, feeding cups, ice cans, pus basin, urinals, and other sick room conveniences.

MIRIAM BOOMHOWER,
Visiting Nurse.

A most enjoyable evening was spent by the members of Killingly grange at its meeting Monday night. Moosup Valley and Canterbury granges provided the program it being neighbors' night. The following numbers were given:

HAVE A CAMEL

Camel is the smoker's sign of friendship

IN THE home, or at the club—in busy office or crowded street—whenever friend meets friend, you will hear that magic invitation—have a Camel!

And wherever Camels are lighted, men come together in more friendly understanding. No other cigarette ever had or made so many friends or brought so much added friendliness to the world as Camel, for Camel's quality is a universal language.

Camel is more than a cigarette. It is an experience in smoking enjoyment—the finest this old earth affords. Camels contain the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos grown, and these fine tobaccos are superbly blended, as in no other cigarette. The enjoyment of Camels goes on forever, for they never tire the taste no matter how liberally you smoke them. They simply never leave a cigaretty aftertaste. No other cigarette in the world is like them. Millions of experienced smokers who could well afford to pay more will buy and smoke only Camels.

Whenever and wherever you meet a friend, let that be a standing invitation to the sheerest enjoyment that ever came from a cigarette.

Have a Camel!

FEHMER STILL ALIVE BUT CONDITION CRITICAL

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I. June 9—The condition of Albert Fehmer, Westerly man who attempted to take his own life early Tuesday and was taken to the hospital with a bullet wound in his left side, is still critical, according to reports from the hospital tonight.

Prof. F. K. W. Drury of Brown university gave an instructive address before a group interested in forming a dramatic club, at the Memorial library in Westerly Wednesday evening. He explained how he had taken a part in the formation of other clubs to encourage dramatics.

Earle Cargill of 226 Dean street, Providence and Miss Alice Tillinghast Hutchins of Greene, Coventry, were married Tuesday in Westerly by Rev. A. L. Schoning, pastor of the Broad street Christian church. They were unattended and left Westerly as soon as the ceremony had been performed. Cargill is 64 and Miss Hutchins 50. Cargill has been married once and divorced.

A crew of workmen from a New London concern began Wednesday erecting a retaining wall for the foundation had been laid and the combusiness block on the lot between the Walton block and the Pawcatuck River bridge, on West Broad street, Pawcatuck. Max Novogroski, of Westerly, owner of the property said yesterday the work would proceed until the foundation ha dbeen laid and the contract also calls for strengthening the piles under the small building over the Pawcatuck river. Some question has been raised as to the legality of building over the Pawcatuck river, but Mr. Novogroski claims he is within the law in carrying on present operations. Whether or not Mr. Novogroski will continue to erect a building over the river which will adjoin the Briggs building in Westerly, has not been determined. It is understood that a large number of people in Pawcatuck are in favor of the building being erected where the present operations have begun and others favor building over the river.

Otto Wiersch, the Mystic young man, whose touring car was burned on the Norwich-Westerly road Monday night, according to his own report says that he lost control of the car when he turned around to notice the machine on fire. Two officers from the submarine base at New London took the man to Mystic in their car.

A delay in highway improvement operations in Westerly will result from the cracking of the concrete foundation supporting the hot mix plant at White Rock, according to report of Superintendent Leon of the highway commission. Operations are to go ahead however on Main street, Mr. Leon said. Crushing stone is being laid from the junction of Main and Commerce streets to Union street.

POETRY

The Pool

Across the road, surrounded by white birches
That seem to guard it with their pallid arms,
There is a pool that slumbers in the shadow.
And yet it does not always sleep, this pool.
For I have seen it wide awake and watchful,
Just brooding there, expectant, catlike still.
As if it waited with an awful patience
For someone, or for something—I don't know.
No cows swish friendly within its sombre depths,
And village boys will not go there to swim.
It is a stagnant looking pool, and yet
I know it's deep and very much alive.
The grass around its brim is lush and long
And sometimes on an August afternoon
When I am driving cattle through the field,
And life seems stagnant as the pool itself,
I see its dark face scowling through the trees,
And something seems to draw me to this pool
That lurks and waits within the shade for me.

—Carty Ranck.

Folly Song

I would give my wise heart for the foolish heart I had.
Be very kind to Folly, you will miss her when she goes!
Wisdom has no secret way to make the sorry glad.
Nor any small, forgetting songs like those that Folly knows.

When you walk with Wisdom then your feet go slow and steadily,
Dance with Folly while you may, her hour is not long!
And when you are remembering the happy things that used to be,
It's likely you'll be thinking of a little, foolish song.

O, I would give my wisdom for the folly that is dead and done.
Dear, dear Folly, with her lids down on her eyes!
Now I'm working quietly upon the task I have begun,
And all my songs are ended since my heart grew wise.

—Louise Driscoll

MARRIED SAILOR GOES TO JAIL--ENTICED NEW LONDON SCHOOL GIRL

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 9—William Burmeister, a sailor, stationed at the submarine base, was today fined $100 and ordered imprisoned for a month, by Judge Prince in the police court for lascivious carriage and behavior. Burmeister had the opportunity to plead guilty, but he preferred to take a chance and by the testimony he was to give escape the penalty that came to him. He said: "I am not guilty of what they say I have done." So a plea of not guilty was entered. Virginia Whitney, who is 18 and is the ward of her grandmother, a nurse, went on the witness stand and accused Burmeister of having deceived her and of having proposed marriage to her. The girl is a bespectacled little creature with the appearance of one who is a student in an advanced school. She resides with her grandmother and appears to have been allowed the companionship of sailors. She is an attendant at the services of the Baptist church and at the Sunday school of that church, in which she is highly regarded. Burmeister made the acquaintance of Miss Whitney through a sailor friend. In forty-eight hours the pair had arranged a marriage; he said the girl was very fond of him and in that way the marriage scheme was developed. Miss Whitney resides at West Pleasant street and attended the Chapman Technical school, being in her third year there. She was introduced to Burmeister two days ago. The friend who brought the pair together had been acquainted with her since last October. Burmeister called on her about 8 in the evening and remained till midnight, but his friend departed at 10 o'clock. After the hours pass talk about marriage Miss Whitney said she got her wearing apparel ready, but she had not acquainted anyone with her plans. Yesterday Burmeister called to get the girl about 3:15 and they proceeded to get a wedding ring, which the girl paid for with $8. Then a clergyman was called up to arrange for the ceremony. The talk with him was not revealed, but the pair proceeded to the office of the town clerk and made application for a marriage license. The interrogations there made disclosed that Miss Whitney was not of age and that she was not entitled to a license except with the consent of her parents or guardian. Then Burmeister proposed going to New York, but at the station that plan was abandoned as it developed from the testimony punishment for violation of the Mann act—the taking of a female from one state to another for immoral purposes—loomed before the sailor. Then the pair went to a hotel at the suggestion of Burmeister. There Miss Whitney said Burmeister made advances to her which she repulsed.

In the meantime the police had been advised of the situation by the clergyman, who was suspicious that the pair might offend against the laws of the state. Detective John Cavanaugh was put on the case, with the information the clergyman had given and he trailed the pair to the hotel. He demanded admission and found Burmeister on the bed with shoes off and the girl beside him. The girl told of the advances that were made by Burmeister. He declared that the suggestion to go to New York came from the girl. When that plan was abandoned, he represented that he secured the hotel room that she might rest, eat and talk over the affections they had for each other. He accounted for the fact that the door of the room at the hotel was locked because a child playing in the room fell in while the door was unfastened. He said he was fond of the girl and that he would marry her. He was accused by the prosecutor of being a married man, so far as was known at that time and with having two children, both girls, aged six and three years, in San Francisco. He was charged with concealing the fact that the ship on which he was a sailor was to leave this week for the west coast and to have deceived the girl in that way. Burmeister said he was feeling "blue" at the turn things had taken, so the girl came and sat on the bed to console him. He denied that there were any improper relations between them. He declared that he was of the belief that he was unmarried, as his wife had written to him to that effect. He admitted that he had never endeavored to secure accurate information from the court as to whether a decree of divorce had been granted Mrs. Burmeister.

Commander H. C. Bonney testified that Burmeister was for a while on the submarine N-1 and that his record was of the best. He related that Burmeister might have had the opinion that he was divorced, as in a benefit fund Burmeister had made his wife the beneficiary, but later had changed the record.

Judge Prince in summing up the testimony said he regarded the girl as largely responsible for the situation that had developed. She does not want to marry the sailor yet she entered into some sort of an arrangement after an acquaintance of forty-eight hours.

Michael Nelson of Chesterfield, who said he came here to enjoy himself was charged with intoxication. He pleaded to be allowed to go back to work at which he earned $4 a day and was accorded that permission.

BURCKLE BUILDING STORE IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 5—Fire did considerable damage to the front of one of the stores of the Burckle building, Bank street early this afternoon. Shortly after 12 o'clock flames were observed attacking the front of one of the stores, No. 11 Railroad avenue, and occupied by the Armour Beef company. The damage will be several hundred dollars as the entire front was burned or charred. The fire originated from defective wiring, a fact that was revealed by the existence of numerous wires that were not connected, but dangled over the store entrance.

The fire was discovered by workmen that were engaged in installing an ice box in the beef plant. The blaze had already gained considerable headway for the entire front was enveloped in flames. The workmen endeavored to subdue the fire, but were unsuccessful and an employe of the beef company caused an alarm to be rung in from Box 22, corner of State and North Bank street. Acting Chief Thomas Shipman and the Niagara, Nameaug and Northwest pumpers and the aerial truck responded. A stream of chemicals from the Niagara pumper was poured on the burning building and resulted in the quick extinguishing of the fire.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles R. B. Stoeckel has ordered suspended the operators' licenses of Charles Faulkner and Arthur F. Minnamon, sailors stationed at the submarine base.

Joseph Ersing of Uncasville, who was partially asphyxiated by gasoline fumes a week ago and who has been under treatment since at Lawrence Memorial associated hospital, returned to his home today. Ersing, who is employed by the Tidewater Gasoline company, was rendered unconscious by the escaping fumes while engaged in cleaning a tank car, the supply of which had been transferred from the car to tanks of the company. He was found in an unconscious state and when treatment did not revive Ersing he was removed to the hospital. Other patients discharged were Mrs. Wilson Herr, Brooklyn, Conn., Mrs. Stephen Daroney, 1 Cliff street; Mrs. Hiram Bearles, Hotel Mohican, Thomas Planpiano, 9 Belden street and Alfred Sleigner, United States Coast guard, local section base, 4, state pier.

John Mondelci, proprietor of a grocery store, 220 Colman street, and residing over the store with his family, reported to the police late last night that his home had been entered by a thief during the absence of himself and family and that $150 had been stolen from a safe. The police are conducting an investigation and are of the opinion that the burglary was committed by some one having knowledge of the movements of the family as well as the existence of money in the safe.

Mondelci and his family left the house early in the evening and did not return until about 11 o'clock, when they entered the house Mondelci went to the safe and found the money missing.

Entrance to the place was obtained by the thief entering the garage which is connected with the house. The thief then descended the stairs leading to the living apartments the door of which was not locked. The safe is located near the door and neither was that locked so that the thief had little or no trouble getting the money and making his escape.

Patrolman John Foley was unable to perform patrol duty tonight, being ill at his home, Williams street.

Morris Bernstein, 73 Montauk avenue, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer Frank Linehan charged with violation of the motor vehicle laws. He will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Bernstein, it is alleged, approached the corner of State and Main streets, and failed to heed a signal given him by Officer Linehan.

The New London police late this afternoon were requested by the New Haven police to be on the lookout for an old Cadiallac automobile and which is carrying Connecticut registration, Y-2499 and in which a man and woman are riding. If the car is located here the occupants will be arrested for the New Haven police.

Summer vacation at Connecticut College for Women started today and as a result a major portion of the students started for their homes this afternoon and this evening. The remainder of the students will go to their homes tomorrow.

The New London-Norwich trolley car, scheduled to leave this city for Norwich at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon was derailed at the corner of State and Main streets and as a result of the accident the trolley car did not start for Norwich until 4:55 o'clock. The derailment also caused an interruption of traffic between this city and Norwich as well as the city lines for the car left the rails on the city line tracks. The car was leaving State street, and in rounding the corner of Main street, the rear wheels split the switch causing the car to go to the south-bound main line tracks. A wrecking car was dispatched from the car barn and after working on the derailed car about 40 minutes it was pushed back on the iron and the trip to Norwich was resumed.

City Manager and Mrs. William A. Holt were at Franklin, Mass., today to witness the graduation of their son, Chandler Holt at Dean academy. Another New London young man to graduate today was Albert C. Woodruff, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Woodruff, Fremont street. Mr. and Mrs. Woodruff attended the commencement exercises.

Thomas McGarry, son of Mrs. Edward J. Hennessey of 10 Franklin street, and Miss Mary McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McCarthy, 66 Franklin street, were married this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley. Allan McInnis was best man and Miss Catherine McCarthy, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Mr. McGarry is employed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

Clarence Coburn, 20, a carpenter, residing at 159 Connecticut avenue, will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning on a charge of violation of the automobile law in operating a motor vehicle without having a license and also for failing to provide proper registration for the car. Coburn was arrested this evening by Patrolman Frank Philopena upon complaint of Mrs. Josephine Woitzsiak, Lincoln court. Coburn stated that he had recently purchased a second-hand Ford and that he was trying out the car on Lincoln court, which is not an accepted highway of the city. Mrs. Woitzsiak, however, declares that not only was Coburn operating the machine in the court today, but last Sunday operated the car to a ball game and used markers belonging to another car to do so.

DR. GEO. E. BRADFORD DEAD—PHYSICIAN IN TOWN 44 YEARS

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 9.—Dr. George E. Bradford, 83, died early this morning at his home, 191 Hempstead street, death being caused by a weakened condition of the heart following the physician's recent illness with double pneumonia. When he suffered a sinking spell this morning he failed to rally. He is survived by his widow. Dr. Bradford was born at Goshen, N. H., and after he was graduated from school he became a teacher, a calling he followed for a number of years at Keene, N. H. Afterwards he took up the study of medicine and upon receiving his diploma he came to New London and has practiced medicine here continuously for 44 years. Dr. Bradford was of the old type of physicians and he was a familiar character about the city many years, especially when he made his calls in a surry drawn by a spirited black horse that always attracted the attention of pedestrians because of the speed of the animal. Later, when Dr. Bradford abandoned the surry he made his calls on a bicycle. Afterwards, until his fatal illness he made his calls on a cycle, but instead of this being propelled by the feet and legs, its power was furnished by a small motor attachment to the rear wheel.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dolores Costello Is Starring at the Palace Thur., Fri. and Sat.

After her appearance with John Barrymore in "The Sea Beast," was acclaimed by reviewers everywhere as one of the truly great actresses of the screen. Many predicted that she would soon win recognition as the greatest of all women stars. And that recognition is coming from all quarters as the result of her performance in "Bride of the Storm." Exquisite, etherial, poetic, she has at the same time a full-blooded emotional power that sweeps into the hearts of all people; a power of evoking tears and pity and dreams of loveliness.

In "Bride of the Storm," she is a girl held prisoner in a lighthouse off the coast of China by cruel men, who plan for their gain to marry her off to an idiot boy. The drama—a drama of fierce, elemental passions and torrential force—is one of the most exciting pictures ever screened. Produced for Warner Bros. by J. Stuart Blackton, it is a monumental production of spectacular beauty and rich Oriental color.

In addition to Miss Costello, the cast includes such favorites as John Harron, Otto Mattieson, Tyrone Power, Sheldon Lewis and Julia Swayne Gordon.

In addition to this great picture, we are staging another supreme vaudeville show of five acts.

Broadway Theatre

If life was made for laughter, whoever attends the Broadway theatre while "The Cohens and Kellys," the Universal-Jewel, is the feature, will live a complete life during the run of the picture.

"The Cohens and Kellys", is life jammed with wholesome human touches of pathos and comedy. It is a beautiful painting from the delicate brush of the great artist, Harry Pollard, the director who put Reginald Denny on the road to success.

It is not a farce comedy, but it is drama of the relations between the Irishman and the Jew told with an eye always on the comic possibilities of the tale.

This is a return engagement and capacity crowds will be the rule as on the first engagement.

The Keith-Albee vaudeville program is also one of exceptional merit in which five acts are featured.

The Variety Sextette is a company of six artists in a song, dance and music revue; Osaka Boys offer "A Japanese Pastime"; Baby Elaine, the six year old child wonder; Forest and Mardo, the two variety damsels; and Soper and Doran, those comedy boys.

We advise early attendance for a good seat.

GRAHAM BROTHERS TRUCKS SUPPLANT AUSTRALIAN CAMELS

Camels, those dependable beasts of burden, which have carried the wealth of the orient since early Biblical days, are finding their usefulness in West Australia curtailed by the adoption of the motor truck.

In the vast stretches of grazing land in West Australia where sheep raisers number their flocks by the hundred of thousands, camel caravans for years have been the media in hauling the wool clip to the warehouses near the seacoast. The loads they were able to haul were considered large for such beasts, but their gait was slow and often rising markets got away from growers before they were able to make delivery of their wool clip.

But this condition is rapidly passing. Adoption of Graham Brothers trucks by these sheep raisers has enabled them to rush their wool clip more quickly to the marketing points and consequently concert it into money more readily.

This situation was disclosed by W. J. Winterbottom, managing director of the Winterbotton Motor company, dealers for Dodge Brothers, Inc., at Perth, W. A. and Rubert S. Harden, director of the Standardized Motors, Ltd., who, with Jack Kloster works manager of the same company at Sydney, N. S. W. also Dodge Brothers Dealers, are visiting the factory of Dodge Brothers Inc., Detroit.

Mr. Winterbottom has the distinction of having imported the first Dodge Brothers motor car into west Australia. This was in 1915. Prior to this he saw the importation of the first American made automobile into Australia, back in 1903. He has been a resident of Perth for 20 years and this is his third visit to Detroit. "Wool and wheat are the mainstays of our economic life in west Australia" said Mr. Winterbottom. "Sometimes we have droughts, but these appear only to stabilize our farming industry. We do not have much rainfall in our section, nor have we any rivers of consequence to drain our lands. Our mountains are not high and very little help from the snow is expected.

"Our farmers are rapidly turning to the use of the motor car and truck. We do not have the fine concrete roads in our rural sections that you have in the United States. Many of our roads are macadamized and have been down for years.

"The cost of motor cars and trucks in Australia is practically 100 per cent greater than that in the United States. This is due to the heavy import tax and the heavy freight charges. Petrol, or gasoline, costs approximately 60 cents a gallon with an additional tax of six cents a gallon for the state. We have no oil wells, although the Commonwealth has offered a subsidy of $100,000 for anyone who drills in an oil well of good production. All our oil and gas must be imported. Gasoline comes in four-gallon tin cans. Recently several American companies have opened gasoline and oil stations similar to those in the United States.

"Our sales of Dodge Brothers motor cars and Graham Brothers trucks have steadily climbed annually until in 1925 we did a gross business of 1,306,903 pounds sterling or $6,534,515. We have what is regarded as one of the finest major car establishments in all the British empire."

Breed Theater

Thrills galore running a close race to an undercurrent of constant comedy in Fox Films' The Fighting Buckaroo which opens today at the Breed theater, will further endear Buck Jones, the star, to his numerous fans. For Buck never disappoints his audience. He is as much at home in a drawing room as he is in the saddle, and he has a genuine acting ability which gives sincerity to every role he portrays.

Buck, The Fighting Buckaroo himself, is operating a cattle ranch owned by a person he has never met. Two days before the expiration of his option, he returns from a trip abroad, to buy the ranch. He is informed at the dock that gold has been found on the property and that a scheming lawyer is determined to get the ranch by fair means or foul.

An airplane, an unbridled and unsaddled horse and finally a hand car are used in the chase and the picture ends in a bang up finish.

LEGAL NOTICES

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES FOR THE DISTRICT OF CONNECTICUT.
In the matter of John Parsonett, a Bankrupt, in Bankruptcy No. 3103.
To the Creditors of the above-named Bankrupt, of Norwich, in the County of New London, District aforesaid, Bankrupt.
Notice is hereby given that on the 7th day of June, A. D. 1926, the above-named was duly adjudicated a bankrupt; and that the first meeting of his creditors will be held before the undersigned, at his office, 58 Church St., Norwich, in said District, on the 19th day of June, A. D. 1926, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, d. s. t., at which time said creditors may attend, prove their claims, appoint trustee, be heard as to orders of Referee for care of property of the estate and disposal thereof, at auction or private sale, examine the bankrupt, and transact such other business as may properly come before said meeting.
THOMAS M. SHIELDS,
Referee in Bankruptcy.
Norwich, Conn., June 9, 1926.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Ledyard, within and for the District of Ledyard, on the 9th day of June, A. D. 1926.
Present, BILLINGS F. S. CRANDALL, Judge
Estate of Augustus O. Ackley, late of Ledyard, in said District, deceased.
The Administrator appeared in Court and filed a written application alleging that said estate is now in settlement in said Court, and praying for an order to sell certain real estate belonging to said estate, fully described in said application.
Whereupon, It is Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in Ledyard, in said District, on the 16th day of June, A. D. 1926, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said application, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order once in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District at least five days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to the Court.
BILLINGS F. S. CRANDALL, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, BILLINGS F. S. CRANDALL, Judge.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 9th day of June, A. D. 1926.
Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Estate of Jost Laudolt, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.
Arthur M. Brown, of Griswold, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition, for the reasons therein set forth, that an instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased be admitted to probate, and that the decree made by this Court on Oct. 16th, 1925, admitting an instrument purporting to be a last will and testament of said decedent, be revoked and

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, June 9—(AP)—Opposing speculative forces struggled for control of the price movement in today's stock market with the day's advantage on the side of those working for higher prices. The market sold off during the morning when bear traders attacked the motors and a few specialties, but it turned upward later in the day when bullish operations were resumed in U. S. Steel common and other standard industrials. Total sales were 1,536,000 shares as compared with 1,662,100 yesterday and 1,107,300 the day before.

The day's business news was largely constructive in character. The weekly steel trade reviews were optimistic in character with the president of one of the large independents reporting that buyers were demanding prompt shipment as an indication of low stocks. Retail business, judging by the sales and earnings statements of the United Drug and other chain store companies, is running well above last year.

Although consolidated April net earnings of the class one railroads did not come up to earlier expectations, due to the relatively poor showing of some of the western roads, fresh buying was attracted into that group today by the announcement that the New York Central planned a consolidation of some of its principal subsidiaries.

United States Steel common crossed 132 to a new high on the current upswing with buying credited to a prominent automobile manufacturer. Crucible Steel was also in good demand, but most of the other independents were dull.

With the exception of Pan-American B which touched a new high on the present move at 73 1-2, on buying presumably influenced by the report that gasoline production of the company was running 25 per cent above that of a year ago, the oils failed to respond to bullish trade statistics.

Most of the principal commodity markets lost ground. Active wheat futures showed little change, the day's trading largely representing the evening-up of speculative accounts pending the publication of the government crop report. Cotton yielded 6 to 10 points with selling inspired by favorable weather advices. Raw sugar declined 1-32 of a cent pound and coffee fell 5 to 29 to 37 points.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent and remained at that rate all day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were easier. Demand sterling ruled just above $4.86 and French francs around 3 cents. Most of the continental rates showed nominal recessions although Spanish pesetas ruled nearly 10 points higher at 14.26 cents.

Successful Iris Grower

The business office of the Norwich Bulletin has received a beautiful bouquet of iris grown in the garden of Mrs. L. B. Geary of Preston. Mrs. Geary has been especially successful with her flowers this year as she has over 25 varieties of the iris

COMMON COUNCIL ORGANIZES TO CONDUCT CITY BUSINESS FOR YEAR

With Mayor Milo R. Waters presiding, the new court of common council held its organization meeting Wednesday evening at the council chamber. The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock, daylight time, and following the swearing in of the aldermen and councilmen elected Monday, Mayor Waters addressed the council as follows:

Gentlemen of the Council: It seems to me that the members of the present council should be gratified by the confidence reposed in them by the citizens of our city. The membership of the council as organized tonight is composed of men experienced in municipal affairs. There is no member of the council who has served less than a year. Most of us have been here three years and some several times that length of time.

I believe that experience will be of value to our city. I hope that every member of the council will give me his hearty cooperation as in the past. With that feeling we can face the problems that come to us with courage. I request that all members of the council attend the annual city meeting called for Tuesday, June 15th, prepared to answer any questions that may be asked at that meeting.

By resolution introduced by Alderman Henry Gebrath the rules of order that governed the council last year were re-adopted. Mayor Waters then announced committee appointments as follows:

Committee on finance—Mayor Waters, Alderman Sweeney, Councilman Thompson.

Committee on public works—Alderman Gebrath, Councilman Spellman, Councilman L[illegible].

Committee on fire department—Alderman Lillibridge, Councilman Aldrich, Councilman Rinella.

Board of police commissioners—Alderman Sweeney, Councilman Aldrich, Councilman Quinley.

Auditing committee—Alderman Smith, Councilman Clegg, Councilman Lathe.

Amusement committee — Alderman Smith, Councilman Rinella, Councilman Clegg.

Alderman Gebrath moved that the appointments be approved and it was so ordered.

Alderman Patrick F. Sweeney offered a motion that William H. Shields, Jr., be appointed corporation counsel for the ensuing year. The motion was unanimously adopted on a ballot vote. Other appointments were unanimously made by ballot votes as follows:

Street commissioner, John C. Donovan.

Chief of the fire department, fire marshal, and superintendent of the fire alarm telegraph system, Howard L. Stanton.

Superintendent of cemeteries, Aubrey W. Jarvis.

Member of the council to the board of water commissioners, Frank H. Quinley.

Deputy chief of the fire department, Henry R. Taft.

Special constables, Augustus Hoelck, Richard Marks, Sr., Aubrey W. Jarvis, Patrick J. Connell, Frederick W. Krohn, Irving M. Cruthers, Henry S. Metcalf, Terrence Hogan, Frederick Shea, John J. McGrath, George McFarland, Stephen Woods, Daniel J. Maher, George E. Elliott, Frank L. Tuttle and John J. Riley.

The city clerk was authorized by resolution to procure necessary stationery, etc., for the council and by another resolution all unfinished business in committee was referred to the same committees of the new council.

A resolution adopted names the meeting day and hour of the council as the first Monday in the month at 8 o'clock, standard time, with the exception of the months of July, August, September and May when the meeting hour will be 7 o'clock, standard time.

The council then adopted a resolution directing that the printing of the council journal and appendix be done by the Pullen Publishing company and the Bulletin company, the rate to be $3.50 a page, the same as last year. The journal will be printed by the Pullen Publishing company and the appendix by the Bulletin company.

This concluded the business of the meeting which adjourned about 8:30 o'clock until the evening of Thursday, June 17th, at 7 o'clock standard time.

LARGE CLASS CONFIRMED AT ARCHDEACONRY MEETING

The annual meeting of the New London Archdeaconry was held Tuesday at St. Ann's chapel, Black Hall, and was attended by a large number of the clerical and lay delegates.

The session opened with a celebration of the holy communion. Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown, of Norwich, being celebrant assisted by Rev. Henry L. Linn, rector in charge. The absolution and benediction were given by the Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster, D. D., Bishop of Connecticut.

Luncheon was served by the women of the mission at noon.

The business session which followed was presided over by Archdeacon Brown. The sum of $100 was appropriated to the repairs of the automobile [illegible] in charge of the [illegible].

Reports of the [illegible] were received and that of H. H. Parker of Norwich treasurer. The executive committee was appointed as follows: Rev. P. M. Kerridge of New London, the Rev. F. A. Bigelow of Pomfret, the Rev. W. F. Williams of Stonington and the Rev. F. C. Williams of Willimantic and H. W. Parker of Norwich.

The [illegible] elected as delegation to attend the special meeting in Otis Hall at Trinity church Norwich.

The meeting of the [illegible] was opened and was presided over by the president, Rev. Theodore Martin. The address was addressed by Miss Hazard superintendent of the State Farm for Women at East Lyme, who presented her work in detail.

The session closed with a special service in the church the rite of confirmation being administered to a large class of candidates by Bishop Brewster.

P. Williams, W. H. Hayden, Henry J. Parker Timothy Chapman of Norwich.

WILL HAVE SESSION FOR PUBLIC UTILITY EXECUTIVES

Subjects of especial interest to public utility executives have been selected for the speaking programme of the public utilities section of the 27th annual convention of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce to be held at the Hotel Griswold, Eastern Point, on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 22 and 23.

The public utilities section will meet on Wednesday afternoon.

Philip H. Gadsden, vice president of the United Gas Improvement company of Philadelphia, will speak on "Employees and Public Relations." One sentence from Mr. Gadsden's address suggests its practical helpfulness: "This new concept of the relationship between employes and management will solve many of the problems of our industrial relations." Major J. S. S. Richardson, director of the "Pennsylvania Public Service Information committee," and of the "New Jersey Public Utility Information committee," will take as his subject "Some of the Problems of Public Utilities." Both of these talks will be of direct interest to public utility executives whether they be associated with big electric, gas, railroad, street railway, telegraph, telephone or water utilities.

J. W. Punderford of New Haven, president of the Connecticut company and chairman of the public utilities committee of the state chamber will preside at this meeting.

NORWICH EMPLOYMENT BUREAU HAD 494 APPLICATIONS

HARTFORD, June 9—(AP)—During the month of May 4,793 persons applied to the five free employment agencies of the state for work and situations were secured for 3,804. The number of persons who made applications for help was 2,974. The agency in Hartford led the other four in its activities. It had 1,234 applications for work as against 972 in New Haven; 1,026 in Bridgeport; 1,018 in Waterbury and 494 in Norwich. Hartford was also ahead of any of the others in the number of situations secured. The total for this city was 1,035 while the number for the other offices was as follows: New Haven, 943, Bridgeport, 869, Waterbury, 512, and Norwich, 225.

FOUNDERS' DAUGHTERS HAVE SILVER ANNIVERSARY MEETING

Connecticut chapter, Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, held its annual outing at Racebrook Country club, New Haven, last Friday, 126 members attending, the president, Miss Mary S. Whittlesey of New Britain, presiding. Just 25 years ago, June 4, 1901, the chapter was organized at the call of Mrs. Florence Noble and Mrs. Frederick Beiden, both of the national society. Now it numbers 252, more than in any other state. The men's order is five years older, its governor, Robert C. Mitchell, greeted the younger sisters most graciously. Greetings were also offered by Mrs. Charles Shelton, honorary president of the chapter. The hostesses of the day were the members of the chapter who reside in Derby and Shelton, Mrs. N. D. Baldwin being vice president, and Mrs. William Shaw, recording secretary. A birthday cake with the suitable number of candles was placed before the president to cut and distribute.

The general court of the organization was held in Washington last April and the state delegate, Mrs. George M. Morse, presented a report of the business and social events of the convention.

Music was delightfully rendered by Miss Sarah Fiske, vocalist, Miss Mabel Deegan, violinist and Miss Marion Lowler pianist.

The historian, Mrs. W. F. Brooks, of New Britain gave "Echoes of Twenty-Five Years," telling of the noteworthy achievements of that period, such as valuable historical papers written by members and kept on file; generous financial aid to the national society, when the colonial chapter at Falls Church, Va., was being restored (this building was designed by Wren in 1767). The accomplishment of this year is the purchase of the lot in Grove street cemetery, New Haven, where rest the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. George Newcomb, so well known in patriotic organizations for years. Caring for their bodies involves also care for the last resting place of Count Wrotheslow, a Hungarian who fought for freedom in his native land and served loyally in his adopted country during the Civil war. Mary Clap Wooster chapter, D. A. R., will mark the Newcomb graves with appropriate exercises on June 20.

The chief speaker was Mrs. John L. Buel of Litchfield, who was elected national president at the general court in April. In her usual happy way Mrs. Buel thanked the members for their loving loyalty and promised her best constructive work to the organization.

Her topic was "Back to the Founders." She said, among other things, "We look backwards only to get our bearings for the next step forward."

We should endeavor, thinks Mrs. Buel, to get back to the trails blazed by the Founders, some of the foundations being in danger of dropping from our political life. These fundamentals are, said Mrs. Buel, representative government, not the pure democracy where mob tyranny may be as dangerous as was ever royal tyranny; no popular referendums to interfere with the calm judgment of elected representatives. A second fundamental is local self government in every possible place, leaving to the federal government its distinct powers, without appealing to it for subsidies and aid of every kind. Again the home should be guarded: the youth movement, the child labor amendment are specious fallacies for the nationalization of children, a long step towards socialism, and a paternal government. The descendants of the Founders have a responsibility and a duty to preserve religious ideals which are being lost as an influence.

On motion of Miss Florence Crofur of Hartford, a rising vote of thanks was given to all who had made the occasion so pleasant.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Oscar Saxe and son, Leonard of New York, were recent guests of Rutherford C. Plaut.

Miss Carrie E. Rogers is leaving today (Thursday) for a visit of a week with Greenwich friends.

Having visited in Pasadena, Cal. since November, Miss Sarah Hall leavens returned to Norwich at the week end.

Members of the Norwich sewing club were at the Cinderella Inn, Quaker Hill, during the week for an informal tea.

Mr and Mrs. Albert T. Utley, of McKinley avenue, have opened their cottage on Mott avenue, Neptune Park, for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Roland D. Ives of Yalesville, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Buckingham of Hamilton avenue.

Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. James Lewis Smith returned from New York, where she has been since Saturday, visiting her aunt, Miss Sarah Bruce, of West 87th Street.

WRIST WATCH PRESENTED TO MISS KATHLEEN DOWD

The Backus Hospital Alumnae association planned and carried to success Wednesday a surprise for the matron, Miss Kathleen A. Dowd, who is to end her supervision at the hospital June 15th. Miss Dowd was invited to the class-room of the nurses' home from 3 to 5, and there she found assembled about forty members of the Alumnae association, including a number from New London.

The room was decorated in purple and gold, the alumnae colors. Mrs. Ruth Raymond, president of the association, presented Miss Dowd a decorative basket of flowers, in which was concealed an elegant gift from the alumnae—a platinum wrist watch set with diamonds and sapphires.

Miss Dowd expressed cordial appreciation of the beautiful gift and of the affection and good will which prompted it. As a pupil nurse and later as superintendent she has been connected with the hospital for over eighteen years.

It was an interesting fact that each class since the opening of the hospital, more than 30 years ago, was represented in the assemblage of alumnae, invited to attend as a special guest was Superintendant F. Leon Hutchins, whose term of service at the hospital also ends this month.

Following the presentation the alumnae served an elaborate luncheon of chicken supreme in patty shells, potato chips, Parker house rolls, cakes, ices and coffee. The luncheon also carried out the color scheme of purple and gold.

Later, the alumnae served the same luncheon to the student nurses of the hospital.

Members of the association present from New London were: Mrs. Albert Portelance, Mrs. Clarence W. Sevin, Miss Emma Neumann and Mrs. Mary Tatro.

A most enjoyable social hour followed the formal exercises, and there were many compliments for the committee in charge of the general arrangements for the afternoon. Mrs. Josie B. Andrews, chairman, Mrs. Bernard W. Ryan, Mrs. James Mara, Miss Elizabeth A. Sullivan and Mrs. Elmer Flynn.

Made Plans For Outing

Comfort Circle of the King's Daughters met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. William H. Geer, of Washington street, 14 attending and Mrs. J. H. Allen leading the meeting. Plans were made for the annual outing in July, at the summer home of the leader, Mrs. A. T. Utley, in Neptune Park.

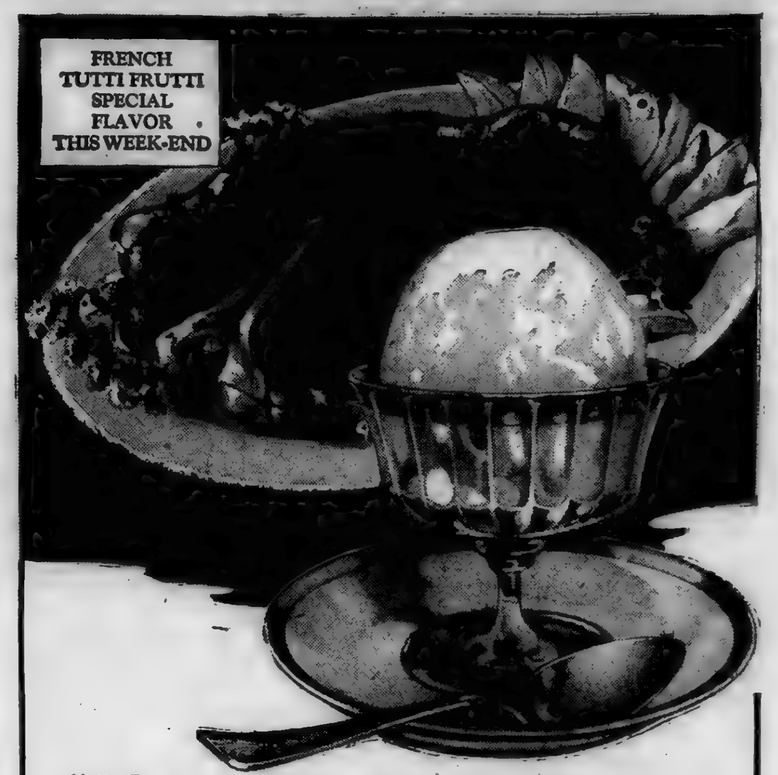
DUMMY TORPEDO WAS FOUND BY NOANK MAN

A dummy torpedo lost from the submarine O-1 during torpedo practice in Long Island Sound a few weeks ago was recovered by Capt. O. W. Beebe of Noank off Groton Long Point Tuesday. Captain Beebe put a line aboard the missile and towed it to North Dock, Noank, where it was claimed Wednesday by a despatch boat from the submarine base, which towed it back there.

While a service torpedo is valued at about $10,000, those of the dummy type are valued at about $300. Nevertheless the navy was very glad to recover the torpedo and Captain Beebe received the sincere thanks of the submarine base officials.

FINED IN LEDYARD FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Jared Gallock of Ledyard was fined $10 and costs with $9 of the fine remitted when presented before the Ledyard town court Tuesday night on a charge of reckless driving. The accused was arrested by State Policeman Frank Kulowski at Ledyard on Tuesday afternoon.



"22 More Calories in ICE CREAM than in Beefsteak"

IN 3½ ounces of Ice Cream, (the weight of an average helping) there are 207 food calories. In 3½ ounces of Beefsteak, (the weight of an average helping) food experts tell us that there are 185 food calories. A difference of 22 calories in favor of Ice Cream!

To many, this is a distinctly surprising fact—to think of taking more food into your system by eating a helping of Ice Cream than by eating a helping of Beefsteak.

Our Ice Cream is a rich food. To guarantee its purity and quality, we control our own supply of cream, and we regularly test our cream, fruits, and syrups in our own laboratory, for purity and quality. Eat some today for luncheon or dinner.

CORRUPTION CHARGED IN PENNSYLVANIA PRIMARY

In Testimony Given Before Senate Campaign Investigating Committee by C. C. McGovern, Western Manager for Governor Pinchot—Testified That the Pepper Forces Employed 35,350 "Watchers" at the Polls in Allegheny County and That the Vare Organization Had 14,140—Charges the Stealing of 20,000 Votes From Governor Pinchot.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP)—Wholesale corruption in Pittsburgh, a Pepper-Mellon stronghold, during the Pennsylvania republican primary last month, was charged today before the senate campaign investigating committee by C. C. McGovern, western manager for Governor Pinchot.

His allegations ran from the stealing of 20,000 votes from Governor Pinchot in that region to "a pure purchase of votes" by the employment of workers for Senator Pepper and Representative Vare, the successful candidate in the three-cornered race for the senatorial nomination.

McGovern told the committee that his information was that the Pepper forces had employed 35,350 "watchers" at the polls in allegheny county, of which Pittsburgh is the county seat. When he explained that these "watchers" were paid $10 each, committee members cast up a total cost which they said was $494,900. On this basis they figured that each vote for Pepper in allegheny county had cost $3.94 and each vote for vare $3.21.

McGovern declared this amounted to "pure purchase of votes" and added that this primary "outdid anything in my recollection." He asserted that, shortly after the primary he believed that the information given him before the votes cast for Pinchot "had been counted for somebody else."

Summoned to the stand when McGovern's examination was conducted, Senator Pepper testified that his personal expenses in the campaign had been $2,500 and that he had no knowledge of the details of the activities of the organization headed by W. L. Mellon, nephew of Secretary Mellon, who conducted the campaign in allegheny county for the Pepper-Fisher-Smith-Woodward ticket.

Explaining that he had begun his campaign last September, Senator Pepper said "The peculiar situation in Pennsylvania politics has led to the formation of a coalition of candidates to oppose the Vare-Smith ticket." It was explained that Edward E. Beidleman was the coalition candidate for governor on the ticket with Representative Vare.

Senator Pepper had given the committee a personal organization chart described its fusion with the Fisher-Smith-Woodward ticket, he was excused until tomorrow. W. L. Mellon was announced as the witness for a session of the committee, which will make an investigation of the Pennsylvania republican primary tomorrow.

Before Senator Pepper was called, former Representative James F. Burke, of Pittsburgh, who said he appeared as counsel for the republican campaign officials of western Pennsylvania, challenged the authority of the committee to inquire into a primary campaign.

Burke said he had not consulted Senator Pepper, but was "authorized to speak for W. M. Mellon" and others who had charge of the Pepper-Fisher-Smith-Woodward campaign. He added that those for whom he spoke would furnish any information they could give the committee, but insisted that it would be furnished voluntarily.

Albert B. Greenfield, Philadelphia, who had been summoned as an official of the Pepper campaign, appeared at the beginning of the night session and explained that he must have been subpoenaed by mistake, "because I supported Mr. Vare."

Under questioning by Chairman Reed he said that he had collected approximately $50,000 for the Vare campaign.

He placed himself at the disposal of the committee and said that he would be glad to testify further if the committee desired, but he was excused until recalled.

In calling W. L. Mellon, Senator Reed made it a matter of record that he was called out of order because he desired to leave Washington.

"What is your position?" asked Chairman Reed.

"President of the Gulf Oil company."

"Are you related to Secretary Mellon?"

"I am his nephew."

Mr. Mellon said he had known Senator Pepper since his election to the senate and that he himself long had been active in Pennsylvania politics, especially during the past four years.

Senator Reed and Mr. Mellon developed a disagreement at the beginning of the latter's testimony over the meaning of the word "conference."

"Let's not haggle over terms," counselled Chairman Reed, "because I will bear you every time."

Mellon was of the view that you first began to have conferences about Senator Pepper's candidacy?" asked Senator Reed.

"I can't remember exactly," Mellon replied. "I believe it was before the first of the year," and that "it may have been in Pittsburgh with Secretary Mellon." He added that the conferences with the secretary began last fall but that Senator Pepper was not present then.

The witness declared he did nothing further to promote Pepper's candidacy "until about April 1, when Mr. Vare came out."

Relating efforts to effect harmony in the Pennsylvania republican ranks, Mr. Mellon said, "We hoped that Mr. Vare would be content if some man he approved would be named governor and he would throw his support to Senator Pepper."

UNFILLED STEEL TONNAGE FORECASTS GOOD BUSINESS

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—A slackening in the demand for steel during May was recorded today in the official statement of the United States steel corporation, which showed a decrease of only 215,726 tons in unfilled orders at the end of the month compared with a loss of 511,-000 tons in April. The decrease in unfilled orders was below Wall Street's most optimistic estimates, which were reduced from its earlier guess of 400,000 tons.

The aggregate of unfilled tonnage on May 31 stood at 3,640,270 tons, a comparatively significant volume, the corporation said.

Reports from the trade however, indicate that the new buying which increased so rapidly late last month was being well maintained, promising a fair rate of operations throughout the summer.

JUDGE RECOGNIZES NO OTHER THAN STANDARD TIME

HARTFORD, June 10.—(AP)—The ascendancy of standard time over daylight saving time for the transaction of public business, was crisply reaffirmed by Judge Leonard J. Nickerson in the superior court today.

Assigning the trial of Anthony Sergio, of Glastonbury on a charge of theft of an automobile for next Tuesday morning, he set the hour at 10 o'clock.

"By what standard time, your honor?" asked Sergio's counsel, Thomas J. Conroy.

"I recognize no other time," said Judge Nickerson. "The statute provides for no other."

RUM RUNNER CAUGHT BY WESTPORT STATE POLICE

WESTPORT, June 10.—(AP)—Another rum runner on the Post road fell victim of the Westport state police combination when State Police-man A. J. Flanagan apprehended a hitch-hiker in Fairfield containing six men who are held on the charge of illegally transporting liquor. In the car also concealed, the officer found forty gallons of alcohol.

The operator of the car, Vincenzo Ginauro, 154 Washington street, New Britain, was arrested and a companion riding with him, Antonio Ginauro, 164 Elm street, New Britain, was arrested.

ARRESTED PRINCETON STUDENTS RELEASED

PRINCETON, N. J., June 10.—(AP)—Despite denials by Dean Christian Gauss of a disturbance participated in by two thousand students which stated only after tear bombs had been thrown and two arrested students were released, one man was reported to be in the infirmary and two were scheduled to appear before Mayor Upton tomorrow for a hearing.

BRIDGEPORT MAN SERIOUSLY BURNED IN AN EXPLOSION

BRIDGEPORT, June 10.—(AP)—Edward Clark, 35 of 40 Revere street, an employee of the Berkshire Fertilizer company, who was burned in an explosion and fire which almost totally destroyed a building owned by the company early this morning, is gamely fighting for his life at St. Vincent's hospital where physicians say the odds are against him for recovery. Clark with two other men were at work in the building where the explosion occurred and he alone received the full force of it. He was rushed to St. Vincent's hospital in the emergency hospital ambulance and for hours doctors worked over him.

Police officials today stated that cause of the fire after firemen had left after battling the fire for six hours. According to Chief Daniel E. Johnson, tonight the explosion occurred when Clark was pouring benzol into a tank which had the lid off. The force of the explosion blew the fire through a partway into the next building where the stock valued at thousands of dollars was destroyed.

MOTORIST SHOULD STOP IF HE HITS CHICKEN OR DOG

BRIDGEPORT, June 10.—(AP)—If a motorist hits even a chicken or a dog on the road, it is his duty to stop, investigate and report the incident to the authorities, it was stated by Deputy Motor Vehicle Commissioner Philip Devnew at a hearing held in the county building today.

Albert Priestley, of 315 Palisade avenue, driving on North avenue, May 11 struck and killed a dog. He neither stopped his car or made any report of the incident. The owner of the dog gave police the license numbers of his automobile and Priestley was placed under arrest chaged with evading responsibility.

Commissioner Devnew restored to Priestley his driver's license which was suspended at the time of his arrest, impressing upon him the importance of reporting an accident of any kind.

HOUSE COMMITTEE ACTION ON PROHIBITION RESOLUTION

WASHINGTON, June 10—(AP)—Taking a hand in the controversy over prohibition, the house judiciary committee refused today to approve a resolution to prohibit use of state and local police as federal enforcement agents.

The proposal, sponsored by Representative Britten, republican, Illinois, would have nullified the recent order issued by President Coolidge, which, although held legal by a majority of the senate judiciary committee, probably will not be carried into effect, at least for the present.

Coincident with the committee's action, representatives of a group of temperance organizations, among them the Anti-Saloon league and the Board of Morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, issued in a statement proposing united action against "futile and non-binding referanda" on the prohibition question.

The legislative committee of the Anti-Saloon league also announced it had adopted a resolution urging "the dry forces of the nation to oppose and abstain from participating in all unconstitutional referenda which have no binding effect and to participate only in those which have constitutional authority."

The house committee turned down the Britten proposal eight to seven, Chairman Graham casting the deciding vote. Specifically, it would have forbidden employment of any state officials until they had severed their connection with the state service, and of so-called "dollar a year men" without express authorization from congress.

The resolution also proposed that all prohibition agents be placed under civil service, but the committee looked also with disfavor on this provision on the ground that a bill providing for this step, had already been passed by the house, and is now awaiting senate approval.

In rejecting the Britten proposal, the committee placed its approval on the president's order, the report prepared by Chairman Graham declaring that it was "clearly intended to relieve against the prohibitions" of an executive order by President Grant which, with some exception, forbade federal officers from simultaneously holding of state positions.

CANCELLED CHECKS FIGURE IN N. Y. BOOTLEG MILK CASE

NEW YORK, June 10—(AP)—Cancelled checks representing more than $500,000 in alleged bootleg milk bribe money and having as their origin the Nestles Food company and other association concerneries were admitted as evidence in the prosecution's case against Thomas J. Coughlin, accused of accepting bribes while in public office, today.

The prosecution called Henry Danziger, confessed agent of the alleged bootleg milk ring who testified that Coughlin had received 90 per cent of the money which he, Danziger obtained from the milk companies.

He said that he was paid at the rate of 81 a can on all milk from the Nestles and allied companies which entered New York on health department permits secured by Coughlin. He said that the Valley Dairy company, a subsidiary of the Nestles concern, had paid him more than $31,000 between the summer of 1924 and December 1925. Antine company contributed about $50,000 he said. Coughlin during that period was secretary to Dr. Frank J. Monaghan then health commissioner.

Danziger testified that when Coughlin demanded a 90 per cent share of his "profits" Hopkins protested but was told that the health department secretary had to "take care of someone else." When he asked who this other person was, he said, he was told by Coughlin that "good soldiers don't ask questions."

Danziger testified that the first western permit to get a permit to ship cream from the Wisconsin plant to New York was Mark H. Fox of Chicago. His first check was from Fox, he said, and was for $400, payable to Danziger. Coughlin demanded 90 per cent, Danziger testified, and got it.

Director of Public Safety Elliot Succeding Where General Butler Failed.

PHILADELPHIA, June 10—(AP)—Arrests in this city during the first five months of this year, under Director of Public Safety Elliott, who succeeded General Smedley Butler, increased more than 7,000 over the number made in the same period in 1924 under Butler. These figures were made public today by the superintendent of police.

The statistics also show that 1,748 more saloons and "speakeasies" have been raided this year than last year, when Director Butler was head of Philadelphia's police. Convictions of those arrested, however, was only about half as many as were convicted in 1924.

Other comparisons of the periods under Elliott and Butler show that highway robberies dropped from 341 in 1924 to 155 this year, and larcenies from 2,221 to 858. There were four more murders this year than during the same months in 1924.

DESERTER HELD FOR SHOOTING TAXI DRIVER

LONG BRANCH, N. J., June 10—(AP)—William Richardson, 25 year old deserter tonight was taken from the Freehold jail to Fort Monmouth to await was department action in connection with the shooting of a Newark taxi driver, the assault of a Jersey City driver and of a Lieutenant of marines stationed at the Fort.

Authorities at Monmouth Memorial hospital said Joseph Mazza, the Newark chauffeur, would not recover. He was shot through the lungs and abdomen.

Four hours after the shooting of Mazza, bloodstains from the state police station at Wilmetha traced Richardson from the scene of the shooting to Fort Monmouth, arriving there as the deserter was being placed under arrest for an alleged assault upon Lieutenant J. J. Francis, of the marines.

Before lapsing into unconsciousness, Mazza identified Richardson as his assailant. John Cogan of Newark, who rode with him, also identified the soldier.

BURGLAR LEFT NOTE OF REGRET FOR MISDEED

WATERBURY, June 10—(AP)—"Married, big family. Bring back. Need money. Sorry, no way out."

This was the note, written on a paper bag, and left by a burglar who this noon is believed to have chloroformed Mrs. Frank Underhill of 32 Jacoby street and departed with $50 before she regained consciousness two hours later, according to a report received by the police.

Mrs. Underhill told the police that the man asked for something to eat when he called at her home at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon. He placed a handkerchief over her face she said. Mrs. Underhill told police she thought the handkerchief must have been soaked in chloroform. When she recovered two hours later, $50 was missing from a box in the pantry.

PROBLEMS OF FORMING CABINET IN FRANCE

PARIS, June 10.—(AP)—The proposed national union or coalition cabinet for France appears to be hanging fire.

Premier Briand is finding that the problem of transferring his ministry presents greater difficulties than appear in the minds of those who only hope to devise some means of carrying it through.

The premier, according to those close to him, still reckons with the majority of the bill which was cleared in 1924 although his cabinet has been saved on two occasions since the chamber recently reconvened by the moderates and conservatives.

To shift the government majority with any assurance of stability during the present financial crisis appears an impossibility to the premier. While the moderates and conservatives might be relied upon to support the government's financial measures, a coalition government would split on the theory of the old majority bloc of the left on other questions.

On the other hand, the leaders of the two rate groups, declare that they cannot be relied on permanently to furnish a partisan cabinet combination with the means of existence.

CLAIM FRIGHTENED WOMAN CAUSED FATAL ACCIDENT

WOODSVILLE, N. H., June 10—(AP)—A frightened woman seizing the wheel of a skidding automobile and causing a fatal accident was the plea in the defense drew today at the trial of Judge Emil A. Jones of Lebanon. He is charged with second degree manslaughter in that the car he was driving went off the road one night last January, killing Mrs. Mildred Presley, a passenger.

The state scored a point in rebuttal testimony when a nurse, testified that Mrs. Ozia Vasseur, sister of Mrs. Presley, and injured in the accident, told her in the hospital that "we had too much whiskey in the party." The state earlier brought an admission from Judge Jones on the witness stand that he had not told an insurance adjustor that Mrs. Presley had grabbed the wheel as he himself had testified.

Mrs. Vaseur, for the defense said that she had and her sister drank alcohol in Judge Jones' office the evening of the accident, but that the judge had not been drinking. She said she had known Mrs. Presley to seize the driving wheel on previous occasions, and then told the account of the accident.

SECOND ROYAL COURT HELD AT BUCKINGHAM PALACE

LONDON, June 10.—(AP)—The second royal court was held at Buckingham palace tonight. It was characterized by the same scenes as the first court, with a great gathering of spectators around the palace gates and the privileged holders of "commands" to the number of 900 lining up in automobiles and carriages for the opening of the ball.

Mrs. Houghton wife of the American ambassador, presented nine American women to King George and Queen Mary.

The queen wore a charming gown of white and silver, embroidered with crystal and diamante. The train was of shimmering silver brocade and old Point de Flandre lace. She wore a diadem, with diamond and pearl ornamenta.

Ex-Tax Collector of Bridgeport Paroled

Howard F. Smith Had Been Serving Sentence on Charge of Embezzling $83,500.

BRIDGEPORT, June 10—(AP)—Howard F. Smith, former tax collector of Bridgeport under the successive administrations of Mayor Clifford B. Wilson, has been paroled from the state prison at Wethersfield.

Smith, who was serving a sentence of from three to eight yeras on the charge of embezzling $83,500 of the city funds in his custody, was paroled on June 2, but his release did not become known until today. Comptroller Frederick M. Salmon, of Westport, member of the state prison board and of the board of parole, confirmed the report of Smith's release.

Smith has not returned to Bridgeport, so far as could be learned. He is understood to have a position in another city, but the prison authorities declined to reveal where he had gone except that he will report to the parole authorities regularly as is required of prisoners released on parole.

Smith's sister, Mrs. Frank L. Cogill, and his brother, Eugene H. Smith, of this city, profess to know nothing about his parole.

Attorney Charles Stuart Canfield, who acted as counsel for Smith without fee after the former tax collector was apprehended in November 1923, said tonight that he knew nothing of the parole board's action and had nothing to do with it. He said he understood that Smith had been trying to be paroled, but was unacquainted with the result of his endeavor. Mrs. Cogill said "I can't tell you," when asked concerning her brother's whereabouts and Eugene Smith said so far as he knew his brother was still in state's prison.

Smith was sentenced by Judge Isaac Wolfe in superior court on December 12, 1923, to from three to six years in state's prison, after he had pleaded guilty to embezzling, $83,500.08 in tax money, $60,300.08 of which he received from the Remington Arms company on February 1, 1921 and $23,500 of which was received from the Bridgeport Brass company in October 1921.

SOCIALISTS CREATED AN UPROAR IN REICHSTAG

BERLIN, June 10—(AP)—The Reichstag was in an uproar today when the subject of President Von Hindenburg's letter declaring against confiscation of the former rulers' property aroused the wrath of the socialists. They abandoned the reserve with which the presidential office has heretofore been treated.

Charging the president with "giving up the neutrality which he solemnly promised to observe in internal political controversial questions," the socialists, through former Chancellor Hermann Mueller, declared: "This constitutes a violation of the non-partisanship incumbent upon the president by virtue of his office."

President Von Hindenburg's letter was addressed to Count Frederick Von Loebell, monarchist leader and Von Hindenburg's campaign manager in the presidential elections. He characterized the proposed sequestral the property of former German emperor and other German rulers as "an attack on the constitutional foundations of the fundamental laws of morals and justice."

In his speech in the Reichstag today Dr. Mueller asked: "Is it right for the president to stamp the 12,000,000 citizens who signed the referendum petition as committing a lawless and immoral act?"

Concluding his speech angrily, the former chancellor exclaimed: "The social democratic party here with openly protests against the participation of the president and urges the voters to participate in the referendum so that popular zeal may triumph over political trickery."

The excitement and noise increased as Chancellor Marx, in behalf of the government, stated there was no reason to object to President Von Hindenburg's letter.

COUNCIL L. OF N. REJECTS RESIGNATION OF BRAZIL

Decides That the Resignation of Brazil as a Non-Permanent Member of the Council Must Be Submitted to the League Assembly—Senor Bule, Representative of Spain, Announced That His Country Could Never Accept Classification as a Secondary Power.

GENEVA, June 10.—(AP)—Brazil has resigned as a member of the council of the league of nations, in which she holds a non-permanent seat. As to Brazil's resignation from the league of nations, the decision on this important step will be communicated later.

Such, in brief, is the substance of a telegram from his government, which Dr. Mello Franco handed to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general in the course of a meeting of the council tonight, as given out by league officials and confirmed by members of the Brazilian delegation.

The council did not accept Brazil's resignation, on the ground that the assembly of the league alone is empowered to act.

A second feature of a most exciting day in league history was the announcement by the representative of Spain, Senor Baule, that his country could never accept classification as a secondary power, and that her attitude toward the general council problem remained unchanged.

Both Brazilian and Spanish announcements, which arise from the fact that these countries think their cause of obtaining permanent seats in the council is hopeless, have created the greatest confusion, and it is not known yet definitely whether Brazil and Spain actually intend to quit the league.

Diplomatic efforts will be concentrated to induce them not to take what Sir Austen Chamberlain has called an irrevocable step perhaps promises to support both of them for re-election as temporary members whenever they will validly become permanent members.

Brazil's stand as interpreted by the league is that in order not to lose a position of voting the question of Germany to the council she will withdraws from that body. The question of Brazil's resignation from the league is left open, with the possibility that she may withdraw from the league unless she obtains a favorable seat. This can only be done by Dr. Mello Franco's statement that Brazil will make a definite and final report to the reorganization commission.

The June session of the council adjourned tonight after deciding to adhere to the programme to convoke a conference on September 1 at Geneva of the members of the world court to discuss the American reservations on the court, because several additional states have accepted an invitation to participate. The United States has decided not to take part.

As it was leaving the league palace Dr. Mello Franco told the officials that it was, of course, understood that Brazil continues her representation on the commission, both states continue to be effective members of the league.

Spain's position indicates that she, too, Diaz, will not be a candidate for election to temporary membership in the council, but league leaders are sticking to the hope that both can be won over. The council crisis, however, continues, and it is not impossible that both Brazil and Spain, having adopted such a strong position may eventually decide on leaving not only the council, but also the league.

REASONS GIVEN BY THE SPANISH GOVERNMENT

MADRID, June 10.—(AP)—The Spanish government tonight in an official statement announced its reasons for having the Spanish representative at Geneva state to the council of the league of nations that Spain could never accept classification as a secondary power. The statement said: "The government occupied the league representative on the council of the league of nations to vote relative to the pending amendment to article four of the league covenant by virtue of which amendment the members of the council can stand for re-election.

"By consequence Spain renounced her desire of re-election as a non-permanent member at the September meeting of the council and thus placed herself with the opposition to be elected a permanent member of the council."

NEGRO BANDITS SENT TO CHESHIRE REFORMATORY

HARTFORD, June 10—(AP)—Four negro youths who were members of a gang who recently terorized motorists in the Nott street section of Wethersfield, were sentenced to the Connecticut reformatory at Cheshire for seven years, while a fifth hoodlum was sentenced to state prison for from one to three years by Judge Leonard J. Nicholson of the superior court today. All pleaded guilty to highway robbery. The charge of assault on a South Manchester woman and assault on two state policemen were nolled by State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn.

The youths sentenced to the reformatory were Arthur Mills, 20, and his brother, Leslie Mills, 18, both of Hartford, and Wade Reid, 19, and Thomas Kibbelow, 18, both of Wethersfield. Thomas, who has also been sentenced to state prison was Edward Burch, 29, of Hartford, who is married and has a child. The court suspended sentence on Reginald Bissonette, two colored youths, and Harold Reid, who were under the age of 16. He ordered the boys to appear in the juvenile court on May 25 for sentence. Following his sentence in the penitentiary during which he played baseball at the head of a prison team which set for itself a goal started vigorously from scratch, to a $1 billion dollars in one month, a million dollars had been taken away by young leaders in a post office raid, Reid was paroled from a New York jail and has since entered the organization.

ELKS' PLAN FLAG DAY OBSERVANCE FOR MONDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 10—Willimantic lodge No. 1311, B. P. O. E., is to observe Flag Day Monday, June 14th. It was originally intended to hold the ceremonies at Elks' Park on Pleasant street, but building operations in conection with the new home and the process of construction and the fact that portions of the grounds have been seeded down, led to a change in plans. The ceremonies will take place in the town hall at 8 p. m. and will be preceded by a short street parade to music by the B. P. O. E. band, C. E. Wheeler, director. The members are to assemble in front of their quarters, corner of Bank and Main streets at 7.15. A concert by the band will be given before the procession starts.

Exercises at the town hall will be in charge of Exalted Ruler Clarence H. Mathieu and other officers of the lodge. The oration will be given by Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton; a veteran of the Spanish-American war. There will be special vocal and instrumental numbers. The affair will be open to the public.

The committee in charge is Roy W. Downer, chairman, Michael E. Sullivan, George Basford, Egbert A. Case and J. Francis Monarty.

ATTORNEY HIBBERD R. NORMAN HAS REPORT ACCEPTED

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 10—A report of the committee on the sale of the Sehy farm, Ashford, the result of a foreclosure suit brought originally by John and Anna Sehy against Joe Fugedi and Steve Gaspar, was presented by Attorney Hibberd R. Norman, of Norwich before Justice George E. Hinman in the superior court room Thursday afternoon. Gaspar disappeared from this section over a year ago. The plaintiffs brought the action to recover on a second mortgage, but before the suit came before the recent civil term of the Windham county superior court, the Farmers' Land bank of Springfield, Mass., holding a first mortgage on the farm, stepped in. Attorney Norman argued the case before Judge Christopher L. Avery and secured judgment for the bank to the amount of $3,235.71. Judge Avery appointed John W. Hinkle of Windham Center a committee of one to make the sale of the farm to satisfy the amount of judgment. The appraisers appointed were James E. A. Edgerton, Paul Whitehouse and Henry C. Barlow.

Returns from the committee and appraiser were to have been made June 1st, the final day of the session of court, but the committee's work was not fully completed. The farm has since been disposed of for something over $3,400. Thursday afternoon Justice Hinman heard the report of Attorney Norman which was accepted and the latter was ordered to clear up the case on behalf of the Federal Land bank.

A slight accident occurred early on Wednesday evening at the bridge just over the city line in Mansfield on the road to Storrs, when an automobile owned by Lewis G. Gerry, No. 702 Main street, was damaged. The car struck the corner of the bridge, bending a fender when the driver was forced to apply the brakes suddenly as a machine just ahead came to a sudden stop, the driver of this car failing to give a warning signal. The Gerry car slid into the soft earth near the bridge. Two small boys who reside in the neighborhood were struck by the local man's machine and injured slightly.

The year's program of Willimantic Woman's club was concluded Thursday afternoon with a successful garden party at the home of Judge and Mrs. Otto B. Robinson, No. 267 Lewiston avenue. There was an unusually large number present to enjoy the beautiful flowers and the fine lawn. Little Miss Eleanor Harriet Price, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Price of Hartford added to the pleasure of the afternoon by her readings. Her first group included: "You Have the Same Old Smile," by Mary Parker; "Old Aunt Mary," James Whitcomb Riley; "Forgetful Pa" and "Truthful James" by Edgar Guest.

Her second group comprised "De 'Mericana Girl," by T. A. Daly and "Saving the Ring," anonymous, both in the Italian dialect; "Over Night a Rose," by Caroline Giltman and "An Original Sketch of an Effected Singing Teacher." Her two encore numbers were "Mother Mine" and "You's Mah Lil' Coal Black Baby". Miss Price is only eleven and the expression and individuality in each number won much favor. Sandwiches and punch were served by the hospitality committee of the club.

Rev. James G. Graham pastor of Windham Center Congregational church, is to have his vacation the latter part of the month. With Mrs. Graham eh will leave Tuesday next for Washington, D. C., to visit relatives.

A high mass of requiem for Nicholas Rosati, killed by an automobile near his home in South Chaplin, May 10th, was at St. Joseph's church on Thursday morning at 7.30 o'clock.

Nine tables were in play at a very enjoyable whist, held in G. A. R. hall Wednesday evening under the auspices of A. C. Tyler auxiliary, U. S. W. V. The prizes were awarded Mrs. Ruth Anthony, Mrs. A. A. Trudeau and Miss Gabriele Choquette; Mr. Hecker and William McLoughlin. A basket of fruit was awarded Mrs. Margaret Moran. Cake and coffee were served.

Thursday forenoon, Herbert Lincoln of No. 42 Ash street reported to the police that his 1926 model Chevrolet touring car was stolen from the yard in the rear of his home, between 1 o'clock and daybreak. Lincoln is employed at the New York Lunch on Railroad street and drove the machine to his home after his work. When he rose Thursday morning the car was missing. The automobile is light grey with black wheels; the registry number is 43-788.

At the meeting of the general committee in charge of the Boys' Olympic day, to be held here Saturday, June 19, the special sub-committee, Thomas A. Callaghan, chairman, Kenneth N. Hillhouse and John B. Edgerton submitted a report which was adopted, recommending three individual field events in each of three classes. The entrants will be classed according to age, 12 to 14, 14 to 16 and 16 to 19. The events will be, running broad jump, running high jump and a sprint. Three prizes will be given in each event. For the younger boys, the sprint will cover a distance of 50 yards, for the intermediate class 75 yards and for the older boys 100 yards. Entry blanks will be distributed through the schools and factories for the benefit of boys desiring to enter. The blanks must be filed in advance.

There will be also a grammar school relay race, for which a suitable team prize will be awarded. The deciding game in the local grammar school league will also be played between St. Joseph's school and Natchaug grammar school. The program of sports at Recreation park will be preceded by a street parade, starting at 1 o'clock. The ball game is to begin at 3:30.

Forty members and guests attended the weekly meeting and dinner of Willimantic Exchange club, held at Mansfield Center Congregational church Wednesday evening. Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones was host. President Egbert A. Case presided. An excellent dinner was served by the women's society, Mrs. T. Hawthorne Jones as chairman. The following guests were in attendance: H. Clinton Lathrop and Roland Ellison, with Dr. F. E. Guild; Dr. Harry Putnam of St. Petersburg, Fla., with Robert H. Fenton; Lucius Bigelow of Buffalo, N. Y., with Rev. Mr. Jones; First Selectman Ernest P. Chesbro, with Samuel Chesbro; Fred L. Avery, with Dixon Van Zandt; and Herbert D. Pollard, with Edgar E. Bass. Dr. Robert C. White gave an interesting travelog on his western trip the past winter. Alfred P. Abbe reported on the outing to be held by the club next Wednesday evening. A. H. Morrill reported for the extension committee in regard to progress toward formation of a club at Stafford Springs. The invitation of Roland B. Jordan for a joint meeting and outing with Rotary at the local country club was accepted. Rev. Frederick C. Williams spoke on behalf of Swarthmore Chautauqua.

Thursday, Fire Chief Henry J. Kelley received for the members of the fire department two boxes of cigars from Doctors F. C. Jackson and Victor Vores and Charles W. Tyron in appreciation of the work of the department during the fire early Tuesday morning which damaged the Alling Rubber company block, Main street. Doctors Jackson and Vores and Mr. Tyron occupy suites in the block, which was purchased recently by Sidney B. Alling from the company of which he is treasurer. Mr. Alling stated Thursday that the building is fully covered by insurance.

An interesting exhibit of garments made by Miss Josephine Lennox's sewing class of 70, was held Wednesday afternoon at Windham high school. Refreshments were served by pupils of Miss Helen Barker of the domestic science class. Garments of silk, cotton, linen and wool embroidered articles, smocking, etc., were shown. A feature of the exhibits was the children's garments. Miss Barker's class this year has been writing the essays on the value of home economics education. That of Faun Jewett was chosen to represent the school, at a conference to be held at Connecticut Agricultural college, Storrs, June 22, 23 and 24. The conference is in vocational home economics for the schools of the state. Mary Riordan and Sophie Bernat, Miss Barker's pupils, will give a lecture on first aid and home care of the sick. Little Margaret Riordan, three, will act, as their patient in the demonstration.

Miss Margaret Smith of Windham National bank left Thursday afternoon to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. Julian H. Norton of Lake Compounce, Bristol, Thursday evening. Miss Smith attended a dance in Bristol.

According to the weekly morbidity report of the state department of health for the week ending June 5, only one case of measles was reported to the department from the town of Windham.

Funeral services for Homer L. Willis were held at his home on South Park street, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead officiated. Burial was in the family plot in Willimantic cemetery. The bearers were Albert Welck, William Lincoln, Thomas Doyle, James Mooney, Russell Rogers and Arthur Leblond. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge of the arrangements.

District Deputy T. Frank Cunningham of this city will deliver the oration at the annual memorial exercises of San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus, Sunday afternoon. The oration will take place at St. Joseph's cemetery, following the church service and in connection with the annual decoration of graves of departed members.

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Capitol Theatre corporation was held in the theatre building Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The reports of the secretary and treasurer were read and accepted. The election of directors for 1926 and 1927 resulted in the following selections: Charles A. Gates, Valentine L. Murphy, George A. Bartlett, J. Francis Keon, P. J. Twomey, P. J. Gribbon, Aime J. Martineau, Abe Davidson, Attorney Vincine Quinn, P. J. Hine and Alvin E. Casey. After the meeting, the stockholders were the guests of the management at the matinee vaudeville and picture show, also made a thorough inspection of the building.

CORONER FREES LANE OF BLAME FOR BOY'S DEATH

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 10—Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson has filed with the clerk of the Windham county superior court, his findings in the inquest on the death of Nicholas Rosati, fatally injured on Willimantic-Hampton state highway at Clark's Corner, on the early evening of May 10th, when struck by an automobile driven by Herbert D. Lane of Boston, Mass. The boy died at St. Joseph's hospital in this city seven hours after the accident. Coroner Bill found that Lane was not criminally negligent and exonerated him from criminal liability.

A Hudson coach belonging to Peter Dusault, of this city, was damaged by fire Thursday evening shortly before 7 o'clock when the machine was being driven on lower Main street. A bell alarm resulted in a quick response by Engine Co. No. 1 which extinguished the blaze with three gallons of chemical. The wiring of the machine was badly damaged.

Plainfield was victorious over Willimantic in the Charleston contest, held at the Capitol theatre here Thursday night. The three Plainfield dancers appearing individually and as a team won the honors over Willimantic's best. Plainfield was represented by Vernon Waters, Harry Johnson and Edward Bergeron. The local dancers were Ovide Bachand, Harold Sypher and Hector Rivard.

OVER EACH GRAVE OF OSAGE INDIAN IS AN AMERICAN FLAG

PAWHUSKA, Okla., June 10 (AP)—Over the grave of each Osage Indian in the Osage nation floats an American flag—symbol of the red man's faith in the "Great White Father."

The white man's oil wells have made the Osages the richest people on earth. Interests of the tribe are pooled by the government and every year the flood of black gold pours and average income of $14,000 into the lap of each member.

This condition has made the Indian the prey of the avaricious white man. He has been cheated, robbed and even slain for his wealth.

But through it all, the Osage has maintained steadfast confidence in the power of the government to right his wrongs and restore him to his former tranquil life.

The flags are not flown in accordance with regulations. Day and night they flutter over the graves until frayed and faded, they are replaced with fresh banners. The sentiment that brought their display is so genuine that no protest is made against the practice.

COLOMA OF GOLDRUSH DAYS NOW A SPECTRE

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 10 (AP)—Hidden in the Eldorado county hills northeast of here, lies the original boom town of the Gold Rush days—Coloma, on the site where James Marshall found the first flake of yellow metal that was the stimulus for the [illegible] westward migration [illegible] to mining.

Once a city of 10,000 population, it has dwindled now [illegible] many persons careful to preserve a local [illegible]

In this village in which the county's present day prosperity was born there remain on its main street only a combination grocery store and lunch counter, a postoffice, an automobile service station and here and there the shell of a fire gutted building or the weed-grown foundations of business blocks.

When the gold fever was at its height, stores of all kinds lined the streets of Coloma—there were 14 hotels, the inevitable Wells-Fargo express office and the usual saloons, gambling houses, a Chinese bank and even a sewing machine agent's office. There was a jail, an armory, four churches and three schools.

Fool's gold still glitters in the sand near the monument marking the site of Sutter's saw mill in the mill race of which Marshall made his discovery, but the yellow wealth of '48 went with the six pony express lines that operated between Coloma and surrounding mines delivering mail for a dollar an ounce.

The old jail which housed killers and bad men in those days now is a stable. On a slope back of the town is the lonesome-looking memorial statue of Marshall with bronze finger pointing to the spot where the gold rush began.

HOUSES OF ART MARKET GROUPED AS WALL STREET

NEW YORK, June 10 (AP)—In a little section between two of Manhattan's most famous avenues, Fifth and Park, from Fifty-sixth to Fifty-ninth streets is one of the art centers of the world.

There, like stock and bond brokers have gathered in the vicinity of Wall Street, antique dealers have located near the art auction houses.

Within short walking distance of each other are two of the largest art galleries auction establishments in the country—the American and the Anderson—where many foreign and domestic collections are sold each season.

In addition to the numerous American shops in the vicinity are the branches of French, English, Spanish and Italian houses such as Cattadori, Seidletz and Van Baarn. New York's rapid progress as an art capital attracted them to this country.

There is not the hustle and confusion in this market, however. A walk through the houses is more like a visit to the museums. But the "transactions" run into millions of dollars annually.

A kind word often does more good than a dollar, but most of us would rather have the dollar.

SMALL MOTOR CAR SEEN AS RELIEF IN TRAFFIC

DETROIT, June 10 (AP)—A small motorcar, to include American production methods and the individuality of European design, which will largely solve the problem of fuel waste and traffic congestion, is expected as the next major step in the automotive industry.

While American manufacturers have been perfecting their automobiles along production lines, some of their engineers have been in Europe, studying improvements in small-car design from the point of minimum material, fuel economy and effect on conditions of traffic.

The prediction is made that some of the ideas which manufacturers abroad have been developing will be found suitable for automobiles in this country. They consider the gradual reduction of piston displacement in racing cars an accurate index of the trend of engine design.

The man who tells tiresome stories usually manages to finish them in spite of interruptions.

DANIELSON

DIPLOMAS PRESENTED 72, AT GRADUATING EXERCISES

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 10—Seventy-two pupils of the eighth grade of the town of Killingly schools received diplomas from Supt. William E. Parker, Thursday afternoon, toward the close of graduating exercises held in the town hall. The pupils came from districts in Danielson, Dayville, Goodyear, Attawaugan, East Killingly, Killingly Center and South Killingly.

The exercises brought out an attendance that filled the hall and the program was such as to arouse keen interest and appreciation. In the evening graduating exercises for the East Brooklyn and Brooklyn Center schools were held in Unitarian hall, Brooklyn, and were specially well attended.

The programs at both graduations and the list of graduates follows:

Processional, "Under the Banner of Victory," F. Von Blon; Miss Leona G. Krans; Invocation, Rev. Chester [illegible]; singing, Twenty-third Psalm, Mendelssohn; Graduating class; essay, "The Expansion of the West," Clark Wood, Danielson; recitation, "Guns," Florence Shippee, Killingly Center; singing "Who is Sylvia," Schubert, Grade VIII, Attawaugan; essay, "The Handicap of Life" [illegible]; poem, "America for Me" Mabel [illegible]; [illegible]; "Dewey and [illegible]"; essay, Donald [illegible], Dolor Ardin, Attawaugan; [illegible]; [illegible]; Grade VIII, Danielson, essay, "The Meaning of Democracy", George Coubrie, East Killingly; exercise, "The Dance at Road Song" Eighth grade [illegible], Dayville; recitation, "The Bell" [illegible]; Grade School Valedictorian, [illegible]; "Patriotic Song", Grieg, grade [illegible]; [illegible]; [illegible];

PRIMARY CAMPAIGNS

How far the primary has come from eliminating the huge expenditures to secure a nomination is being illustrated in the senate investigation that is being conducted relative to the Pennsylvania primary. Running for nomination is an expensive luxury. It was disclosed in connection with Governor Pinchot's campaign to become the chief executive of the Keystone state and it is now being revealed in the expenditures that were made in his behalf in his try to become the republican candidate for the United States senator from that state. He finished a poor third and yet the known expenditures in his behalf reached the total of nearly $200,000. The governor contributed $40,000 personally and his wife and aunt another $410,000, sums which are quite out of the reach of a poor family, and more than five times as much as various organizations contributed in his behalf.

Much has been said in criticism of the expenditures that were made in the Newberry campaign a few years in Michigan, but here is a case where the governor of a state plunged in even deeper and failed by hundreds of thousands of votes of getting the coveted nomination.

Was it wrong in Newberry's case because he won and right in Pinchot's case just because he lost? Or is that anything which shows that it was wrong in either case under the conditions which must be met by the primary system?

What was spent by Congressman Vare and his supporting organizations will be disclosed, as well as the total funds used in behalf of Senator Pepper. The former personally contributed a sum somewhere in excess of Governor Pinchot, while the Pepper contribution was $2500. More will be learned as to such complete expenditures as are obtainable as the inquiry advances.

Thus far it appears that the greatest excuse for the use of so much money is the primary itself. It encourages campaigns which were never resorted to under the convention system and there's no telling what campaigns will cost in the struggle to win.

DISARMAMENT MUST WAIT

Just what the result of the disarmament conference at Geneva would be no one was prepared to say. There was however little confidence that anything would be accomplished, although when it was first suggested the countries of Europe were in a mood to act sanely. That was following the Locarno conference, but that favorable situation lasted but a short time. It was expecting too much and it was not long before there were indications to that effect. Conditions developed which showed that where certain countries might have been willing to give favorable consideration to disarmament provisions at one time it was impossible to do so later. Strife and threats of trouble did much to alter the situation.

Thus when the conference, even though it was simply a preliminary for the consideration of a program, was called it was regarded as a forlorn hope, but stress was laid upon not attempting too much with the hope that something might be accomplished in the way of advancing the naval disarmament if nothing more was accomplished.

With France balking and others presumably well satisfied to have it balk, a damper is put upon it. It confirms the belief so often expressed that Europe is really no nearer disarmament than it ever has been. It hasn't gotten to the point where it can eliminate distrust. It always has been and still is suspicious of the aims and actions of its neighbors and is unwilling to toe the line under an agreement to restrict armament for fear that others will backslide. The fact is of course that until Russia can be gotten to join with the others in some such arrangement there is certain to be an unwillingness on the part of others to tie their own hands.

That the time was not ripe for general disarmament was clearly indicated. The one chance was to follow the suggestion made by this government that new features of the naval pact be adopted, but even that appears to have gone a glimmering. European politics has too long been fed up on war preparations to suddenly plunge into disarmament despite of the lessons of the World War.

HEALTH OF CREWS

Enforcement of the laws which are considered necessary in order to give the proper protection to the people of the country encounters opposition whether it involves immigrants or concerns health regulations.

Because it was found that crews of foreign vessels where being admitted to this country during the stay of their vessels in port with too slack inspection, a second and more strict examination has been ordered. It is a change from past practices, but it is only what is premitted under the law and the authorities have apparently decided that it is for the best interests of the country that the laxity should be overcome.

That the crews of such vessels do not like it can be readily understood, especially if they have been getting by the inspectors with health conditions which ought not to be tolerated. Crews are permitted shore leave under certain restrictions. Inasmuch as they mingle with others, quite the same as immigrants would, it is important that they should not be the carrier of any disease. The fact is taht there should be no chances taken just because they are members of some passenger vessel's crew. What is being required of them now is only what is insisted upon from crews of tramp steamers. There may be exceptions taken to the necessity for such a requirement and there can be anticipated that there will be protests filed, but when it comes to maintaining health conditions something more than likes and dislikes must be taken into consideration. If there is no justification for the establishment of the double examination which has been instituted it will be possible to demonstrate it through a consideration of the protests, but it seems highly probable that that situation was fully looked into and decided following the recommendations and before the increased precautions were put into operation. If however, such is not the case and there is no ground for the second examination the proper authorities can be expected to provide relief.

SWIMMING INSTRUCTIONS

In view of the experiences during past years, it is possible to estimate rather closely the number of drownings that can be expected during the coming summer. Of that number some will be swimmers but the great majority will probably be those who cannot swim and who have never tried to learn in spite of the fact that they are constantly tempting fate on and about the water.

For that reason there is much to be said in favor of the plan that is being adopted in Springfield of finding out through a questionnaire how many of the children in the schools have learned to swim and how many do not. There will be some who are not given the time to swim and who would not be advised to learn but the idea of getting the consent of the parents of the children who do not swim to have them get instructions at several outdoor swimming places is a capital one.

Such efforts in behalf of swimming instructions for the purpose of preventing drownings deserves every encouragement. Locally many children have received such benefits through Y. M. C. A. efforts. In certain colleges it is necessary to learn to swim as part of the requirements. How many persons have escaped a watery grave because they knew how to swim would be hard to estimate, but being able to take care of themselves in the water is of vital importance and all who are in proper physical condition should welcome the chance to learn.

The move that is being made in Springfield is highly commendable and it would be of the greatest value if it could be employed in every city. The effort to save the lives of children is well directed.

THE WHITE HOUSE ROOF

Just how congress will react to the recommendation of the budget director that $375,000 be appropriation for the reconstruction of the roof of the white house is not known, but if this recommendation is backed up by the opinion of engineers there is nothing else to do but vote it and get the work done before any worse conditions develop.

It is to be realized that this is not a change that is being made to suit someone's fancy. It deals with a necessity. The reinforcement which has been attempted at different times has apparently not accomplished all that was expected or needed. It is of the utmost importance that the white house roof should be secure and that all possibility of its collapsing under the weight of a heavy load be now eliminated.

It would be folly indeed to undertake to save this third of a million and take a chance that nothing will happen, inasmuch as the condition is known the time to apply the remedy is now.

One can readily apreciate what the situation would be if through neglect the roof should collapse, whether it was actually accompanied by loss of life or not. The need is to avoid any such possibility. That can be done if the work is authorized and put through this summer, and the situation cannot be disregarded by congress without assuming the responsibility for anything that might happen in case nothing is done to relieve the condition which is now said to exist. It is apparently no small job that is involved if we are to judge by the amount that will be required to accomplish it.

EDITORIAL NOTES

For many after graduation will come the college of hard knocks.

Have you begun to think that it might be a good idea to interest yourself in the local tax situation?

No way has as yet been found of bringing sunken submarines to the surface as rapidly as they go down.

From the attitude of Brookhart since the primary he apparently expects congress will now eat out of his hand.

The man on the corner says: Those who get publicity out of unsavory cases do not always need it, but they cannot escape it.

That demand that motion picture producers abandon the practice of picking up sensationalists and notorious personages as stars will find many supporters.

Probably the parole board out in the midwest state, where the fellow who caused three deaths by a bomb was sent to prison for life, is already busy figuring out when he can be released.

When Governor Pinchot of Pennsylvania says he doesn't know what he is going to do, he certainly knows he isn't going to be governor any longer and he isn't going to be United States senator.

HER UNCLE.

"I'm feeling 100 per cent amiable tonight," remarked the young uncle. "I'm bursting with sociability, Angie."

"What's that a sign of?" inquired the pretty niece.

"That I'm willing to let you drag me out to call on one of your girl friends. I have a sudden desire for feminine society."

"What's the matter with my society, ol' dear?"

"Nothing at all, Angie, but you're not exactly a novelty, and besides I thought maybe there was some girl you'd like to call on. How about Laura Crandall?"

"She's in Europe. You know that without my telling you."

"That's so. She is over there yet, isn't she. Well, how would you like to drop in at the Burlings' and see Fannie?" asked the young uncle invitingly.

"Just as if you weren't aware that she's engaged to Jack Preston, who spends every evening with her. We'd be decidedly de trop."

"Well, then, let's drive over to the Princess Royal hotel and see if Hallie Gilmore is home. She's a good sort, Angie."

"Well, maybe you think so, uncle, dear."

"Why, I thought she was one of your best pals, Angie."

"I used to think so, too, but she certainly treated me rough the other evening. Her father and mother were away and she invited me to stay all night with her. I thought we were to have just a good cozy visit, but we had just come up from dinner when Alfred Brown called. We were entertaining him in the living room of the Gilmores' suites and having a fairly good time when the telephone rang and I heard Hallie say while answering it, 'Please tell him to wait in the lounge. I'll be right down.'

"Then she turned to Alfred and me and sweetly asked us to excuse her for a few minutes. Those few minutes! I got so nervous over her prolonged stay that I couldn't think of a word to say to poor Alfred and when I did manage a remark he appeared to have trouble in collecting his wits enough to reply. The only subject that interested him in the least was Hallie.'

"I've heard that he is quite devoted to her," said the young uncle with a grin. "She wasn't encouraging him much that evening, was she?"

"I'll say she wasn't. Do you know what she did? She stayed downstairs in that hotel lounge with her other caller until half past 11 o'clock. I was in bed when she returned. I was so angry that I pretended to be asleep. The next morning I told her that Alfred Brown had left a good-by for her and that I thought it ought to be a permanent farewell. She just laughed and said she honed that we had had a pleasant evening together. I wouldn't give her the satisfaction of knowing that I bored him to tears, so I just said, 'Very,' thank you,' and I pleaded an early engagement and left at once.

"Didn't she tell you who her downstairs caller was?" asked the young uncle.

"No, I didn't give her a chance. I saw she was ready to make some apology, but I felt that a few easy words wouldn't atone for her way of treating me, so I bade her a cold good morning and left before breakfast. I used to think Hallie was a darling girl, but I certainly have changed my mind."

"Well, my dear child," the young uncle looked very important and solemn "you'll have to change it back again. She is a darling girl. I may as well tell you, as next of kin, that I like her the best of all your friends, and that—that I hope some day to—"

"Not really? Oh, how exciting! Is it—"

"No, it isn't settled yet, Angie, for I never could make up my mind whether she liked me even a little but, since you have divulged the way she passed up poor Alf Brown for your uncle the other night, I must say I feel encouraged."

"Good gracious, you don't mean to say you were the villain who kept her downstairs all the evening."

"I hope you don't mind, Angie? I'm sorry about your evening."

"Oh, never mind little me, uncle dear. Go right over to see Hallie. I feel sure from the soulful way in which she put in water the flowers which I now know you gave her, that she'd just as soon see you without me you. Bless you, my children!"—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Dr. John Lee Coulter, who as president of North Dakota Agricultural college has taken a vigorous stand in support of military training in the colleges, has had the benefit of experience in a wide range of activities before he settled down in the position of a college administrator. His reputation is based chiefly, however, on his labors as a statistician and as a specialist in rural life problems. He is a native of Minnesota and was educated at the university of that state and at Iowa State college, in which last-named institution he began his career as an instructor in 1907. In 1908 he returned to the University of Minnesota to become an assistant professor of rural economics. In the course of his career he has been a prolific writer on economic problems, has lectured at numerous colleges throughout the country and has been sent abroad by the federal government to study such questions as rural credit and farm cooperation.

From Small Beginnings

Hiram Maxim, the Carriage Maker, the Great Inventor

The Maxim gun, that powerful weapon that makes a single soldier of today equal to a regiment in the past, owes its existence to Sir Hiram Maxim, Knight, of England. Smokeless powder, improved electric lights, the developed flying machine, devices for the use of gas and of electricity, and many other inventions may be set down to the credit of this great inventor.

For Americans it is pleasant to know that Sir Hiram Maxim, Knight, of England, is Yankee born and Yankee bred, a genuine "Down East" Yankee who was born in Maine and who spent his boyhood and early manhood in Maine, in Massachusetts and in New York. That boyhood, like the boyshoods of many great men, was spent in hard and humble work.

Hiram Maxims school days ended when he was only 14 years old, but his life well illustrates the fact that school is really only the very beginning of gaining an education. Hiram left school at 14 but he never left study. His active brain set him to work year after year along a thousand lines of scientific inquiry, and the results of his study have affected the entire world.

The boy began life's work by learning how to make wagons, not very scientific work, but scientific enough for one who wishes either to do good work or to think about work. Even before he was 14 he had learned how to do craftsman work, for he had always used tools, and used them well. When he was in his early twenties he graduated to a machine shop in Massachusetts, and then to the shop of an instrument maker. This gave him ability to do more accurate work and led him to think more deeply. He went on to a shipbuilding company in New York, where he worked as draftsman and turned his attention to the making of gas, electric lights and various types of motors. By the time he was 40 he had, so to speak, gained his education, and now began work on machine guns and smokeless powders, for which he is so famous.

In addition to those great inventions that changed the methods of war, Maxim has been fertile in other scientific work. Honors crowded upon him from all parts of the world but he kept his chief characteristic—the ingenious, inquiring Yankee spirit of hard work.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

City Taxes Too High Now

Mr. Editor: Through your columns I should like to ask if the taxpayers of Norwich are asleep, or if they are so flush with funds that they don't care where the tax rate goes?

Not only do we see the appropriations exceeded each year without seeming to care, but there are new and greater demands made for appropriations each year with a constantly increasing tax and it is a vain hunt to find some of the benefits.

With residents of the city required to pay almost 50 mills, and that tax will be larger next year with the new school that has just been voted, are you going to the city meeting next week and add almost ten mills more to the already overburdened taxpayers? Isn't it time to put a stop to it and demand greater efficiency in the spending of the money that is appropriated for necessary work?

Is there any wonder that new industries cannot be gotten to locate here?

Is there any wonder that there are something like 500 empty tenements in town?

Is there any wonder that inquiries about Norwich cease when the tax rate is disclosed?

Is there any wonder that so many who work in Norwich live elsewhere?

Conditions are bad enough and it is time to stop them from getting worse. The time has come for retrenchment, or to hand our property over to the tax collector and go to the poor house.

If the regular estimates can be cut it is time to do it. Most of all it is not a time for increasing salaries for those who are well paid and so many who must pay for that increase out of work.

We do not want any higher rents or any more vacant houses, but that is what can be expected unless the taxpayers put their feet down and stop them.

The idea prevails that any appropriation can be gotten by just asking for it. It is time Norwich woke up and in city meeting insisted upon sound business and lower taxes.

Yours for better conditions and an aroused public sentiment.

TAXPAYER.

Norwich, June 10, 1926.

The Real Watch Hill

Hundreds of Springfield people who have gone to Watch Hill have climbed the sandy paths to the crest of the peculiar promontory which gives the Hill its name. From the summit there is a wonderful view of the ocean, of the fashionable Hill settlement, of the sweep of shore off toward Narragansett pier, and, on clear days, of Block Island, that for decades has drawn thousands of visitors each summer—tourists, picnickers, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and all the folk who find their way to picturesque spots. No visit to Watch Hill was complete without a climb to the lookout itself.

Eugene Atwood of Stonington, Ct., and New York, the owner of this remarkable sand dune, has just died. He was a large figure in the manufacture of silk machinery, as his father and grandfather had been in the silk industry, and a philanthropist as well. Besides his interest in silk Mr. Atwood also inherited the Hill. During the many years that he owned it he did nothing with it except to let the public use it. Its value greatly increased as years went by, but he once said that he never would do anything with it, although it offered a wonderful site for a hotel or a cottage.

Last summer, for some reason not explained, the public found itself excluded from the hill, for a time at least, by a barbed-wire fence. Visitors who could not go up for the view felt that it was a deprivation. Now that Eugene Atwood is dead, what will be the future of this scenic jewel? Obviously it ought to be made a public reservation—if not by gift, then by purchase.—Springfield Republican.

Stories That Recall Others

Did He Revive?

Martha was going to the grocery one afternoon with her mother when she suddenly let loose of her mother's hand and stooped to the sidewalk.

"Martha, what are you doing?" her mother asked.

Martha looked up with tears springing to her eyes, saying, "Mamma, I stepped on a poor little ant and I'm trying to bring him back to life."

The Mystic Underground.

Jimmy, an unusually brilliant pupil, was the star of his history class.

The teacher asked: "Jimmy, can you explain to the class about underground railways?"

Jimmy replied, "The underground railways were methods of escape used by slaves in their escape to the north."

"Very good Jimmy," responded the teacher as he took his seat, but a worried expression enveloped his youthful countenance.

"Certainly," the teacher thought, "I have never seen him act in this way before. It couldn't be the lesson that is bothering him."

He slowly raised his hand with an uncertain motion.

"Yes," said the teacher.

"How did the railroad operators burrow under the rivers?" was Jimmy's question, and he was absent the next day.

Flattery never deceives any but those who are anxious to be deceived.

Wrinkles and Enlarged Pores

Howard's Buttermilk Cream Must Give Results in One Week or Money Back. Big Demand for New Dressing Table Package Amazes Druggists

You, too, will be surprised and delighted with its use for while it turns the dullest and most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty, banishing wrinkles and enlarged pores it does not show the slightest sign of its use. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the slightest shininess or greasiness of the skin. Howard's Buttermilk Cream is guaranteed by Lee & Osgood Co. to satisfy you in every way or the purchase price will be refunded. IMPORTANT. Even the finest face creams fail if the soap you use is harsh. Howard's Buttermilk Cream Soap keeps skin smooth, soft and pliable.

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom cure Piles.

Nor do surgical operations.

The cause is inside—bad circulation.

The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send a fresh current through stagnant pools. Internal treatment is the one safe method. Ointments and cutting won't do it.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in 1000 cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at Lee & Osgood Co., who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

OBITUARY

Rev. Samuel J. Milner

After a short illness, Rev. Samuel J. Milner, 48, formerly of Baltic, died June 5 at Omaha, Neb.

Father Milner was born in Baltic, February 1, 1878. He was the son of the late Samuel Milner and Mary Agnes McCarthy Milner. He obtained his early education in the parochial schools in Baltic and then entered Epiphany college, Baltimore, Md., from which he was graduated and then pursued his philosophy and theology courses at Niagara university, Niagara, N. Y. Upon completing his studies there he was ordained to the priesthood by Archbishop Prendergast of Overbrook seminary, Philadelphia, on May 24, 1902. Following his ordination Father Milner was assigned to the Harrisburg diocese in Pennsylvania and after laboring there for some time he was transferred to the Lincoln, Neb., diocese where he remained for three months as assistant to Bishop O'Reilly at the cathedral. He was then appointed pastor at Verdon, Neb., where he was in charge for three years, going from there to take charge of a larger parish at Colon, Neb., of which he was pastor at the time of his death. Father Milner was well known and highly respected in the Catholic diocese of Connecticut. The years of his priesthood were marked by spiritual, kindly and affectionate deeds. He was generous to a fault, self-sacrificing and ever ready to extend spiritual aid and consolation to all in the dark hours of trouble, sickness and death. His early priestly duties carried him into the largest mining districts in Pennsylvania, where he gained the love and affection of his parishioners. Father Milner was recognized as an orator of much ability, and had on a number of occasions spoken in Baltic. Upon being ordained he came to Baltic and celebrated his first high mass at St. Mary's Immaculate Conception church. He will be greatly mourned in the western dioceses and in Baltic. The entire community extends sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.

Father Milner was in Baltic one year ago to attend the funeral of his mother.

He leaves two sisters, Misses Nellie V. and Mary J. Milner, one brother, Walter J. Milner and a niece, Marion, and a nephew, Walter S. Milner, all of Baltic.

Mrs. Martin Durr

Following an illness of about three weeks, Bertha P. Durr, wife of Martin Durr, of No. 7 Lathrop avenue, Norwich Town, died in this city this (Friday) morning at 1:10 o'clock. Mrs. Durr was born in Germany, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Stramm, but had made her home in this country for a number of years.

In Norwich June 2, 1910, she was united in marriage with Martin Durr who survives her. Mrs. Durr was a member of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town. Besides her husband she is survived by four children, George, Martin, Esther and Rose Durr, all at home. There is one sister, Mrs. Clara Rosenau in this city and three sisters in Germany.

REV. W. C. PITTMAN, NEW PASTOR, IS INSTALLED AT MT. CALVARY CHURCH

Rev. William C. Pittman, who has accepted a call to Mt. Calvary Baptist church on High street, was installed as pastor of the church Thursday evening. Impressive exercises, followed by a banquet in the church basement, marked the installation. The programme opened in the church about 8 o'clock with Philip S. Harris as master of ceremonies. Following the singing of the hymn Onward, Christian Soldiers, prayer was offered by Rev. Dixon A. Brown, pastor of the McKinley avenue A. M. E. Zion church. The anthem was rendered by the Mt. Olive choir of Hartford, after which His Honor, Mayor Milo R. Waters, extended a welcome to the city to the new pastor. The scripture lesson, seven verses of Matthew 16, was read by Rev. John Patterson pastor of Grace Memorial Baptist church, after which P. S. Harris was heard in a finely rendered vocal solo.

The installation sermon was preached by Rev. David A. Pitt, D. D., pastor of the Central Baptist church, and this was followed by a solo by Mrs. Beatrice Williams. A welcome to the new pastor on behalf of the church was extended by Mrs. Alice Ferrin and then the congregation sang How Firm a Foundation. Following prayer there was a vocal number by Miss L. Barlow of Hartford and a selection by the Hartford choir.

The charge to the church was delivered by Rev. E. E. Gates of Hartford and the charge to the pastor by Rev. G. S. Clark of Hartford. The singing of hymns was followed by the offering after which the service adjourned to the church basement where the banquet was served at attractively decorated tables. The menu was as follows:

Fruit Cocktail
Chicken Salad
Sandwiches Olives
Coffee
Ice Cream Cake

There were about 200 members and guests of the church present at the installation. The general chairman was Mrs. Jane Brown and the Miss Maud Lacey had charge of the decorations. Henry Lacey was in charge of the ice cream.

The new pastor, Rev. Mr. Pittman, comes to Norwich from Hartford where he has been located for sometime. He is heralded as a preacher of exceptional merit and the members of the congregation are highly pleased in securing him as pastor of their church.

DR. BURDSALL SPOKE TO PRESTON PARENT-TEACHERS

About 40 attended the June meeting of the Parent-Teacher association at the Poquetanuck school house on Wednesday evening. The usual reports were read and accepted. Plans for the summer picnic were left to the committee. Mrs. George Mansfield and Mrs. Naomi Gallup. Then those present had an opportunity to listen to an instructive talk on the relation of education to a children's development given by Dr. E. L. Burdsall, assistant superintendent of the Norwich state hospital and secretary of the town board of education in Preston. A few important points brought out in the address were the relation that heredity and training in infancy and pre-school age bear to the education the child may be expected to receive in school and his response to social contact. The importance of a mind open to the aid that organized forces such as the child's welfare bureau and trained professionals as physicians, teachers and nurses may give was clearly shown. Co-operation between the home and all active agents for the advancement of the child was stressed as most desirable if reasonably good results are to be expected, and citizens trained in the right health habits.

Cake, wafers and lemonade were served. The meeting closed with singing.

APPEALS FROM FINE IN NORTH STONINGTON COURT

William Krochik, a North Stonington farmer, was fined $10 and costs on the charge of possessing firearms contrary to the statute providing that no alien may have firearms in his possession by Justice of the Peace V. P. A. Onlin, who held court Wednesday night in the North Stonington town hall. He was represented by Attorney Edmund W. Perkins as counsel, who took an appeal to the common pleas court and a $100 bond was furnished.

It is understood that Krochik had used the gun to shoot bird and animal pests on his farm, principally crows, and that he secured the weapon after he had been to the selectmen to ask their advice and they had told him to get a gun. It is claimed, this advice being given before the statute under which he was prosecuted was passed.

His arrest in the present case came about. It is understood, when he had been out shooting crows on a recent morning and warned a fisherman trespasser off his land while he had the gun in his hand. The trespasser claimed that Krochik pointed the gun at him, but Krochik denied this. The trespasser subsequently related the incident to Game Warden Watson, who placed Krochik under arrest.

The present tournament will continue for two weeks when series prizes will be awarded as in the past.

CHILDREN HAD GLORIOUS DAY AT THE CARNIVAL

Over 6,000 children from every school in the city, public and parochial, gathered Thursday afternoon at the Duwell field on the East Side and judging from their actions, had the time of their young lives, at the expense of the combined efforts of the Duwell A. A. and the Coleman Bros. shows.

Early in the day tickets good for every ride and show on the grounds were distributed at the different schools throughout the city and at one o'clock children both large and small began to swarm onto the field until by five o'clock it was impossible to get any more onto the field.

Four policemen and every carnival man available in addition to several Duwell members tried their hardest to keep the children in hand but it was almost an impossibility as the youngsters kept coming and kept rushing the rides and shows in spite of the men who tried in every way to keep order. The fences surrounding the merry-go-round and the chair-o-plane were crashed by the over anxious children.

Mr. Coleman stated Thursday night that in all of his carnival experiences which have extended over a period of 20 years he had played in cities twice the size of Norwich but never had he seen so many children at one time, and no doubt any one who witnessed the afternoons activities will agree with him. The merry-go-round carried over 100 to a trip, while on the ferris wheel the children were seated three and four to a seat. In addition to the merry-go-round, the ferris wheel and chair-o-plane, the animal show, side show and vaudeville shows were also opened to the kiddies.

But the big and crowning event of the afternoon came at 4:45 when Dare-Devil Oliver in spite of a strong wind which made his act much more dangerous than it really is climbed the one hundred and ten foot ladder and dove into a tank containing only 52 inches of water turning a double somersault in the air on his way down. While this act was not mentioned on the tickets, Mr. Oliver felt that it was up to him to do his share to please the kiddies in spite of the danger.

During the afternoon Don Houghton local photographer took several pictures of the children which will be placed on display as soon as they are printed.

The children began to leave the grounds immediately after the diving act and by six o'clock the grounds were well cleared. The success of the party is largely due to the efforts of the Coleman Brothers shows that did everything possible to please the children. When asked Thursday night if they weren't a little sorry they gave this free performance the Coleman Bros. stated that as long as the children were pleased they were sure they were.

The only thing that marred the show was that some of the larger children took tickets away from the younger ones and monopolized the rides in such a way that some of the youngsters were unable to get on at all.

CEREMONIAL IS STAGED BY NEMROD GROTTO

Nemrod Grotto, M. O. V. P. E. R., conducted a short form ceremonial Thursday evening in Grotto hall on Broadway where the officers under the direction of Monarch Edmund Hindle conferred the degree upon the class in impressive form.

Before the work at the hall, supper was served at 6 o'clock at the Masonic temple under the direction of Mrs. Edmund Hindle, Mrs. George W. Chappell and Mrs. Henry Lee who were assisted by Mrs. Herman Stetzer, Mrs. Charles Harvey, Mrs. William Kramer, Mrs. John B. Oat, and Mrs. Adelbert Maynard.

The Grotto orchestra played during the supper hour and the following menu was served: Potato salad, cold meat, pickles, rolls, coffee, ice cream, and cake. Covers were laid for 175.

Mrs. Antone Bernard and Mrs. William Winterbottom were in charge of the dining room and the waitresses were Miss Mary Gray, Mrs. Olive Roberts, Miss Florence Hoffman, Mrs. Emily Card, Mrs. Carl Ricker, Mrs. Everett Peckham, Mrs. Alfred Linderson, Miss Isabel Rodier, Miss Beardow, Miss Curran, and Mrs. Frank Waters.

GAVE SURPRISE SHOWER FOR MISS LUCY MARTIN

A surprise shower was given Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Joseph L'Heureux on Dugham street for Miss Lucy Martin in honor of her approaching marriage to Ernest Mersach of New London which will take place the latter part of this month.

Miss Martin received many presents, including cut glass, linen and silverware. A buffet lunch was served. Those present were Mary Metsach, Ruth Martin, Mrs. Leo Bonin, Nellie Hunter, Helen Martin, Susie Cigaro, Anna Falcone, Bronest Wisneski, Mrs. Anthony Bonin, Mrs. Frank Martin, Viola Butler, Mrs. Louis L'Heureux, Grace McCabe of Providence, Vivian Kramer of Hartford and Doris L'Heureux.

SOCIAL AND WHIST FOR LIBERTY LODGE BENEFIT

A very successful whist and social evening was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. John Seward, Main St., Baltic, for the benefit of Loyal Liberty lodge. Sewart; second, P. G. Greenhalgh and E. Brierly.

After the whist a luncheon of cakes, sandwiches, coffee and soda was served by a committee comprising Mrs. Sewart, M. Hallas, Lillian Keough, Mary Brierly and Mrs. E. Robinson.

TWO NORWICH MEN IN MASONIC COUNCIL OFFICERS

NEW HAVEN, June 10.—(AP)— The Connecticut Council of Deliberation, a Masonic body, under the supreme council of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite for the Northern jurisdiction held its 47th session in Hiram lodge room this afternoon.

Charles M. Gerdenier, 33rd, of Bridgeport, deputy for Connecticut, most illustrious commander-in-chief of the district presided, and in his annual address spoke of the excellent condition of the rite.

The council is composed of past and active officers of lodges of Perfection, councils of Princes of Jerusalem and chapters of Rose Croix and of the two consistories, Lafayette, of Bridgeport and Connecticut of Norwich, in the state.

Officers elected were as follows: Albert S. Comstock, 33rd, Norwich, grand first lieutenant commander; Edgar B. Ellis, 33rd, Bridgeport, grand second lieutenant commander; F. L. Seymour, 32nd, New Haven, grand minister of state; George G. Beers, 32nd, Bridgeport, grand chancellor; Eli C. Bird-eye, 33rd, Meriden, grand treasurer; Joel T. Wooster, 33rd, Bridgeport, grand secretary; J. S. D. Castle, 32nd, Waterbury, grand master of ceremonies; Herbert R. Kind, 32nd, Norwich, grand hospitaler; Burton L. Tuttle, 32nd, New Haven, grand seneschal; T. Frank Cassidy, 32nd, Hartford, grand standard bearer; Clinton G. Nichols, 32nd, Hartford, grand captain of the guard; and Harvey B. Riggs, 32nd, Waterbury, grand sentinel.

The next session in June, 1927, will be held in Waterbury at invitation of the Scottish rite bodies there.

The council made its customary appropriations for the Masonic home at Wallingford.

After the session the members were driven to the new temple site in Whitney avenue to view the structure, and thence to the top of West Rock. The dinner was served at Race Brook Country club.

NORWICH WOMAN NAMED IN LIST OF ELIGIBLES

The names of eighteen prominent Connecticut women have been given Mrs. Clarence H. Wickham, who is in charge of proceedings to determine the four women who, in the last fifty years, have done the most for Connecticut in civics, art, literature and music. The four women chosen will be honored at the sesqui-centennial exposition in Philadelphia.

Following is a complete list of the Connecticut women who have been suggested as eligible for the honor of representing the women of the state at the sesqui-centennial: Mrs. John L. Buel, of Litchfield, prominent in Americanization work; Miss Caroline Ruutz-Rees of Greenwich, educator; Evelyn Longman Batcheldor, sculptress; Miss Caroline M. Hewins, librarian of the Hartford public library; Mrs. W. Gerald to New Haven, conservation chairman of the Connecticut Federation of Women's Clubs and well known for her activity in forestry work; Mrs. George Maynard Minor, of Westport, prominent in the D. A. R. and known for her prison reform program; Mrs. Emily H. Russell of New Haven, noted as a special worker in philanthropy and Miss Clara A. Pease, author, member of the faculty of the Hartford public high school for the past forty-one years; Miss Katherine Ludington of Old Lyme, writer, lecturer, organizer and noted for her activities in suffrage work; Mrs. Anne Hobbs Wells, playwright; Miss Anna Hempstead Branch of New London, poetess and author; Elizabeth Woodbridge sculptoress; Mabel Osgood Wright of Fairfield, authoress; Mrs. Edward A. McDowell, musician; Mrs. Frank A. Mitchell of Norwich, board of commissioners, state department of public welfare; Mrs. Alice P. Merritt of Hartford Connecticut's first woman senator; Mrs. Sara Thompson Kinsley, prominent in D. A. R. work; Dr. Valeria H. Parker, national president known for her work in civics.

WATSON DISMISSED FROM STATE POLICE FORCE

According to superintendent Robert T. Hurley of the state police department the committee hearing charges against Giles Watson of Groton, a former member of the state police, has dismissed him from the force. Watson was charged with "conduct unbecoming an officer," which is sufficiently indefinite as to leave the public in the dark as to what his offense was, and the superintendent refused to comment on the charges.

Some time ago Watson tendered his resignation but it was refused, and following the rejection of his resignation the charges were preferred against him.

About the time that it became known that Watson was under a cloud, it was reported here that he had been guilty of taking money from an alleged seller of home brew, but had been obliged to refund the amount which he was alleged to have received. He was stationed at the barracks at Groton.

State Policemen Howard O'Keefe of Hartford and Robert J. Parker of Waterbury face charges of having left the posts assigned them a few weeks ago and gone to Waterbury. They have been suspended and their case is being investigated by Superintendent Robert T. Hurley, according to a report in Hartford Thursday.

The charges against Joseph Bobnick of New London, another member of the force who is also suspended from the force while investigations are going on, have not been decided as yet by the committee, it was said.

SUPREME COURT SUSTAINS JUDGE WOLFE'S DECISION

In the appeal to the supreme court from Judge Isaac Wolfe's decision in the reclamation petition of the Downington Mfg. Co., of Downingtown, Pa., against Frank W. Browning, as receiver of the Uncas Paper Board Co., of this city, notice was received Thursday by George E. Parsons, clerk of the court, of the supreme court's decision finding "no error." The decision was by Judge George E. Hinman of the supreme court.

The Downington company sought to reclaim certain machinery on the ground that it was leased and not sold to the Uncas Paper Board Co. When Judge Wolfe rendered his decision that the transaction was an absolute sale, the Downington company took an appeal to the supreme court.

In his memorandum of decision in the case, from which the appeal was taken, Judge Wolfe said:

I am satisfied that the instrument in question, although styled a lease, is in legal effect, a conditional bill of sale and comes clearly within the rule laid down in re Wilcox vs Howe Co. 70c. 220, and in Hine vs Roberts, 48c. 267.

The instrument, although recorded, was never acknowledged as the statute requires. The agreed fact shows that the articles of machinery furnished by the petitioner were different parts of a paper making machine then owned by the Uncas Paper Board Co., and upon receipt were attached thereto; also a duplex cutting machine. No one not having intimate knowledge of the contents of the instrument in question, could possibly know that certain parts of such machine had been sold under either a lease or conditional bill of sale.

At the time of the appointment of the receiver all of the personal property of the Uncas Paper Board Co., including the machinery in question, was under assignment in a creditor's suit of such company.

An examination of the instrument shows that although described as part of the rental price, the payments provided have all the earmarks of a condition sale as payments are required on the signing of the agreement and before possession as lessee of the machinery, which is very unlike a lease. Payments are therefore to be made to installments, and when the payments are fully made the lessee may purchase the machinery for the sum of one dollar.

Of course there was as the usual clause in the lease for the right to cancel, but if an old method is to depend upon the part of the lessee. The purpose of the instrument is to give the ultimate matter of the contract to all merry pass for an agreed price from the Downington Manufacturing company to the Uncas Paper Board Co., on the performance to it of a certain condition. While the contract was to function of rental, it was clearly regarded by the parties as a conditional sale.

Under the circumstances in this case the receiver is not the personal representative of the corporation, but he is the representative of the creditors, and therefore because of the failure of the petitioner to comply with the conditional [illegible] of the case, the sale as to the receiver is an absolute one.

The petition is denied.

ACCUSED OF OPERATING MACHINE UNDER INFLUENCE

On complaint of trolley company employees, after a motor truck operated by John Kozel, 37, had been in collision with a trolley car Thursday night on Sachem street, Kozel was arrested at the corner of Sachem and Sherman streets on the charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

The arrest was made by Officers P. Shahan, M. Pounch and P. Murphy.

CLUB CLOSED SEASON WITH DINNER-BRIDGE

The Afternoon Bridge club closed the season Thursday with a delightful bridge and dinner at Lighthouse inn, New London. The first prize at bridge was won by Mrs. Harry D. Burgess, the second by Mrs. J. Edward Driscoll. Those in charge of the arrangements were Miss Lila Shannon, Miss Margaret Murphy and Mrs. Joseph P. Cummings.

Checking Up on Headlights

State policemen were in the city Thursday evening and were checking up on automobile headlights. They were posted on North Main street where they caught the stream of traffic to see that they complied.

Windham Handle Maker Bankrupt

In a bankruptcy petition Thursday before the U. S. district court in New Haven, James B. Tatem, Windham handle manufacturer, gave his liabilities as $5,209.21 and assets as $25,-000.00.

HORNSBY BLAMES INJURY FOR BATTING SLUMP

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—An injury to his spine is blamed by Rogers Hornsby for failure to keep pace this year with the powerful batting of former seasons which carried him to the top in six consecutive races.

The St. Louis Cardinal leader, who has been hitting 70 points under his normal average, says he suffered the injury six weeks ago at Cincinnati.

Jim Bottomley's hitting, which also has been considerably under the mark of 1925, has been another disappointment, on the Cardinal attack. Hornsby said he believes, however, that the pitching of Keen, Rhem and Sherdell will hold up the team until the players regain the offensive power they evidenced a year ago.

KID SULLIVAN HAS HUNG UP HIS GLOVES FOREVER

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—Steve (Kid) Sullivan of Brooklyn, former world's junior lightweight champion, has retired from the ring as a result of his knockout defeat at the hands of Tod Morgan of Seattle, Wash., present titleholder, at Ebbets field last week.

James Rocks, Sullivan's manager, called before the state athletic commission today to explain his action in tossing in the towel in the sixth round of the fight, said that the damaged condition of Sullivan's nose warranted his action. The commission dismissed the case when Rocks informed the board that Sullivan had drawn on his last glove.

BARLEYCORN SCORES VICTORY IN MEADOWBROOK HANDICAP

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—Barleycorn, owned by J. E. Widener, scored a sensational victory in the Meadowbrook steeplechase handicap at Belmont park today. Milnata was second and Rascl third. Damask was the only other starter. The winner paid more than $3,000.

Pigeon Wing, 2nd captured the fifth at Latonia from Travmore and Count Spreak covering the six furlongs in 1:11 1-5.

BROADWAY WINS BULLETIN CUP IN GRAMMAR SCHOOL LEAGUE

By defeating the Wequonnocs on the Academy field yesterday afternoon, Broadway school copped the city grammar school baseball championship, entitling them to the handsome trophy cup contributed by the Norwich Bulletin. Owing to the importance of yesterday's game Coach Ludlow's boys put up a good steady battle against their Taftville rivals, who threatened but once, when in the final inning they connected with many of D'Atri's curves, one of which carried Gero a homer, who brought in two runners with him. The score was as follows:

Broadway	3	0	2	1	2	0	4	—	12
Taftville	0	1	2	0	1	1	4	—	9

Batteries: Gero and Dugas; D'Atri and Busch—Umpire E. H. Davis.

This season's series proved one of the best yet held, owing to the fact that practically every one of the games were close contests, and the many fans who witnessed games noted the high type of sportsmanship manifested by the players of the various teams.

Tonight's Game.

This evening's contest in the Twi league at the Academy campus should be the most bitterly fought game of the year as two bitter rivals, namely the Warriors and Nordics, are scheduled to clash.

Both of these teams are fighting for the top position in the league standing neither having lost a game to date.

For the Warriors Lefty Davidson will pitch with Jas Burns behind the bat while for the Nordics Gamache will probably pitch with Mose Goldberg on the receiving end. The game will start at 6.30 p. m. sharp.

NOTED DISTANCE RUNNERS IN MELROSE MEET

BOSTON, Mass., June 10—(AP)—Three distance runners of international fame will be at the field meet starts on the 10 mile run at the Melrose track and field games Saturday.

Albin Stenroos Olympic marathon champion, has applied for permission to run and he will line up against Johnny Miles of Milnes Mills, N. S., who won the Boston marathon in record breaking time this spring and Clarence De Mar, Amateur Athletic Union marathon champion. Jimmy Henigan, Wally Carlson and other distance stars also are entered.

WINDHAM COMES FROM BEHIND TO BEAT CHAPMAN
(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 10.—Overcoming a four run lead gained by the opposition in the first inning, Windham High school's ball tossers defeated Chapman Tech of New London yesterday afternoon at the Recreation Park field 6 to 4. In the opening inning, the visitors got to the offerings of J. Mack for five hits which with a disastrous misplay by J. Nichols gave them four runs. After that eventful session, the local hurler settled down and blanked the opposing batters for the remaining eight innings while his associates were scoring six runs.

The tide of battle changed in the eighth. Going into that canto, Windham was in the rear 4 to 2 but an error followed by several sacrifice bunts combined with several more misplays by the Whalers in fielding these suicidal attempts gave the Crimson and Blue three runs.

MORE CHANGES IN TIME OF YALE-HARVARD RACE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 10.—(AP)—Because of tidal conditions which will probably prevail another change in the schedule for the Harvard-Yale regatta on the Thames river, June 25 was announced here tonight by H. F. Woodcock, general manager of the Yale university athletic association. The freshmen race will start at 9:30 o'clock (D. S. T.) instead of 9:45 and will be rowed downstream over the upper two miles. It will be followed immediately by the junior varsity race.

The changes in the time of the varsity race, was previously announced. It will start at 6 p. m. (D. S. T.) The changes were made upon the recommendation of Referee W. H. Meikleham.

Changes are also announced in the schedule of the special trains from New Haven and Boston to New London on the return trip soon after the race, stopping at New Haven, Bridgeport, South Norwalk, Stamford and New York. The Boston special will leave at 6:15 p. m. (D. S. T.) stopping at Providence and Kingston and arriving at New London at 8. It will make the fastest trip soon after the race.

The varsity observation train of 34 cars will leave New London for the race at 3:30 p. m. The freshman observation train will start from the station at 6 a. m.

ARTHUR ARMSTRONG ELECTED ACADEMY TRACK TEAM CAPTAIN

Arthur Armstrong star dash man and high point man, was elected captain of the Academy track for 1927 at a meeting of the track team held recently. Armstrong is well qualified for the leadership of the team being a good all-around athlete. During the present season he was the high point winner and his team placing in practically every event in which he was entered.

Although specializing in the dashes Armstrong has many points in the hurdles, broad jump and high jump. The choice of Armstrong as captain is very pleasing to the undergraduates and it is expected that next year's track team will show the results of his leadership.

LUQUE PITCHES REDS TO CLOSE VICTORY OVER ROBINS

BROOKLYN, June 10.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds broke their six game losing string today in the second game of a series with the Robins, Adolfo Luque pitching his team back into the National league lead by a 4-3 decision over the Brooklyn club.

In addition to allowing only five hits, Luque scored the winning run in the fifth. After being passed, he moved to second on a sacrifice and scored on Christensen's single.

Howard Carter, captain and third baseman of the Fordham college nine, worked out with the Reds and is expected to sign a contract within a few days.

AGGIES PLAY MASS. AGGIES THIS AFTERNOON
(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., June 10.—Connecticut Aggies' 1926 baseball campaign will be brought to a close with two contests at home this week, the first coming with the Massachusetts Aggies tomorrow and the second with the New London Submarine Base nine on Saturday. Both games will be played on the Gardner Dow Field here, and before a large gathering of alumni and guests who will be here for the forty-second annual commencement exercises.

Of the two contestants, Connecticut figures the Massachusetts Aggies encounter the more important, and accordingly, Coach Dole will probably start Makofski on the mound against the Bay Staters. Both teams appear evenly matched, though comparative scores seem to indicate a slight advantage in favor of the Nutmeggers. If Makofski pitches against Massachusetts, the Eddy will in all probability draw the hurling assignment for the game with the sailors. There is a possibility, however, that Schofield may be used in either of these games, as his work on the mound has been impressive thus for this season.

AGGIE RIFLEMEN AWARDED MINOR SPORTS LETTERS

STORRS, June 10.—(AP)—Six members of the Connecticut Aggie rifle team were awarded minor sports insignia here today for completing a school season with 22 victories out of 30 matches. They were: Captain John R. Kuhl, Mansfield; Lyman H. Hitchcock, West Haven; Arnold R. Griffin, Winsted; Harold R. Sweeton, Canton Center; Louis J. Logan, New York; Herman C. Gauger, Winsted.

SETTLING THE FARM PROBLEM

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

If government consisted solely in the making into law what you and I think is right or wise, the problems of statesmanship would be much simplified. If that were all there is to it, then we would merely need to agree between ourselves what was the proper wording for the law and presto! in would walk the millennium. Or, at least, our idea of the millennium.

Somehow, in practice the problem isn't so easy. It has complications. Even on the assumption,—which you and I will find it easy to make,—that our idea if right is necessarily right, and our conception of wisdom necessarily wise, there remain outside something over 115,000,000 people, who have something over 115,000,000 other ideas as to that which is right and wise.

Most of them are real stubborn, too, in declaring that they're just as good a right to govern us as we have to govern them.

We may be convinced, — you and I —that oolong tea contains a deleterious element and that the habitual drinking of it tends to cause ulcers on the stomach, crinkum-crankums in the nerves, tic doleroux, infantile paralysis, cerebro spinal meningitis, battle, pestilence and sudden death. Yet, the minute we require that other 115,000,000 to stop drinking oolong and use catnip tea instead, that minute a lot of sorehedded and misguided cranks and hereties will, openly or secretly, resent our efforts for their own good, and write our letters.

People are just that ungrateful and unreasonable and self conceited. Some of them even have the ridiculous presumption to insist that they are, themselves, just as good judges of what is best for them as we,—you and I-are. And so, refusing to drink catnip tea at our orders, they demand concessions that we drink hard cider or rain water, or some other deleterious stuff, suits their ideas.

It's all terribly confusing to us honest bigots who can't see for the life of us why everybody doesn't sneeze every time our nose itch.

Do you ever think you'd like to be a congressman and help make laws? If so, you'd better take medical advice at once and see if there's any hope left for you or if senile dementia has you fast in its grip.

I can't imagine any more desperate and impossible situation than that of a really well-meaning congressman confronted by the demand that he do something, instanter, to settle "the farm problem."

In brief, with there are about 10 different shades of what that term, "problem" really is. It's one thing in the northeast corner of Dixie Co., Iowa. It's something quite different in the southwest angle of Orange Co., S. C. And it's something else up in Aroostook Co., Me. In fact it doesn't seem to be exactly the same a hundred miles between the Potomac and the Brazos.

I think it is safe to go even farther and say that the "problem" of every single individual farmer is unlike that of any other individual farmer. It is to each one, the "problem" of who has huge pinches. As there are said to be 11,000,000 farmers with approximately 6,000,000 feet,—allowing a generous estimate to the one-legged exceptions,—it will be seen that there are at least 21,987,321 separate and distinct ways in which that number of cusses may pinch that number toes.

And Congress is expected to invent one law which will relieve them all!

As I look back upon a long and somewhat varied life, I can't recall a single moment in it when I was under the slightest danger of being sent to congress. I recognize that, now, as one of the major blessings with which a beneficient Providence has endowed my otherwise inglorious career.

Thanks to the kindness of my good friend, The Bulletin manager, I am enabled to see quite a few western papers, exchanges which come to The Bulletin and, after office examination, are passed on to me. They are practically all of them much stirred up over the "farm problem" as seen in the west.

Some of them are comparatively mild-spoken, and some are on the very verge of rabidness. But they all seem to agree that something must be done, and that pretty soon or things will happen. Unpleasant things, politically and otherwise. So sane and conservative a journal as The Kansas City Star doesn't hesitate to admit the gravity of the situation. I says:

"Something must be done. Congress cannot ostrich-like shut its eyes to the evils and the need of remedying them. It cannot assume that because one bill is defeated a plan for the farm problem is dead. Now that congress has turned down the Haugen measure, unless it provides some adequate substitute, it risks the west combark and putting every subsidy-price-fixing plan on a chance.

"Does Washington want a farm revolt on its hands as it had in the old populist days? It is inviting such a revolt if it refuses to recognize the farmers' real grievance. The present congress still has time to enact sound legislation to help farmers deal with a situation that baffles their individual efforts. If it fails a congress will come bac' that will try radical legislation."

There you are. I don't profess to know, and I doubt if any member of either house of congress knows how many bills professing to be for farm relief are in the congressional calendar. Nor does any living man know what they all attempt to do, or what they would all do in practice if put into effect. One student says "the trouble with all the bills is that in order to snare votes they mix up sound economics with unsound fallacies." To get votes for the measure they want the "corn belt" people offer sops to cotton growers and potato raisers, neither knowing nor caring whether those sops are prudent or dangerous so long as they bring votes. This is what is called "practical politics." In a frankness-speaking age, it used to be called demagogy.

Ex-Gov. Lowden of Illinois in a recent thoughtful address called attention to the ominous facts that the farm capital of the United States decreased $5,000,000,000 between 1920 and 1925 while the population of the United States fell off by half a million in 1925 alone. This means, as he pointed out, that America's great productive [illegible] is running down at a dangerous pace.

People who live in cities are not marked are inclined to interest themselves only in the prices they have to pay for food. "They are not concerned as to whether the farmer receives enough to enable him to produce the food, yet it goes without saying that they should be vitally interested." For if the farmer isn't paid enough to warrant him in continuing to produce food, there will be two results. Fewer farmers,—a result already in evidence,—and less food, a result just as certain to follow, and one which will be felt in the increasing difficulty and cost of filling the city consumer's bread-basket. He also warns that something must speedily be done if we hope to avoid trouble.

There don't seem to be many real statesmen abroad in the land;—men who can see beyond their noses and plan beyond their arms' length. What is much more ominous is that the great mass of the people themselves seem to heed these few real doctors less than the quacks and charlatans and fakers of cheap politics.

When I was actively engaged in the production of food-stuffs to sell, I used to be beset with all sorts of "problems." They perched on the fence around every crop as thick and black as crows around a new-planted corn-patch. They were nerry critters, too. It didn't seem to affect them in the least degree if I stamped back and forth in front of them and denounced and bekussed them. The louder I yelled the broader they grinned. Even if I got a congressman with his wider knowledge of unparliamentary language to join me in scolding them they didn't mind. But if one of them jumped down into my rows and began to do actual damage, and I promptly chopped off his head with a hoe and buried his remains under a cucumber hill, it seemed to put the fear of God into quite a few of the rest of them.

Eventually I came to the conclusion that about half John Farmer's "problems" were simply bugbears, and that, of the other half, I could overcome more by hoeing my own row and fighting my own fight than by leaving my job to listen to the vague and frothy eloquence of financiers and lawyers and speculators and office-seekers, very few of whom could have told a "farm problem" from a hoot-owl without a formal introduction,—but all of whom think they can give points in the game to the man who made the cards.

About the sanest thing I've read anent this whole topic is the suggestion by one of the newspaper "columnists" that "Congress may yet end the discussion by passing a bill in favor of nice growing weather for the farmers."

If it would also pass a bill decreeing that all farmers should be industrious and thrifty and foresighted and economical and unselfish and unmitigatedly angelic in disposition and habit.—What then?

Would that settle the "farm problem?" I trow not.

THE FARMER.

PEACH BLOSSOMS

Enchanter and Coaxer, you bring to my room,
Vain longing for acres and acres of bloom;
How useless the tonics they say I must take,
When you in my spirit such a hunger awake;
A hunger to go—and with bird and bee
To feast on the beauty of hillside and tree.
I know a gay spot which is pink with delight
Where apple tree blossoms are born over night;
Where peach trees in exquisite beauty are glowing
With promises rich for the summer's bestowing.
There hillsides are singing, so lovely the scene
My heart knows the measure of each mile between.
Nostalgia of spirit you bring with your bloom
Concealed in pink petals and dainty perfume.

Another Smart Enemy

An enemy don't underrate;
Whene'er you do you're tempting fate.
—Old Mother Nature.

"There are other things just as smart as that caterpillar," declared Redwing the Blackbird, "Look at that, Peter Rabbit."

Redwing was pointing at an edge of the white patch on the alder branch which Peter knew was made up of a great many of these little aphids or plant lice crowded together. Though he was down on the ground, Peter could see what was happening. It seemed as if a little portion of that white patch had moved off by itself. That is what it looked like. Then it moved back and joined the big patch. Presently Peter saw it move off again. How he did wish that he could get close to it so that he could see just what was happening. "What is it, Redwing?" he cried. "Do tell me just what it means. You know I'm too far away to see."

The caterpillar which Redwing had dropped down to him was crawling away

Redwing chuckled. "It means," said he, "that that caterpillar that I dropped down to you all covered with the cast-off skins of these aphids isn't the only enemy they have who is smart enough to hide in this way. There is another one up here."

"It is another caterpillar?" cried Peter.

"No," said Redwing. "It isn't a caterpillar. It isn't at all like a caterpillar. It is a queer fellow with big jaws, and some day it will turn into a beautiful pale-green fly called the lace-wing fly, just as that caterpillar will turn into a butterfly if nothing happens to it. This thing isn't at all pretty now, but it certainly is a terror to these aphids. That's what it lives on. It sucks them dry and it has covered itself all over with the skins so that it will not be seen. That is what made it seem to you as if a part of this patch of aphids moved off by itself and then came back again. It really was this fellow covered with the skins of aphids. He certainly is a hungry fellow. I've heard that he's called aphis lion, but of course he really is a young lace-wing fly, just as a caterpillar is a young butterfly."

"I never think of a caterpillar as being a young butterfly," replied Peter.

Redwing chuckled. "A caterpillar may not be a young butterfly, but when it isn't a young caterpillar it is a young moth. If you think of a tadpole or pollywog as a young frog or a young toad, why can't you think of a caterpillar as a young butterfly, or a young moth. That's what it really is. And this queer-looking bug up here all covered with the skins of the aphids is a young lace wing fly. My gracious, he's a hungry fellow! If he keeps on I guess he'll finish all these aphids before he is through. If you were up here, Peter Rabbit, you probably wouldn't see him at all unless he happened to move. It takes sharp eyes like the eyes of a bird to see a fellow so well hidden as he is."

Peter looked down at his feet. The caterpillar which Redwing had dropped down to him was crawling away. "And to think," said Peter, "that I have thought that I knew all there was to know about the things around me. I suppose nobody knows all there is to know."

Peter had spoken aloud, a way he sometimes has when talking to himself. Of course Redwing heard him. Redwing laughed right out. "Peter," said he, "I've got pretty good eyes, but every single day I see things right around me that I have never seen before. That is one of the joys of living. There wouldn't be any fun in living if one knew all there was to know. It is finding out new things that brings joy into life. Now I must be going along. By the way, have you ever smelled the perfume of a butterfly?"

Instantly Peter pricked up his ears. "What's that?" he cried, but already Redwing was on his way.

DR. T. E. GREEN EXPLAINS PRESENT AIMS OF RED CROSS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 10—Dr. Thomas E. Green, director of public speaking for the American Red Cross, gave addresses today in Westerly, before the Red Cross committee of the local chapter in the Colonial club at noon. He addressed groups at the public schools in the afternoon.

In his address at the Colonial club Dr. Green outlined the history of the Red Cross movement and told of its present activities. The principal departments of service now embraced by the organization, he said, were taking care of disabled veterans, their families, carrying on the necessary communications of this work and relief emergency work.

Dr. Green emphasized the growth and importance of the Junior Red Cross movement.

In the afternoon addresses were given before pupils of the West Broad street school and a teachers' group at the high school, at 4.15 o'clock.

A delegation of about 150 members of Narragansett Commandery, K. T., and their wives are planning to attend the centenary anniversary celebration of the Knights which will be held in Springfield, June 23 and 24.

The first day of the gathering, which is expected to attract large groups from 57 commanderies, will be featured by historic exercises and a ball in the evening. On the 24th there will be a big parade and exhibition drills will be held at the city's fair grounds.

The committee of Narragansett commandery in charge of the plans for the local representation, comprises Eminent Arthur E. Thompson, chairman; Eminent Arthur N. Nash, Sir Knight John O. Mills, Sir Knight Robert Hazard and Sir Knight Arnold H. Burdick.

A series of religious addresses to be given in Westerly by Rev. W. L. Pettingill, D. D., dean of the Philadelphia Bible school this week end, will start today (Friday) at a meeting of the Women's league for Christian Service, to be held at 3 o'clock in Girl Scout hall, High street.

Members of Westerly lodge, B. P. O. Elks have planned to hold a parade from the club rooms to Wilcox park for the Flag day exercises to take place next Monday. The Westerly band and Battery E of Westerly will also be among the marchers.

TOWN MEETING ADJOURNS, TRANSACTING NO BUSINESS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., June 10—A vote for adjournment followed almost immediately after the opening of the financial town meeting called in Westerly Thursday evening to consider the project of widening High street, between Broad and Canal streets. Two hundred or more voters assembled for the meeting.

The meeting was opened by Town Moderator Lewis Stanton. A motion to adjourn was made by Herbert W. Rathbun and was seconded by Max Novogroski. The count of the vote was 75 for and 35 against adjournment.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Irwin Howlett, 70, died at his home on East street, Monday night, after a week's illness. He was born in Holland, Mass., and came to Stafford Springs when only seven years old. When he grew to manhood he went to New York city where he remained for about 20 years. He then returned to Stafford Springs and for a number of years was employed as clerk in local stores. He was a member of the local lodge of Masons. He is survived by a brother, Eugene S. Howlett, of Monson, Mass., and by two sisters, Mrs. Myron Leonard of Stafford Village and Mrs. Emily Burdick of Stafford Springs. The funeral was held at the home Thursday afternoon, at two o'clock. Rev. C. H. Puffer of the Universalist church officiated. Burial was with Masonic honors in the Springs cemetery.

Mrs. Jerome P. Bishop, 77, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lewis McLaughlin Tuesday noon. She had been ailing with bright's disease for several years. She is survived by two brothers, E. H. Atwood, of Belchertown, Mass., Frank L. Atwood, of Anderson, Indiana and a sister, Mrs. Susan K. Converse, of East Longmeadow, Mass. She also leaves her daughter, Mrs. Lewis McLaughlin. The body will be taken to Belchertown this (Friday) afternoon for burial.

BRISK BIDDING FOR NEW QUOTA OF IRISH SETTLERS

COBH, Irish Free State, June 10 (AP)—Rival transatlantic lines are making a hard fight for the Irish emigrants who will sail for North America during the year beginning July 1.

Twenty-six thousand citizens of the Irish Free state will be permitted to enter the United States during the fiscal year, and agents of the various steamship lines are travelling throughout Ireland booking up passengers.

LIBRARIES "SELL" PUBLIC ON READING FOR EDUCATION

CHICAGO, June 10 (AP)—Little booklet essays by prominent writers, put out by the American Library association to "sell" the American adult public on the reading of cultural and educational books, have themselves sold 130,000 copies in the first year of the experiment.

After a short discussion by the author of his subject, such as psychology, education, biology, poetry or music, from three to eight standard works on the subject are recommended. Some librarians have reported that the booklets seem to be even more popular than the reading courses they suggest. Increased circulation of the books recommended in the courses and increased sales of the books, also have been reported by many librarians.

NOTED MEXICAN MATADOR SEES THRILL IN POLITICS

MEXICO CITY, June 10 (AP)—Bullfighting having merely whetted his appetite for excitement, Rodolfo Gaona, Mexico's mightiest matador, is preparing to get a real thrill out of life. He plans to enter politics.

Gaona, called by admirers, "The Caliph of the Bull Ring," is in his field what Babe Ruth or Jack Dempsey are to baseball and boxing. After a brilliant career he retired from the ring last year with a fortune estimated at 2,000,000 pesos.

Leon, his native town in Guanajuato state, is prepared to make Gaona mayor or send him to congress, just as he pleases.

MASSASOIT CO. PLANS TO BUILD $200,000 MILL IN THE SOUTH

With the announcement by Percy S. Palmer, treasurer of the Massasoit Manufacturing Co., with mills at Oakdale and at Fall River, that the concern will begin the construction of a new $200,000 plant at Lake Charles, La., and with the entire revamping of the Oakdale mill now being accomplished, the concern, by fall, will have possessed the fifth link in mill ownership, all equipped with the most modern and efficient methods for the manufacture of cellulose.

The work now in progress at the Oakdale mill, calls for, among other things, a new gigantic washing engine, the largest in the United States. Already, a New London contractor has completed a new chemical house. The entire capacity of the plant will be greatly increased this summer. The newest and most efficient systems will be in operation. The chemical house begins its operations this week.

Work on the huge plant at Lake Charles will begin July 1, according to a statement by Mr. Palmer. It will be ready for operation early in the fall, employing about 50 hands at the start. Treasurer Palmer stated that the erection of the new mill will mean no curtailment in the plant at Oakdale nor in the three other mills of the concern in Fall River.

The Massasoit company now employs an aggregate of 450 workers, 150 of whom are engaged at the Oakdale mill. H. G. Dart, superintendent of the Oakdale plant for the past eight years, said Wednesday that the mill is running day and night. He said that it had been running at capacity since his service with the concern came for a brief time following the war when all plants suffered. The same success has followed the three mills of the company in Fall River.

Mr. Palmer has recently returned from Louisiana, where he selected the Lake Charles site. June 4. He will return June 15, to supervise the planning of the new mill. There is a population of 18,000 at Lake Charles, which is located in the heart of the rice fields, 250 miles west of New Orleans.

The Massasoit company, at its Oakdale plant, was the first to make cellulose from cotton linters, having experimented with government officials on the project, at Newport, several years ago. The Oakdale concern supplied the DuPont company of Delaware with much of its cellulose for the manufacture of explosives during the World war. The concern now is the first to develop the process of making cellulose from rice hulls on a commercial scale.

Cellulose from Rice Hulls

During the past two years the Massasoit company, at the instance of and through the cooperation of officials of the Lake Charles Rice Milling Co., has been making experiments with rice hulls for the manufacture of cellulose and these experiments, proving successful, coupled with the invitation of the Lake Charles Rice Milling Co., the Massasoit Manufacturing Co. sent a man to investigate several months ago. The object was to ascertain the possibilities of using rice hulls as raw material.

Following a visit to various localities in Louisiana, adjacent to Lake Charles, the company took an option to buy Long-Bell properties on the Calcasieu river, west of the Lake Charles rice mill. Negotiations were then started for certain concessions in the form of exemption of heavy tax burden until the new industry is established; extension of the city sewer to the new plant, a distance of 1,600 feet; and a favorable rate for water and power from the local public utilities companies.

The results of a later conference were agreements of city and sewerage officials to lay sufficient sewerage pipe to reach the new plant. A bill has been introduced into the state senate to exempt from 90 per cent of taxation, new concerns manufacturing goods in Louisiana from rice hulls, straw, hyacinth and cotton stocks. More favorable rates were quoted for power and water, by the Louisiana electric company.

The manufacture of cellulose is considered as a comparatively infant industry, the purposes for which it is used being so many, and the demand constantly increasing. Heretofore the the Massasoit company has been manufacturing this article from cotton linters. Other fibrous materials such as cocoanut shells may be used but rice hulls were found so much more suited for the purpose, that this waste products of the Louisiana rice industry was selected in preference to the others.

Cellulose is used in the manufacture of high explosives, artificial leather and artificial silk. There seems, according to experts, to be no end to the increasing demand for it for the manufacture of motion picture films.

TO ORGANIZE COTTON MANUFACTURING INDUSTRY ON A NATIONAL SCALE

NEW YORK, June 10.—(AP)—Leaders of the cotton manufacturing industry at a meeting today took steps toward the organization of the industry on a national scale.

To this end the meeting adopted a resolution for appointment of a committee of ten to study the steel industry and others organized in a national scale and decide on a plan which will meet best the problems of the cotton industry.

Half of the committee will be named by W. B. MacColl, president of the national association of cotton manufacturers, and half by James P. Gossett, head of the American cotton manufacturers association.

The idea that nationalism should replace sectionalism in the industry was voiced by several speakers at the meeting and following Arthur H. Lowe, of Boston, who has been president of both associations, which represent the northern and southern manufacturers, said:

"The cotton industry is in a bad way, and we all know it and admit it. It is overdeveloped—we make too much of some things for the market. We should have a controlling influence in the cotton industry, and influence such as that controlling the steel industry."

Here's A Tip About Motorcycles

IF you want all the fun and thrills of motorcycling then you'll never be happy unless you have a twin that is designed strictly for solo riding! For only such a machine is not too heavy for comfort, safety and ease of handling—and is not too light for power, stamina and acceleration.

Indian Scout
The Ideal Solo Machine

Its perfect balance, quick, smooth start and lightning-like pickup make the Scout ideal for city riding. And yet it has all the speed and endurance that you'll ever need for touring.

Come in and experience for yourself the sense of security, luxurious comfort, twin cylinder smoothness and cent-a mile economy which only Scout riders enjoy. Free Demonstration.

YOU may be the winner

No obligation—Nothing to buy

Just suggest the best name and slogan for this new Gulbransen Small Upright Piano, and you will be given one absolutely free of all cost.

HERE'S a chance to use your imagination. You will find the new Gulbransen a little beauty, a delight to the eye, to the ear, a gem of a piano that will fit in 'most any nook. Ideal for apartments, bungalows, small homes, studios, schools, churches, recreation centers, music conservatories, hotels, clubs, for an extra piano in the den or children's room, etc. Nationally Advertised and Nationally Priced at only $295.

It is not necessary for you to come to our store to see this piano to name it and give it a slogan. But it may help you to do so and you are welcome. Entry Blanks may be obtained at our store.

Rules of the Contest

Purpose: To obtain a name and slogan for the new small upright piano manufactured by the Gulbransen Company.

Prize: One of these instruments to be awarded to the person who submits the best name and slogan for it. The instrument will be autographed by Mr. A. G. Gulbransen, president of Gulbransen Company.

Duration of Contest: From May 20th, 1926 to August 20th, 1926. The time of receipt of names and slogans will not be taken into consideration in making the awards. Suggestions postmarked August 20th will have as good opportunity of winning as those dated May 20th. In the case of a tie—two or more contestants submitting the same name and slogan—the same award of a small piano will be made to each.

Judges: Mr. H. A. Stewart, salesmanager of Gulbransen Company; Mr. Frank Justin, of Justin Brothers, dealers, of Cicero, Illinois; and Mr. James D. Woolf of J. Walter Thompson Co., advertising agency.

Type of Name Desired: We prefer to have a name descriptive of the instrument itself. Or the slogan accompanying the name may be so worded as to indicate the type of piano, as for instance:

Gulbransen Baby Piano
"Fits in Any Nook"

Bear in mind in naming the instrument that it is considerably smaller than pianos of ordinary size, as shown by the illustration above, and that it will be used principally in:

Small Apartments	Churches
Bungalows	Music Conservatories
Small Homes	Clubs
Studios	Hotels
Schools	Recreation Centers

Extra piano for den, children's rooms in large homes, etc., etc.

AWARDS WILL BE ANNOUNCED SEPTEMBER 5, 1926

NOANK

OLD STEAMER CHELSEA SURPRISINGLY STAUNCH

(Special to the Bulletin)

NOANK, June 10—Steamer Chelsea, now being turned into a ferryboat has been hauled out on the ways at the shipyard. Carpenters are rushing the cabin work and the windows are being put in. The inspectors have looked over the hull and found only one plank a little bad. Outside of that the craft is O. K. after being laid up so long. The men are working over time to get the ferry boat ready to leave here in a week or so. If the alteration is not done then it will be finished in Stamford and a small force will go from here to that city to work on the boat.

Sidney Butson of Red Bank, N. J. is home for a few days.

A. Deane of Lynn, Mass., is spending a week with Noank relatives.

Stanley Dodge has returned to Jersey City after a visit at Mason's Island.

Dexton Holliday is making a visit in Chesterfield.

Palmer Crumb is spending a few days at his cottage at Lord's Hill.

The main road at Groton Long Point is being made ready for the tar. The road commissioner, William Wheeler and a force of men are fixing the bad holes and spots in the road, the sand is on the side of the road for the tar and the other roads will soon be repaired. This summer the roads will be in the best of shape.

JOHNSON TRIES POLITICAL COMEBACK IN MINNESOTA

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 10 (AP)—Magnus Johnson, who won national attention as Minnesota's "dirt farm" senator, will attempt a political comeback in the June 21 primary election.

Running again on the Farmer-Labor ticket, the former senator is seeking the gubernatorial nomination, contesting with Tom Davis of Minneapolis. Each has the indorsement of a faction of the party.

In point of national interest, the republican gubernatorial contest takes second place, with Governor Theodore Christianson opposed by Mayor George E. Leach of Minneapolis. Christianson is serving his first term.

Republicans, farmer-laborites and democrats will nominate candidates in the primary for the national house of representatives, and state, legislative and country posts. There is no United States senatorial contest.

ARE CONDUCTING A MARKETING AND INDUSTRIAL SURVEY OF NEW ENGLAND

WASHINGTON, June 10.—(AP)—A marketing and industrial survey of New England with a view to gauging its present and potential possibilities is being inaugurated by the department of commerce. Dr. Julius Klein, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, announced today that the survey, a link in a nationwide chain, has been undertaken in compliance with requests from the business interests of the section and particularly from the New England council.

Special emphasis will be held upon ascertaining where New England products are being sold and whether they are being distributed in their own New England market as intensively as possible. The data compiled will include that on subsidiary trade areas, purchasing habits, buying power, proportion of different nationalities, incomes, occupations and other trends of consumer-buying habits. Difficulties in manufacturing and marketing methods will be analyzed, and high production costs and seasonal employment matters examined. The relation of New England to its sources of raw material will also be studied.

JEWETT CITY

GRISWOLD PUBLIC SCHOOLS GRADUATE A LARGE CLASS

JEWETT CITY, June 10—The graduating exercises of the class 1926, Griswold public schools, was held in Fina Opera house Thursday evening. The platform was decorated in the class colors, green and gold, by Miss S Nettie Johnson and Miss Mabelle Scott. A border of ferns and yellow roses outlined the front of the platform, and in the center was a large green shield with "Class of '26" in gold letters. At either end were quantities of beautiful golden and cream colored iris. On both sides of the arch was the class motto Upward Ever, Downward Never. The background was the scenery for the operetta. It was a very realistic wall with a large gate in the center, constructed by George Wilcox. The scenery was designed by Miss Alice Brown and the pupils in her room did quite a little of the shading and outlining. It was all chalk work and was very artistic. F. H. P. Clement presided. Rev. A. H. Clement opened the exercises with prayer. Mary Hlastava, the valedictorian, gave the greeting. The operetta "The Toreadors" by Otis M. Carrington was then presented under the direction of Mrs. Nettie Robinson and Mrs. Harry Remick. The costumes were gay and elaborate, having been hired for the presentation. The children did wonderfully well, showing the effect of careful coaching and individual talent. The cast was:

NEW LONDON YOUNG WOMEN GOT BUSY, INSTEAD OF SCREAMING "FIRE!"

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 10—Presence of mind and cool-headedness prevented fire loss this morning about 9:30 when fire that sent a shaft of flame up the rear of the wooden building on Meridian street occupied by Gates and Beckwith, painters, started in a barrel of garbage, oil waste, etc. The fire shot along the rear wall of the structure and to an open window on the second floor. In the Hamilton, next door, two young women occupied a room. They were awakened by the glare of the flame and going to a window realized the danger One obtained a water pail and proceeded to act, while the other went to the floor above and she, too, secured a pail of water. With the contents of these they fought the fire and subdued it before the fire department officials or any fire company arrived in response to an alarm. The women were congratulated upon their good judgment in acting instead of yelling from a window. Their promptness saved the building.

The largest number of prisoners that has been harbored at the county jail in a long time is registered there now. There were 52 prisoners at the institution this morning.

New London will be well represented at the convention of foreign war veterans at Hartford Sunday.

Theodore Clinton Losch, of the Coast Guard academy, was before the police court this morning for operating an automobile without possessing a license. Losch admitted that he realized that no one was allowed under the law to operate a motor vehicle till that person had paid a fee to the state and had been given authority to drive a car. He said his machine had been under repair and that he had but just obtained possession of it. He declared that he intended to secure a license, but had failed to do so. He was reminded that he made a mistake in that intention and was fined $5.

Clarence Coburn, a youth of 20, was similarly fined for operating a car without either registration or a license. He was whirling around in a car in a court and making his machine a nuisance. Coburn admitted that he did wrong, but claimed that he did not drive out of the court.

Morris Bernstein mixed up in traffic on State street and was so restive there that he got into a mixup with the traffic officer, Frank Lenihan, also. The officer was doing his best to relieve the situation, but Bernstein possessed the idea that he could slip out and go around a trolley that was off the irons. He was warned against that procedure. Finally he was ordered into court that he might explain. He did the best he could in this direction and the court was considerate enough to suspend judgment but Bernstein was reminded of the virtue of patience and consideration for others.

Vincent Arigiros has sold the business at 28 Willetts avenue to Palagia Plomaritis.

James R. May, a committee appointed by the superior court to sell real estate owned by the Soltz company, adjudged a bankrupt several months ago, has sold three building lots on Whittlesey street to Peter Mros.

Silas Maxson, Jr., has sold to Ethel Wornan, of Brooklyn, a building lot on the former Schwaner park tract, off Ocean avenue.

Etta Dressler and Leah Spector, Hartford, have sold a cottage on Midway place, Ocean Beach, to Fannie Parskey.

Rose Goulart, formerly of Gales Ferry, has sold to Mary E. Callahan a house and lot on Howard street.

Charles Harris, for a number of years residing on Shaw street and who for a long time has been considered of unsound mentality, was arrested in Waterford last night by State Police Officer Arthur Whitmarsh, of Groton barracks, for safe keeping. He was later committed to the Norwich State hospital by City Physician Paige P. Cheney, who examined Harris at the police station. Harris, who is about 50 had been roaming about the country-side a number of days and residents of Waterford, believing that harm would come to Harris complained to the authorities.

Mrs. Percy Bramble and infant son, of Blackhall; Miss Angelina Tudisco, Hyatt street and William O'Brien, 10 Denison avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

The funeral of Mrs. Lydia C. Lawrence was held this afternoon at 12 o'clock at her residence, Jerome court, the services being conducted by Rev. Philip M. Keridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. Burial was in Laurel Hill cemetery, Philadelphia.

The funeral of Rachel B., widow of Alden W. Hewitt, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at her residence, 28 Cleveland street and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the Second Congregational church. The bearers were Oliver Woodworth, Richard Smith, Frank Bentley, George MacNichols, James M. Graves and Frederick A. Parker Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Several New Londoners are in New York tonight and witnessed the light heavyweight fight between Paul Berlonbach and Tony Stribling.

The Willimantic police have asked the New London authorities to be on the lookout for a Chevrolet automobile, bearing Connecticut registration, 43788, which was stolen in the former city Wednesday night. The New Haven police have also requested the New London police to maintain a watch for a Cadillac automobile that was stolen from Cheshire Wednesday night. The car bears Connecticut registration, K-819.

John Bennett, 75, of Old Mystic, died at Lawrence hospital this morning where he had been a patient but a day, although he had been ill at his home for some time. Mr. Bennett was born in New London, but had resided in Old Mystic a number of years and was employed as a caretaker of residences. So far as is known, Mr. Bennett had no near relatives.

Funeral services for Paul G. Hamel, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Arsyne Hamel, were held this morning at 10 o'clock at the residence of the child's parents, George street, Groton. Rev. William J. Fox, pastor of Sacred Heart church read the burial service. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, New London.

William F. Costa, of New Bedford, Mass., and Miss Clotilda Bettencourt, Baker avenue, Groton, were married this morning at 8 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William J. Fox, the pastor. Manuel Bettencourt, brother of the bride, was best man and Miss Ethel Burgess attended the bride.

Charles H. Stetson, Willetts avenue barber shop proprietor, was arrested this afternoon by Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray and Patrolman George Laboue charged with breach of the peace. He was locked up in default of a surety on his bond of $100 and will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning. Stetson, who resides on Montauk avenue, and who has been arrested numerous times for intoxication, breach of the peace and operating a motor vehicle without having an operator's license, was at his establishment, 125, about 5 o'clock and going to the confectionery store of Harry Plomaritis, 128, new proprietor of the place, he engaged in a quarrel with Plomaritis, Louis Comet, 122 Tenth street, and Alexander Mayewski, 12 Williams street. So abusive and demonstrative was Stetson toward the three that Plomaritis made complaint to the police and the officers finding Stetson on the premises, placed him under arrest. Stetson was recently convicted of driving his automobile while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 in the police court and his operator's license was suspended.

Ole L. Johnson, Poquonoc Bridge, 34, a carpenter, was arrested late this afternoon by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy charged with violation of the motor vehicle law in driving his automobile, which is equipped with defective brakes. He will be presented in the police court tomorrow morning.

A New London man, and former business man of Bank street, will probably be arrested within the next day or two on a charge of destruction of private property for today the owner of the property alleged to have been damaged by the former occupant made complaint to Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky and requested the arrest of the alleged offender of the law. The complaint is being investigated and if the facts related are found to be true, the fellow will be apprehended. According to the information lodged with the acting prosecuting attorney the owner of the house caused the occupant to be ordered from the place. When the latter vacated the premises it is alleged that shelves were ripped from pantry walls, doors were ripped from hinges, blinds were taken away and the interior of the house generally was disfigured. The only reason assigned for the man's conduct is that he was peeved because he was forced to vacate.

The several New Londoners who are sponsoring the endeavor to have a special city election for the privilege of voters casting their ballots to determine whether the present form of city manager form of government or the former municipal form of government shall prevail another year, declared today that the numerous petitions that have been circulated contain over 2100 signatures. This is the required number to make it mandatory of the city council to cause the election. Another 150 names, it was stated, would be added to the petitions so that if any of the signatures now listed are found illegal, a sufficient number of bona fide signatures will still remain. It was also stated that it was the intention of the movements against the present form of government to cause the petitions to be filed with the city clerk as soon after next Monday as possible. When this is done the city clerk will make a check-up of the signatures and if 2100 of them are found to be bona fide voters, the matter will be brought before the city council at the first possible meeting and then a date for the election will be set. The annual city election is fixed by charter during the third and fourth weeks of September and the referendum matter will be settled at a meeting to be held prior to that time.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today advised the New London police that the operator's license of Howard B. Sloan, 361 Broad street, indefinitely suspended several months ago, has now been made limited of issue and that Sloan can operate an automobile for H. J. Marikle, Mystic, but for no one else. Sloan, a former police officer in New London, is serving a sentence of a year in jail as a result of his conviction in the superior court six months ago on a charge of assaulting a minor female.

CITY TO HAVE OLD MEN'S HOME THROUGH M. W. BACON WILL

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 10.—New London is to have a home for aged, respectable and indigent men. This was announced today, following the burial yesterday of Mrs. Jane D. Bacon, widow of Morris W. Bacon, whose will was admitted to probate in May, 1911. The will of Mr. Bacon gave his widow life use of the estate but upon her death and after certain bequests had been taken care of, the instrument provided for the establishment of the home by the creation of a trust estate and accumulation of the income and other revenue of the estate for a period of not more than 20 years. The will establishing the home provides that men residing in New London during the years to be determined by the trustees, shall be eligible to become residents of the home when they become 65. The trustees named by Mr. Bacon were Frank B. Brandegee, George F. Tinker, Charles H. Klinck and Frederick S. Newcomb, all deceased, George Whittlesey, Charles B. Graves, Daniel D. Sullivan and George B. Prest, but the surviving members of the trust creation are empowered to fill vacancies. The testator has provided that the tract to be the site for the home shall be of sufficient size to provide occupation and divers sion for the inmates and suggests that the plan that operates the Smith Memorial home be followed, so far as the trustees deem it practicable. The real estate of the testator which will not be sold to permit the provisions of his will being carried out, are the Bacon Marble block, State [illegible] and the Hop Pill and Telegram [illegible] Green street, these being [illegible] with the trust estate.

Bequests that can now be made [illegible] result of Mrs. Bacon's death, [illegible] as follows:

Lizzie J. Whittemore, daughter [illegible] testator, $2,500 in quarterly [illegible]. Another bequest to the [illegible]ary was changed in the codicil, [illegible] for $1,000 annually in quarterly payments, termination at the [illegible]sion of the trust created; Curtis Bacon, Middletown, $8,000; the [illegible] Church of Christ, this city, $2,000; New London Cemetery association, $360; Martha S. Carroll, New London, sister of Mrs. Bacon, $400 annually in quarterly payments and two diamond rings; Oscar E. Johnson, Charleston, S. C., $1,000; books and book cases to the Y. M. C. A.; Memorial Hospital association, $2,000.

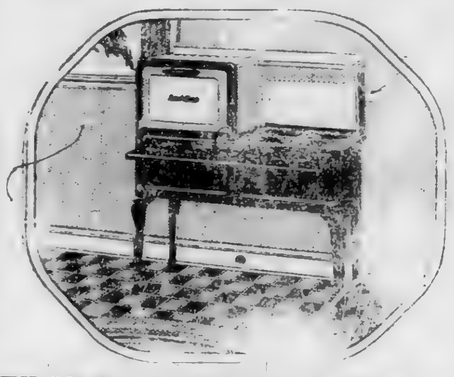
of the Long Desired

"LIVELY HEAT"

The Cooking Sensation of the Day



SEE HOW "LIVELY HEAT" MAKES PERFECT OIL STOVE COOKING

Let the expert who is here show you how the Red Star burns oil without wicks or wick substitutes —how it gives gas heat, gas range results — how cooking starts the instant the burner is lighted.

We want every housewife in Eastern Connecticut to know about the many cooking advantages of this wonder stove.

What "Lively Heat" Is

"LIVELY HEAT" is the dancing, vigorous active heat above a bed of red-hot coals—above a modern gas burner—above the glowing electric burner. In each case it is the same heat. Only the fuel is different.

"LIVELY HEAT" is produced by burning vapors of gasoline. Compared to it the fabled, useless heat of a candle flame.

Red Star engineers have found a way to produce "LIVELY HEAT" in an Oil stove. They lead the liquid gasoline through [illegible] where it is [illegible] burned and produces the [illegible] "LIVELY HEAT"—cool, safe and economical. Naturally there are no wicks or wick substitutes.

32 PIECE SET OF DISHES FREE WITH EACH RED STAR

With all its wonderful service and efficiency, the Red Star costs no more than ordinary oil stoves!

Over 80% liked it better than any bread they had ever tasted

WE asked hundreds of women who have tried White Rose Bread how they liked it.

They are women who have kept house for years. Women who have had to plan nourishing meals for growing children and meet the problem of appealing to various family appetites.

82% of them say their families prefer White Rose to any other bread.

They like it for its full, sweet, rich flavor. Over and over they speak of the delicious taste, "like home-made."

Most of these women mention especially the firm, close-grained texture of White Rose—how evenly it toasts—how it spreads without crumbling and cuts into thin, firm slices for sandwiches.

Small families like White Rose for its "keeping qualities." They find it fresh and appetizing the second —even the third day—up to the very last slice.

Your grocer has White Rose Bread fresh-baked twice a day. Begin today to give it to your family. See for yourself why so many women prefer this appetizing, nourishing loaf to any other. Massachusetts Baking Company.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Dolores Costello, who became a screen star over night, due to her performance as the heroine of "The Sea Beast," with John Barrymore, plays at the Palace theatre on Friday and Saturday in her new Warner picture, "Bride of the Storm," a J. Stuart Blackton production. The story, adapted by Marion Constance from James Francis Dwyer's "Maryland, My Maryland," deals with an American girl shipwrecked off the China coast and brought up by three Dutch lighthouse keepers. It is a thrilling and spectacular melodrama. And of course we have the News and Fables. See our ad for description of a great vaudeville show.

Mandel's Shoe Shop Opening

Mandel's shoe shop, Emanuel Mandel proprietor, with his brother, W. Mandel, as manager, will open Saturday morning, June 12, at the new up-to-the-minute shoe shop, in the store at 6 Franklin square, formerly occupied by McGrory's electric store.

An entire new stock of first quality high grade shoes, boots and rubber footwear will be displayed and at prices that will be winners. Every pair of shoes is fully guaranteed for the Mandel shoe shop guarantees satisfaction or money cheerfully refunded. There will be attractive souvenirs for men, women and children customers. The shop features Morse & Rogers Endicott-Johnson and Triangle Brand shoes, with first quality Hood rubber tennis footwear for the entire family.

Broadway Theater

One of the most pleasing and most outstanding programs of the season opened at the Broadway theater to one of the most appreciative audiences in months.

The program opened with the funniest features ever made, The Cohens and Kellys. All the humor and side-splitting laughter of a hundred thousand Cohens and several thousand Kellys has been captured in this perfect characterization of these two famous families. It's a race picture with everybody in the cast racing to see which can provide the most laughs. This alone is worth more than the admission charged.

The Keith-Albee vaudeville followed.

A Japanese Pastime with The Osaka Boys provided a perch novelty containing many good laughs.

Baby Elaine, the six year old child wonder, was a treat for all and the kind of treat that seldom can be seen.

Forest and Mardo, two damsels were in third spot presenting a variety of song and laughter.

Soper and Doran, two comedians scored a laughter hit in fourth spot.

The Variety Sextette, which is a company of six composed of five girls and a man. They have unusually strong song dances and musical revue that closed the bill with a bang.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
New York

Stocks firm, General Motors and equipment shares rally.

Bonds steady, several rail issues had new highs.

Foreign exchanges easy; French and Belgian francs below 3 cents.

Cotton declined; better weather in eastern belt.

Sugar steady, light offerings.

Coffee firm, commission house buying.

Chicago

Wheat lower, beneficial rains.

Corn easy, sympathy wheat.

Cattle steady to strong.

Hogs firm, better shipping demand.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, June 10—(AP)—Price movements in today's stock market developed considerable irregularity with chief speculative interest centered in brisk demonstration in a selected list of motor, rail and equipment shares, trading showed a substantial falling off in volume, the day's sales aggregating 1,311,200 shares as compared with 1,535,100 yesterday and 1,602,100 the day before.

The three principal financial and trade developments of the day were conservative in character. They were relaxation of money rates, and an expectedly small increase of only 218,726 tons on the May unfilled orders of the U. S. Steel corporation and the announcement that loadings of revenue freight for the week ended May 29 totalled 1,051,164 cars, the largest ever reported during any one week at this season of the year.

General Motors superseded U. S. Steel common as the market leader in today's session climbing nearly five points to 124 1-4, or within a point of the year's high. Dupont, with a large General Motors holding, also rose 5 3-8 to 220 3-8.

In reflection of a mixing price tendency for the nonferrous metals, Utils and Coppers showed a preference for Murray Body as one of the few issues.

The basic demand for the railroad list was accompanied by revived reports of railroad consolidations, with buying also influenced by heavy freight traffic and large current earnings.

The principal commodity markets also lost ground. The wheat market reacted sharply on the publication of the private crop report indicating 540,000,000 bushels of winter wheat. Cotton slumped 50 to 55 points on selling inspired by favorable weather reports. Raw sugar advanced 1-32 of a cent a pound and coffee rallied 13 to 25 points.

Call money renewed at four per cent, as against 3 1-2 at the previous close. Time money was unchanged, being quoted at 4 to 4 1-4 depending upon maturity, instead of 4 1-8 to 4 1-4. Foreign exchange trading was quiet, but reactionary tendencies predominated. Demand sterling held fairly steady around $4.85 but French francs again showed several points below the 3 cent level. Moderate recessions also took place in the Italian and Belgian rates. Scandinavia exchange were firm.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 10—(AP)—A progressive forward movement in the bond market today carried the general average of prices up to around the year's highest level. Buying activity centered largely in railroad and public utility liens, several of which reached new top prices for the year, while dwindling interest ruled the edge of trading in foreign and U. S. government bonds.

Rallies of 1 to 3 points were general throughout the long list of St. Paul Railway bonds and certificates, which led the railroad group in activity.

High grade public utilities, such as Utah Power & Light 5s, North American Edison 6s and New York Telephone 4 1-2s advanced fractionally.

Revived reports that American credits might be arranged to help the continental exchanges failed to exert any beneficial influence on French, Belgian or Italian bonds. Mexican obligations moved higher and some of German issues continued to attract buyers. Liberty bonds were firm but less active.

One of the next large public utility financing operations will be the sale of $26,000,000 Nevada Electric Corporation bonds. The proceeds will be used mainly for consolidating outstanding issues and for financing new construction.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 10—(AP)—Sellers greatly outnumbered buyers in the wheat market today and gave way to a material setback. Sharp breaks in the premiums obtainable for immediate delivery wheat at Kansas City and Omaha had an evident bearish effect on future deliveries here, and so too did rains widely scattered from Canada south to Kansas. Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 1 1-4 to 2 3-4c net lower, with corn 7-8 to 1 1-8c off, oats 7-8 to 1 1-4c down, and provisions at 7c to 30c decline.

Right from the outset, buyers shied away from wheat. It was generally conceded that the government crop report was a bullish document, but the majority of traders took the view that the report had been discounted beforehand. Notwithstanding that large sections of Nebraska and Kansas sent advices that crop damage was beyond stoppage by moisture, the fact that weather conditions were more favorable northwest did a good deal to stimulate selling and to weaken values, especially toward the last when cash wheat premiums had given way at Kansas City and Omaha.

Corn and oats gave way in view of rains which put a negative on bad crop reports for at least the time being. Receipts of corn here were large, 332 cars today.

Provisions were easier, as a result of selling on the part of recent buyers who were in a position to realize profits.

BRIDGEPORT MILLIONAIRE'S BODY WAS FOUND IN POND

Harry W. Walker, Long Identified With the Ice Business, is Believed to Have Committed Suicide—Body Was Found Propped Up Against a Runway With a Bullet Wound in the Head—Had Chatted Pleasantly With His Brother and Others Early in the Afternoon—The Body Was Found at 5:05 P. M.—Had Been in Ill Health For More Than a Year.

BRIDGEPORT, June 11.—(AP)—Harry W. Walker, Bridgeport's ice king and one of the richest men of the city, committed suicide this afternoon at his summer home in Beardsley park. The body was found in a sitting posture partly submerged in the waters of the pond with a bullet hole through the head. He had been in ill health for more than a year and for the past few days had appeared depressed over his condition which he believed incurable and this afternoon while in a fit of despondency it is believed by members of the family and police that he ended his life.

Mr. Walker who was owner of the Bridgeport Ice Delivery company, president of the Citizens Ice and Coal company, Bridgeport Ice company, City Ice and Coal company and president and treasurer of the Naugatuck Ice and Coal company and treasurer of the Connecticut Ice Service corporation, lived at home at Brooklawn park. Early this morning, to attend his business duties and was apparently in the best of spirits. He returned home to lunch this afternoon about 1 o'clock and again left for the office of the Naugatuck Valley Ice company at Naugatuck where he arrived at the company's plant at 2:30. He was seen by several of the men whom he conversed with.

After a short time he disappeared and a search was started for him by Lee Tomlin 270 Center street, superintendent of the Bridgeport Ice and Coal company, who had driven to the ice house for a load of ice.

Out on the runway several feet from the shore Mr. Walker's hat was seen by his brother Elisha who remarked at that time that his brother must have drowned. The two walking out on the runway saw the body in the water. Mr. Tomlin reached over the runway and with a small piece of board managed to coax the body within his reach and pulled it up on the runway where the brother almost collapsed and hurriedly left the scene to notify the brother's wife and son of the tragedy.

Medical Examiner H. L. Peters was notified and examined the body. From a preliminary examination made at the time the medical examiner stated that the death was suicidal and the wound in the head was made with a revolver, probably of 32 calibre. The bullet entered at very close range for there are powder burns on the right side of the temple where the bullet entered. The bullet fired from the revolver entered the right side of the temple about two inches above the ear and made its exit on the opposite side of the head. After the examination the medical examiner gave permission for the removal of the body to the Tomlin home of Wilmot and West at Lafayette and Broad streets.

Police immediately began a search for the revolver with which he used to fire the fatal shot but were unable to locate it. It is believed that when he fired the bullet the revolver dropped from his hand into the water at the place.

Just across the road from the point at which Mr. Walker was found, three school children were playing and when they heard the report, and discovered it is believed that the boys carried to their parents the news of the suicide. The report was heard only by the parents. Harry Green, who is a watchman at the plant. Green at that time did not pay any attention and did not think that it was a shot until later when he was told of Mr. Walker's death.

HAD BUSINESS INTERESTS IN MANY CONCERNS

NEW HAVEN, June 11.—(AP)—Harry W. Walker was president of the Berkshire Coal and Ice company, of this city and was interested in many other concerns here. On March 6 this year, he leased to Yale university for 16 years an ice arena which is now under construction and which is expected to cost $500,000. The new rink is to replace one owned by Mr. Walker which was burned on June 18, 1924, with a loss estimated at $300,000.

Mr. Walker was well known by his coal and ice interests throughout the state. He owned ice depots at Bantam Lake, Conn., and West Stockbridge and Lake Consequenoc, Mass., from whom he supplied many of his retail customers. He had been connected with the Berkshire Company since 1911. In 1917 he became a director of the Naugatuck Valley Storage Battery company, buying it from the receiver. Its price cutting wars had caused the latter to freeze company to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars.

During that time department of justice agents investigated charges of Mr. Walker in shipping ice into Connecticut from Lake Champlain without a license. No action however was taken in the matter after the report of the agents was made to Washington.

Mr. Walker was interested in the Buick Garage, Ford Assembly plant, the White garage and the National Biscuit company, in New Haven.

LATEST NEWS FROM COUNCIL OF THE L. OF N.

GENEVA, Switzerland, June 11.—(AP)—Informal diplomatic negotiations have begun immediately in an effort to prevent Brazil and Spain resigning from the league of nations, which efforts are beginning to result, it is said, in the loss of both nations may be the price that will have to be paid for the admission of Germany to the league, which is expected to take place at the September session.

The Brazilian document announcing Senhor Quintiny's resignation from the council and parts to the dangers that may arise before the league. As for the Spanish delegates, it says, she will not withdraw unless assurance are given that after the admission of Germany the nations in the council will endeavor to preserve a majority in favor of world catastrophe. The unexpected resignation of the Brazilian delegate to the League Council is the basis of many rumors, it adds, "inasmuch as Brazil has declared by formal decree that she will withdraw from the league if a permanent seat is not given to her on the council. Brazil has never concealed her desire to see the league become a reign of justice and law, thereby fortifying its universal character. She has always been ready to cooperate in all steps tending to the maintenance of peace and in perpetuating the work of the league."

COLD WEATHER HAS RETARDED APPLE CROP

WAKEFIELD, Mass., June 11.—(AP)—Cold weather of April followed the work of bees and is said to have interfered with the apple crop in the New England crop reporting unit, said today in its bulletin on fruit prospects.

Opening with a normal or better prospect on June 1 for the apple crop the bulletin said, the present estimate is Maine 72 per cent; New Hampshire 82 per cent; Vermont 87 per cent; Massachusetts 91 per cent; Rhode Island 93 per cent and Connecticut 86 per cent for the entire United States apples promised 75.3 per cent on June 1 compared with 63.4 per cent. last year and 70.1 per cent. the 5 year average.

New England peaches again indicate a good crop while pears indicate a moderate crop in most places.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

NEGRO CONSTABLE WAS SHANGHAIED AT NASSAU

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—George Pinder, negro constable of Nassau in the Bahamas, testified before U. S. Commissioner O'Neil today he had been shanghaied by the alleged rum ship Eker.

Pinder declared that throughout the voyage to New York he was treated in the manner "befitting his station," dined on chicken, pork chops and turkey, and frequently sipped champagne and "wine that was real."

The Eker was recently seized at Yonkers after, it is charged, 28,000 cases of liquor had been discharged at Edgewater, N. J. Federal officers today dumped overboard 17,000 cases of alcohol that remained in the vessel's hold.

Pinder said he was put here at Edgewater and said he intends to return to the Bahamas, by way of Miami. After he identified George Hearn, arrested under the name of Hearn, as owner's agent on the Eker, Hearn's bail was increased from $5,000 to $10,000 and the hearing continued until tomorrow.

SEARCHING FOR ASSAILANT OF 12-YEAR-OLD SEYMOUR GIRL

SEYMOUR, June 11.—(AP)—Several posses headed by constables and state police tonight continued their search for the assailant of 12-year-old Vera Lewis, of this town, who was attacked while on her way to school this morning. A description of the man, the mail was given by the brother of the girl who was with her at the time of the assault.

Police believe the man was a resident of this section, although his identity was not established. Working on the theory that the assailant remained in the woods awaiting nightfall the police remained on guard tonight.

SEVEN CARDINALS WARMLY WELCOMED IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—With the papal colors, yellow and white, fluttering from hundreds of buildings and streamers decorated along the route, New York today accepted upon behalf of commerce, industry and welcome seven red-hatted cardinals come to the United States to attend the Eucharistic Congress, in Chicago.

The seven cardinals are Cardinal Bonzano papal legate, the first official representative of the pope ever to come to the United States officially; Cardinal Laurenti, prefect of Propaganda; Cardinal Dubois, archbishop of Paris; Cardinal Jean Y. Casanova, archbishop of Lyons, France; Cardinal Hayes, archbishop of New York; Cardinal Dougherty, archbishop of Philadelphia, and Cardinal Hayes, archbishop of Boston.

Cardinal O'Donnell arrived on the President Roosevelt seven hours before the other seven cardinals. He was given an ovation at Battery Park and then to the archiepiscopal residence.

The Cardinal Hayes limousine and Broadway were lined with thousands and waited while the cardinal's car passed. Cardinal Dougherty said he had enjoyed his trip and was glad to be back in America.

Thousands of police, special details, state militia, Cardinal Hayes and the Knights of Columbus welcomed the prelates at Quarantine.

With complete police escort, special motor, Cardinal Bonzano and Cardinal Hayes were the guests of an automobile parade that ended at the Cathedral of St. Patrick.

On the President Roosevelt and Aquitania were more than a hundred other persons, laymen and prelates to the 24th Eucharistic Congress. The cardinals are expected to remain in New York for several days before leaving their trip to Chicago in a "cardinal special" train, lighted throughout in their color.

Cardinal Bonzano and Cardinal O'Donnell brought messages to the people of America.

"I venture to say that the coming Eucharistic Congress will be reflected in a far-flowing penetrating influence," Cardinal Bonzano said.

Cardinal O'Donnell said the people of Ireland will never forget the friendship of America.

Arriving at St. Patrick's Cathedral, Cardinal Bonzano and Cardinal Hayes were greeted by thousands who packed the streets nearby. Passing before a police guard of honor, consisting of 250 mounted police standing at attention, the prelates passed through the doors of the cathedral.

When the cardinals rang out from the towers, they entered the cathedral where the blessed sacrament is being exposed in connection with the feast of the Sacred Heart.

A chorus of 50 priests of the diocese under the Rev. Robert E. Woodlock sang in the vestries and the cardinals offered prayers at the altar. Thousands and thousands of parochial school children from neighboring schools attended.

After were welcomed at the pier by delegations from the Catholic clubs headed by George Ryan of the board of education, and by thousands of devotees the five cardinals who did not accompany the papal legate arrived were escorted to the Hotel Vanderbilt. Formal greetings from Cardinal Mundelein, of Chicago, were extended to them by Monsignor H. Quille.

Cardinal Cassarelli said he was glad to be on a special mission by the Holy See, to continue the friendly relations between America and the Vatican.

Cardinal Du Bois, of France, expressed the hope his visit would aid in creating still more friendly relations between France and the United States.

The progress of the high prelates after landing at the pier, which was flanked with many schoolchildren and others, was delayed by the hundreds who wished to kiss their rings.

On deck of the Aquitania Ambassador Riano, Spain's representative at Washington, who boarded the ship at Quarantine, knelt to kiss the ring of Cardinal Casanova while photographers clicked their cameras. Later the cardinal said:

"He did not have to do it as an ambassador, but as a very good Christian."

Penn. Rep. Primary Was Co[illegible] Contest

Evid[illegible] Presented Senate Investigating Committee Showed Expenditures of at Least $1,312,000.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—(AP)—Evidence showing expenditures of at least $1,312,000 in the recent primary campaign in Pennsylvania has been presented to the senate investigating committee.

This was made a formal matter of record today before the committee by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the chairman, and Senator LaFollette, republican, Wisconsin, after Joseph R. Grundy of Bristol, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association, and Senator Pepper had been heard.

Mr. Grundy was called that late total only included none of the expenses of the organization of Representative William S. Vare, of Pittsburgh, successful candidate for the unexpired senate term except for the personal items of $7,000 reported by him.

Mr. Grundy, who contended that he was "the agent of no Pepper-Penrose-Woodward combination," testified he had joined Senator Pepper in the campaign only with Wm. H. Wilson of Philadelphia, as a move for "peace and harmony" in the party. He said he was not consulted at the Continental Hotel conference in Philadelphia.

Pepper, under advance, by public announcement, that Gen. Wood would be nominated and elected, Grundy said, but after the report of the earlier witness, he made no comment on that subject.

Testimony of large sums of expenditures and many in cash, the Senate was told by W. L. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, cashier of Seaboard Mellon, testified that he had been requested to deposit to the credit of the state committee received a total of $1,000,000 from the Pepper-Penrose-Mellon-Woodward ticket or $1,000,000.

Testimony today has been that approximately eight million dollars was spent on the campaign for the nomination and election of Governor Gifford Pinchot, and the senate was informed by Mr. Vare and his campaign managers that a total of $1,312,000.

Subsequently the committee obtained information from officials of the Vare Pittsburgh headquarters that $700,000 had been expended there and that a large sum was handed out in Philadelphia.

It was not developed what part of this sum if any came from Mr. Vare. Grundy said he expected he would have to pay the Simpson deficit of the campaign in order to keep Pennsylvania but added as expected to be represented everywhere. He said there had been similar experiences in the past in Pennsylvania and that "we have come out."

CANADA MAY BAR THE "AMERICAN MERCURY"

OTTAWA, Ont., June 11.—(AP)—The "American Mercury," one of whose issues was barred from the mails in the United States, is now to come under the scrutiny of the Canadian minister of customs.

A colloquial in the magazine concerning King George and various British political leaders was read in the house of commons today by H. G. Hocken of the Toronto Western center district. Mr. Hocken inquired if that kind of a magazine was to be permitted entrance into Canada.

Premier King assured Dr. Hocken that the ministers of customs would consider whether the editorial was of such a character that the magazine should be barred. He suggested, with a smile that Canada was not anxious "to make this a cause half a new war."

The issue of the issue of the American Mercury from the United States mails was occasioned by an article entitled "Hatrack" which was adjudged unwholesome.

MISS KING AWARDED $50,000 DAMAGES AGAINST A. B. RICH

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., June 12.—(AP)—Miss Louise King, Battle Creek college co-ed, was awarded $50,000 damages against Arthur B. Rich, prominent Battle Creek youth, in circuit court today. Rich is now serving a life sentence for an alleged criminal assault upon Miss King.

Miss King sued for $100,000 alleging permanent physical injury as a result of her experience with Young Rich on the golf links of the Battle Creek country club following an automobile party more than a year ago.

WORCESTER SCHOOL HOUSE AFIRE DURING SESSION

WORCESTER, Mass., June 11.—(AP)—Fire on the third floor in Freeland street school house while the classes with more than 300 children were in session, shortly before the noon hour today, threatened serious trouble until the boys and girls were marched out to safety. No panic developed, though smoke filled all the rooms. The damage was less than $1,000.

The Value of Reputation.

The value of a man is what he does, the worth he shows the world. He may be ever so good inside. If he doesn't prove it he's worthless.

The value of a watch, a skillet, an automobile, or what have you, is the worth it shows its user. It may be of highest quality power. If it can't prove it, it's useless. The reputation of any product is the known proof of its worth. The value of that known proof is that you can recognize it.

When you buy an advertised article you buy value with a reputable manufacturers name behind it. You don't have to worry and you know it before it. The qualities which made it and each have proven the worth for you. You need only to ask for the product or name. Fastened securely to that name are quality, service, satisfaction.

BRITAIN SENDS PROTEST TO SOVIET GOVERNMENT

LONDON, June 11.—(AP)—A strong note protesting against the sending of money by the Russian Soviet government to assist the workers during the recent general strike in Great Britain, was dispatched to Moscow by the British government last night.

It was transmitted to Sir Robert Hodgson, British representative at Moscow, for presentation to the Soviet government. No official text of the document is yet available and only its general tenor is known.

The communication, according to unofficial versions, sets forth the British authorities have definite proof that part of the money offered from Moscow to the trades union congress was donated by the Soviet government itself. This money, the note adds, was sent in violation of the Anglo-Russian trade agreement, and the belief is held that it was intended to foster a movement in this country about a change of government in Great Britain.

WILLIMANTIC

Office, 854 Main St. Telephone 1181-6

THOS. F. GRADY FOR CHIEF FAVORED BY POLICE COM.

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 11—Recommending the advancement of Thomas F. Grady, Frank McLean and Edward H. Leahy to chief, captain and lieutenant respectively of the police department, the police committee, through the chairman, William E. Jackson, last night sent a communication to Mayor John C. Tracy, requesting consideration of these recommendations in his appointments. The appointments are to be made at the June meeting of the board of aldermen Monday evening. Alderman Jackson so announced today. Captain Grady has been acting chief, Lieutenant McLean acting captain and Senior Patrolman Leahy acting lieutenant since the sudden death of Chief Allan McArthur. Following the latter's death there were rumors that Alderman Jackson was angling for the office of chief but in a statement yesterday the alderman from the first ward declared that, although he had been approached by a number of influential men in regard to the matter, he believed the present officers are entitled to promotion and he sanctions the recommendations, as do the other members of the committee, C. H. Beebe and Arthur J. Dubreuil. The proposed promotions meet the approval of the mayor who stated yesterday that he had decided some time ago to present their names for appointment.

The department will number seventeen members, three officers, six regulars and eight supernumeraries. The regulars are Grant Boudria, Arthur Bagley, Roderick Larivee, William Hurley, Frederick Laramee and Albert Montie; supernumeraries, William Anderson, Hormisdas Caisse, Euclide Ledoux, Leo Pinke, Pierre Marrotte, Daniel Connell, John Kilkourcy and Edgar Redmond.

Captain Grady has seen 26 years of service, one half of which term he has been a regular. He was born in this city in 1874 and attended local grammar schools. He entered the employ of the Willimantic Linen company when a young man and continued with the successor to that company, the Am[illegible] company, December [illegible] a superintendent [illegible] made a regular [illegible] He was [illegible] June 25, 1923. [illegible] was when a young man [illegible] of Company E, Third Regiment, C. N. G., and was connected with [illegible] ment as a member of [illegible] gomery fire company.

Lieutenant McLean has been a member of the department a few months less than nine years. He was born in Philadelphia, Pa., 1882, a son of the famous "Billy" McLean, old-time boxer and one of the first umpires in the National league. Lieutenant McLean won some note as a boxer. He has been a resident of this city for 23 years, having been employed as a machinist previously. He was appointed a supernumerary September 10, 1917, a regular May 1, 1919. Lieutenant McLean has 13 years, 1923 for ten years, he was a member of the Anti Hose Company and has had much experience with Company L, First Regiment, C. N. G.

Patrolman Leahy has been connected with the police department for eighteen and one-half years and has been a regular for nearly eight years. He was born in Meriden fifty years ago and has been a resident of this city for 28 years. In his younger days, he was prominent in military circles in Meriden being a member of one of the C. N. G. units there. He was in the employ of the American Thread company for a number of years before entering upon his work with the police department. Officer Leahy was appointed a supernumerary December 7, 1907, and a regular October 14, 1908, in point of years in connection with the police department, he ranks next to Captain Grady.

VOLUNTOWN

FOUR BRIGGS COTTON MILLS CLOSING INDEFINITELY

(Special to the Bulletin)

VOLUNTOWN, June 11.—Employes of the Briggs Mfg. Co. were notified this week that Nos. 3 and 4 mills of the Briggs Co. would be closed for an indefinite period at an early date, and orders were given to run out the stock in process of manufacture. This operation will possibly take two or three weeks before the plants are entirely closed. As the Nos. 1 and 2 mills have been practically closed for some time, the new orders means the end of the only industry in town. These mills have been on short time for a long perior. The general depression in the cotton trade has been given as the cause for this action.

The news has been received with deep regret by the townspeople. Many others have spent years, and most of them have established homes, and own property. All of them will find it hard to leave their old associations and strike out anew amid new surroundings. The entire community was built up around these mills and their closing will not only affect the employes but the town in general. Its stores, churches and fraternal organizations. It is to be hoped that there will soon be a revival of trade, so as to warrant the resumption of operations, and a new boom for the town.

Road Supervisor Charles Downing with a gang of men have been repairing the Beach Pond road.

Several members of the Voluntown band attended a rehearsal of the Canterbury band at Canterbury Tuesday evening.

Graduating exercises of the town schools will be held in Union hall on Friday, June 18th, an entertaining programme has been arranged. The Voluntown band has volunteered its services for the graduation.

Mrs. Rose Magrey has sold her farm to parties from New York who intend to run a poultry farm thereon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Barron, of Windsor, Conn., are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barron's mother, Mrs. Christina Briggs.

Mdme. Rose Blanchette of Norwich was a week end guest at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ovila Russi.

William E. Perkins and Ernest Adams of Coventry, R. I., called on friends in town Saturday.

Dwight Tourtelotte spent several days the past week as the guest of relatives in Providence.

During the week men from the state highway department has been at work on the Westerly road putting it in condition for summer travel.

STAFFORDVILLE

A good number of friends and relatives from Union and Staffordville gave Mrs. Edith Mathews a surprise miscellaneous shower in honor of her 50th birthday, at the Congregational vestry Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. George Soussel went after Mrs. Mathews. The United music store furnished music for the evening, a recitation was given by Walter Greikn and a poem, Birthday Bells was read by the pastor. Mrs. Mathews responded cordially thanking the friends for their kindness. Refreshments were served.

Most Women

Have stopped old hygienic methods to assure real immaculacy. NEW way gives true protection—discards like tissue

FEW modern women but employ a new and different way in hygiene. A way that supplants the old-time "sanitary pad" with true protection.

Wear filmy frocks and light things . . . any time. Dance, motor for hours without doubt or fear.

It is called "KOTEX" . . . five times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad!

Thoroughly deodorizes . . . thus ending ALL fear of offending.

✓ Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You ask for it without hesitancy at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." Costs only a few cents. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.

Buy Tydol

the only gasoline sold through sealed pumps

THE higher the quality of a gasoline, the greater need there is to protect that quality from substitution.

The Tydol dealers have united in sealing every Tydol pump in this section. For, the sealed pump is the latest step in Tide Water's vigilant system of safeguarding the high quality of Tydol.

The seal on any Tydol pump (you are invited to inspect it) is your visible proof that you get Tydol and nothing but Tydol from a Tydol pump.

Bootleggers defeated by sealed pump

The need for protecting a gasoline until it actually enters the gas tank of your car was never apparent until last fall. Then, New York City became flooded with so-called "bootleg gasoline". This was cheap, third-rate stuff that dishonest distributors pawned off on the public, selling it through pumps which bore the trade-marks of quality gasolines.

Then Tide Water, with the cooperation of Tydol dealers, developed the sealed pump. The effect was immediate. Car owners flocked by thousands to the sealed Tydol pumps. The gasoline bootleggers were defeated. The sealed pump, originated to meet a crisis is now being installed in this section to make certain that inferior gasolines never can be substituted for high-quality Tydol.

The sealed pump now here!

The Tydol dealers in this vicinity have united in sealing all Tydol pumps. They believe that the high quality of Tydol deserves an added measure of protection. And they want car owners to know beyond any doubt that when they buy Tydol they get Tydol.

If you endorse the step these Tydol dealers have taken to guarantee you better gasoline, show your approval by buying Tydol from them. You'll find a Tydol dealer near your home. Ask him to show you how his Tydol pump is sealed. You'll find that he is proud of the "Seal of Protection". He's a good man for you to do business with.

DANIELSON

JOKE ON BOOTLEGGER, WHO PAID FOR COLORED WATER

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 11.— Samuel Wasserman, a Providence young man, has a problem to ponder over today. It has to do with men, the ways of the world and the bootlegging trade. In a recent evening in the town of Plainfield, State Officer Nolan of the Danielson barracks, apprehended Wasserman driving a motor vehicle in which were 27 cases of beer. The cargo was seized by the officer and the necessary formalities gone through with to assure Wasserman's appearance in court in due course of time, that time to be 2 o'clock Friday afternoon and in the town court of Plainfield.

Wasserman frankly admitted that the beer was good beer, of an alcoholic content of 3.35 per cent. and that is far and away in excess of the one-half of one per cent named by the Volstead act as the limit of anything to be considered non-intoxicating. He was caught with the goods and made a clean breast of the matter.

All of this being in the record Wasserman could not fail to be surprised Friday afternoon when the case against him was dismissed, in so far as transportation of intoxicants was concerned. He didn't have to pay a dime on that account though a small penalty was imposed upon him for operating a motor vehicle having a Connecticut registration while he held no Connecticut operator's license.

When Wasserman came to inquire "how come?" he was told that the state officers had sent samples of the beer seized from him to the Connecticut Agricultural college for analysis and it was found to contain not 3.35 per cent of a kind but merely a trace of alcohol well under one-half of one per cent. The state officers having no wish or intent to prosecute a man under those circumstances asked for a dismissal of the case against the accused. While Wasserman was elated about that he was pondering over the honesty of the bootles—the men who tell you this is the real stuff and sell you tinted water or something worse and take high toll of your roll while so doing.

MOTORED INTO CLOUD WHICH PROVED SWARM OF BEES

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 11.—Attorney and Mrs. Harry L. Back and three other members of their party, riding in a car driven by Albert Messier over the Providence highway near Chop Mill hill had a strange and startling experience. The big closed car was rolling along at good speed and in the brilliant sunshine of a beautiful June afternoon when what appeared to be a dark cloud mysteriously developed dead ahead of the machine and directly over the highway. There was no time to stop the car before it was enveloped in this mysterious something. Eventually the car came to a stop and those within quickly sensed what had happened. A great swarm of bees, probably numbering scores of thousands had been plowed through. The windshield was literally plastered with crushed bees and honey and bees were probably not less inside the car, having entered through open windows. However, no one was stung, as the ones that came in were either killed or so stunned that they could do no harm and were promptly brushed out. The swarming bees were not halted by the losses in their ranks through the incident with the car, and it is believed that the cloud of them separated, going to either side of the machine and continued on their way.

Rev. Augustin Chapignac, M. S., professor of Greek at Lasalette college, Hartford, will be acting pastor of St. Joseph's church in Dayville the greater part of the summer season, during the absence in Europe of the pastor, Rev. Ignatius Kost. Rev. E. J. Shelley, M. S., of Hartford was in charge of the parish for a time after Fr. Frost's departure and was succeeded by Rev. John Cotter, M. S., a gifted member of the LaSalette Mission band. Rev. Fr. Chapignac at one time was a curate in St. James' parish.

Friday morning at St. James' church at 10:30 there was a requiem high mass, Rev. James McCarthy, M. S., celebrant, for Joseph Chapeau, who died in Brooklyn. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S. The bearers were Amadee Bernier, Napoleon Couette, Marcel Cote and Henri Goulet. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

C. Clinton Cleveland of the postoffice staff is to leave the coming week with Clare Turner and the latter's little son for a motoring trip in Mr. Turner's car that will take them to Akron, Mr. Turner's former home, and eventually as far west as Detroit. They will be absent about three weeks.

Former Warden Walter Anderson, just returned from a business trip that has taken him into northern New England, says that he finds a better spirit and improved business in the textile trade. Mr. Anderson has visited mills in every New England state within the last fortnight. He says that business is a little better than it has been—probably ten per cent better than in the earlier part of the year.

Baseball enthusiasm in Danielson this season is widespread and all-embracing. Even the little chaps have their team, and this incident concerns one of these. A batsman about ten years of age stood at the plate waiting for the pitch when the catcher said something to him. Turning about to hear the better he was hit in the head by the pitched ball. "Foul," yelled the nifty little umpire. "Foul, you aunt," said the batter, that one hit me on the bean—that's no foul," and a dispute over rules was on.

The Alumni baseball team ought to be pretty good this year for the annual game with K. H. S. There are a number of Alumni players in the Twilight league and they have been getting considerable practice of late. This fact may count a great deal toward achieving a victory when the big event comes off the week after next.

Rev. Leonard R. Richards of St. Alban's church will be the speaker next Monday evening, at exercises arranged to be held in observance of Flag day by Putnam lodge of Elks on the grounds of the high school at Putnam. His subject will be The Flag. There are about 100 members of Putnam lodge resident in this town and as many of them as can arrange to do so will be at the exercises. The exercises will follow a parade in which a number of military and patriotic organizations will participate.

Mrs. G. O. Thomas has gone to New York and to Albany for a few days' visit with relatives.

St. James' school baseball team won a game from a team made up of high school freshmen.

Next Tuesday the Fortnightly club will hold its annual picnic with Mrs. W. K. Pike.

Against three other contestants, Sonny Mays won the Charleston contest at the Orpheum theater Thursday evening, the audience indicating by its generous applause that it considered Sonny very good.

At this week's meeting of the Girls' club, Miss Doris Vachon, gave an interesting description of the recent convention held in Washington, D. C., and attended by a delegation from the Danielson club.

Rev. F. X. Deschaux, M. S., pastor of St. James' parish, has made arrangements for a fete in observance of the Fourth of July, the affair to include a big shore dinner.

The patronal festival of St. Alban's parish is to be observed Thursday of next week with special services. Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown, of Norwich, will dedicate the new credence table given in memory of Sarah Day Miller. Rev. F. H. Bigelow of Pomfret will preach the sermon and there will be a number of clergy in attendance.

When State Commander Harr Jackson makes a visitation to the American Legion post in Moosup Sunday afternoon, there will be a delegation there from Leo J. L'Homme post and the auxiliary from Danielson.

In the town court Judge W. Fenner Woodward imposed a fine of $10 and costs on Joseph Chamberlain of Moosup for speeding. The court remitted $5 of the fine, Chamberlin paying, including actual costs, $9.64.

Today (Saturday) at Wildwood park the Maine club of Norwich and the Maine club of Providence will have an outing. These clubs are made up of natives of the state of Maine, and this is one of their get-together events.

Members of the W. C. T. U. will have an outing and picnic supper Tuesday at Mrs. A. E. Withington's camp on Orient Heights.

JEWETT CITY

Germaine Dumont, seven years old, was knocked down by an automobile driven by Philip Morancy, on North Main street at 3 o'clock Friday evening. The boy was badly bruised, his lip cut, and a tooth knocked out. The driver was not at fault, as he was traveling about ten miles an hour.

Finn's today, matinee and evening. Mary Carr with Drusilla With a Million.—adv.

F. Robert Jones, secretary-treasurer of the Workmen's Compensation Publicity bureau of New York, will deliver the principal address at the industries division of the 27th annual convention of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce in Eastern Point, on June 23.

Now I never need to boil my wash

NO more hot, steamy kitchens for me on washday now!

I found a new kind of soap that whitens better than boiling—and sterilizes, too! I don't even need to do a bit of hard rubbing. The clothes actually wash themselves!

All I use is Rinso. It makes the water wonderfully soft and sudsy. I just soak the wash in these thick suds and the dirt and stains loosen and float right off by themselves. Then I rinse and my week's wash is done—whiter than ever.

Even the grimiest spots become snow-white with just a rub between the fingers. My clothes last longer, too—I never have to scrub them threadbare on a washboard.

Just ask your grocer for Varicose Veins Reduced or Money Back, Says Lee & Osgood Co.

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results.

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. One application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications causes the eruptions to dry up, scale off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in barber's itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you. Lee & Osgood Co. sells lots of it.

PUTNAM

SLOGAN FOR CITY WANTED BY COMMERCE CHAMBER

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 11—At the first meeting of the new directors of the chamber of commerce held at the Putchamber of commerce held at Putnam, Arthur S. Macdonald was re-elected secretary by a unanimous vote. President deCoudres also announced the appointment of the following committees for the coming year: Membership, Charles Seder, C. A. Richard, Alex Gilman, Francis Metcalf; merchants committee, Otto E. Wulf, C. S. Elliott, Alex Gilman, Leon S. Walker, Walter J. Bartlett, Willis D. Carroll, W. W. Averill, F. O. Marlon, Armand Lizotte; publicity, A. Newton Vaughn, G. L. Padgett, E. C. Rogers, Whitman Danielson, Frank N. Davis, A. S. Macdonald.

Mr. deCoudres asked the directors and through the press the citizens of Putnam, to suggest a suitable slogan for the city.

The Pershing Garrison dress caps purchased some time ago by the members of the Headquarters company have been received and issued. Final preparations for camp are being pushed. There is still room for a few more good men in the company, but those who wish to join must do so at once. Many improvements have been made at the state reservation, Camp Trumbull for the pleasure and convenience of the personel. New showers and improvements at the mess houses have been completed and, which adds much to the comforts of the camp.

NEEDED CAN OPENER TO GET MISSING BALL

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 11—During a ball game here between a local team and a Rhode Island one, the ball was hit to centerfield. It went over the outfielder's head and when he found the ball he discovered that it had lodged in an empty tomato can. The ball fitted the receptacle so snugly that the fielder could not remove it and the umpire had to call "time" until a can opener was secured from a nearby housewife.

Flag day exercises will be held Monday under the auspices of Putnam lodge of Elks. All the military organizations have been invited to participate and a line of march will be formed on the Square at seven o'clock, p. m. and will march to the high school [illegible] exercises will be held. [illegible] will be as follows: Music by [illegible] band; National Guards, American Legion, Spanish War Veterans, Grand Army, Boy Scouts, Elks, school children, G. A. R. veterans in automobiles. On arrival at the high school grounds the following program will be carried out:

State Bank Commissioner John B. Byrne, accompanied by Rev. T. Barnes, of Brooklyn, has returned from a two weeks' fishing trip in the northern part of Canada. Mr. Barnes is president of the newly formed West Hartford Trust company of which C. A. Royce of this city is to be treasurer. The camp at which they made their headquarters is a day's journey from a railroad and half that distance from civilization. There canoes had to be taken to [illegible] Mr. Byrne would that the weather was intensely cold, but that by exercise and other means they were able to keep their blood in circulation. The snow was five and six feet deep. Mr. Byrne says "We were in such a remote section that we were cut off from contact with the outside world and surrounded by such an unbroken of snow and ice that we felt that neither Byrd nor Amundsen had much on us, as far as outlook was concerned."

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Martin of Manchester, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Hughes of School street. Mr. Martin lived here for many years and was engaged in the shoe and slipper business, leaving Putnam about 30 years ago. He went to Willimantic where he conducted a grocery store until 16 years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Martin are now wiliving with a niece at Manchester.

Judge M. H. Geissler, as executor of the estate of Ann Maria Lewin, has sold some property on Bridge street that has a unique history in a legal way, not having figured in a transfer of any kind of deed for 63 years. The property consists of two houses with a frontage on Bridge street, next to Dr. J. J. Russell's office, of 75 feet and a depth of 132 feet. One of the houses is a tenement in which Mrs. Lewin lived for many years. The other has been used as a warehouse. Mrs. Lewin, who came from Dedfect originally, died about two years ago and Judge Geissler was named as executor of the estate. Sarah Israel of Winthrop, Mass., and Rabbi Juda Lemanovitz of Putnam are the purchasers. The buildings will be remodeled and Rabbi Lemanovitz plans opening a retail store in one of them. There are but few pieces of property in Putnam the title of which has remained in one name undisturbed by mortgage or other incumbrance for so long a period. The title passed to Mrs. Lewin in 1864, and the transfer to the recent purchasers is the first change in title since then. The unusual record has been commented upon by the legal fraternity of the city.

The women's society of St. Philip's Episcopal church held a very successful food sale at the Community rooms of the Putnam Savings bank, Friday afternoon. There was much attractive food on sale and many needy purchasers.

Mrs. T. B. Christmas continues ill at her home on Center street.

LEFFINGWELL

Guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. John Ross were Mr. and Mrs. LeGrande Chappell, of Thames View. Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Griffith of East Great Plain.

Eight were present Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Hiram H. Amburn to learn how to make quick-breads. A second of these meetings will be held again in two weeks.

Thursday evening the electricity was turned on in Leffingwell. Everyone was more than delighted with the new lights.

Mrs. Albert Ross was a recent visitor in New Britain, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Chappell and Mr. and Mrs. Pearl W. Ross.

The nominating committee of the B. Y. P. U. to select officers for the next six months was named Sunday evening by the president, Sherman L. Rogers, as follows: Ruth J. Ellis, Carolyn L. Beebe and Mary Hracyk.

Gilbert Murray of Hartford was a recent week end visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Murray.

Last Saturday evening the Leffingwell Ladies' Aid society held a supper in Norwich at the Buckingham Memorial. Mrs. John I. Ross and Miss Ruth J. Ellis were in charge. The menu consisted of baked beans, brown bread, salad, rolls, coffee and strawberry shortcake. A large sum was realized to add to the society's treasury.

Thursday evening the Ecclasiastical society of the First Bozrah Baptist church at Leffingwell held a meeting to discuss electric lights for the church. S. Clinton Rogers was chosen moderator of the meeting. Silas W. Leffingwell and Jesse E. Rogers are in charge of installing the lights. The meeting adjourned for two weeks.

Last Friday evening the June meeting of the Leffingwell School Improvement League was held at the school house. At the opening of the meeting there was a silent tribute in memory of Rev. William B. Oakley, followed by prayer by Rev. J. F. Speerli, of Fitchville. America was sung by all. The secretary and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. After the business meeting officers for the September meeting were announced. Entertainment, Mrs. William White, Mrs. Edward Caroline and Miss Mary Hracyk. Refreshment, Mrs. Stanley Spncer and Miss Minnie King. The committee to nominate officers for the new year beginning in September is Mrs. Harry Bedat, Roy L. Beard and Mrs. Forrest C. Leffingwell. S. Hussey Reed then presented the speaker of the evening, Rev. J. F. Speerli, of Fitchville, who gave a very interesting talk on Existentialism vs. Progressiveness. This was followed by singing Sweet and Low, and Auld Lang Syne. At the close of the meeting sandwiches and cookies were served.

CANTERBURY GREEN

Children's day will be observed Sunday by a Sunday school concert at the time of the usual morning church service. Last Sunday the pulpit was supplied by John Crofts, from Hanover.

Dea. and Mrs. Hale Bennett were at Brooklyn Tuesday to attend the six church conference, to which the Canterbury church belongs.

The Ladies' Aid society was entertained Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Sarah B. Hadley. As usual, there was a large attendance with many guests by special invitation. The June meeting at this house has become an annual event much enjoyed by all.

Rev. M. H. Jones of Providence was a recent visitor in town at her bungalow and at Mrs. Hiram Haines' also visiting Miss Fanny Brown at her home on Back hill.

"French Tutti Frutti"

WELL bet that Mr. Pickwick himself would have smacked his lips over this wonderful flavor. It tastes delicious because delicious things are put in it—crushed strawberries, red, ripe cherries, golden pineapple floating in its own rich syrup, and raisins! And rum flavor!—all frozen together with pure cream. It's smooth, cool, delightful Ice Cream—as pure and rich and wholesome as a sunny day in June. Just try a plate. It tastes even better than it sounds. And be sure to buy enough for "seconds" when you get it for dessert on Sunday.

RECKLESS DISREGARD FOR SAFETY

In Connecticut as well as elsewhere the grade crossing accidents are on the increase. The danger of such crashes is just as great as it ever was but the rate is momentarily decreasing. This is shown by the records which have been kept by the motor vehicle department. Last year there were 11 motor vehicles struck by railroad trains or locomotives on grade crossings resulting in deaths of 13 persons. In 1924 there were six such accidents resulting in the death of seven persons. The accidents and the persons killed were almost twice in 1925 what they were in 1924. This is a revelation which should go home to the automobile driver [illegible] ed to give [illegible] crossings in [illegible] points for the sake of a few minutes.

That there were not more accidents in both years at crossings is surprising when it is shown that reports kept by crossing tenders of the cars were not combining for passenger driving at such points as compared with 616 for the previous year. There were 1,000 cases of [illegible] trains or "almost" collisions at crossings in 1925 whereas there were but 49 such cases in 1924.

According to inter-state commerce [illegible] recently appointed to the straighten when the locomotive engineer [illegible] with the auto? Is the [illegible] demand for personal transportation [illegible] fore there will be [illegible] less [illegible] to be carried in mind by those who drive in crossing accidents seldom fail to take an [illegible] time.' The folly of [illegible] theory to the wind doesn't appear to have been convincing to careless motor drivers. Who are not only risking their own lives but those of others riding with them and invariably succeed.

Accidents are not less in number and too serious in consequences for us to stop, disregard for stop signals, speed and stopping of traffic on crossings have been the cause for hundreds of complaints but in spite of them, and what has happened to others the distress of [illegible] the number increases instead of [illegible] to fear. With the increase [illegible] number of [illegible] we coming to?

ANOTHER LEAGUE PUZZLE

Brazil has been pouting. At the recent meeting of the league council which [illegible] Germany into the [illegible] seat in the council [illegible] the demand that it be given a permanent council seat. That proposal seem to make a similar demand, and the result was that the admission of Germany into the league in keeping with the agreement at Locarno had to be postponed until fall. Postponement was decided upon in the hope that the situation could be smoothed out.

But the [illegible] of Brazil has apparently not made [illegible] the question of [illegible] been getting [illegible] council this week and [illegible] invited its resignation. [illegible] ed will refer to the [illegible] tion but it indicates that the matter has a fine mix-up before the settlement. The outcome of [illegible] edly uncertain.

Brazil and Spain [illegible] their opposition [illegible] pret as a special [illegible] Germany is ready to [illegible] if given a permanent seat [illegible] ing her peace and [illegible] with America [illegible] league. The blow comes from the smaller countries with non-permanent seats. They feel that they should have permanent places. It is a case of shocking someone else in order to secure for self can be obtained. The situation might not be so complicated but for the fact that Germany is deemed a member of the league by the European countries and it has not been considered that the other two countries are entitled to permanent seats in the council.

The league no sooner gets out of one difficulty than it is made to face another. Whether Brazil, and possibly Spain, can be convinced of the wisdom of delaying their demands for a while until other steps can be taken remains to be seen. It is a problem for the diplomats of the league, and perhaps some solution will be found. It is [illegible] nized of course that it is not to be hard but that it has [illegible] be changed if it doesn't succeed it will not be the first failure.

SELF DESTRUCTION

Various sections of the country set forth their respective charms and the reasons why more should locate there, but not very many of them point to the crime, suicide, or murder statistics of their respective localities. Those advertisings about which some feel that the least said the better and of course others are not interested in them. But they cannot be ignored and in any instance if there are reasons for the undesirable conditions proper study should be made to obtain a remedy.

It is set forth by a consulting statistician of one of the larger insurance companies that the suicide rate in 75 cities for 1925 was 15.6 per 100,000 population, the same figure as in 100 cities in 1901 and a gain of .2 per cent since 1900, but back in 1908 the rate was seen to 21.5 showing that there were periods of rise and fall, normal and abnormal consiidtion surrounding [illegible]

During the past year in 75 cities there were 4632 who took their lives and for some reason which the statistician cannot fathom suicide is more prevalent in the western cities than in the eastern.

Though it may not be regarded as a desirable distinction San Diego is given the highest rating for suicides, figures showing that there are 29.6 to every 100,000 population in that city, with Los Angeles second, while the largest cities of the country show no such rate. New York for instance was [illegible] ago 14.4, St. Louis 17.1, Philadelphia 12.3 and Boston 14.2.

There are many things which lend encouragement to suicide, such as business conditions, ill health, temporary insanity arising from various causes and conditions of life. Why the western section of the country should show a greater number than the eastern stumps explanation for the Pacific coast is supposed to afford attractions which are calculated to make people want to live longer. This condition will of course give Florida an additional talking point.

FIREPROOFING SCHOOLS

The demands which are being made these days for the erection of fireproof structures for school buildings are based upon the reactions which comes as the result of the many fires in such institutions.

There is no place where there should be greater safety, and no place where greater losses of life can be caused in a short time under the right conditions. The fire drill, fire escapes, the remodeling of buildings so that doors open outward and the fireproofing of furnace rooms in wooden buildings would [illegible] some years ago [illegible] to furnish the [illegible] of protection but which is now under consideration [illegible] ing the [illegible] would not be overlooked.

At Worcester, fire was discovered [illegible] in a three story school house. The children were marched out in safety and none was injured. The fire was not a serious one but it gives emphasis to the need of providing adequate protection.

In a few Boston school [illegible] ing [illegible] roofing to prevent [illegible] the bull frog, and particularly [illegible] where the heating engine [illegible] ed in the [illegible] ing [illegible] ing [illegible] ing

TILDEN AND SULLIVAN WIN NEW ENGLAND TENNIS DOUBLES TITLE

HARTFORD, June 11.—(AP)—William T. Tilden, 2nd, and his youthful doubles partner, Niel Sullivan, won the New England doubles championship on the courts of the Hartford Golf club today, when they defeated A. H. Chapin, jr., of Springfield, Mass., and Elliott Binzen, of New York, in a four set final match 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4. Tilden progressed to the final round in his quest for a fourth successive singles title by eliminating Binzen quickly, 6-3, 6-1, while Chapin earned the right to oppose him in the championship battle tomorrow by out-stroking Sullivan, 6-1, 7-5.

Chapin, who recently distinguished himself by overpowering the national champion in the finals of the Connecticut state championships at New Haven, will have his chance to repeat the achievement tomorrow and the excellent caliber of his game during the preliminary rounds stamp him as an even match for big Bill.

The Philadelphians had their hands full in the doubles finals today, until Binzen began to weaken under the swift pace in the fourth set and erred frequently on easy shots. Chapin and his partner carried the attack to Tilden and Sullivan in the first three sets, winning the first and dropping the next two by the narrowest of margins. Changing their tactics to a lobbing game to drive Chapin and Binzen from the net, the victors quickly evened matters at one set each. Sullivan, who was slow in starting and netted his close shots repeatedly, found himself in the two final sets and did his full share in driving out the victory. His bullet service caught Chapin and Binzen off guard repeatedly.

Tilden's speedy drives annexed the first three games of the first set before Chapin and Binzen hit a winning pace. Spectacular stroking by Chapin with Sullivan the butt of his attack evened matters at three-all, and after dropping Binzen's service, Chapin and his partner launched another assault which carried the first set, 6-4.

Leaping into a two game lead in the second, the Chapin pair looked like winners. At 4 to 2, Tilden and Sullivan pulled themselves together to take the set, 6-4 and even the match. The third set found the two sides fighting fiercely at top speed, Sullivan having overcome his nervous, uncertain taps into the net.

CORNELL CREW BEATS CALIFORNIA DECISIVELY

ITHACA, N. Y., June 11.—(AP)—Cornell's varsity crew today scored a decisive victory over the University of California in a three-mile race on Lake Cayuga.

The powerful "big red" combination led California's first varsity by fully two lengths at the finish. The California junior varsity shell was another length and a half in the rear, while Cornell's junior varsity outfit, the remaining starter in the four crew battle, never was a contender, finishing two and a half lengths behind.

In the other event California's sensational freshmen crew beat the Cornellis yearlings over a two-mile course. The California Cubs finished eight lengths ahead.

Rowed under almost perfect conditions, Cornells' triumph was its first in varsity competition since Harvard was beaten here in May, 1924. Close to 10000 cheering spectators, many of them alumni back for reunions, made the most of it.

The official times were: freshmen (2 miles) California 10:50 2-5; Cornell 11:13. Varsity: (three miles)—Cornell first varsity 17:17 3-5; California first varsity 17:26; California junior varsity 17:21; Cornell junior varsity 17:41.

WATERBURY CLUB TO BE TRANSFERRED TO ANOTHER CITY

WATERBURY, June 11—(AP)—Officials of the Waterbury baseball club, operators of the Eastern league franchise in this city, announced tonight that plans were being made to transfer the club to another city for the remainder of the season. The decision was reached when the directors found it cannot able to continue furnishing support to the fans who refused to support the club after the Indians moved to Williams (Kitty) Brassell between two straight pennants in the seasons of 1924 and 1925.

The new home of the Brassco is not known. Several cities are being considered but the officials were unable tonight to name the city they are seeking to engage the club. It is understood that a decision will be reached at a meeting of the board of directors to be held next week.

CORBIN RED SOX AT MARTIN DIAMOND SUNDAY

The strong Corbin Red Sox of New Britain will be the opponents of the Velvetmen at the J. B. Martin grounds Sunday. This club comes to Norwich well recommended and should give the local club a good argument. Their fast appearance at the J. B. Martin grounds was last season when the Velvetmen nosed out on the long end of the score only after a ten inning tussle.

Manager Tobin has strengthened his lineup considerably this season having signed up "Lefty" Buckland and "Ginger" Cleary two of the best semi-pro twirlers of Hartford who will do the mound duty with Huband behind the plate, Blanchard will cover first, with Sheehan at second, Fitzpatrick will take care of third, with Barnett at short. In the garden will be seen Jerves, Smith and Snyder.

J. B. Martin on the other hand is not going to let the invaders get away with anything and will send its strongest combination in battle Sunday. This team includes J. Murphy c, Pepin or Lemieux p, J. Joubert 1b, F. Murphy 2b, P. Gley 3b, De Celles ss. The outfield will be taken care of by W. Gley, E. Murphy, C. Krauss and E. Joubert. Utility, F. Smith, U. Pepin. A record crowd is expected at this game and police supervision has been procured. The field will be roped and the grounds will be in the best of condition for Sunday's battle. Game called 3:15 (D. S. T.)

GRAMMAR SCHOOL CHAMPIONS SERENADE BULLETIN OFFICE

A band of over 100 students of Broadway grammar school with the baseball team held a celebration Friday afternoon after school in honor of their winning the Grammar School league baseball title and the Bulletin trophy cup. The students marched about the city singing the school song and cheering the victors. When they arrived in front of the Bulletin Co they stopped and gave their school cheers with the Bulletin on the end. They also sang a number of school songs and went merrily on their way.

The following letter was received from F. W. Clapp, principal at Broadway:

The Norwich Bulletin,
Norwich, Conn.

Dear Sirs: The cup which you furnished as a trophy for the winning team of the Norwich Grammar School Baseball league was placed in our hands today by the Y. M. C. A.

The cup is a beauty, and the boys of the team and our pupils as a whole take much pride in it. They join me in extending to you our hearty thanks for your interest in providing such a fine trophy.

Yours very truly,
FRANK W. CLAPP,
Principal.

JR. TWILIGHT LEAGUE Nordics Beat Warriors

The Warriors lost their first game in two years—or more in the Two Seas game at the Academy campus Thursday when the Nordics won 9 to 7.

The 1925 champions were way in front, scoring many hard plays on the local nine. Hits were not fortunate when needed.

Smith on the mound for the winners pitched good ball and was given good support. The score:

FORT TRUMBULL STARS AT AT TAFTVILLE TODAY

This afternoon the fast Fort Trumbull Stars of New London will be the opponents of the Taftville A. A. team and it is expected that a fast game will result. Fort Trumbull has been playing fast ball this year and should be able to give the Taftville team plenty of competition before the game is over. Manager Gauthier of the Stars will send a Zepp, a speed ball pitcher who made a great record with the Chapman Tech team of New London for several seasons. Gadbois will do the catching and rounds out what is the fastest battery in New London.

Manager Tetreault realizing that he is up against a tough proposition will use Leroy Dugas on the mound with Lockston on the receiving end. The remainder of the team will include Castle, Leo Jarvis, Lloyd Jarvis, Gauthier, Ray Verrington, Tombari, Lucier, Coquette and Lorin. This aggregation of youngsters gives promise of becoming one of the best all-round teams seen in Norwich in many years. The game is called for 3:15 o'clock.

NEWPORT TRAINING STATION AT JEWETT CITY SUNDAY

Sunday afternoon at Ashland park, Jewett City, the Ashland A. A. meets the fast Newport Training Station of Newport, R. I. This club comes here with a fine record having won ten [illegible] games and not the fastest [illegible] teams in Eastern Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Starting Manager [illegible] will do [illegible] of a fine pitcher being a big letter man with an exceptionally nice fast ball and good stuff. He will be given a good test against the visiting aggregation of ball tossers Sunday.

Uncle Sam's gobs will go to the plate as follows: McWilliams 2b, Pederson lf, Tague 1b, Mulkey ss, Murray 3b, Thackson rf, Yetman cf, McKinne c, Peden p, Crestwood p, Layton p, Hartsone p, Adkins p.

Ashland: Ruffi cf, Magrey ss, "Spike" Liberty lf, "Chip" Dugas 3b, "Bill" Liberty c, Robertson 1b, Kaduda 2b, Gilbert and Zairstoski rf, Stanley p.

"Tommy" Corcoran will hold the indicator.

WARRIORS TO PLAY AT FORT WRIGHT SUNDAY

[illegible] will play at Fort Wright [illegible] slump and will use the strongest lineup Sunday.

The team will leave Franklin Sq. on the 11:45 a. m. car for New London in order to catch the boat that leaves New London for the island at 1:00 p. m. D. S. T.

PHILLIES TAKE SLUGGING MATCH FROM PIRATES

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—(AP)—Philadelphia won a slugging match from Pittsburgh today, 13 to 11.

Russell Wrightstone led the Phils with two doubles, a triple and a home run, in six times at bat, that accounted for nine runs. He probably set a record by clubbing two runs over the plate in each of the first three innings. Wright, Grantham and Cy Williams also hit home runs. Score:

GIANTS BEATEN FOR FOURTH STRAIGHT BY CARDS

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—The New York Giants suffered their fourth straight defeat today when they were defeated by St. Louis, 10 to 2. Hitmanship started on the mound for the Giants and visited two runs in seven innings, both of them coming as a result of wild pitches.

Willis Hudlin, Indian on the mound in the eighth and ninth, the Cardinals enjoyed a batting feast, scoring four runs in each inning. The Giant infield combined during those two frames and contributed to the Card rally. Vic Keen opposed the Giants and had an easy time keeping through for his [illegible] victory. Score:

Takeichi Harada of Japan defeated A. Ortiz, [illegible] Mexican opponent in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

Teizo Toba of Japan won the second match from Manuel Lerma, 6-1, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2.

A Challenge

The Recordbreakers would like to have a game with the Emeralds Sunday June 13 at 2 o'clock at the Providence street grounds, Taftville. [illegible] between Jim Maloney of South Boston and Cal Carter of Cuba scheduled for next Monday was called off today. The state boxing commission ruled that Carter, a former sparring partner of Maloney, was not a suitable opponent for the latter.

McMANUS' SINGLE SCORES WINNING RUN IN TENTH

ST LOUIS, June 11.—(AP)—McManus' single with the bases filled in the tenth inning brought in two runs which gave the St Louis Browns a victory over the Boston Red Sox today, 4 to 3. Gaston and Ehmke, opposing moundsmen, batted on almost even terms. Both teams went scoreless until the seventh. Triples by Durst and E Robertson in the ninth gave the Browns one run and tied the score. Flagstead's home run in the tenth again put the visitors into the lead.

CORBIN RED SOX AT HOSPITAL FOR SECOND TIME TODAY

For the second time this season the Corbin Red Sox of New Britain, one of the fastest road teams in Connecticut, will invade the stronghold of the Riverview club this afternoon. Their last assault on the Riverview team was highly successful and the Riverview club suffered a defeat, one of the few times that the Sox have been able to accomplish this feat.

Manager Paul Zemke, director of the Gesthides of the Riverview club, is not to be caught unawares today and his defense will be the strongest that he has been able to assemble. To even up matters with the Red Sox he has secured Art Leonard, one of the best night hawkers in semi-pro ball in Hartford, to do the twirling. Leonard is well known throughout the Hartford city leagues and in the western part of the state where most of his pitching has been done. Another player to be signed by Mgr. Zemke is Bigger Farrell, also from the Capitol city, and rated as one of the best first sackers in semi-pro ball. With this added strength Riverview becomes [illegible] a most formidable [illegible].

The Red Sox have acquired the services of Beig, who was with the Springfield Eastern League club during the early part of the season and he is slated to pitch against Riverview this afternoon. Buckland, who pitched against Riverview earlier in the season will be with the team. The lineups follow:

Riverview—Normandin, ss; Liberty, 3b; Mills, lf; Hamil, 2b; Schessler, rf; Moore, cf; Farrell, 1b; Belair, c; Leonard, p; West, p.

Central Red Sox of New Britain—Fitzpatrick, 3b; Blanchard, 1b; Schessler, rf; Holland, cf; Barnett, ss; Smith, cf; Sheehan, 2b; Jervis, c; Buckland, p; Berg, p.

PARIS, June 11.—(AP)—Rain today disappointed several thousand ardent tennis fans who gathered at the racing club courts in anticipation of the [illegible] match between Miss Helen Wills, American champion, and Miss Lenglen, French champion. Unless it rains all day tomorrow every effort will be made to play off as many matches of the tournament as possible. The Americans are particularly anxious to start for England to get in some practice for the international matches there next week.

In addition to the singles with Mlle. Lenglen, Captain Browne has at least two more doubles matches here. Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey also are scheduled to face Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra in one of the star [illegible]

SID TERRIS GETS CLOSE DECISION OVER BILLY PETROLLE AT CONEY

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—Sid Terris, New York's dancing lightweight, scored a hairline decision over Billy Petrolle, the fargo, D. "express" in a whirlwind 10 round boxing exhibition before 20,000 spectators in the Coney Island stadium tonight.

It was Terris' first fight in six months and he showed speed and boxing ability against the rushing western lightweight.

Petrolle forced the issue in almost every round. A lightning rally in the last round alone saved Terris from losing the verdict.

Battered around the ring in the eighth and ninth rounds with Petrolle's two-fisted offense, Terris suddenly awakened, called upon his stamina and strength and beat Petrolle badly in the final frame. Terris weighed 134, Petrolle 133.

Joe Glick, New York junior lightweight, gave Eddie Anderson of Laramie, Wyoming, a bad beating in the ten-round semi-final. Anderson weighed 129 1-2, Glick 129. The semi-final was held after the main event owing to the threatening weather.

Ray Miller, aggressive Chicago lightweight, decisively outpointed Mike Dundee of Rock Island Ill., in a ten-round bout. Miller weighed .31 1-2 and Dundee 129 1-2.

BAY STATE CIRCUIT OPENS NEXT WEEK AT STURBRIDGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STURBRIDGE, Mass., June 11.—Cedar Lake Park here is the scene of teeming activities, reminding one of a busy remount camp of war days. The express chutes at the railroad sidings have been in constant use for days past and van after van of horse transports delivering their equine loads at the local track, all because the thirteenth Bay State Circuit is scheduled to open at Cedar Lake Park next Thursday and the three hundred entrants must arrive and receive their tuning-up work before turning for the word.

There are trotters and pacers here from twenty-eight states and Canada, these including a number whose names are household words where the harness horse is Known—Margaret Dillion 1.58 1-4, Sanardo 1.59 1-2, Sir Roch 1.59 3-4, Baron Worthy 2.01, Kate Hall 2.01 1-2, Ribbon Cane 2.01 3-4 and so on without end. And with them in most instances are limousines and sedans tagged with license plates covering states from California to Maine, for the trotting sport is national in its scope and the Bay State Circuit is the seven-week vacation to which every owner, each a representative business man of his community, looks forward from one year's end to the other.

The caravan is scheduled for three days' sport at Sturbridge, Thursday through Saturday, and then strikes its tent for the first of its three weeks in Connecticut, three days at Norwich, June 22-24; three days at Cherry Park, Avon, June 30-July 1; and four days at Sage Park, Windsor, July 5-8. At each of the latter two meetings, both of which are suburban to Hartford, there are two $10,000 races on the program and four races, the like of which never have been known in half-mile track racing, are in prospect.

Quoting a well-known realtor of Boston, probably the biggest operator in eastern development, "Bay State Circuit racing, in which so many men of means find their recreation, has done more to advertise New England as the nation's summer playground than any other form of publicity. It brings annually to New England a legion of big men from other parts of the country and while they are here with their horses it is no hard matter to 'sell' them our mountain and coast resorts."

MEHLHORN FINISHES THIRD IN FREAK GOLF GAME

MOOR PARK, England, June 11. (AP) —Bill Mehlhorn, of Chicago, finished third today in the first day's play of the freakish target golf tournament competition, which has been heralded as an innovation, with a scientific system of point scoring instead of the orthodox counting by strokes.

Mehlhorn's total for the 18 holes was 160 points out of a possible 288. Abe Mitchell, British professional, who had the best count of the day, scored 172, while C. H. Corless, of Dorsetshire, who finished second, had 161.

Other entrants from the United States finished far down the list, and are probably out of the running for the prize of £1,000. Walter Hagen scored 148 points, Joe Kirkwood 123 and Joe Stein 113. Archie Compston British professional champion, earned 134 points.

The concensus of opinion among the contestants after the round was that scientific point scoring is not as good as the old-fashioned method of pounding the ball through the fairways and into the cup in the least number of strokes.

Briefly in target golf, the players are awarded points for well-directed tee shots, for the accuracy of their approaches through the greens on which are marked three concentric circles and for putting to the bull's eye, which is the cup. Points which can be made range from six to twelve, depending on the length of the hole and its intricacies.

TAFTVILLE A. A. BEATS YANTIC IN EASY TWILIGHT GAME

Taftville A. A. had little difficulty in subduing the Yantic A. A. 10 to 4 in a somewhat one-sided game at the Providence street grounds on Friday evening. Gauthier pitched well for Taftville while his teammates landed heavily on the offerings of Lamphere. The score:

Taftville A. A.	ab	h	po	a	e

Runs by innings:
Yantic A. A. ..... 0 0 2 0 2 0 0—4
Taftville A. A. ..... 2 0 0 3 3 0 x—10

Two base hits, Ferriscioli, Dugas, Dube, Starck, Wheeler. Three base hits, Anderson, Gauthier. Hit by pitcher, by Gauthier (Starck), by Lamphere (Gauthier). Struck out, by Gauthier 10, by Lamphere 6. Bases on balls, off Lamphere 2.

AIRLIE TEAM TO PLAY TAFTVILLE TEAM TODAY

This afternoon at Airlie park, Hanover, the Airlie baseball club will clash with Red Burelle's Taftville Town team. Airlie started their season two weeks ago with a win over Baltic and have come to continue their winning streak. The Airlie field has been fixed so that there is a [illegible] and also [illegible] parking space for automobiles.

LOCKE EASILY QUALIFIES FOR NAT. COLLEGE FINALS

CHICAGO, Ills., June 11.—(AP)—Racing over a track made slow and heavy as a result of a soaking rain, Roland Locke, the Nebraska comet, easily qualified for the 100 and 220 yard dashes today in the preliminaries of the national collegiate A. A. track and field championship meet, in which one record for the meet was smashed.

The fleet Nebraskan stepped the century in 10 3-10 seconds, breaking the tape about a yard ahead of Sharkey of Miami, and won his qualifying heat for the 220 yard dash in 21 3-10 seconds, flashing just enough speed to beat out Sharkey by a few inches.

Locke's time for the 220 yard dash equalled the N. C. A. A. record established by Leonard Paulu of Grinnell college in 1922. This record, however, was smashed a few seconds later by Fred Alderman of Michigan State college who clipped a tenth of a second off the mark when he won his preliminary heat in 21.7 seconds. He finished nearly three yards ahead of House of southern California and came within a second of tying the world's mark held by Locke.

The finals will bring together a record breaking list of 220 athletes from 65 universities and colleges, scattered from coast to coast and from north to south.

SWEETSER OUT OF GAME FOR REST OF THE YEAR

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—Jess Sweetser, who returned to America today with the British amateur golf crown, is out of championship play for the remainder of the year.

This was made known tonight by his physican, Dr. G. M. Dear, when the former American college and amateur champion had been taken to the Lawrende Park hospital in Bronxville, N. Y., after his arrival from England on the Aquitania. Dr. Dear said that he had ordered a long rest from the after effects of influenza and nervous strain that Sweetser experienced while abroad.

The champion will be unable to participate in either the American open at Columbus next month or the amateur at Baltusrol, N. J., in September. A complete examination, including x-ray, will be made at the hospital tomorrow, Dr. Dear said.

Members of the returning golf party told of hearing the story of Sweetser's suffering on the night before his final match at Muirfield from the lips of his Walker cup team comrades, Bobby Jones and Jesse Guilford.

He is said to have gone into the match without sleep, having suffered intense pain throughout the night.

"He played that match on nothing but grit," Francis Ouimet said.

SHERMAN WINS HIS FOURTH STRAIGHT RACE

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—Sherman, owned by Mrs. A. Swenke, gained his fourth straight victory in the Wildair handicap at Belmon park today, dashing the mile in 1:38 4-5, with Hayward second and Roland third.

The pennant purse at Belmont went to Light View, with Cartoonist second and Little Asbestos third. The time for the mile was 1:38 3-5.

Teak won the fifth at Latonia, with Superfrank and Rural Route behind. The six furlongs being run in 1:11 4-5.

The Herald purse at Fairmount fell to Princess Pan, who beat Chief Uncas and Blockhead for the big money, running the six furlongs in 1:12 4-5.

WOMEN SWIMMERS TAKE DIP IN CHANNEL WATERS

CAPE GRIS-NEZ, France, June 14. —(AP)—Miss Gertrude Ederle, the American swimmer, had her first dip in the English channel today, beginning her training for the attempt she will make in the summer to swim across the treacherous waterway. She found the water at 48 degrees fahrenheit, too cold for more than a ten minutes' swim.

Miss Lillian Cannon, the Baltimore girl, who will also try to swim the channel this summer, having been here since mid-May, with several swims in the channel, was able to remain in the water longer than Miss Ederle today. With her pet dogs, she spent 35 minutes in the water.

CUSTOMERS PAID $221,000 FOR BERLENBACH-STRIBLING FIGHT

NEW YORK, June 11.—(AP)—Thirty-four thousand spectators paid $221,000 to see Paul Berlenbach and young Stribling fight their burlesque light-heavyweight championship match at the Yankee stadium last night.

The titleholder received $75,520 for his hour's labor while Stribling's percentage amounted to $26,174. Berlenbach's share represented 37 1-2 per cent of the net gate while Stribling drew down the net challenger's usual 12 1-2 per cent.

Sachems vs. Yantic A. A.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, D S. T., at the Yantic field, the fast going Sachem B. B. club will cross bats with Yantic A. A. This promises to be one of the best attractions around these parts as there is heated rivalry between these two teams, and it has been said that the managers of both teams have in the past week been out scouting up the best players in these parts. It has been rumored that the battery for Yantic A. A. has been secured from Willimantic, while the Sachems will use either Couture, Rankin or Seigal on the mound with Tombari in back of the bat. In looking over last year's records we have it that Conture shut out Yantic, by the score of 6 to 0 and allowed them only four scattered hits, so he no doubt will get the assignment for duty Sunday.

The Sachems have been showing up good this season and it appears that they will no doubt surpass last year's string of victories, which included some of the fastest teams around these parts, including the Moosup team, Baltic A. A., Yantic, Emeralds and St. Joseph's. This team is deserving the backing of Norwich, so get together fans of Norwich and show them you appreciate good clean sports, and if it is possible, they will try and give you Sunday baseball in Norwich by securing the Duwell field if it is possible and have some of the fastest teams in the state come here and play. So, Norwich, why not contribute to the support of a local team and boast of it as you have in past years and have a team of our own.

POETRY

A Prayer

There is a prayer that evermore ascends
To the Great Lord of All,
From byre and stall,
From mart and noisy street,
Where tread the patient feet
Of cattle, sheep and horse—
The vassals of man's force,—
From steel-toothed trap, from bondage till life ends:
For all we suffer, make us, Lord, amends

Forget us not in our humiliation:
The lowlier beings of Thine own creation.
Look down upon our anguish and distress.
Oh, Thou, who made the Greater and the Less:
Forsake us not, Thine humble furry things,
Forsake us not, Thy feathered folk with wings!
Look down and see with what unheeded pains
We tread the path of Death for human gains.
Look down and mark how long we agonize
Amidst coarse jeers, and under mocking eyes!

Oh, Thou, who made each wood and stream and mead,
For us as well as man, behold our need.
The stable, Lord, was sanctified by Thee;
Forsake us not in our humility!
Great Lord of Life! Great God of all creation!
Thy creatures pray Thee, show us Thy salvation!

—E. Sparvel-Bayly in The Animal World.

As a Bell in a Chime

As a bell in a chime
Sets its twin note a-ringing,
As one poet's rhyme
Wakes another to singing,
So, once she has thrilled,
All your thoughts are beguiled,
And flowers and song from your childhood are bringing.

Though moving through sorrow
As the star through the night,
She needs not to borrow
She lavishes, light.
The path of yon star
Seemeth dark but afar:
Like hers it is sure, and like hers it is bright.

Each grace is a jewel
Would ransom the town:
Her speech has no cruel,
Her praise is renown:
'Tis in her as though Beauty
Resigning to Duty
The sceptre, had still kept the purple and crown.

—R. U. Johnson.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Hostess—That's our new butler.
Nervous Officer—No relation to the General, I hope.—Life.

Where've you been, Willie?
I hitched my sled to a fire truck an' the fire was in a suburb.—Detroit News.

Grocer (to boy helper)—Where did you get such dirty hands?
Boy Helper—Washing my face.—The Progressive Grocer.

First Humorist—Do you read your jokes to your wife?
Second Humorist—Yes, and when she doesn't laugh I know it's a good joke!—Stockholm Kasper.

First Clerk (bumping into a roll of wire)— I wish that roll was in the lower regions.
Second Clerk—Better wish it somewhere else—you might run into it again.—Good Hardware.

It strikes me automobiles are becoming more of a pest than a pleasure.
You're quite right, dear. The last four cars I went out in I had four wretched proposals — Sydney Bulletin.

Have you any evidence that the defendant had previously attempted your life?
Positive evidence. I can bring witnesses to swear they heard him assume to umpire a base ball game.—Chicago Phoenix.

Do you know that there is a language of perfume? Heliotrope, for example means, "I love you," and rose "I am worthy of you."
Indeed and I suppose the absence of perfumery means, "I have nothing to say."
No; it means, "I haven't a scent!"—Stanford Chaparral.

Two telephone poles are destroyed every day in Los Angeles, Cal., in automobile accidents. So says Carl A. Heinz, testifying as the chief engineer of the power system. He was relating the detailed expenses in operating the systems, and the loss of poles in automobile crashes was included as an item.

A patent has been granted on a beaver trap invented by Vernon Bailey, of the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture, for capturing beavers alive for propagation and restocking purposes. The trap is not designed for taking these animals for their fur. The patent dedicates this improvement in animal traps to the people of the United States and permits its manufacture by anyone for private or commercial purposes.

There is a man still using quill pens in London, just as he has used them for the last 64 years. He is Benjamin Bates Bull, 79 years old, who has inscribed royal marriage licenses—large yard-square documents—without which no one in the direct line of the royal family may get legally married. King George, Queen Mary, the Duke of York, Prince Arthur of Connaught, Princess Patricia, Princess Maude, and others have been married by virtue of the documents inscribed by Mr. Bull's quills. When he gets really busy he locks himself in for two or three days to engross a license which goes for pounds. One of the royal licenses requires the use of 20 quill pens.

Don Carlos of Jones and is only a pup as yet but its owners Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Sherman of Baltimore, Md., expect that it will be a big dog if he lives to grow up. At present he weighs 150 pounds stands 31 inches high at the shoulder and can look into the eyes of a six foot man when he stands on his hind legs. He is a Great Dane. He is an ardent collector of door mats and similar things. Neighbors now write their names on their mats to expedite delivery and save confusion. Sometimes the dog's love of a good joke goes beyond that. A beekeeper, with his head covered in the usual mask, was deep in the business of corralling some swarming bees. The playful pup reared up, snatched off the mask and trotted slowly homeward with it, leaving the beekeeper involved in a cloud of insects and strong language.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
The Banner of Song and of Story

What flower of the air above us is flying,
In the sunshine displaying each glorious hue
Like the stars of the night are the stars on it lying,
Like the azure above is its beautiful blue.
'Tis the emblem of freedom the ages have sighed for,
The freedom which patriots have fought and have died for;
'Tis the standard our forefathers bravely defended,
The flag without stain, which to us has descended.
'Tis the flag of our country, unmatched in its glory!
'Tis the Star Spangled Banner of song and of story.
Closed are the eyes that first flashed at its glory,
Dust are the feet that first answered its call;
The voices are silent that first sung its story,
And bade us defend it whatever befall.
Only with death shall our faithful hands leave it,
Until death guard it well, O ye who receive it!
Let shame and dishonor abide near it never,
And no foe shall withstand it unquered forever;
And the Star Spangled Banner of song and of story
Shall float on through the ages unmatched in its glory.

The Master Is Coming

They said: "The Master is coming to honor the town today,
And none can tell to what house or home the Master will choose to stay."
And I thought while my heart beat wildly, what if He should call to mine?
How would I strive to honor and entertain the Guest Divine?

And straightwar I went to toiling, to make my home more neat;
I swept and polished and garnished and decked it with blossoms sweet
I was troubled for fear the Master might come ere my task was done;
So I hastened and worked the faster, and watched the hurrying sun.

But right in the midst of my duties a woman came to my door;
She had come to tell me her sorrow, and my comfort and aid to implore.
And I said: "I cannot listen or help you any today;
I am looking for a greater and nobler guest," and the woman went away.

But soon there came another, a cripple old and gray,
And said: "Oh let me rest a while at your home today."
And I said: "I cannot stop, or help you any today;
I'm looking for a greater and nobler guest, and the cripple went away.

And the day wore onward swiftly, and my task was nearly done,
And a prayer was on my heart that the Master will not come.
And I thought I would hasten to meet Him, and tell Him, with the utmost care,
When a little child came in with a face so sweet and fair.
Sweet, but with dark tear-dimmed eyes and lips quivering and pale and old;
A finger was bruised and bleeding, and his little face was cold.

And I said, "I'm sorry for you, my child, but I cannot stop now;
But I cannot stop." . . . . . must
. . . . . master, who is due
And at the words the . . . . . of the child fell;
"Some one else has . . . . . and I have to die, it is true."

At last the day was . . . . . over at last,
My home was . . . . . and I watched and waited fast.
Watched, but no footfall sounded, no one entered at the door,
No one entered . . . . . not I nor any more.
I walked through . . . . . the Master came,
"He has rejected . . . . . good and faithful servant, ... of these have been."

The Trend

There's nothing new in woman's dress,
It's merely getting less and less.
No wonder teeth flash,
Its nearer teeth the use of cloth
Will soon exterminate the moth—
He'll have no place to go!

There's nothing new in woman's dress,
It's getting less and less.
The dealers are fully aware
That these costumes fit us to shrink
Methinks we shall be as near as I can think
Before we might be left but bare!

There's nothing new in woman's dress,
It's merely getting less and less.
The dealers fear
Their close new sales and pink,
Mr. Happear the dealers fear
And is replaced by ink.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

1926—Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

BALSAM FIR: Card sent as requested.

CHARITY AND SYMPATHY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Charity should be the keynote to all our actions. We cannot expect to accomplish anything in this world without it. It is needful, in every vocation of life and yet many of us try to live without it altogether. Envy creeps into our lives and eats at our hearts because we lack charity. "Charity envieth not". Selfconceit makes us so great in our own eyes that we lose sight of the merits of others. Charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up. We misjudge and blame our neighbor or friend because we do not cultivate sweet charity. Charity suffereth long and is kind it bridges over many difficulties. It will bind up a broken heart and brighten a sorrowful life as nothing else can. This is what it means I think, we read "charity never faileth". Doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own praise. Is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil. Let us not forget the pages of our heart life will be brighter and better with charity written between the lines.

Cares, riches and pleasures! how they absorb us. Think of actually being choked by them! The good word we might speak the kind smile we might do—all choked by cares, riches and pleasures. No one ever intends being intemperate in these things. It is like the moderate drinker who indulges merely to be social and thinks there is no slightest danger of his ever becoming intoxicated. The things of this world enthrall us to the peril of our souls. They are like a whirling maelstrom and once encircled in their embrace there seems no way of escape. Cares may become lighter if we meet them with a brave heart and sweet submission. Riches may make for us a crown of glory if used aright. Pleasures may become blessings if you give them to others and lay aside the gratification of self. Then shall we indeed bring the fruit of our good deeds "to perfection."

I do not ask for any crown
But that which all may win
Nor try to conquer any world
Except the one within.
Be thou my guide until I find,
Led by a tender hand
That happy haven in thy mercy
And dare to take command.

We may chart out . . . . . so many hearts are hungering for it. Let it be fresh as the morning dew and ever ready to be bestowed on those around thee. Oh, thou knowest not how many there are about thee who would be glad for a sympathetic look of the kind that was genuine and sincere. Look around thee. Is there no one who needs to be comforted today? Perhaps it is one of your household who needs that sympathy and may have been . . . . . blind and selfish to be aware of it. Tomorrow may give thee opportunity to do not neglect it. If thou art poor in . . . . . pathy. Thou canst always have plenty of that and spare.

Lo: Thank you very much. Bake your mother out with you. Many thanks to those who . . . . . need it on my birthday.

Ect: Very nice of you. Thank you very much for present. Sorry I could not go to your birthday party. You all know I have had a very sad time for six months taking care of my sick husband.

Savilla: Thank you very much. Call me sometime.

Snow: Hall: Could not come, cannot leave sick man alone.

WAYS TO USE LAMB

Dear Social Corner Friends: While lamb rib is generally cut into chops it makes a delightfully tender and tasty roast. When bought in one piece the price is lower than charged for chops and for one serves better.

Menu—Lamb rib roast, curried rice, stuffed peppers, lettuce salad, fruit gelatine. Lamb rib roast and curried rice recipe as: Rub the lamb same as leg of lamb, allowing 10 minutes per pound. Boil one teaspoon amount of rice in four times the volume of salted water until done. Pour the curry sauce over it just before serving.

Curry Sauce: Brown 1 tablespoon chopped onion in 1 tablespoon butter, add 1 teaspoon curry powder to it. Remove from fire and mix thoroughly, then add 1 tablespoon flour and 1 cup boiling water. Return to fire and cook as for white sauce. When it comes to boiling point remove from fire, add salt and pepper and 2 teaspoons lemon juice and strain over the rice.

Menu—Roast leg of lamb, parsley potatoes, jellied tomato salad, fruit tapioca.

Roast Leg of Lamb: Place the lamb in uncovered roaster in 350 deg. Fahr. and sear for 15 minutes, turning once. Cover and roast until tender, allowing 15 minutes to pound. To be just right, leg of lamb should be roasted so that when cut the meat will be very slightly tinted with pink, that is, juice a bit rosy. Overcooking lamb makes it dry and less palatable.

Crown roast of lamb is a most attractive dish, it is made from the ribs and . . . . . bone should part way down on the meat to form . . . . . feet. The ends which is cut down to them and . . . . . bones (if . . . . . sprinkle of pork fat . . . . . and it has that fashion. I like . . . . . filled with dressing . . . . . pine meat around up and . . . . . Garnish with . . . . . and parsley.

Mrs. . . . . Maine: Just potatoes, ... endive salad, ... A recipe for cream . . . . . roast is prepared as above, ... it in a roasting pan . . . . . degrees F. . . . . then . . . . . to 300 degrees F. . . . . Make a gravy . . . . . Make . . . . . from liquid left . . . . . roasting. This is delicious . . . . . and makes . . . . . ground . . . . . for those . . . . .

ALL SIX CLUBS REPRESENTED

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I must . . . . . and tell you . . . . . Aunt Agnes . . . . . Club No. 4 . . . . . and I . . . . . there was a good . . . . . tions songs . . . . . Then came the . . . . . all shared together. . . . . Kentucky Wonder . . . . . hostesses.

There were members from six different clubs.

There will probably be some other members who will give you a better report than I can.

Gypsy Wanda: Did you have a pleasant afternoon?

Lonesome: You have missed a good time. Why didn't you come?

Olga: You are some good sport.

Hollyhock: Your cookies were very good. I would like to try them—the chocolate ones with . . . . . giving.

Daisy Dean and Kentucky Wonder: I hope you were not too tired after your days' work, and also your helper, although I do not know her name. Hope we all meet again soon.

Good luck to all the sisters and editor is the wish of

ENJOYED CLUB 5 MEETING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: E. L. M. and I attended the meeting at the Buckingham and enjoyed it very much especially the birthday table.

Sorry to hear of Nancy Peck's illness. Hope she will be able to come and bring some more corn.

Hope to see as many of the sisters from the other clubs as may be able to come.

Gene: Was surprised to meet you in the Social Corner.

With best wishes to all.

WHERE DELIAH DEAL IS NOW LOCATED

Dear Social Corner Sisters: It is now over six months since I was taken sick with nervous prostration two weeks after the passing away of my husband. My left arm, hand, leg and foot have been practically useless. My brother-in-law tried to find a home where someone would take me in and give me care and a home and be kind to me. Six weeks ago he found a nice woman and her sister who took pity on me, and I have been here ever since. Before that I had a good nurse who came to me and was excellent and gave me the best of care and every kindness. But my pocketbook could not admit $36 a week for a nurse and girl to do the work with all the household expenses.

I did think at least some of the Social Corner sisters would call and see me as I had a notice put in the Bulletin where I was. But only one—Comfort—has called. I did appreciate that very much. I cannot see to read and do miss the Social Corner letters. Still am interested very much as I often think of you all and wish I might meet you each one again.

The Dorcas circle of King's Daughters of Jewett City has remembered me several times with cards and several boxes have arrived and brought it were very much appreciated. I . . . . . all those who were active and remembered every one of those sick knew when it was possible. I am at the home of Mrs. Sherman Waters one mile below Jewett City on the River road on the line line at the sign of The Hen. One who still has an interest in the Social Corner sisters and misses not being able to read your letters any longer.

Your Social Corner Sister,

DELIAH DEAL.

OATMEAL RAISIN COOKIES

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Good . . . . . dear sisters aren't you glad summer has come again? Many are complaining that it is cold for the season, but the warm days are on the way and the early flowers are blooming. How lovely the lilacs of tulips and . . . . . look and aren't the rhododendrons charming? It is good to wake up in the early morning and hear the chorus of the birds. They seem to be praising the creator and should we not be as thankful as they?

It is a long time since I wrote for the Corner page and I know it is selfish in me to enjoy the nice letters every Saturday and not try to write a line or two in return.

I have saved the Corner pages ever since I joined the Circle so have quite a large bundle and often if I am lonesome I read over the old papers and enjoy them very much. I did not get my Bulletin last Saturday so have been reading old numbers. If any of the sisters should care for any particular back numbers, perhaps I would have just that paper and would gladly let you have it. I enjoy letters telling of visits in the south or up in Maine. Sometimes it seems as good as going myself. I was not well during the winter but am better and have the promise of some nice long auto rides as soon as it is warmer.

I have heard several express their desire to attend the anniversary meeting June 8 in Danielson but on the ninth and tenth there is to be a large Association meeting in the church and we expect a delegation of 200 or more so it seems we will have work at home. Maybe we can attend a Corner picnic later on. I hope you will have a . . . . . meeting ever.

I have tested a number of the Corner recipes and found them good. I try to . . . . . Greene Gable cookies and we like Pappa Boy's ginger puffs. I send a rule for

Oatmeal Raisin Cookies: Sift together and mix well 2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt and 3-4 cup oatmeal. In a bowl beat 1 egg, 1 cup sugar, 1-2 cup milk and add first mixture, add 1 cup raisins and 2 teaspoons shortening. Drop from spoon on well greased pans. (very thick)

I have been quite interested in the new club on the shore lines as I have friends in Mystic and Westerly and other places that way and wonder if any new members are my friends. Sometime come to know who is who. Am acquainted with a dozen or more in my vicinity but you know we are always wishing to know more.

Hope to see Free Air some day and I hope you are . . . . . Come over and visit as soon.

Wonder what Ma of Greene Gables is doing. Too cold to be sitting on her veranda, perhaps she is feeding . . . . . gangway.

Time speeds along so fast. Soon July 4 celebrations will take our attention and after that come trips to the shore resorts. Some of our friends are attending the big celebration in . . . . . Hartford. . . . . Will be glad to . . . . . Am sure it . . . . . Make . . . . . Will be . . . . . Am sure . . . . . Make . . . . . Will be . . . . . Am sure . . . . . Make . . . . . Will be . . . . . Am sure

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week Charles Osgood was elected mayor of Norwich and William H. Jennings and John T. Adams were named aldermen. Mr. Osgood was elected on a citizen's party ticket, running in opposition to H. H. Osgood who was nominated by the republican and democratic parties. Interesting events of the week, taken from the files of The Bulletin of June 1876, are as follows:

Monday, June 5, 1876—There was a very large attendance at the republican city caucus in the town hall Friday evening. Mr. Amos W. Prentice was elected chairman and Mr. J. Hunt Smith, clerk. The ticket is composed as follows:

Mayor, H. H. Osgood; aldermen, W. H. Jennings, John T. Adams; councilmen, John H. Vickers, Stephen F. Whaley, Myron W. Sears, James Kirker; city clerk, Stephen B. Meech; city treasurer, Charles Webb; city sheriffs, Joab B. Rogers, George E. Smith; water commissioner, Alva F. Smith.

The spring parade of the fire department Saturday was an excellent one, fully equal to those of past years. Five bands and over 200 men were in line and the spectacle was a very handsome one.

The democrats have nominated the following ticket—Mayor, H. H. Osgood; aldermen, James C. Carew, William L. Brewer; councilmen, Henry L. Parker, J. M. Brewer, Stephen F. Whaley, James Kirker; city clerk, James M. Meech; city sheriffs, Joab Rogers, Thomas Brock; water commissioner, Henry L. Parker.

The following is the ticket nominated by the citizen's caucus: Mayor, Charles Osgood; alderman, William H. Jennings, John T. Adams; councilmen, Samuel S. Hopkins, Alvah Francis, John Turner, Delano J. Park; city clerk, James M. Meech; city treasurer, Charles Webb; sheriffs, Thomas Brock, James J. Mcdurdi; water commissioner, Henry L. Parker.

Tuesday, June 6, 1876—The election for city officers took place yesterday. It was an exceedingly "mixed" event, there being no less than 12 tickets in the field. The ticket elected is as follows:

Mayor—
Charles Osgood Aldermen
William H. Jennings
John T. Adams
Councilmen
S. F. Whaley
Samuel S. Hopkins
Myron Searry
Delano J. Park
City Clerk
James M. Meech
City Treasurer
Charles Webb
City Sheriffs
Joab B. Rogers
Thomas Brock
Water Commissioners
Alba F. Smith
Henry L. Parker

A party of Maine editors went through on the boat train last evening. No formal notice was taken of their stop here. People living near the depot merely went out and looked up their chickens.

Messers. Nash, Brewster & Co., of this city, furnished the timber to be used in the Polar expedition, from New London, about 40,000 feet.

Wednesday, June 7, 1876—The opening of the 18th will be held at the fairground on Thursday of next week. Brass and string bands and refreshments will be provided, and members coming from a distance will receive free return tickets on the Norwich & Worcester and Northern roads. An attempt will be made to have the old regimental colors on the ground.

The board of the Baptist state convention of this state met at the Central church of this city yesterday afternoon. There was a large meeting and very much important business connected with the denomination was transacted.

The children's festival at the Universalist church last evening was well attended and everyone seemed to enjoy the entertainment. The program was varied with songs, recitations, tableaux, etc., and none but children took the different parts.

Thursday, June 8, 1876—George O. Stead and David Gilmour of Greeneville have formed a copartnership to conduct a wholesale and retail grocery business in Meriden, they having purchased a large establishment in that city.

The ladies of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town, will give a strawberry and pound festival Friday evening of this week at which luscious berries with cream can be enjoyed for a very small sum. This is the first festival of its kind held by the society in many years.

Franklin street is the dustiest place in the city and to step off the sidewalk is like stepping into an ash heap.

Friday, June 9, 1876—The Lantern Hill silex works still remain idle, no demand being had for the silex, several hundred tons of which remain on the owner's hands. The production of this material, which is used for manufacturing a superior quality of crockery, has been a source of large revenue to the company, it being from $15 to $20 per ton.

Dr. J. W. Martin, died very suddenly yesterday morning, at his residence on East Main street, from heart disease. He was a respected citizen and a successful practitioner. He had been a resident of the city for about 6 years, coming here from Danielsonville. He was about 50 years of age.

About 200 students and others connected with the Boston Institute of Technology, went through the city on a special train on the Worcester road, last evening. They took the City of Lawrence, at Allyn's Point, on their way to Philadelphia.

Saturday, June 10, 1876—Miss Flora Safford, the very pleasant and efficient operator of the Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph company, has the entire management of that office.

Wauregan Lodge, Knights of Pythias of this place, have voted to hold their annual excursion under the old management, leaving the place as yet undecided. It is quite probable that Rocky Point will be their objective.

A meeting of the West Chelsea school district will be held next Wednesday evening to hear and act upon the report of the committee appointed with the board of education to procure estimates of the cost and locate a site for a new school building.

SOCIAL CORNER

the first I saw was the Westerly sisters. We enjoyed ourselves every minute.

We had a good dinner, met nice people and as my birthday was in June I sat at the birthday table and the end where I sat was a social corner all right.

After dinner we had a dance and a program and when it was over I looked around and saw that most of the Norwich visitors had gone home. We then visited some more of the stores and met some of the Club 3 sisters who wanted us to go home with them. We had a nice ride and call and then took the bus for Willimantic arriving about 6, so that was the end of a perfect day and I had the best time I ever did at the Buckingham.

I made some nice acquaintances Wednesday and hope to see them again soon. Was disappointed not to see Lonesome Pine and Olga. Windham Blue Bell was there with bells on ready to do her part any time.

I am still wondering about David Graham Phillips. Think I'll have to ask the editor where he lived. I remember when he was killed by a crank but I forgot what city he lived in.

I will send my pound cake recipe.

Pound Cake: Beat one cup of butter to a cream, add 1 1-4 cups sugar, beat well and add yolks of four eggs. Sift two cups flour and teaspoon of baking powder several times, add to cake alternately with one half cup milk. Beat the whites to a stiff froth and add them the last thing. Bake in a moderate oven from 50 to 60 minutes. Best wishes to all.

ROSE LEE.

David Graham Phillips was an American novelist, born in Madison, Ind., Oct. 31, 1867. After his graduation from Princeton university in 1887 he turned to journalism, at first in Cincinnati and later in New York, where he was reporter on the Sun. This position he gave up to assume the duties of London correspondent for the New York World, and to work for a time as Joseph Pulitzer's private secretary. On his return to America he worked editorially and miscellaneously for the World. His first published novel was The Great God Success (1901), which brought to an end his newspaper work and opened a rather prolific career as a novelist, a career cut short by the shot of a mad assassin, Jan. 24, 1911. If not a novelist of the first order, there was talent in Phillips's books, which generally addressed themselves to pressing ethical and social problems of the days they were thought-provoking and, to a considerable audience, highly interesting. The Husband's Story (1910) is representative of this author at his best; he may also be read to great advantage in The Second Generation (1907); Old Wives for New (1908); The Hungry Heart (1909). Other books of his are: Her Serene Highness (1902), Golden Fleece (1903), The Social Secretary (1905), The Fortune Hunter (1906), Light Fingered Gentry (1907), The Worth of a Woman (1908) The Grain of Dust (1911).—(S. C. Ed.)

BEING A HOME MAKER

Dear Corner Members: I do not want to be classed as a slacker, so will add my bit.

The letters are so interesting. I would much rather read the others than write, but if we all did that way, there would be no letters.

As the great majority of Social Corner members are house keepers and home makers, why can't we exchange ideas on our methods of keeping a home?

Many women say there is so much sameness and hard work that house keeping is a drudgery and etc.

If we look at it from that viewpoint, we shall probably find it to be just as we anticipate.

I believe there is no position filled by women where they can enjoy more freedom than in the home. Of course we do not always find smooth sailing, for that is not found anywhere, but in a great measure it is just what we make it.

Our time is our own and with a little system we can plan our work so we may have time for reading and recreation.

To be a home maker is an art and one of the greatest gifts given to woman, for the home is the foundation of our country. It is the influence that emanates from the home that makes or mars the social life of the community. Our worlds most necessary, most often visited home circles are those who fill the common place every day home life with comfort and beauty.

Thank God for your home and that you are queen in it.

Nor need we power or splendor,
Wide halls or lordly dome
The good, the true, the tender,
These form the wealth of home.

When little ones come into the home our opportunities are increased as well as our tasks. God places on us no greater responsibility than when He puts into our care and keeping a little soul to train for Him.

"Fill the bushel with good wheat and there will be no room for chaff and rubbish." This is a good thought for every mother while tending her children and watching the growth of their power. Children are wonderful imitators so it is comparatively easy to lead them early in the right way. They are always eager to do what they see older ones do, so it behooves us to live lives worthy of emulation.

If there is no religious training in the home, who will lead our children aright?

D. L. Moody said, "I always feel as if I had a lever to work with, when I know that a man has been taught by a godly father and mother; even if his parents died when he was young, the impression that they died praying for him, has always a great effect through life. Glad to welcome The Friendly Voice to Club No. 5.

Best wishes to the Corner.

NAOMI.

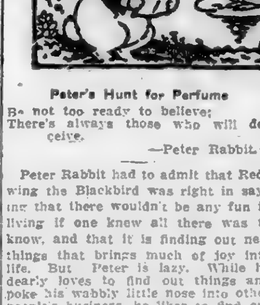
Peter's Hunt for Perfume

Be not too ready to believe;
There's always those who will deceive.

—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit had to admit that Redwing the Blackbird was right in saying that there wouldn't be any fun in living if one knew all there was to know, and that it is finding out new things that brings much of joy into life. But Peter is lazy. While he dearly loves to find out things and poke his wabbly little nose into other people's business, he likes to find out



"Do you mean, Grandfather Frog, that butterflies carry perfume," demanded Peter things in the easiest way possible; and if he can get somebody to tell him he always will. When Redwing asked him if he had ever smelled the perfume of a butterfly Peter thought at first that Redwing was joking. But before he could ask any questions Redwing had flown away and left Peter stewing in his own curiosity.

"I don't believe that butterflies have any perfume," declared Peter. "No, sir, I don't believe that butterflies carry any perfume. Without realizing it he spoke aloud.

"Chuck-chuck-cha!" said a deep gruff voice. "Some people don't know as much as they think they do, and at least one person would believe it was Grandfather Frog speaking.

"Do you really mean, Grandfather Frog, that butterflies carry perfume?" demanded Peter.

"Chuck-chuck, I didn't say that. You find out for yourself, Peter," said Grandfather Frog, and kicked out with his long hind legs and disappeared in the Smiling Pool.

Peter was left all alone with Grandfather Frog's last words ringing in his ears. But Peter wasn't one to be discouraged easily. He was determined to find out whether butterflies carry perfume, and he knew just one way to find out. That was to catch one. Perhaps that one wouldn't be so easily frightened. Away he went, lipperty-lipperty-lip, and just before he reached the butterfly away went the latter, flitter-flutter-flitter. Peter got excited. Such a performance you never have seen. He raced this way and that way over the Green Meadows, chasing butterflies and never catching them. And it was such a careless thing to do. You see, he was so intent on catching a butterfly that he quite forgot to watch for enemies. It was lucky for him, very lucky, indeed that none of his enemies happened to be about that day.

Finally Peter had to sit down and rest. He was quite out of breath. Yes, sir, he was quite out of breath. And it seemed to him that the moment he sat down to rest all the butterflies also stopped to rest. The truth is, they were all visiting the flowers and sipping sweets therefrom, as is the way of butterflies. But to Peter it seemed as if they just stopped to tease him.

"I don't believe they have any perfume. No, sir, I don't believe they have any perfume," declared Peter.

"Who are you talking about?" said a voice close in Peter's ear, and a butterfly fluttered just in front of him in a most tantalizing ways.

"I'm talking about you butterflies," replied Peter. "Redwing the Blackbird told me that you have perfume, and I don't believe it."

"It's easy enough to find out," said the butterfly. "Why don't you smell of us and find out?" And then that butterfly saucily went away, flitter-flutter-flitter.

A famous man is one who is known by more people than he knows.

PENDLETON HILL

Mrs. Benjamin Gallup, who has been very ill with acute indigestion, is out and about.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Willyer and son, John spent the first night in their new home, Wednesday June 9th. Mr. and Mrs. Willyer have put their place in excellent condition.

A fine flock of 13 goslings is to be seen at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer.

Mrs. James M. Cook entertained at her home, Rose C. Hayte, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Cook and daughter Charlotte of Jewett City, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morgan and two children, from Stonington, Miss Sarah I Palmer and Mrs. Ozeo Koestinen, daughter Elva and son Paul of the Hill.

Much interest is manifested in the Hill homes. A tremendous amount of cleanup work has been done and many flower gardens have been planted.

Mrs. Etta Miner spent Wednesday cleaning up the Chapman cemetery. A great gap of the wall had been torn down by thoughtless people to suit their own convenience and brush had covered many graves. Since a fund was left for the care of this cemetery it would seem that it might be properly looked after.

Mrs. Martin O. Chapman is now suffering from an attack of neuritis.

Neighbor Willyer with his tractor is a real public benefactor.

Mrs. Charles H. Cottrell and sister Miss Kittie Palmer attended the Stonington Union association at Sterling Hill Wednesday.

Robert Bruce Milne is spending some time with his greataunt, Miss Carrie Ryder and family at Ferndale.

Benjamin Gallup appears to have the largest acreage under cultivation. His farm looks fine.

Birdsey G. Palmer, his brother Cameron and son Llewllyn are at work on the cemetery.

The heavy wall is being put in good condition and the grounds are being graded.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thompson and daughter, Katherine, visited the Bently lot at the cemetery in Mystic Sunday.

Caterpillars! Caterpillars; Caterpillars; Everywhere! Working havoc on valuable apple trees, beautiful rose bushes, and much of everything that comes in their way.

Roadside brush, wild cherry hedges around the fields and rubbish piled are harbors and homes for these pests. It would appear to be a paying investment to cut the brush and remove the rubbish from fields and roadsides. Another invasion of this kind will kill apple trees outright.

Charles Roode has removed a large part of the rubbish heap opposite his house. It was no fault of Mr. Roode that this rubbish heap which has been a great eye sore to people of the Hill was started. Mr. Roode is a public benefactor, has done his part toward removing this nuisance.

It is quite possible to obtain permission of Birdsey Palmer to dump rubbish at a place near by. Rubbish has no place under walls or by the roadside.

LISBON

The pastor chose for his theme last Sunday morning The Unseen Advance of the Kingdom. Next Sunday will be observed as Children's day and there will be a program by the Sunday school.

The Mission of the Modern Dentist Is to Save

There was a time when a person who went to a dentist with a cavity or aching tooth went with the full belief that the tooth would have to be extracted.

The dentist was not to blame for that—he did as best and gave the service that his patients demanded. The science of dentistry as then not so thoroughly developed or generally understood. Today, however, when it can be done with safety, the dentist would rather repair the damage done than merely to remove the affected tooth.

If you would save the teeth you have you must learn to keep them in good health. The best way to be sure that your teeth are kept in good condition, is to come to us for regular examination and advice.

Here are the real engineering reasons

Low gravity center
High torque motor and Unit-design

only these 3 combined can give such amazing performance

THE Overland Six is not just a modern body on a chassis that's 5 or 10 years old. But a new and revolutionary type of car, modernly engineered and designed as a unit to give a new kind of performance, comfort and driving ease.

The motor is a new-type "high-torque" power plant—hung low in the chassis to give a straight line drive—with more usable power delivered to the rear axle than you find in other sizes of its price or class.

The center of gravity is lower—keeping the weight of the car down close to the ground—you get an entirely new feeling of security when you drive this car.

Only these 3 factors combined can give you such amazing power, speed and pick-up. Won't you come in and let us demonstrate the remarkable performance of this new-type Overland Six?

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 11.—The will of Mrs. Jane D. Bacon, widow of Morris W. Bacon, whose death occurred several days ago, was admitted to probate at a hearing for that purpose this morning in the probate court. The instrument was drawn March 6, 1923, and was witnessed by William Belcher, John R. Latham and Victor S. Johnson. Carlos Barry, cashier of the Union Bank & Trust company, is named executor.

The will provides for the following bequests:

To Mamie Fitzgerald, Mount Vernon, N. Y., solitaire diamond ring; Samuel B. Fitzgerald, porcelain picture of husband of testatrix; John L. Fisk, Middletown, large portrait of testatrix's husband; Emma Brown Nugent, all the flat silverware and two stone diamond ring; Mrs. James Hislop, cabinet and inlaid table; Mrs. Horace Learned, rug No. 1; Graham S. Hislop, two oil paintings, (Scotch scenes); Mrs. Helen M. Rogers, parlor rug and silver vegetable dish; Mrs. Blanche Lewis Edgar, two small water color pictures, Nos. 1-3; Mrs. Walter Lewis, emerald and diamond ring; Marian Bolles, New York, salmon color, cherry blossom vase and largest cut glass vase; Maude Bassett Gorham, Swathmore, Pa., large silver tray; Marenda Bryant Sherman, two water coolers and a piece of cut glass; Mrs. Mary Dart White, Clinton, all of the testatrix's wearing apparel; Miss Mary White, Clinton, all of the testatrix's furniture used in her sleeping apartment; First Church of Christ, $1,000, said sum to be a trust fund, the income of which is to be used in the payment of ordinary expenses of the church; to New London Cemetery association, $100, to be held in trust and the income expended in the payment for the care and maintenance of the burial lot in Cedar Grove cemetery, standing in the names of Jane and Martha S. Carroll; New London Cemetery association, $100, to be held in trust and the income expended in the payment for the care and maintenance of the burial lot standing in the name of William H. Dart.

All the rest and residue, both real and personal, is bequeathed in trust to the executor, Carlos Barry, with directions to manage, invest and reinvest the same, the income thereof to be paid to the testatrix's sister, Martha S. Carroll during her lifetime; if necessary for the proper care of the beneficiary, such part of the principal as the executor may deem necessary may be used. Upon the death of Miss Carroll all the said rest and residue is bequeathed to the First Church of Christ as a perpetual trust fund, the income thereof to be expended for the upkeep and maintenance of said church. The amount of the estate will inventory it is not known, but it is estimated that it will be close to $600,000.

THE LATE MORRIS W. BACON HAD INTERESTING CAREER

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 11.—As noted Friday, this city, in the years that are just ahead, will be provided with homes for needy and worthy men, by the will of Morris W. Bacon. Mr. Bacon suggested that the home he was providing should be managed along the lines followed in the management of the Smith Memorial home, an institution founded by Dr. Seth Smith, a druggist here for many years, whose death occurred some 40 years ago. Samuel Hinckley, at his death, also left money for the establishment of an old man's home, but he provided that the money he left for that purpose must amount to a stipulated sum before it could be made use of. Samuel Hinckley was the son of a former police captain here. He was a clerk in the Whaling bank and by prudent living and the investment of his money with the inheritance he received from his parents, amassed a considerable sum, though he was a young man when he died. His father was a sea captain, a whaler, and in that calling accumulated considerable wealth. Morris Bacon was employed for many years as the clerk of the steamer City of Boston, beginning his service when the late Julius Webb, of Norwich, was at the head of the line as president. He brought to New London the late Melvin Foster, an aspirant for the championship among billiard players of the world and made Mr. Foster the manager of the Bacon billiard room in the Bacon building. George Stone, at that time was manager of the Burdick billiard rooms in Norwich and the pair attracted attention with Matty Hewins, of Hartford, among all the billiard players of the east. Foster was matched against John Deery of California for the championship and defeated by him. Joe Cyril Dion, both defeated Foster and the latter lost his pep after that. Mr. Bacon was a devotee of every sport. He was an expert skater, in fact was regarded as superior to any one in the section of New England.

Charles H. Stetson, a barber with a shop on Willetts avenue for a long time, was fined $20 in the police court this forenoon for intoxication and offensive conduct. Stetson has been dispossessed of his rented premises by process of law. He didn't want to quit and resisted as long as he could, but the case was taken before a justice and Stetson lost. Yesterday while plumbers were at work in his former shop, he loaded up, went there and attacked the workers. This brought his arrest and his conviction.

Prentice W. Chase, a New Haven lawyer, was to have appeared on a complaint in court today, but he failed to show up, so his bond of $25 was called and declared forfeited. Now he will be sought in a civil suit by the surety on his bond that the surety may collect. Chase ran up a bill of $32.50 for taxi hire while in this city a week ago. He was sought for the non-payment of the bill and for intoxication. The other cases before the court were of a trival nature.

Henry D. Barrows has sold a house and lot on Ocean avenue to Florence Abernethy.

Etta Dressler and others of Hartford, have sold two cottages on Midday place, Ocean Beach, to Joseph Seigal.

Private funeral services for Dr. George E. Bradford were held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at his residence, 181 Hempstead street, Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating. The body was forwarded to Keene, N. H., Dr. Bradford's former home, for burial.

The funeral of Susie M., wife of William P. Coroley, of Niantic, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at 48 Shapley street. The services were conducted by Rev. Henry A. Link, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, Niantic. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Gordon B. Crossley of Pequot avenue, complained to the police late last night that the driver of an unidentified automobile was guilty of evasion of responsibility. Crossley stated that his automobile had been struck and damaged by the unknown car. Crossley stated that immediately following the crash the driver of the colliding automobile speeded away without stopping to ascertain the extent of the damage occasioned.

The residence of Antonio DeCosta, Thames street, Groton, was threatened with serious damage by fire early this forenoon. A defective chimney was the cause of the fire and the flames spread to the roof of the building. An alarm was rung in from the box located at the corner of Thames and Broad streets and with the arrival of Pioneer Hose company a quantity of chemicals was poured upon the flames, causing them to be quickly extinguished and without damage of consequence.

City Manager William A. Holt is absent from his office at the municipal building, being confined to his home on Whittlesey street by illness.

The funeral of Mrs. Evelyn A. Wilcox, wife of James F. Wilcox, was held this morning at 11 o'clock at 15 Masonic street, the service being conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe, pastor of the First Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of John Bennett, of Old Mystic, whose death occurred at Lawrence hospital was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Masonic street. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mrs. Joseph Francoeur, of 29 Coleman street, and Michael Grogan, 42 Coleman street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were dismissed today.

John Somers, a former resident here, is spending a few days with relatives in New London.

John W. Epps, of Willets avenue, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Epps, of Salem, Mass., and Miss Hazel I. Bates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bates, Leominster, Mass., were married at the residence of the groom's sister, Mrs. M. E. Bates, 10 Mahan street, last evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Epps, of this city. The groom is employed by the Central Vermont Railroad company and upon the conclusion of wedding trip he and his bride will reside in New London.

Mrs. Minnie Harvey was found dead and her daughter, Gladys, 19, a professional dancer, severely burned, after a gas explosion in their home in Harvey, a suburb of Chicago.

Santa Claus and His Team

No doubt one of the most interesting parts of the entertainment furnished by Christy Bros., big five ring wild animal shows that is coming to Norwich on June 21 is the exhibition of six full grown elk. They have been trained after much patience and are now one of the most reliable attractions with the show. They are driven to an improvised sleigh and handling the reins is an impersonator of Santa Claus. This is a treat to the children but the grown ups have their inning when the Elk are detached from the sleigh and made to perform some very difficult stunts. One of them makes a standing jump of over six feet over an obstacle. Last Christmas day while being shown in New York they were driven to a sleigh along Broadway creating a sensation. This show will be on Dowell Athletic field.

American Member Permanent Court Of International Justice

The Hon. John Bassett Moore American statesman, and a judge of the Permanent Court of International Justice, recently sailed for Europe. Mr. Moore was elected to the Court in 1921, following an active life devoted to affairs of state in this country and as American representative to many foreign nations.

CAR STRIKES R. M. WIGGINS FRACTURING HIS LEG

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 11.—William, 24-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kelly of Main street, was the driver of an automobile which on Main street Friday evening near No. 6 mill of the American Thread Co., struck Russell M. Wiggins, of Mountain street, as the latter was crossing the street. Kelly was exonerated from blame. Wiggins sustained a fractured leg.

Five cases which related to minor violations of the motor vehicle laws were heard in the Mansfield town court Friday evening before Judge George H. Andrews. Grand Juror Carlton P. King prosecuted. Andrew M. Nawracaj of Rockville entering a plea of guilty for failing to have a lighted tail light on his car was fined $5 and costs. Hugh Bromley, of Mansfield Four Corners, who pleaded guilty to two charges, having loose number plates suspended over the radiator cap of his automobile and defective lights, was fined $5 and costs, $2.50 on each count; William Mastropietro of South Manchester also pleaded guilty in failing to have the tail-light of his car lighted. He was fined $5 and costs. A similar fine was imposed on the same man for defective brakes. The case of Ralph C. Gibson of this city, who was charged with having a defective tail-light was nolled on payment of costs. Milton Clark of Malden, Mass., was charged with four minor violations, but failed to appear in court. His case will be heard later. The arrests were made June 5 by State Policeman Henry Helmold and E. R. Burns, of the Stafford Springs barracks.

CITY OUTSKIRTS HOME AS POPULATION GROWS

TULSA, Okla., June 11 (AP)—The probable population of the United States in 1950 will be approximately 146,000,000, according to working estimates brought today before the National Association of Real Estate Boards by H. N. Widen of St. Louis, commercial engineer of the Southwestern Bell Telephone company.

By the time the urban regions, which he said contains 51.4 per cent of the total population, will have a total of about 90,500,000, or an increase of 67 per cent over the 1920 total. Rural communities, Mr. Widen's figures showed, would then have a total population of approximately 55,500,000. Their population may be expected to increase only eight per cent over the period.

"The population expectancy for the United States in 1950 is now four millions less than it appeared to be several years ago," he said. "The revision is due principally to changes in the immigration outlook, and the acceleration of the movement from farms and smaller towns to the cities."

The present trend of home-hunters is toward the outskirts of the cities via the best automobile roads, asserted J. E. Miller of Geneva, Ohio, vice-chairman of the Farm Lands division.

He predicted a small per cent of growth within cities and a great increase in the population of areas just outside the corporate limits. Two acres is his ideal size for a suburban farm, and he advised against novelty advertising in selling them. The local papers were said to be the best media.

Amalgamation of real estate brokers into large consolidated corporations, able to give complete real estate service to the community in which they operate, will be the ultimate brokerage business, in the view of Leonard P. Reaume, former president of the Detroit board.

Such an amalgamation would bring the best service to the public and the greatest success to the operators, he declared.

Business buildings which are not erected with a view of filling a logical need according to the location become expensive monuments, Stanley McMichael of Cleveland, told another section of the session.

"Surveying the needs of a community, or locality, and then applying a definite need, is an intelligent way in which to proceed before any building is erected," he said.

TO MEMORIALIZE AUTHOR OF MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME

BARDSTOWN, Ky., June 11 (AP)—American Folkore societies are to memorialize the man who wrote My Old Kentucky Home.

On July 4, 1926 while a band outside the home of Stephen Foster was playing for the national holiday, the famous composer was born. His song will be played and sung here around his statue and shrine, where he wrote it, this July 4.

Under a storm of protest a resolution to adopt a song other than My Old Kentucky Home as the official song of the commonwealth, was defeated in the house during the 1926 legislative session. The senate had passed a resolution substituting a song Kentucky, composed recently by Mrs. Leslie Collins of Frankfort.

Foster was visiting Judge John Rowman here when he composed the song, to which genius were added compositions of Oh, Susanna, known and loved all over the south, Hard Times Come Again No More, Laura Lee, Louisiana Belle, Massa in de Col' Col' Groun', Nelly Was a Lady, Nellie Bly, Old Black Joe, Jenny Junk, and others.

Foster's biographers tell a sad end, how he walked the streets of New York in an old slazed cap and shabby clothing. He would write and compose a song in the morning, sell it in the afternoon and spend the proceeds in dissipation before night." He died when 37.

Broadway Theater

Two features open at the Broadway theater tomorrow, which looks like another sensational and capacity crowd for that popular playhouse.

There are probably no two faces as welcome on the motion picture screens of the world as those of our old friends, Potash and Perlmutter, or to refer to their actual earthy identities, George Sidney and Alexander Carr.

It will no doubt be welcome news to the patrons of the Broadway theater, that the management has succeeded in securing the local showing of the latest Samuel Goldwyn picturization of Montague Glass stage successes, Partners Again — with Potash & Perlmutter. It comes to that popular playhouse Sunday as the first feature. The picture is released by United Artists corporation.

The vitriolic partners have hitherto dabbled in the prosaic Cloak & Suits business. From that, they took a flyer in motion picture production, but now we have them in Partners Again, enjoying and suffering the experiences of automobile dealers.

The world-famed partners have never had so good a vehicle, and the adaptation by Frances Marion is fully up to her high standard. It is constructed for laughing purposes only, and personally directed by Henry King, principally famous for his dramatic productions, but also remembered for the direction of 23 1-2 Hours Leave, still recognized as one of the most successful comedies of the screen.

Some ingenious contraptions for use by young baseball enthusiasts are shown in Glenn Hunter's latest starring vehicle for Associated Exhibitors which is to be shown starting Sunday as the second feature.

Hunter, as the aspiring baseball fan, rigs up a periscope affair with a couple of mirrors which enables him to see the town team game in a distant field, from the cabbage patch where he is working. Another contraption is a pitching machine, along the lines of a sling shot, with an inner tube for the sling. Constance Bennett supports Hunter, in the leading feminine role, with Antrim Shore, Reginald Sheffield and Jack Drumier in interesting parts. Joseph Henabery directed.

New news weekly will complete this extraordinary program.

Palace Theater

Daily we read the books, listen to the music of the masters of the past, but it has been left to the screen to actually preserve to the eye the active life of our great stage favorites.

Titles galore were floating around on the sets at Universal studio, Fort Lee, N. J., while Barbara La Marr and Conway Tearle were filming for First National The Heart of a Siren, which Sawyer-Lubin has adapted from the Broadway stage success, Hail and Farewell.

Many of the locales of the films are laid on the Riviera and for the purpose of insuring the proper background, Al Hall, who assisted Phil Rosen in the direction of this production, secured the services of several noblewomen. These included Countess Drenover, Countess Toto, Baroness de Mondelle, and Maine La Violette.

All of these players possess titles in their own country, and help to provide the exact atmosphere for Barbara La Marr in the role of Isabella Echevaria, the most beautiful woman in Paris.

The picture will be shown at the Palace theater Sunday, Monday Tuesday and Wednesday. Also showing The Western Wyoming Wildcat.

It is gratifying, too, to observe that the screen producers at last are blending comedy with the more boisterous drama of Western photoplays. Comedy is often their saving grace. The old knock-em-down idea of Western story is last losing its vogue whereas the lighter comedy of new productions is proving highly attractive to many thousands of theatergoers. It is of such texture that the Tyler stories are made and The Wyoming Wildcat is a case in point.

Breed Theater

Enter the want-ad girl!

For the first time since cameras began grinding out ribbons of celluloid this type of working girl had her inning. Babs Comet, who makes her debut on Sunday at the Breed theater, in the silversheet person of Corinne Griffith, is declared to be truly representative of her kind as shown in First National's new release, Classified.

The want ad girl now takes her place with the oft-screened manicurist, typist and what not. As a piquant personality, a creature of fancies and whims, as a breadwinner and a moth on occasion, who flutters close to the flame but is flapperishly wise enough to avoid searing, Babs, as impersonated by Miss Griffith, easily holds her own with all the rest of them.

Incidentally, this is a new kind of characterization for Miss Griffith, and further testimony of her versatile powers as an actress.

Inspiring Pictures at Y. M. C. A.

If there is one thing we all need more than another in these days it is faith; now, when too many seem to be suspecting each other, and there is lack of confidence. At this time when we are all hoping for the time to come when the song of the angels, "Peace on earth, good will to men," will be genuinely realized, it is well that we cultivate in a real way the spirit of faith. The picture to be shown Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the local Y. M. C. A. entitled "Man's Faith in Man," will doubtless prove a timely picture story, and one that will inspire all who see it with the sweet spirit of trust in his fellows, and in his God. To this showing both men and women are invited, and boys and girls 14 years and over. Hugh Kinder will furnish music for the picture and also render vocal solos.

A brief talk will be given in line with the picture.

Next Week At Central Baptist Church

LEGAL NOTICE

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich within and for the District of Norwich, on the 10th day of June, A. D. 1926.
Present, NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Estate of E. Lloyd Miner, late of Griswold, in said District, deceased.
The Administratrix appeared in Court and filed a written application alleging that said estate is now in settlement in said Court, and praying for an order to sell certain real estate belonging to said estate, fully described in said application, and that some person other than the Administratrix be appointed and authorized to make such sale.
Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 15th day of June, A. D. 1926, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said application, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order once in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least three days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to the Court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record
Attest: HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

RAISE IN STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, June 11—(AP)—The upward movement of prices in today's stock market assumed more general proportions but high grade rails and industrials continued in the forefront of the advance. Closing quotations, which were around the highest of the day, disclosed a long list of net gains, ranging from 1 to 5 points. Total sales were 1,562,000 shares, compared with 1,311,200 yesterday, and 1,662,100 on Tuesday the high figure of the week.

Except for a lowering of the call money rate and more general reports of trade improvement there was little in the day's news to explain the further rise in prices. Trading appeared to be under the domination of large operators and powerful financial interests.

U. S. Steel common again changed hands in enormous volume, closing 2 3-4 points higher at 134 after having touched 134 2-8. Independent Steels, however, did not follow in its wake despite the announcement that steel mill operations were being maintained at an unusually high rate for this season of the year, and that railroads were in the market for heavy tonnages of steel products.

General Motors kept pace with steel, pressing 136 to a new high level for the year and within 1 1-2 points of the record high for all time, established in 1925.

Most of the week showed signs of activity and strength as the session closed. Atlantic Refining was bid up 2 1-2 points.

Rail showed a more uniform upward tendency. Union Pacific crossing 15 to a new high level for the year and Canadian Pacific duplicating its previous peak of 162 3-8 on a net gain of 1 3-8 points.

Commodity prices were mixed. Active wheat futures advanced about a cent a bushel on reports on unfavorable weather in certain western states and rumors that France would lift its import duty on the product. Cotton declined 36 to 45 points on selling inspired by favorable weather reports, all the new-crop months touching new low levels for the season. Sugar and coffee prices were practically unchanged.

Call money screwed at 4 per cent and then eased to 3 3-4, closing at the low figure. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Sharp rallies of 35 and 40 points, respectively, in the Norwegian and Spanish currencies, which ruled around 12.65 and 15.63 cents, featured the irregular foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held firm, just above $4.86, but French francs sold down to 3.90 cents, and then rallied slightly. Italian and Belgian currencies also were heavy.

TAFTVILLE

Linden Lupe of Terrace Avenue has resigned his position with the New weaving department of the Ponemah company.

About 100 cars loaded from the village attended the outing at Pine Orchard golf, Thursday afternoon.

Patrick Mahan has sold his farm on the Jewett City road and with his family he is moving to Providence.

A house on Providence street.

Chief Ranger Joseph E. Beane presided at a meeting of Court Wauregan, No. 88, Foresters of America, held Friday evening in the conference room of Dion street.

A good way to get rich would be to collect clippings from The Bulletin at a quarter each says a town resident. A news agency in a city not far distant has sent out cards to Taftville people offering to supply them a newspaper clipping containing a mention of a private event. When the money is forwarded a clipping from the Taftville column of The Bulletin arrives. Of course, the purchaser of the item pays postage on the clipping, the paper, wrapper and presumably a frog for Uncle Sam's Subscription for The Bulletin and a quarter.

NORWICH TOWN

Scotland road Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, is to have a religious service at Scotland next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Miss Dorothy Mae Bennett will be the speaker.

Having this week purchased the James McCarthy farm, situated on the Scotland road, the Avery people now take up their residence here. The McCarthy family expects to move some where in Norwich in the middle of this month.

In recognition of the first anniversary of the marriage Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Wilbraham (Irene Gear) were given a surprise recently at their home on Scotland road, when a committee of young people, consisting of that locality assembled and presented them with a chair. During the evening refreshments were served.

Junior Assistant Scout Master Irving Manning of Troop No. 20, Boy Scouts of Norwich Town, has been appointed district fire warden for Norwich Town and vicinity, at the suggestion and recommendation of Emerson A. Benton, formerly scout executive, Norwich Young Mannings who learned lumbering secrets as well as a practical fire fighter has received many compliments for his adventures and excellent management in instructing his helpers of the scouts of Troop 20, he received his appointment officially in the spring from the fire marshal of Connecticut.

At a business meeting of Scotland Road Young People's Christian Endeavor society, the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Miss Sylvia Hillsbridge; first vice president, Miss Eva Wilson; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Lena Hall. The president appointed committees at a future time.

Miss Alice M. Smith of Town street, had as her guest Friday on a motor trip to Danielson, Miss Benjamin L. Kennedy. They were guests while there of Miss Smith's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith, whose son Morris returned with them for a visit with Norwich Town relatives. During their stay, Mrs. Kennedy was entertained at the home of her sister-in-law, Mrs. C. P. Kennedy.

CAUGHT MAN HERE WHO IS WANTED FOR "SHORT CHANGE" IN JEWETT CITY

Joseph Gelinas, who gave his age as 32, and his address as New York city, was arrested at Franklin square about 9 o'clock Friday evening by Officers Hugh McAvoy and Patrick Shahan on request of Sheriff George Dolan of Jewett City where the New York man is wanted on a charge of fraud. About a half hour before the arrest Captain Thomas P. Murphy of the local police department was notified by Sheriff Dolan that a touring car bearing Pennsylvania registration numbers and driven by a man in a blue suit with straw hat had left Jewett City headed toward Norwich. Sheriff Dolan requested the local police to be on the watch for the machine.

Officers McAvoy and Shahan stopped the machine at the same time as it arrived in Franklin square and after questioning the driver, Officer McAvoy took him to the police station. At police headquarters he gave his name as Joseph Gelinas, his age as 32 and his home address New York city. He is a Canadian Frenchman, and speaks broken English with but a few words of Italian. He is married, has a wife, 21 years old, who speaks little or no English.

During the examination at the station at police headquarters it was found that he was somewhat under the influence of liquor. He admitted having been drinking and a charge of driving under the influence of liquor was annexed to his name on the police blotter. He was locked up for the night.

The charge on which he is wanted in Jewett City is fraud. It is understood that he went into Arremony's clothing store in Jewett City and purchased two handkerchiefs for 25 cents. He is said to have tendered a $20 bill in payment and after the change had been given him by the woman cashier to have remarked to her that he had a quarter and that it was too bad to put her to the trouble of changing the $20. He is said to have tendered the quarter and to have requested the clerk to give him back the $20 bill. In handing the change he had received back to the clerk, it is understood that he palmed a $10 bill.

At police headquarters he returned the two handkerchiefs and the $10 to Sheriff Dolan. The local case against him will come up before the city court session this (Saturday) morning.

It is said he also tried the same game at Mahan's store in Jewett City but Mr. Mahan says he did not lose any money.

Chapman, of Newton Highlands, Mass., formerly of Norwich.

MAKING CAMPAIGN AGAINST GRADE CROSSING ACCIDENTS

Sixty-four motor vehicles were struck by railroad trains or locomotives on grade crossings in Connecticut last year. Out of a total of 2,206 railroad crossing fatalities in the United States, eleven occurred in this state and thirteen accidents in Plainfield. In 1924 there were six such fatal accidents in Connecticut resulting in seven deaths.

From the fact that crossing fatalities throughout the country showed an increase last year no greater than 2 6-10 per cent. and injuries from such accidents an increase of only 1-2 of one per cent., notwithstanding the considerable increase in traffic, the safety section of the American Railway association concludes that "crossing accidents are undoubtedly being checked."

The intensive campaign against this type of accidents is being carried in Connecticut again this year, and crossing tenders and others have been asked to report the numbers of all motor vehicles carelessly operated at crossings. During the past year, the state motor vehicle department received 953 complaints of improper driving at such crossings as against 616 complaints during the previous year of the 1925 complaints 782 were for speeding over crossings, forty-three for disregard of stop signals, ten for turning or stopping on crossings and 118 for crossing in front of trains on similar recklessness.

Of the 194 accidents which occurred at grade crossings in Connecticut following or caused by New Britain, twelve in Hartford, ten each in Danbury and New Haven, three in Bridgeport, two in New Haven and one in Waterbury and the rest were distributed over a wide area, mostly in rural sections.

And if the A's should win out I will use mine as a souvenir of the occasion. I want Connie Mack to autograph me the score card with which he signals his players in the game that decides the pennant. Both of the Penniman boys, who have Norwich relatives, graduated from Brown university, the University of Pennsylvania and to Norwich Town Academy, bringing for a baseball score to add to his collection of manuscript curios.

"Dr. Penniman, yesterday, while sitting in his accustomed seat at the side of the press box in Greater Shibe park, imparted the information that some of his interest in and admiration for Connie Mack was prompted by the fact that Connie is a bit of a boon companion.

"Wedge goes several columns further, recalling how Dr. Penniman has become acquainted with Connie Mack in respectable circles, because the big player will wear two tuxedo shirts in any ordinary game—one tan and one black or two tans.

"A recent issue of the Public News contains an appreciation of Mack by Dr. Penniman, who names Mack as one of seven men, counting out with skewed sagacity the 'Tall Leaguer' has chosen each season with Ty Cobb, Harry Davis, Dan Murphy of Norwich, Ira Thomas and Earl Mack to carry out his instructions. Dr. Penniman declares that to place a club of high-class, temperamental players requires certain delicacy and tact as to manage an opera troupe.

It is his hope to one day see on the City Hall Plaza, Philadelphia, a statue of Mack, who, though a Massachusetts man, has, he declares, put Philadelphia on the map of the baseball world.

With characteristic humor, Dr. Penniman writes, 'I have been trying to induce Mr. Mack to paint on the fence and to print on his score cards the legend, 'baseball interferes with our business.' Make up lobsters. It is my opinion Connie Mack is the greatest citizen Philadelphia has ever had.'

He also declares that Mr. Mack is creating that the good words and encouragement of men like Dr. Penniman help the game and the moral of the players immeasurably.

Although Will Wedge jokes Dr. Penniman, the latter is really a hard working writer, daily reviewing several books now under contract to write two important books, has published four leading text books including two spelling books and, during days at our Europe and America et al. He drops his afternoon hard game mercy is good reward and recreation, to offset a hard and taxing morning's work.

SEDGWICK RELIEF CORPS HELD MEMORIAL SERVICE

Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, No. ... held its annual memorial service Friday afternoon at the meeting at the Buckingham Memorial at which the president, Mrs. Maud A. Moore, presided.

The corps has lost five members by death in the past year: Mrs. Mary Grover Brown, Mrs. Adeline W. Smith, Mrs. Hannah Hassell, Mrs. Susan Underwood and Mrs. Marietta Wright. Mrs. Friswell was a past chaplain of Sedgwick corps and Mrs. Wright was a past president of the corps, and a past department president and past department treasurer.

An invitation was accepted by the meeting to attend a reception given to Department President Mrs. Eleanor Lyon of Mystic, June 23 from 3 to 5 o'clock. The afternoon session of the Norwich women expect to go.

The sewing society will meet next Wednesday and the corps is to give a food sale and card party soon.

Mrs. Anna Turner rendered pleasing [illegible] ...Day, and the meeting closed with the salute to the flag and America.

Father Keefe the Preacher

Rev. William A. Keefe, pastor of St. Mary's Memorial church, Norwich, was the preacher Sunday at Terryville when the celebrated church of the Immaculate Conception was solemnly consecrated by Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan. The pastor of that parish is Rev. James A. Broderick, brother of the late Rev. John H. Broderick of St. Patrick's, Norwich, and the last of the four brothers, natives of Willimantic, who were priests of the Hartford diocese. The original Terryville church was built during the pastorate of Rt. Rev. Msgr. John Neale, LL. D., permanent rector of St. Rose's church, Meriden, formerly of Norwich.

MIDNIGHT FIRE IN CELLAR OF WEST SIDE BAKERY; CAUSE UNKNOWN

Miller's bakery, corner of West Main and Forest streets, was damaged to the extent of between $300 and $400 early this (Saturday) morning by fire of unknown origin. At 12:05 o'clock this morning a passerby saw flames shooting from an open cellar window on the west end of the bakery and immediately pulled in box 115, a few feet from the building.

The fire department laid a line of two and a half inch hose and a line of inch and a half inch hose and the flames were quickly squelched. The fire was confined to the cellar, back of the flour store room, where there was a considerable accumulation of rubbish. The cause of the fire is unknown. The bakery is conducted by Sam Miller of Pearl street, who recently purchased the business.

Mr. Miller is at a loss as to what caused the fire. He said he had attended the Palace theatre during the evening and on the way home had stopped in at the bakery to do some work. He did not go into the section of the building where the fire occurred and said that no one else had been there. The cellar window, he said, had been left open, and it is possible that someone may have carelessly thrown a lighted cigar or cigarette butt into the window. The store on the ground floor was lately remodeled. The damage was confined to the cellar as the flames did not reach the store above.

FINED $200 WITH SUSPENDED JAIL SENTENCE

John Kocol, 40, this city, was presented before Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Friday morning on a charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and given 30 days in jail sentence suspended for one year. He paid the fine.

Connecticut company officials were responsible for his arrest. Thursday night after his machine had collided with a trolley car on Sachem street, Police headquarters was notified and Officers Michael Pounch, Patrick Shahan and Patrick Murphy were detailed to bring him in. They found his automobile in the yard of his home at the Falls and took him in custody.

GIFT TO BISHOP BREWSTER FROM LYME MISSIONS

A large number of Episcopalians greeted the Rt. Rev. C. B. Brewster, bishop of Connecticut, at a garden party held at the Boxwood, Old Lyme, this week. The Lyme missions gave the bishop an imported desk clock. The bishop said this was the first time in 30 years that any parish or mission had presented him a gift. It was also announced at the Archdeconry meeting that St. Ann's had the largest congregation present and the largest offering in the history of the Archdeaconry. Mrs. S. S. Lane gave a dinner in honor of the bishop at her home.

Your Efficiency Depends on Your Eyes!

Good work needs good eyesight, because, as a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, so a man is no stronger than his weakest faculty. And now, when the quality of a man's work will pay such an important part in the determination of his income, you owe it to yourself to keep your faculties alert, keen—fit for the competition of industry.

DON'T WONDER WHETHER OR NOT YOUR EYES ARE EFFICIENT. HAVE THEM EXAMINED—and KNOW.

STARTLING REVELATIONS OF PENNSYLVANIA PRIMARY

Are Expected This Week Before the Senate Investigating Committee—Testimony of Lavish Expenditures Has Aroused Some Republicans as Well as the Democratic Leaders in the Senate—Another Batch of Subpoenas Has Been Sent Out.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—With the circle of witnesses steadily widening, senate investigators looked for more startling revelations this week in connection with the lavish expenditure of money in the recent Pennsylvania republican primary.

Another batch of subpoenaes was sent out today and new leads calling for more witnesses are expected to be developed by a number of those summoned. Every vista opened is to be followed as far as possible.

Several of the principals in the primary are yet to be heard, among them Representative William S. Vare, who bowled over Senator Pepper and Governor Pinchot in the race for the senatorial nomination. Senator Pepper also is to be recalled.

Among those summoned today were Thomas Watson, of Philadelphia, state-wide treasurer of the Vare-Beidleman-James Woodward coalition ticket, and his son, Thomas Watson, Jr., who, the testimony has been, delivered large sums to Edward N. Kenna, of Pittsburgh, treasurer of the Vare committee there.

Harry A. Mackey, state wide manager for the Vare-Beidleman combination, and Representative Moorlin, of Pittsburgh in charge of the Vare western headquarters, also remain to be heard.

Lieutenants in the Pepper-Fisher combination still to be examined include Eric Fisher Wood, chairman of the western committee; Frederick Rasmussen, treasurer of the Philadelphia committee; Samuel C. Jamieson, of Pittsburgh, connected with the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' association; Roy E. Schooley, of Pittsburgh; John T. Flynn, of Ridgeway, Pa.; Heber Dietrich, chairman of the Pittsburgh and Allegheney county committee, and John Hollister, of Pittsburgh.

Orders for whom subpoenas have been issued are Dr. L. D. Peebles, of New Kensington, Pa., Justice Frank X. O'Connor, of Philadelphia, candidate for congress in the May primary and Jacob Schorr, of Norristown, president of the Norristown Merchants' association and connected with the Young Peoples' Political league.

Testimony of an expenditure of nearly $1,500,000 in the primary campaign and of the wholesale hiring of watchers at the polls by the Vare and Pepper organizations have aroused some republicans as well as the democratic leaders of the senate and already there is discussion as to what course should be pursued if Mr. Vare should be elected in November.

Attention was called today that the investigating committee had made only desultory inquiry into the expenditures for the Vare-Beidleman coalition ticket, as most of its time has been given over to the Pepper-Fisher expenditures.

Representative Vare has returned personal expenditures of $71,000 and testimony has been adduced showing expenditures of approximately $79,000 by the Kenna committee in Pittsburgh, more than half of which came from the state organization, according to Kenna.

Expenditures for the Vare-Beidleman organization in Philadelphia and other parts of the state outside of Pittsburgh are yet to be inquired into. Senators plan to ask Mr. Vare himself regarding these matters.

TO DECIDE FATE OF FARM RELIEF BILL THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, June 13.—(AP)—Adjournment of congress by the end of this month was freely predicted today by the party leaders in the two houses. With the fate of farm relief legislation likely to be decided this week and the French debt settlement put into the distant future, the leaders see nothing to keep congress here.

Limitation of debate on the farm bill in the senate will become effective on Tuesday with expectations of a vote not later than Thursday. Defeat of the pending bill is forecast despite the efforts being made to modify its provisions.

After the vote on farm relief, the senate will probably take up the Dill radio bill with a view to action early next week. That will about clear the senate calendar except for the rivers and harbor bill which the commerce committee is expected to report early in the week.

A determined fight on a number of provisions of the waterway bill is threatened and whether a vote can be forced is regarded now as somewhat doubtful.

Upon reconvening Tuesday after an extended lay-off, the house will dispose of a couple of election contests and then turn its attention to a number of minor measures while waiting for the appropriations committee to bring out the final deficiency bill.

The election contests are those of W. W. Bailey, democrat, against Representative A. H. Walter, republican, of the 20th Pennsylvania district, and Ben. H. Clark independent republican against Representative Edwards, democrat, of the first Georgia district. The elections committee has reported unanimously in favor of the incumbents.

Income tax hearing and revision bills will occupy the house through Friday with a possible three-day recess is likely to be taken.

FEUDIST SURRENDERED AFTER KILLING ENEMIES

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., June 13—(AP)—Feuds was written on one of the most famous Ozark mountain feuds in history when William Fletcher of Astoria, Mo., was exonerated by a coroner's jury of all blame in connection with the slaying Friday of Howard and Clemens Neal, brothers and the probable fatal wounding of their father, J. H. Neal, postmaster at Astoria.

Immediately after the verdict exonerating Fletcher was returned, holding that he had shot the three men in self defense, Prosecuting Attorney N. A. Craig filed a charge of felonious assault and possession of liquor against Postmaster Neal who is near death as a result of being shot through the stomach by Fletcher who used a shot gun.

A raid on the Neal home by the sheriff of Wright county disclosed a large quantity of moonshine liquor.

The feud between the Neal and Fletcher families has been one of long standing and was given added impetus recently when Fletcher had one of the Neals arrested for disturbing the peace, resulting in conviction.

Friday, according to officers Fletcher was walking down the Main street of Astoria, a village near here when a member of the Neal family approached him and started an argument which led to a tussle between the two men. While the two were grappling with each other, Howard Neal approached with a knife and joined the affray. Fletcher managed to break free and ran to his home nearby and got a shot gun. In the meantime members of the Neal family had barricaded themselves in their home.

Fletcher fired into the Neal home from a window in his house and after a few moments the Neals made a rush for Fletcher. As they ran across the street they poured a continuous volley of lead at Fletcher. Fletcher in turn kept firing his shotgun and one by one the Neals fell. The two brothers were killed almost instantly while the father was seriously wounded and removed to a hospital. Fletche emerged unscathed.

Fletcher then drove to Hartville, the county seat, and surrendered to Prosecuting Attorney Craig.

TWO MEN FATALLY BURNED WHEN A STILL EXPLODED

LOUISVILLE, Ky. June 13—(AP)—Two men died here early today of burns received when a 200 gallon still exploded, virtually destroyed one residence and damaged another, and uncovered what police called evidence of an alcohol redistilling and moonshining plant operated on a wholesale scale.

Houses were shaken by the force of the explosion and hundreds went to the scene. The men, who gave their names as S. S. Scott and J. L. Anderson, were found with their clothing ablaze and were taken to a hospital.

Police said one of the rented residences contained an alcohol distilling plant and the other a moonshine outfit. The two houses were connected by pipes. Loss by explosion and fire that followed was estimated at $10,000.

$30,000 FIRE IN CHEMICAL AND PAINT PLANT AT ESSEX

ESSEX, June 13—(AP)—Fire today destroyed the Essex Paint and Chemical company stock and building owned by E. Van Dyke Wetmore, on the river front here with a loss estimated at between $30,000 and $50,000. The plant was in a thickly settled part of the town and all the available fire fighting apparatus in Middlesex county was called in to save the surrounding property from destruction.

Several explosions accompanied the blaze and a number of firemen were overcome during the three hour battle. The location on the river front was considered fortunate as there was plenty of water and the neighboring property caused the entire attention of the firemen, while the original plant burned to the ground.

The origin of the blaze was not determined. The Essex Paint and chemical company dealt in painters supplies and carried on no manufacture. A large quantity of gasoline, benzine, paints and oils were stored in the building, which caused the explosions.

An additional hazard was furnished by the proximity of the new Standard Oil company plant at which were stored 400,000 gallons of gasoline, and 300,000 gallons of kerosene.

THIRTEEN CAVALRY HORSES WERE SUFFOCATED ON TRAIN

ROCHESTER, N. H., June 13—(AP)—Thirteen cavalry horses from Troop F, 101st, Cavalry New York National Guard, of Rochester, today were suffocated when the troop train on which they were being transported to Pine Camp at Peekskill, was forced to stop on a siding at Felts Mills, about three miles from the camp for an hour during the heat of the afternoon.

According to information telephoned here, the Rochester section, composed of four horse cars and three coaches arrived at Felts Mills at 4:30 o'clock and was held up while trains from Brooklyn and Buffalo were unloading ahead of it at Peekskill. The doors and windows of the cars were closed, and the heat inside became intense. Seeing that several of the animals were overcome, the men broke in the windows and found four of them dead. Nine others died later.

The remaining horses were unloaded by means of hastily constructed gang planks.

ONE MAN KILLED, THREE INJURED WHEN AUTO HIT TREE

BRAINARD, N. Y., June 13—(AP)—One man was killed and three others injured, one perhaps fatally, when an automobile went off the road at a curve here early today and crashed into a tree.

Ernest Johnson of Pittsfield, Mass., owner and operator of the car, met instant death, and Bruno Carlson suffered a fractured skull and several face lacerations. His name was on the danger list at a hospital, where Gus Swanson and John Johnson (not related to Ernest) were also taken. Iver Jacobson went home after hospital treatment. All three injured men were from Pittsfield.

ATHENS, Greece, June 13.— (AP) — President Pangalos has signed a decree granting local administrative autonomy to Macedonia, Thrace and Thessaly. Those provinces will elect councils on Aug. 22 to serve for four years.

LONDON, June 13.—(AP)—A political flurry has been caused by reports that an unnamed liberal peer has offered to donate £1,000,000 to the party funds on condition that David Lloyd George, the former premier, cease to be associated with the organization.

LONDON, June 13.—Twenty-three British delegates to the international advertising convention in Philadelphia sailed on the Berengaria from Southampton. The delegation is headed by Lieutenant-Colonel E. F. Lawson, president of the Advertising association and managing proprietor of the daily telegraph.

ATHENS, Greece, June 13.—(AP)—Brigands attacked a car carrying 15,000,000 drachmas belonging to the National bank on the road between Preveza and Yanina, European Turkey, yesterday. Three gendarmes guarding the car with the chauffeur, bank official and two servants were all shot dead. The brigands decamped with the money.

BERLIN, June 13.—(AP)—Only lukewarm interest thus far is being manifested in the balloting on Sunday next June 20, on the question of legalizing through constitutional amendment outright confiscation of the property Former German rulers. The predictions tonight are that the measure will fail to receive the requisite affirmative support of twenty million voters.

CALLS FOR ACTION BY FRENCH CHAMBER ON DEBT TO AMERICA

PARIS, June 13.—(AP)—The French chamber should take quick action on the Berenger-Mellon debt agreement, Stephane Lausanne, editor of the "Matin," insists in a front page editorial today.

France, he says, "in the court of the centuries of her troubled history, may have shown that she had faults; she never showed that she lacked courage. She ought today to have courage to say 'yes' or 'no'."

M. Lausanne concludes by asking those who think they can do better than Ambassador Berenger has done to rise and sail for Washington; he asks those who want to let things slide to day so, and those who would prefer to see a colossal debt of thirteen billion francs fall due in 1929 say so flatly.

"A man," says M. Lausanne, "six weeks ago assumed his responsibilities and with formal authorization of the government, gave his signature in France's name. Everything is admissible except to ignore that that signature has been given. It may be disavowed or ratified, condemned or approved, but we cannot seek refuge in abstention."

The editor recalls that the United States senate declared categorically it would not ratify before the chamber did, and remarks that that is the same procedure carried out in all debt settlements.

"The house of commons, which glories in the motor of parliaments" he adds, "ratified the Baldwin agreement before the American senate did. The Belgian chamber ratified the Theunis agreement, and the Italian chamber the Volpi agreement, before the American senate.

"So long as the French chamber does not ratify the government, the American senate will not ratify it, and the American senate is up for partial re-election. It will be another senate we will have before us in autumn."

M. Lausanne asserts that the occult instigations of the chamber seem to be "Silence! Let time pass." He considers such advice damaging to France's material and moral credit.

DOUBLE SHOOTING WAS THE RESULT OF LOVERS' QUARREL

STAMFORD, June 13.—(AP)—As the result of a lover's quarrel a week ago, the disappointed suitor attempted to kill his sweetheart and take his own life here today. Both are in the Stamford hospital, where it is believed the girl will recover, but little hope is held for the man.

Joseph Marzano, 27, of 452 Pacific street, had been keeping company with Rose Raffale, 17, of 70 Pacific street for some time. Last Sunday they quarrelled and the girl told Marzano she never wanted to see him again. Today at noon, she was returning to her home after attending church and in Comet street, Marzano was waiting in a taxi.

She refused his invitation to go with him in the taxi and as she turned away, Marzano drew a revolver and fired twice, one shot striking her in the neck and the other in the shoulder blade. The man then turned the gun on himself, shooting into his right temple. A second shot also took effect in his head. Both were taken to the hospital.

FLAYS THE GRUMBLING DISCONTENTED COMMUNIST

ELWOOD, Ind., June 13.— (AP) — Attacking communistic doctrines, Secretary of Labor Davis in a Flag day address here today declared that even a rational American hobo is patriotic and a "better asset to a nation than a grumbling and discontented communist."

Describing communism as an attempt of the hand to stab the brain and asserting that the communists of Russia want to annex America to Moscow, Mr. Davis said the time had come "when we must consider the activities of these leaders of communism, for it is they, and they alone, who threaten to undermine American ideals and to destroy all that America has stood for since the adoption of the constitution."

16 DEATHS IN MASS. LAST WEEK FROM AUTO ACCIDENTS

BOSTON, June 13.—(AP)—Deaths resulting from automobile accidents in Massachusetts numbered 16 last week, three more than in the previous week and one less than during the corresponding period in 1925.

A new record was set last week for the number of persons sent to jail for drunken driving in a like period in Massachusetts. The weekly report of Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, placed the number at 23. Convictions for operating while under the influence of liquor totalled 127 for the week, 17 more than in the previous seven days.

Young Girls Inmates of Ma[illegible]y Homes

Startling Disclosure Made in Report of Salvation Army Social Service Director in New York.

NEW YORK, June 13—(AP)—Automobiles with predatory drivers account for the majority of the unmarried mothers cared for at 13 Salvation Army maternity homes in the last two years.

Colonel Margaret Bevill, territorial director of the army's social service, said that 42 per cent. of the patients were "school girls of high or elementary grades, averaging 16 years of age."

"To have an average of 16," she added, "means that we must have an astounding number of girls who are becoming mothers between the ages of 11 and 14."

In an "exact survey" just concluded, said Col. Bevill, the majority of girls in the 13 institutions "attributed their difficulties to automobile flirtations." Of 397 girls now in the homes, 169 were declared to be of "school age."

"Twenty years ago," the director explained, "our rescue homes were always filled with women of mature age. From whatever source we found these women, however, they were, with only a few exceptions, women who had deliberately chosen what was mistakenly called 'the easiest way.'

"This is not the situation today. Red-light districts have been largely done away with and so have the saloons with back rooms, and, between the police and the activities of citizens committees, we have practically eliminated open prostitution on the streets. In spite of these reforms, the Salvation Army in this one territory now has twice the number of maternity homes that it operated in those hurid days of the past and they are all filled to capacity by [illegible]. Not by professional, deliberate and conscious violators of the social code, although we still work among that class, too—but by school children, many of whom have been obliged to leave their desks in either the high or elementary grades to go direct to our institutions for the ordeal of motherhood."

"I have made my matrons in all of the 13 institutions interview very carefully every girl admitted during the last two years and in a majority of cases we find that low wage scales—[illegible]—with predatory drivers—was the cause of the difficulty."

TWO ARMY OFFICERS ARE REPORTED MISSING

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y. June 13—(AP)—Army officers said tonight they had been unable to find any trace of Second Lieutenant Robert B. Williams who left at noon today in an army De Haviland plane for Washington. He was accompanied by a mechanic. Had he been forced down, they said, at some intermediate field he would have phoned back by telephone to Mitchel field.

ARMY AVIATOR AND CIVILIAN WERE KILLED

NORFOLK, Va., June 13—(AP)—Lieut Harold R. Stiles, United States naval reserve flyer, and Herbert S. Tenfress, civilian, both of Norfolk, were killed late today when an airplane piloted by the former crashed at Camp Camp, near here.

Spectators said the plane was doing stunts when it suddenly nose-dived to the earth. Lieut. Stiles was married and leaves a widow and three children. Tenfress also was married.

Walter C. Noyes

NEW YORK, June 13—(AP)—Walter C. Noyes, former judge of the United States circuit court of appeals for the second circuit, is dead at his Fifth avenue home.

Former Judge Noyes, who died last night, was born in Old Lyme township, Connecticut, August 8, 1865, the descendant of an old Connecticut family. He was admitted to the bar in 1886 and practiced law in New London, Conn., and was judge of the county court of common pleas there until 1902, when President Roosevelt appointed him to the circuit bench. He resigned in 1913 and entered private practice. He was regarded as an authority on railroad and maritime law.

He is survived by his widow and three daughters, funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Rev. George Herbert Lamson

EAST HAMPTON, June 13.—(AP)—Rev. George Herbert Lamson, 87, a retired Methodist minister, died in his home here today, following a shock of last Thursday from which he failed to recover. He was born in New Lubec, Me., on January 10, 1839. He prepared for the ministry at Boston university and after graduation served for more than 25 years in South Somerset, North Dighton and Fall River, Mass., when he came to Connecticut.

In this state he served in parishes at Norwich, South Coventry and East Hampton. Rev. Mr. Lamson was a member of the New England southern conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

His widow, a son, Professor George Herbert Lamson, Jr., of the Connecticut Agricultural college, and a daughter, Mrs. L. A. Barton, of East Hampton, survive.

The funeral will be held from the Methodist church here. Burial will be in Lake View cemetery, East Hampton.

New Haven, June 3 (AP)—The bodies of the two Yale students who were killed in an automobile crash in Guilford early yesterday have been shipped to their homes. That of William A. Cushing was sent to Brookline, Mass., to the home of his parents for burial, while that of George M. Koppol was shipped to New York city.

Killed by Blades of Airplane Propeller

Sergeant John D. Kent of the 118th Observation Squadron, C. N. C., Struck on Brainard Field.

HARTFORD, June 13—(AP)—Sergeant John D. Kent, of the 118th observation squadron, Connecticut National Guard was instantly killed at 3:13 o'clock this afternoon at Brainard field when struck by the whirling blades of an airplane propeller he was turning over. The man was taken to the Hartford hospital at once but was dead when that institution was reached.

Major William F. Ladd, commanding officer of the squadron, immediately appointed a board of inquiry to investigate the fatality. The members of the board are: Captain Clarence M. Knox, president; Captain Kenneth D. Warner, secretary; and Lieutenant Louis N. Eller, regular army instructor attached to the 118th observation squadron. It was thought tonight that it would be several days before the board would report its finding.

It seemed almost impossible to determine how the accident happened, Major Ladd said tonight. He said that Sergeant Kent was one of the most careful men of the outfit, and in view of the fact that he was a full time employe, stationed regularly at the aviation field, he was fully aware of the risks involved in starting a propeller.

Although a Sunday afternoon crowd was present at the aviation field, the accident was observed by but few people, and an effort was made to keep news of the fatality, from all possible spectators in order not to alarm them.

Major Ladd who pointed out today that Sergeant Kent's death was in line of duty, said that this was the first fatal accident that the squadron had had a Brainard field, and this he showed, was not in the air. He said that the accident would in no way halt the regular flights.

Sergeant Kent, who had served in the army air service during the World war, held the position of crew chief. He lived at the field. He leaves a mother, Mrs. Carrie Kent, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and a brother, William Kent, a member of the New York police department.

FIND WAGES HAVE BECOME FAIRLY WELL STABILIZED

NEW YORK, June 13—(AP)—Indications that wages had become fairly well stabilized are noted in a statement issued today by the national industrial conference board, an organization of employers.

The ten years ending with 1925, as far as available records show, have seen more violent wage fluctuations than have ever occurred in the history of the United States, the report of the board states, but recently the wages have resumed their normal trend.

As far as the immediate future is concerned, the board reports such wage changes as will occur are likely to be localized and sporadic, without greatly disturbing the general trend, which has been gradually upward since 1840, the earliest date for which detailed records are available.

COUNT IS BEING HELD ON CHARGE OF DESERTION

NEW YORK, June 13—(AP)—Charged with desertion by Mrs. Esther Wagman, of Winthrop, Mass., a man claiming to be Count Paul Anatole Monte, is being held in the Richmond county jail for extradition to Massachusetts.

His wife charges that he is simply Nicholas Wagman, born in Canada, of Rumanian birth.

The self-styled count, who said he was a French nobleman, was arrested a few days ago while attending a motion picture show at Newport, R. I., with a society girl of that city. His arrest, however, did not become known until today. The "count" says that he is a victim of a frame-up.

BATTLED WITH BEAR TO SAVE HIS DAUGHTER

WORCESTER, Mass., June 13—(AP)—While nearly 50 people looked on horror-stricken, Gustaf A. Bottcher battled with a bear on exhibition at a gas station in Northboro to rescue his four year old daughter, Olive, who had been pulled into the pen by the animal.

The child was feeding candy to the bear when it suddenly reached over and grasping her dress with his claws pulled her into the rope enclosure where he was chained. The father leaped into the pit but did not relieve the child from the bear's embrace until she had been severely clawed and bitten. She was taken to a Worcester hospital where her condition was reported serious due to the shock.

BRILLIANT PROCESSION FOR CARDINAL BONZANO

A Crowd Estimated at 500,000 Thronged Fifth and Madison Avenues, New York—Hundreds Knelt in the Streets as the Papal Legate Passed by, Blessing the Throng—Thirteen Persons Were Overcome by the Heat—Imposing Gathering at St. Patrick's Cathedral Included Six Visiting Cardinals, Who Are on Their Way to the Eucharistic Congress.

NEW YORK, June 14.—(AP)— Fifth avenue and Madison avenue were thronged today between 46th and 57th street with a crowd estimated at 500,000 as Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate, rode at the end of a procession brilliant with flags and the vestments of the church and uniforms of semi-military organizations.

Thousands had stood from noon to 5:30 o'clock to receive the papal blessing. Hundreds knelt in the streets as the cardinal passed by, blessing the throng.

Thirteen persons were overcome with the heat and given medical attention by physicians in ambulance stations along the route of the processions. Two women collapsed in front of St. Patrick's cathedral as the cardinal's automobile approached. Another young woman had her foot crushed by the horse of a mounted patrolman endeavoring to hold back the throng across the street from the cathedral.

In the rear of the cathedral, on a grassy embankment overlooking Madison avenue, chairs were placed for six of the visiting cardinals, who are on their way to the Eucharistic congress to be held in Chicago. Behind them were grouped dignitaries of the church vested in purples and reds, and on the sidewalk below long lines of choir-boys in scarlet and white.

Cardinal Hayes of New York stood on the steps of the archiepiscopal palace with the papal legate and reviewed the parade as it passed down Madison avenue. When the last of the marching units from military schools and bejumed Knights of Columbus had passed the palace, Cardinal Bonzano entered an automobile at the end of the procession, and followed by other cars bearing his party took through the streets, smiling his greetings to the thousands who cheered him.

When the procession had returned to the Madison avenue side of the cathedral, the visiting cardinals entered in solemn procession and took up their seats upon the thrones improvised before the high altar.

NEW YORK CITY PAID TRIBUTE TO CARDINALS

NEW YORK, June 13—(AP)—With all the pomp and color of the Roman Catholic church, New York city paid formal and reverent tribute to the nine cardinals within its diocese.

A procession witnessed by thousands of persons began the formal reception to the princes of the church. Hundreds knelt in Fifth avenue to receive the blessing of Cardinal Bonzano, papal legate, who rode at the end of the procession.

As the parade resumed down Madison avenue to St. Patrick's Cathedral, Cardinal Hayes of New York and seven visiting cardinals and their staffs who had acted as a reviewing party on an embankment in the rear of the cathedral marched with the procession to the front and into the cathedral.

Preceded by servers, the nine cardinals in their scarlet robes, followed by retinue in purple gowns, marched down the main aisle of the crowded cathedral under flags of the United States and of the pope and an arch of swords. They took their places within the altar rail, the papal legate occupying the throne, Cardinal Hayes taking his seat with the other princes on the improvised throne opposite.

Facing Cardinal Bonanzo were Cardinal Reig Ycasanova of Spain; Cardinal Csernoch, archbishop of Stringonia and primate of Hungary; Cardinal Pilli, canon regular of the Lateran and archbishop of Vienna; Cardinal Dubois, archbishop of Paris; Cardinal Charost, archbishop of Rennes; Cardinal O'Donnell, archbishop of Armagh and primate of Ireland; Michael Cardinal Von Faulhaber, archbishop of Munich, and Cardinal Hayes. The altar was banked with flowers of yellow and white, tall candles gleaming through them.

Following the convocation Cardinal Hayes mounted the pulpit and extended the greetings of the Catholic Church of America to the papal legate.

Cardinal Bonzano then bestowed upon the worshippers the special blessing of the pope.

"The Holy Father," the papal legate said, "has been pleased to send me as his representative to the Eucharistic Congress, an event which marks an epoch in the history of religion in America. Knowing as I do your earnest devotion to our Lord in the sacrament of His love, I am certain that you will have your share, an abundant share, in the blessings that will flow from the public solemnity in honor of the Eucharistic King.

"Your welcome to me here upon the soil of the new world assures me of a successful journey in the fulfillment of my mission. It will give genuine pleasure to the holy father. In the name of the princes of the church here present and in my own I thank you most sincerely and invoke upon you and yours the favor of the graces of our Lord, Jesus Christ, whose delights are to be with the children of man and in anticipation of the heavenly favors I am happy to bestow upon you the holy father's special blessing."

In extending greetings to Cardinal Bonzano on the part of the Catholics of New York, Cardinal Hayes rendered thanks that a papal legate had been sent "whom we know well, one we learned to honor and love ten long years ago, when at Washington, as an apostolic delegate."

"We rejoice," the New York cardinal said, "that we have again in our midst a friend who in his day served America by his wisdom, by his loyalty, by his prayer, by the very benediction of his life.

"It is for us all an occasion of great thanksgiving to Almighty God that we are on the eve of the great Eucharist Congress soon to take place in the city of Chicago, a sister diocese and a sister city."

GROND BROKEN AT STORRS FOR COMMUNITY CHURCH

STORRS, June 13—(AP)—As a climax to the commencement exercises at the Connecticut Agricultural college here today, ground was broken for the new Storrs Community church. In the presence of a large number of people, several officers of the church and others turned spades of earth, thus marking the beginning of the second unit of the Connecticut Federation of Churches building program at Storrs.

The first unit, the Storrs community house, is already in use by the college community. This with the new church will, it is expected, provide adequate social and religious facilities for the young people attending the college. The federation is seeking to complete the fund for the entire project.

The exercises followed the morning service, which was the last to be held at the old Storrs church, and marked another epoch in its history. While the old church has been standing since 1847, the site has been devoted to church purposes since 1737. That was the year the Second Congregational church of Mansfield, was incorporated. The new community church will retain its connection with the Congregational churches of Connecticut.

PROHIBITION AN ISSUE IN NEW JERSEY PRIMARIES

NEWARK, N. J., June 13—(AP)—Prohibition is an issue, without regard to party affiliation, for Tuesday's state primaries.

Some 30 or more of 82 republican candidates for 60 nominations to the lower branch of the legislature have announced that they favor a state referendum on prohibition or a memorial to congress urging modification.

Democratic candidates for the assembly have little quarrel on prohibition but the subject figures in one contest for a democratic nomination for the state senate.

Mrs. Adelina A. Lawrence, who favors a referendum, is a candidate in Monmouth county against James A. Hendrikson of Red Bank, bone dry, Mrs. Lawrence's husband is a circuit judge.

E. Duncan McClave, modificationist, is running against Representative Randolph Perkins, republican. This is the only prohibition battle in the 13 congressional districts.

60 PERSONS CONVERTED BY "CHILD EVANGELIST"

NEW YORK, June 13—(AP)—Preaching a fundamentalist religion, Uldine Mabelle Utley, 14-year old "child evangelist" today brought about the conversion of 60 persons, many of them middle-aged men in the Calvary Baptist church.

"Many Americans today," she said at the conclusion of her appeal, "want to mock you when you say you believe in miracles and other fundamentals of the scriptures. We in America need to stand up for God just as Elijah did."

A chorus of "Amen!" rose from her audience of 2,000 persons and procession of converts came forward.

The girl, who is from Fresno, Cal., will conduct "an old fashioned soul awakening" at the church in September. The Rev. John Roach Straton, introducing her, said "God has raised her for just this hour as a rebuke to the self-sufficiency of this age of doubt and disbelief."

HARVARD TO HAVE NAVAL RESERVE OFFICERS' COURSE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 13—(AP)—A naval reserve officers' course will be established at Harvard, open to freshmen next September. The course, for which arrangements have been completed in cooperation with the navy department, will be administered by a new department of naval science and tactics in the university. It will effective and may continue through four years of undergraduate work.

The primary object of the naval reserve officers training corps, it was announced today, is to provide systematic instruction and training which will qualify selected students for appointment as officers in the naval reserve. After the successful completion of the full four years' course, which will include attendance at one advanced camp or cruise. The naval subjects covered will be credited towards the university degree, and at least three hours per week will be required during the first two years of the course.

NORWICH MAN RESIGNS AS PHYSICAL DIRECTOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, June 13—Richard W. Holden of Norwich, physical director at the local Y. M. C. A., has endered his resignation and will end his engagement with the local association early next week. The resignation has been accepted with regret by the board of directors. Mr. Holden's successor will be E. H. Lind of Brockton, Mass., who will assume his new duties September 1 next. Mr. Holden has been connected with the local association for the past two years, the first of which he was boys' secretary. The past year, he has been physical director. In September, he will enter Springfield college. This summer, he will be one of the directors at the state Y. M. C. A. camp in Chester. Mr. Lind is a graduate of Brown University and for the past year has been physical director at the Abington, Mass. "Y". He is married. He has had considerable experience in physical education and playground work. Commencing the coming Wednesday, the physical department will go on a summer schedule. Boys' classes will be confined to Wednesdays and Saturdays. Paul Stiles will have charge of the office for the summer.

The case of Napoleon Racine of Hartford, charged with non-support of his wife and four year old child, was continued one month in the local police court Saturday morning by Judge Frank H. Foss, after the accused had agreed to send four dollars a week for the support of his child. The court made this decision with the hope that the couple would settle their differences. In the meantime, Racine is to make the weekly payment stated above for the care of his child.

Stating that she was married five years ago, Mrs. Racine told the court that she was deserted by her husband in 1923. Questioning brought out the fact that Mrs. Racine had been married before and that by her first marriage there were three children. The witness testified that since her second husband's desertion, she had managed to take care of their child and the three children by her first marriage. Her husband drank, she said, and she only talked with him once in three years, that being last Christmas time.

In his own behalf, Racine said that he had been employed for the past year in Hartford. When he secured employment there he asked his wife to come there, but she refused, for fear that her husband would get out of work and that she would become stranded in Hartford. The court was of the opinion that Racine's wages would not support five in Hartford and that he should, if possible, secure work in this city. Racine said that when he was living with his wife he had given her all his wages.

Lowell J. Wilcox of Norwich presented before the court for violation of the traffic law in exceeding the speed limit on Main street as set forth in the city charter; pleaded guilty and was fined five dollars and costs.

St. Paul's Junior choir and orchestra gave an enjoyable concert at the Windham Center school Friday evening, before a large and an appreciative audience. Lawrence Dyer sang several songs in a beautiful high soprano, played the trombone in the orchestra and in the brass quartet. Carlyle Johnson of South Coventry played a flute solo and two duets, one with Donald Nichols, violinist and the other with Charles Buttons, violinist. Another soloist was Lawrence Latimer also of South Coventry who rendered several selections on the mandolin. The readings by Miss Elizabeth Crandall of Storrs and the recitations by Miss Martha Tenney won great favor.

Two cases were adjourned by Justice of the Peace Curtis Dean Saturday, those of John and Mary Matos of Chaplin versus Clarence and William Laramee of this city and Frank J. Sears of Stamford, versus Gertrude Day Spooner. They were continued to next Saturday. The first case concerns alleged damages to clothes of the plaintiffs by the defendants who operate a wet wash establishment on Bricktop road. No bill of particulars has been filed in the other case.

A whist party was held Friday evening under the auspices of the Catholic Daughters of America, the hostesses being Mrs. J. Moran, Mrs. Catherine Congdon and Mrs. T. E. Sullivan. The affair was held in the newly remodeled garage of Mrs. Sullivan. There were ten tables in play. Refreshments were served. First awards were given to Mrs. T. Morrissette, Mrs. D. Shea and Mrs. T. Kildourey; second, to Mrs. J. Friel, Mrs. A. Moclarty, and Miss Dacey and consolation to Miss I. Colgan, Mrs. J. Tighe and Miss N. Connor.

In honor of her approaching marriage with Florimond J. Bergeron, a miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Florina Dubreuil of 231 Jackson street Friday evening. Miss Dubreuil received many beautiful and useful gifts. In attendance were Mrs. Octave Dubreuil, Mrs. Albert Fournier, Mrs. Wilfred Cote, Mrs. Charles Durr and Misses Medora and Georgianna Dubois of Taftville, Helen Dubreuil, Arzelie Rousseau, Lucie Theroux, Louise Cote, Blanche Fournier, Paula Perreault, Emma Phaneuf, Rose Bergeron, Rose Gingras, Viola Whitman, Aline Millette, Aline Bachand, Albertine Coutu, Florence Coutu, Lena Hurteau, Donelda Lariviere, Jeanette Langlois, Leona and Anna Brinjamour, Irene and Delia Pageau, Agnes Turcotte, Germaine D'Auteuil, Jeanne Boisnier, Cora Boucher, and Isabelle Pepin.

John Collins of South Chaplin, well-known in this city, seeks new worlds to conquer. Styling himself as J. T. Collins, champion harmonica player and stump speaker of the country, he recently issued a challenge to all harmonica soloists.

The annual banquet and presentation of the Brotherhood trophy was held in the First Congregational church house Friday evening, the affair being tendered Troop No. 5 of the Boy Scouts of the parish. The Panther patrol, Mason Lincoln, leader, was awarded the silver loving cup. The presentation was made by Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock. A bountiful supper was served by the mothers of the scouts.

STORRS SUMMER HOTEL BURNS WITH LOSS OF $26,000

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 13—The Storrs summer hotel owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ostrofsky, was burned to the ground Saturday night with a loss estimated in the neighborhood of $26,000. The fire is believed to have been caused by a short circuit in the electrical wiring. The building, a three story structure with basement, contained 30 rooms and was unoccupied during the winter months. The fire started at 10:30 Saturday night. A fire brigade of 200 students of Connecticut Agricultural college who were in the midst of their commencement activities, was immediately organized and fought though unsuccessfully against the flames. The loss is partially covered by insurance. The building itself was valued at $20,000. Mrs. Anna Cohn of Hartford had leased the hotel for the summer from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ostrofsky.

TWO SATURDAY RAIDS GET ALCOHOL AND MOONSHINE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 13—Two raiding parties late Saturday afternoon were productive of results and accordingly Louis Brettschneider of 36 Chapman street and Joseph Kashaba of 11 Chapman street will be in police court Monday morning on charges of violation of the liquor laws. At the Brettschneider residence Officers Grant Bombria, Daniel Connell and Pierre Marrotte found four quart bottles and two pint bottles containing alcohol. Brettschneider is an old liquor law offender. Alderman William E. Jackson and Acting Captain Frank McLean and Officer Edgar Redman participated in the raid at the Kashaba home. Two gallon jugs, one three-quarters full and the other containing over a quart of moonshine were found and confiscated.

A meeting of the local W. C. T. U. was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Mary Stearns, Friday afternoon. Following the business session, Mrs. Stephen J. Davis described her trip to Florida during the past winter. It was voted to hold a picnic at the home of Mrs. Jewett at Clarks' Corner, Thursday, July 15.

Henry Gobielle of Baltic has purchased the shop from Eugene J. Dion on North street.

The body of John A. Powell who died in Hyde park, Boston, recently was buried in the Willimantic cemetery Saturday, Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead conducting a committal service at the grave. The bearers were Thomas Connor, William Foran, Frank Parker, William Palmer, Thomas Willet and Jeremiah Haggerty.

Sarah J., 98, widow of Elisha E. Hill, who died in Middletown Friday, leaves four grandchildren, Arthur C. Hill and Miss Dorothy Hill of this city, Mrs. Allen Cranston of Bolivar N. Y., and Miss Florence H. Lambert of Middletown; two great-grandchildren, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Cranston. She had resided with her daughter, Mrs. J. Robert Lambert of 89 Broad street, Middletown, for the past few years.

William Amidio, of New Haven and John Shea, of Walnut street, this city, will also be in court this (Monday) morning. The former will be charged with reckless driving. He was arrested early Sunday morning by Acting Lieutenant Edward P. Leahy, when he drove his car down Main street on the left hand side of the road. Shea was arrested by Officer F. Rudolph Laramee for intoxication and refusal to pay car fare.

Arthur Smith of High street, Stafford Springs, has been notified to appear in court at the same time to answer to a charge of evasion of responsibility. CANTERBURY

The public schools of Canterbury are planning to present the operetta, "The Goblin Fair," at their graduating exercises next Thursday evening. The story centers around a little girl named Geraldine and her kitten. Because of an abundance of cats at her home she is forced to find a home for her precious kitten. Falling asleep at the edge of the woods she meets in her dreams the Mushroom Fairy, the Red Hen, White Rabbit, Blodwen and the Moon Beams, but she is unable to find a home for her kitten. Following the instructions of the aged Blodwen and led by the Moon Fairy and her helpers, she finds her way to the "Goblin Fair." Here she views all the wares for which the Goblins are noted. After much deliberation on the thoughts of parting with her kitten she finally decides to part with it in exchange for a magic charm which will enable her to spell correctly any word in the dictionary. The final of the operetta is heard when Geraldine awakes to find her possessed of a charm and minus the kitten. The Goblins are last heard to exclaim "At last we have a cat." The cast includes:

NORWICH MAN RESIGNS AS PHYSICAL DIRECTOR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, June 13—Richard W. Holden of Norwich, physical director at the local Y. M. C. A., has endered his resignation and will end his engagement with the local association early next week. The resignation has been accepted with regret by the board of directors. Mr. Holden's successor will be E. H. Lind of Brockton, Mass., who will assume his new duties September 1 next. Mr. Holden has been connected with the local association for the past two years, the first of which he was boys' secretary. The past year, he has been physical director. In September, he will enter Springfield college. This summer, he will be one of the directors at the state Y. M. C. A. camp in Chester. Mr. Lind is a graduate of Brown University and for the past year has been physical director at the Abington, Mass., "Y". He is married. He has had considerable experience in physical education and playground work. Commencing the coming Wednesday, the physical department will go on a summer schedule. Boys' classes will be confined to Wednesdays and Saturdays. Paul Stiles will have charge of the office for the summer.

The case of Napoleon Racine of Hartford, charged with non-support of his wife and four-year old child, was continued one month in the local police court Saturday morning by Judge Frank H. Foss after the accused had agreed to send four dollars a week for the support of his child. The court made this decision with the hope that the couple would settle their differences. In the meantime, Racine is to make the weekly payment stated above for the care of his child.

Stating that she was married five years ago, Mrs. Racine told the court that she was deserted by her husband in 1923. Questioning brought out the fact that Mrs. Racine had been married before and that by her first marriage there were three children. The witness testified that since her second husband's desertion, she had managed to take care of their child and the three children by her first marriage. Her husband drank, she said, and she only talked with him once in three years, that being last Christmas time.

In his own behalf, Racine said that he had been employed for the past year in Hartford. When he secured employment there he asked his wife to come there, but she refused, for fear that her husband would get out of work and that she would become stranded in Hartford. The court was of the opinion that Racine's wages would not support five in Hartford and that he should, if possible, secure work in this city. Racine said that when he was living with his wife he had given her all his wages.

Lowell J. Wilcox of Norwich presented before the court for violation of the traffic law in exceeding the speed limit on Main street as set forth in the city charter, pleaded guilty and was fined five dollars and costs.

St. Paul's Junior choir and orchestra gave an enjoyable concert at the Windham Center school Friday evening, before a large and an appreciative audience. Lawrence Dyer sang several songs in a beautiful high soprano, played the trombone in the orchestra and in the brass quartet. Carlyle Johnson of South Coventry played a flute solo and two duets, one with Donald Nichols, violinist and the other with Charles Buttons, violinist. Another soloist was Lawrence Latimer also of South Coventry who rendered several selections on the mandolin. The readings by Miss Elizabeth Crandall of Storrs and the recitations by Miss Marian Tenney won great favor.

Two cases were adjourned by Justice of the Peace Curtis Dean Saturday, those of John and Mary Michalcin Chaplin versus Clarence and William Laramee of this city and Frank J. Sears of Stamford, versus Gertrude Day Spooner. They were continued to next Saturday. The first were concerns alleged damages to clothes of the plaintiffs by the defendants who operate a wet wash establishment on Bricktop road. No bill of particulars has been filed in the other case.

A whist party was held Friday evening under the auspices of the Catholic Daughters of America, the hostesses being Mrs. J. Moran, Mrs. Catherine Congdon and Mrs. T. E. Sullivan. The affair was held in the newly remodeled garage of Mrs. Sullivan. There were ten tables in play. Refreshments were served. First awards were given to Mrs. T. Mordesette, Mrs. D. Shea and Mrs. T. Kilkourey; second, to Mrs. J. Friel, Mrs. A. Moriarty, and Miss Dacey and consolation to Miss I. Colgan, Mrs. J. Tighe and Miss N. Connor.

In honor of her approaching marriage with Florimond J. Bergeron, a miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Florina Dubreuil of 231 Jackson street Friday evening. Miss Dubreuil received many beautiful and useful gifts. In attendance were Mrs. Octave Dubreuil, Mrs. Albert Fournier, Mrs. Wilfred Cote, Mrs. Charles Dore and Misses Medora and Georgianna Dubois of Taftville, Helen Dubreuil, Arzelie Rousseau, Lucia Theroux, Louise Cote, Blanche Fournier, Paula Perreault, Emma Phaneuf, Rose Bergeron, Rose Gingras, Viola Whitman Aline Millette, Aline Bachand, Albertine Coutu, Florence Coutu, Leona Hurteau, Donelda Lariviere, Jeanette Langlois, Leona and Anna Beinjamour, Irene and Delia Pageau, Agnes Turcotte, Germaine D'Auteuil, Jeanne Belanger, Cora Boucher, and Isabelle Pepin.

John Collins of South Chaplin, well-known in this city, seeks new worlds to conquer. Styling himself as J. T. Collins, champion harmonica player and stump speaker of the country, he recently issued a challenge to all harmonica soloists.

The annual banquet and presentation of the Brotherhood trophy was held in the First Congregational church house Friday evening, the affair being tendered Troop No. 5 of the Boy Scouts of the parish. The Panther patrol, Mason Lincoln, leader, was awarded the silver loving cup. The presentation was made by Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock. A bountiful supper was served by the mothers of the scouts.

STORRS SUMMER HOTEL BURNS WITH LOSS OF $26,000

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 13—The Storrs summer hotel owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ostrofsky, was burned to the ground Saturday night with a loss estimated in the neighborhood of $26,000. The fire is believed to have been caused by a short circuit in the electrical wiring. The building, a three story structure with basement, contained 30 rooms and was unoccupied during the winter months. The fire started at 10:30 Saturday night. A fire brigade of 200 students of Connecticut Agricultural college who were in the midst of their commencement activities, was immediately organized and fought though unsuccessfully against the flames. The loss is partially covered by insurance. The building itself was valued at $20,000. Mrs. Anna Cohn of Hartford had leased the hotel for the summer from her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ostrofsky.

TWO SATURDAY RAIDS GET ALCOHOL AND MOONSHINE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 13—Two raiding parties late Saturday afternoon were productive of results and accordingly Louis Brettschneider of 36 Chapman street and Joseph Kashaba of 11 Chapman street will be in police court Monday morning on chargees of violation of the liquor laws. At the Brettschneider residence Officers Grant Romiaria, Daniel Connell and Pierre Marrotte found four quart bottles and two pint bottles containing alcohol. Brettschneider is an old liquor law offender. Alderman William E. Jackson and Acting Captain Frank McLean and Officer Edgar Redman participated in the raid at the Kashaba home. Two gallon jugs, one three-quarters full and the other containing over a quart of moonshine were found and confiscated.

A meeting of the local W. C. T. U. was held at the home of the president, Mrs. Mary Stearns, Friday afternoon. Following the business session, Mrs. Stephen J. Davis described her trip to Florida during the past winter. It was voted to hold a picnic at the home of Mrs. Jewett at Clarks' Corner, Thursday, July 15.

CANTERBURY

The public schools of Canterbury are planning to present the operatta, "The Goblin Fair," at their graduating exercises next Thursday evening. The story centers around a little girl named Geraldine and her kitten. Because of an abundance of cats at her home she is forced to find a home for her precious kitten. Falling asleep at the edge of the woods she meets in her dreams the Mushroom Fairy, the Red Hen, White Rabbit, Blodwen and the Moon beams, but she is unable to find a home for her kitten. Following the instructions of the aged Blodwen and led by the Moon Fairy and her helpers, she finds her way to the "Goblin Fair." Here she views all the wares for which the Goblins are noted. After much deliberation on the thoughts of parting with her kitten she finally decides to part with it in exchange for a magic charm which will enable her to spell correctly any word in the dictionary. The final of the operatta is heard when Geraldine awakes to find her possessed of a charm and minus the kitten. The Goblins are last heard to exclaim "At last we have a cat." The cast includes:

DANIELSON

LEROY WOOD, MUSICIAN, DIES AT EAST ORANGE, N. J.

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 13—Leroy Wood, died Sunday morning in East Orange, N. J., in his 80th year. He was a brother of E. O. Wood, a resident of Danielson, and was born in this town on the Wood place, about two miles east of here. He was a son of Onley M. and Dorcas Young Wood, of a family identified with the affairs of this town for generations.

With his brothers he was engaged in business in Danielson for a number of years and then, meeting an opportunity presented to him because of his abilities as a singer, he went to Buffalo, N. Y., as a teacher of singing and later to New York city in the same profession. In New York he included church singing as a feature of his activities and continued to be so engaged until within a few years, when he retired and went to East Orange to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. Grace Smith. Mr. Wood was twice married, his first wife was Miss Helen Tainter of Buffalo and his second wife, Miss Catherine Stedman of Brooklyn. Mr. Wood was distinguished as a singer and had achieved a standing through courses of study in Europe. The body is to be brought to Danielson for burial.

DANIEL SAYLES SUICIDES HELD SHOTGUN AGAINST SIDE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, June 13—Daniel Sayles, 79, took his own life by shooting with a shotgun Saturday afternoon at his home on [illegible] street. Mrs. [illegible] Sayles, daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Chapell, on Reynolds streets. Mr. Sayles held the gun against his side and caused the weapon to be discharged, ending his life, as he had planned it, in a general way, during for some time past. Coroner Arthur H. Bill said Sunday afternoon. Mr. Sayles went out into a yard at the home to end his life. He was nearing his 80th birthday. Medical Examiner Dr. George M. Burnham viewed the body and [illegible] Undertaker A. F. Wood took it in charge. Mr. Wood turning over to L. W. Trumbull and sons of Central Village. Mr. Sayles was [illegible] and had been the greater part of his life [illegible] here, coming here while [illegible] with his son-in-law, daughter and grandchildren. He was a son of Horace and Lucinda Hamblin Sayles.

As a pioneer, wide and industrious farmer [illegible] Sayles was considerable success at both [illegible] and trapping. Mr. Sayles [illegible] and considerable [illegible]. He was not well known in Danielson having been here a comparatively short time, but years considered, and is best remembered in Sterling. His son, Alvah Sayles, now dead, was at one time a representative in the legislature from the town of Sterling. In addition to his daughter, Mrs. Sayles leaves a brother, Allen Sayles, resident in Sterling.

Bids will be asked this week for a proposed issue of $150,000 school bonds of the town of Killingly, to [illegible] the cost of the new Killingly high school now under construction, to Killingly High school. The matter is being handled by the Merchants' National bank of Boston. These bonds are to bear interest at the rate of 4 1-4 per cent., a very favorable rate and are to be payable on a basis [illegible] The bonds are to be prepared under the supervision of and certified as to their genuineness by the [illegible] Co. of Boston and their legality approved by Storey, Thorndike, Palmer & Dodge, whose opinion will be furnished the purchaser. The proposals to purchase will be received until 12 [illegible] June 24 and are to be addressed to Treasurer [illegible] T. Preston of the town of Killingly. Indications are that there will be really bidding for these bonds, as it is an issue by a town whose financial condition at the present time is very desirable. The right has been reserved to reject any or all of the bids that may be received.

An incident has occurred in an isolated eastern Connecticut town where [illegible] was arrested and prosecuted [illegible] for [illegible] a [illegible] fire. It is like [illegible] in an effort to [illegible] legislature that will [illegible] next January, tending toward either the repeal or modification of a statute that can be made to operate in a manner to cause unnecessary and unwarranted hardship on persons having no intent to do other than live an honest life and obey the law. In this particular case and a number [illegible] raiders from [illegible] and [illegible] swoop were [illegible] dogs. He conferred with [illegible] about the matter, and was advised by them, if [illegible] to get a gun and [illegible] the dogs. The [illegible] the [illegible] was arrested and presented in court, fined and an appeal was taken to the superior court, where the matter will be fought out. It is possible that a law may be passed allowing [illegible] to [illegible] property who possess [illegible] a reason[illegible]

This week brings the first of the events of commencement week—the [illegible] banquet and dance of the Killingly High School Alumni association [illegible] evening. The banquet is to be held at the Attawaugan hotel and will be followed by a dance in the assembly hall of the high school building. Every effort is being made to arouse the interest of the graduates of the school in this affair, for in this particular year, with an enlargement

GOVERNMENT'S P. O. SITE UNPOPULAR WITH CITIZENS

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, June 13—There was a special meeting of the directors of the chamber of commerce at three o'clock Saturday afternoon, called at the request of Postmaster Macdonald. He had received a letter from the postoffice department at Washington asking him if the business men and the citizens generally were still opposed to a postoffice building o nthe site owned by the government, at Grove and South Main streets.

The general appropriation bill just passed by congress carries $25,000 for a government building on the land owned by the government and a former appropriation will probably double that amount.

There were about 12 of the directors present including T. H. deCoudres the president. All of them were decidely against the erection of a postoffice on this location.

The statement was made by George L. Padgett, one of the members, that it was not a suitable location for a postoffice, that it would be unfair to three-fourths of the citizens of Putnam to have it there and it would create a feeling of dissatisfaction that would never be effaced; that it would be inconvenient for the business men and a detriment to its business interests; that out of a score of 20 business men to whom he had talked that morning he had found 19 against it and one for it. He added that he would like to see a government building here if a suitable place could be found but that he was unalterably in favor of the present office, now in Union Block in preference to locating it in the Grove street residential district.

Another member said that it would mean a federal monument which could be seen by passengers from a train that it would be a perpetual source of dissatisfaction and expense to the businessmen of the city, that it would pay no revenue in the way of taxes and would mean for a while at least, another empty business room in the heart of the city.

A third speaker declared that he had found the same sentiment among the business men to whom he had talked, that they would like a new, a modern building, if a central location could be secured, otherwise they preferred that the postoffice remain where it now is.

Other members expressed similar views and on motion two committees were appointed, one consisting of Alex Gilman, former postmaster, E. C. Rogers and Charles Seder to see if a centrally located site could be secured for a government building, and another consisting of George L. Padgett, Arthur S. Macdonald and Postmaster Archie Macdonald, to cal on the businessmen o fthe city and secure their views. This latter committee to make a canvass on Monday morning.

FEDERAL ROAD BUILDING

There are many things to be said in behalf of road building. Good roads are a necessity today and are widely sought. But when a state takes care of its own needs, or finds itself pretty well taxed in order to do so, it can hardly realize the idea of digging deeper in order to build roads in other states.

Yet that is what has been done for a number of years and what the few senators opposed when they voted against the federal road bill. How hard it is to upset the prevailing practice is indicated by the one sided vote. But it cannot help being noted with a good deal of satisfaction that Senators McLean and Bingham were among the opponents the latter having championed the opposition on the floor of the senate.

Connecticut has indicated its opposition to such conduct. It was only a short time ago that Governor Trumbull appointed a committee to look into the matter of federal encroachment on state rights. That committee will not be heard from until later when it is expected to have something interesting to tell.

It is no secret that under the plan of federal road appropriations there are states which pay a huge tax and others which pay a very small one. What they get back in the way of federal aid bears no resemblance to it. Some idea of this is furnished by the fact that Connecticut gets back but 2.86 per cent. of what it contributes and in the big state of New York here is a return of but .89 per cent. This is because the funds are distributed among the states which pay the smallest taxes. The big taxpayers among the states not only do their own road building but are obliged to participate in the road building expenditures of other states. This is a practice which works unjustly and which has been extended in various directions too freely. Something along that line is even being sought concerning the income tax.

The opposition shown in the senate to the federal road bill in no way threatened the prevention of its passage but it should serve to concentrate attention upon the undesirability of such a measure.

FROM ELECTRICS TO BUSSES

With the sanction of the court in giving its approval to the petition of the Hartford and Springfield railway lines to cease the running of trolley cars one more electric road quits. The company has been operating against the inevitable. It will give up this week and replace the cars with busses.

It was not so many years ago that there were great expectations from the construction of trolley lines between cities. They held out possibilities for increased trade and added convenience for the traveling public no matter what might be the purpose of their going. Trolley lines have served well for the most part. It was fortunate that some which were projected were never built. Some that were constructed failed to make money. Others and particularly those in the cities, have been money makers and can be expected to continue to do business because they are profitable and because their service is needed by the public.

Where it is impossible for trolley lines to get adequate patronage to make ends meet it is unreasonable to expect them to keep running. Furnishing a service that is not used and which the public doesn't want, if it is possible to judge by the patronage, has a limit and the step taken by the Hartford and Springfield lines is in keeping with expectations.

That it should be permitted to operate busses instead of electrics is the logical outcome of the situation. There as well as elsewhere the busses can be run at less expense and furnish desired accommodations. Even if higher rates should be charged the tendency of the public today is to go by bus, this being true in many instances where the choice lies between the railroad and the bus line. Thus when it comes to changing from one form of transportation to another it is not only right that the trolley line should be permitted to. It should have a chance to recover for the losses that have been sustained in endeavoring to furnish service by electric cars.

BROOKHART REPEATING

It is amusing to note how some of the people of Iowa, some who had been his supporters, are reacting to the statements of Smith Wildman Brookhart. He is credited with having gained the support of many business men and bankers in Iowa through the advocacy of his price fixing ideas. He talked them into siding in his nomination for the senate, and since the primary disclosure he has been doing some public speaking with the result that he has declared before a labor conference that 5 per cent. is a sufficient return on invested capital.

He didn't make known his views on that point before the primary was held and the result is now that the bankers and business men are labeling him a socialist and kicking themselves for being hoodwinked.

But there is no reason why they should blame anyone but themselves. Brookhart is following no different tactics than he has been practicing right along. It was just the same way when he was running for the senate before. He went into the contest at that time as a republican, got the nomination as a republican and then after he had become the nominee he refused to support the republican platform, denounced the administration and openly advocated the policies of LaFollette. That and his subsequent conduct as an insurgent branded him for what he is. Brookhart is playing his own game. He is an opportunist. He says one thing in order to get the desired amount of support at the polls and then he reveals the rest of his views to make himself strong elsewhere.

His proper appraisal seems to have been given at the previous election when the voters turned to a democrat rather than entrust him with their representation in congress. If he has already begun to spill the beans in such a manner as to give the people of Iowa additional enlightenment on his views the voters of that state ought to know what to do with him. Iowa has seen enough of Brookhart to be anxious to send him elsewhere than to Washington.

FLAG DAY

Of Old Glory A. P. Putnam said: "Wherever that flag has gone it has been the herald of a better day—it has been the pledge of freedom, of justice, of order, of civilization and of Christianity. Tyrants only have hated it. All who sigh for the triumphs of righteousness and truth salute and love it."

Probably the most of us feel that some way even though we might not have couched our attitude in the same words. We revere the flag and [illegible] are in too many instances [illegible] ward in displaying it.

In order to stimulate a greater reverence and the see that Old Glory has its proper place among the home loving and patriotic Americans and that it may be duly honored by those who are not Americans but may be some time flag day is fixed for the 14th of June.

As the emblem of the country first raised in the cause of right and liberty, we see it displayed from the schools, public buildings and on certain holidays from the homes. It is also carried in parades, whether they happen to be of a patriotic character or not, but we need to recognize the sacred things for which it stands, the sacrifices which have been made in its behalf and to realize that in order to maintain the benefits which it has brought there should be that reverence at all times which is to be seen on emergencies.

This day is one of the occasions for demonstrations of such reverence and loyalty. It will be emphasized in the schools, for its good effect upon young America, but it is a time for pledging anew our allegiance and strengthening our memories for the national emblem whenever and wherever displayed.

THE KIESS BILL

We are getting to a time in the session of congress when many of the bills are going to be railroaded through or lost in the shuffle.

For a long time it has been evident that political influences have been at work in the Philippines to obstruct the work of the governor general. The insistence has been for independence and in making that fight the Filipinos have not only done their best to discredit General Wood but to minimize his authority in the islands, where previous to his appointment conditions had become deplorable.

Regardless of the needs which exist and the efforts that have been made to direct the island affairs there and been discussed the need of clarifying the laws concerning the auditor of the Philippines in order that there may be no question about the fact that he has the power which he was supposed to have under the existing law. Because the Filipino legislators have sought in several ways to control the auditor, and thereby increase the administrative difficulties of the governor general, the Kiess bill has been introduced and received the approval of the committee on insular affairs in the house. This bill will definitely set forth the auditor's duties and leave no question as to what is expected of him and not leave him in the position of being considered the subject of first one and then another authority.

For that reason it is in the interest of the welfare of all concerned that the straightening out of this situation ought to be done as early as possible, at this session of congress instead of some indefinite future time.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Flag day. If you have one, see that it is thrown to the breeze.

"Melba Triumphs in Last Farewell," says a headline. Now the public will eagerly await the next farwell.

Ponzi has fooled so many people for so long he cannot be expected to discriminate against the authorities.

Fly killing time has come says a report from the Mason and Dixon line, which indicates the season of warm weather may be expected hereabouts within the next two or three months.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Iron rust on marble can be removed by rubbing with lemon juice.

Ammonia and cold water and very little soap will clean matting nicely.

If the cement floor is to be covered with linoleum be sure that it has been waterproof first.

A garbage pail will last twice as long if given a coat of paint on the inside before being used for the first time.

When scissors get blunt sharpen them by opening and moving backwards and forwards on a piece of glass.

Always keep the medicine bottle corked and by replacing the cork the minute you pour your dose you will not lose it.

Tar stains may be removed from cotton fabrics by covering the spot with butter and allowing it to remain for a few hours before washing.

A few flowers growing in an open bowl of water are particularly good in any room because as the water evaporates the dryness disappears from the air.

A breakfast tray of rose color wicker set with a service of old blue pottery is cheerful enough to dispel the gloom of the darkest morning.

From England comes a non-drip teapot of mottled porcelain which has a matching pot for hot water. Both stand on a tray of porcelain.

Fruit is highly recommended as a dessert since it contains an acid that stimulates the flow of an alkaline saliva which helps prevent the decay of the teeth.

To cleanse copper kettles, when they become dull and black-looking, dip half a lemon in salt, and rub it all over the surface. Afterwards wash well in warm water to prevent the acid from eating into the metal and polish with a dry powdered bath brick.

When baking cookies, after they are rolled out and in the pan ready for the oven, sprinkle some of them with coarse sugar, stick raisins in the middle of others, citron in others, and sprinkle remainder with fine cocoanut. This makes quite a variety and is little trouble.

THE DISH RAG

Most housewives are more [illegible] about clean tea towels [illegible] completely forget the lowly dish cloth which really gets all the dirty work to do. It should be washed out after each meal and dried thoroughly before using again.

A NON-SKID FOR THE GRINDER

In these days of enameled and porcelain topped kitchen equipment, we are sometimes at a loss as to where to fasten the meat grinder. A strip of rubber mat or piece of cigar box will protect the table tops and prevent the grinder skidding. Place on the table surface before putting on the chopper

GIVE COLORFUL TOUCH

To provide the necessary bit of color in a neutral-toned room nothing could be more charming than two quaint flower paintings set into oval frames of dull gold.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

If you are spending your vacation in a place where the water is very hard, do not rush your skin, but add a teaspoon of borax to each large basin of water used. This will protect your complexion from any harshness.

The use of strong alkaline soaps and hard water for the shampoo, neglect of brushing and massage and toomuch curling will destroy the beauty of the hair, but even when these abuses are corrected there remains something more to be. Nervousness, worry, sickness, all affect the luster and health of the hair.

It is unwise to take purgatives, regularly or as a part of a self-prescribed treatment or at stated intervals. They irritate within the system, put the digestion out of order, deplete the bodily strength and destroy the whole physical economy, without getting away in the slightest from the tendency to put on flesh.

Every woman has noticed that sometimes her complexion looks smoother and fresher than other times. Physical or mental strain will give her face a drawn, sallow appearance. Hopeless pallor and wrinkles are less [illegible] Lines [illegible] more transparent and [illegible] Remember that no cosmetics can [illegible] Happiness and health are the best [illegible] in the world.

AIDING THE MANICURE

These are gardening days and to prevent tenses of the soil from lingering under the nails, rub the nails well over a cake of soap just before going out to work. This will keep the dirt from working down so far under the nails, and will also make it much easier to clean the nails when the digging in the dirt is finished.

This scheme may also be used to advantage when the children make mud pies. Their little nails are always in a state of grimeless from early spring until late summer, if they are normal sort of children who like to play in the mud. If their nails are packed with soap before hand, the dirt will not [illegible] so firmly imbedded in their nails [illegible] will become a less dreaded task.

EGG ECONOMY

If a cake recipe calls for four eggs and your eggs are scarce, use but three eggs and, in place of the fourth, use one spoonful of cornstarch. Beat eggs and cornstarch together and you can defy anyone to tell the difference.

HARDWOOD FLOORS

Be certain that the hardwood floors are perfectly clean before either waxing or applying shellac. If all stains are not removed they will show up very plainly under the polished surface.

CRISP CELERY

Wilted celery can be crisped by standing it in very cold water, with a little lemon juice added to it.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Some of the polka-dotted crepe frocks are bound with colored ribbon the color of the dot.

The quilted taffeta coat is smart both for day and evening wear, and frequently has a flaming lining.

Black lace is at the height of its popularity, and is quite frequently combined with black or blonde chiffon.

A floating cape or a wide scarf capable of intricate or simple treatment is a part of nearly every formal costume.

Striped and checked taffetas were never so lovely as this season and they have a picturesque quality no other material approximates.

A semi-nude frock of sheer voile is stamped for French knot embroidery and needs only to have the seams stitched to be ready for war.

Jumper frocks and one [illegible] mode to look for this season. Jumper and skirt, are especially smart for the younger women.

Real lace is used this summer in frocks of net and georgette. Yokes of filet and other sorts of lace are used with the georgette frocks.

The pink and black combination continues good, and many summer frocks of black crepe show little vests or cuff facings or other small touches of pink.

Bordered silks are made up very interestingly for summer wear. The border is used around the lower edge of the skirt and the sleeves are so made that the border forms the part from waist to elbow.

And for summer, of course, the evening frock of black lace or net worn over a pink slip is in very good standing.

Polka dots can be effectively used for trimming frocks of plain dark material—blue or black—or the lighter, neutral colors, gray or beige. The polka dots are used for collar and cuff facings, for pockets, for ties and for trimming bands.

TYPES OF SUITS MOST FAVORED

Much has been said of the vogue of the cape ensemble and of the mannish tailleur, with its short, trim jacket and equally short, trim skirt. Both types are seen in considerable numbers at every gathering of smart women. There is, however, another type which as yet is a bit more exclusive and has not been taken up by the general feminine public.

The suit, composed of a coat reaching almost to the hem of the straight skirt, has among its advocates women noted for their keen appreciation of fashion values, and one sees it against a most satisfactory background when it appears on the dock of a trans-Atlantic liner.

As a rule, suits of this type are made of novelty tweeds in the new geometric and tapestry designs, and their soft-toned hues are set off by a shawl collar of fur in a harmonizing tone.

ODD CORSAGES

Millinery departments are showing little animal [illegible] corsages on sheer frocks. These odd little chenille dogs, cats or elephants are made in eccentric combinations of colors.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES

Rub your hands with talcum powder before crocheting or [illegible] string [illegible] yarn. [illegible]

[illegible] rust from pucker[illegible] when sewing it on the machine put strips of newspaper under it and sew right on both material and paper. The paper is easily removed and a smooth seam results.

Children's [illegible] gingham dresses make lovely aprons to wear over the school frock, or while at play. The sleeves can be cut out, the armholes enlarged, and the neck cut low. Bind the armholes and neck with ready-made bias folds or rick rack braid.

When making [illegible] for little boys the clothes of their elders it is worth while to buy a couple of yards of very thin new goods and line the small garments. They will last as long again if this is done, whereas without such reinforcements often they hardly repay the work put into them.

RUNNING RIBBON

When running ribbon through a garment start [illegible] the centre of the carrying [illegible] and run it through from there in each direction. It means less handling of the ribbon and in consequence a better looking job.

CARING FOR POLISHED FURNITURE

Daily dusting is not sufficient to keep highly polished furniture in good condition. This is necessary, of course, but, in addition, an occasional polishing is valuable for covering up scratches and mars before they become too large to be remedied without refinishing the surface.

Rather frequent treatment with a small arount of polish is easier and more satisfactory than the old habit of twice a year vigorous polishing.

The method suggested below for keeping furniture in good condition is more of a preventive measure than a restorative. If this treatment is followed every week or so, the wood will rarely need any more strenuous application of polish.

Put in a closed jar one tablespoon of any good furniture polish and a soft woolen cloth large enough for dusting. Jersey or flannel is the best material for absorbing the polish. Every week dust the polished furniture carefully with this cloth.

After dusting, wash the cloth in warm suds, using a mild soap to prevent shrinking and hardening of the woolen fibre. Dry the cloth thoroughly and replace in the jar with fresh polish.

CONCERNING WOMEN

The Grand Duchess Marie, cousin of the late Czar Nicholas of Russia, runs an embroidery shop in Paris.

Miss Helen G. Smith, postmistress of Mohawk, Mich., is the youngest postmistress in the United States.

In addition to being known as one of the foremost women journalists in Canada, Miss E. Cora Hind of Winnipeg, has a reputation extending far and wide as an authority on all matters pertaining to agriculture, livestock and grain testing.

Pennsylvania's first woman fire warden, Miss Lillian S. Sheffer of Bellefonte, is a mere slip of a girl. A pet wolf is her constant companion.

Queen Mary of England is an expert gardener and personally looks after the gardens at Buckingham palace.

Mrs. Sarah B. Bradway, who recently celebrated her 105th birthday in her home at Eastford, Conn., has never had a motorcar or train ride.

Senorita Ernestina E. Calles, young daughter of President Calles of Mexico, hopes to become a successful aviatrix.

Representing the Allied Patriotic societies of the boro the Chiropean will, on May 25, send a delegation to the Naturalization court to welcome the new citizens and on May 27 [illegible] festival and, composed of members of Del Gra de Chapter, D. A. R., and the New England Society will attend the exercises. The Colonial Dames will be on hand May 18 and 20.

LESS MENDING

Snap the clasps together before putting the garment through the wringer. This will avert crushing and breaking

TO CHOP CITRON

If you have trouble cutting citron, place it in the oven for a short time. It will soften and will cut as easily as fresh fruit.

RECIPES

Boston Brown Bread: One cup of rye meal, 1 cup of cornmeal, 1 cup of graham flour, 1 teaspoon of salt, 3-4 cup molasses, 2 cups of sour milk with 3-4 tablespoon soda, 1 3-4 cups of sweet milk with 3 teaspoons of baking powder. Mix and sift dry ingredients, add milk and molasses and stir until well mixed. Place in a covered greased mold and steam 2 1-2 hours or steam in small cups for 1 hour.

Banana Whip: Crush 6 bananas and beat in 3 tablespoons of sugar. Fold in the beaten whites of two eggs and put into sherbet glasses with several small pieces of pineapple in the bottom of each. Chill and serve with whipped cream. Canned consomme soup may be satisfactorily used and served with slices of lemon. Remember to cook your roast just 14 minutes to the pound unless you wish it well done, then 15 to 16, and for your watercress use the French dressing recipe I gave you for lettuce supreme, without the cheese.

The Stars and Stripes

The American flag is among the oldest of national flags.

The Stars and Stripes was permanently planted in Alaska, at Sitka, Oct. 18, 1867.

The Stars and Stripes was first officially saluted by a foreign government on Feb. 14, 1778.

The Stars and Stripes was first unfurled in battle on the banks of the Brandywine, Sept. 11, 1777.

The Stars and Stripes was first carried around the world by the ship "Columbia," of Salem, Mass., in 1790.

The idea of an annual celebration of American Flag day was originated by Professor George Balch of New York city.

The Stars and Stripes was first carried across the frontier into Germany by the American army of occupation, Nov. 14, 1918.

The first display of the national flag at a military post was at Fort Schuyler, on the site of the present city of Rome, N. Y., on August 3, 1777.

"Old Glory" was first applied to the United States flag in 1831 by William Driver, a sailing captain of Salem, Mass., who died in Nashville, Tenn., in 1886.

The high school of New Bedford, Mass., was the first public school in the country to raise the American flag over the schoolhouse, which it did on May 11, 1861.

The Stars and Stripes was first carried into action on a European battlefield by Gunner William H. Clany, of the Royal field artillery of Canada, at Vimy Ridge, in 1917.

During the Revolution the flag had 13 stars; in the War of 1812, 15; in the Mexican war, 29; in the Civil war, 35; in the Spanish-American war, 45; and in the World war, 48.

On April 4, 1818, congress passed an act reducing the number of stripes in the national flag to 13, and increasing the number of stars to represent at all times the number of states.

The Stars and Stripes was first hoisted over a foreign stronghold June 28, 1778, when Captain Rathbone of the American sloop of war "Providence," captured Fort Nassau, on the Bahama Islands.

Captain Paul Jones was the first man to display the American flag on an American vessel. This flag was made by the women of Portsmouth, N. H., for the "Ranger," which was fitted out at Portsmouth for Captain Jones.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Taxpayers Need Some Consideration

Mr. Editor: I noted with interest that Burdened claims that our police are already getting more money than the police of New London. While that is true a look about the state shows that Norwich also compares favorably with other cities of its size and that the police here work but eight hours.

In Ansonia the police get $5.50 for ten hours. In Bristol they are required to work nine hours at 65 cents an hour. In Meriden the pay is $6 a day for nine hours. It is $5.50 a day in Norwalk, $5 a day of nine hours in Torrington and $1,800 a year in Middletown where nine hours are required.

In most of the cities the firemen receive similar pay although in Ansonia there are no paid men, in New London only the drivers are paid and Torrington has a call department.

Because it has become a habit to ask for increased pay every little while neither means it is justified nor that it should be voted. There is need once in a while of showing a bit of mercy to the taxpayer. We have a whale of a tax which most cities are not saddled with.

But regardless of the demands for big expenditures and the tax which we have, nearly five per cent. we can expect to see it kited still higher unless the people get out and emphatically say no.

CITIZEN

Norwich, June 12, 1926.

Thinks People Are Helpless

Mr. Editor: It is amusing to hear the wails of Taxpayer, Justice and Burdened in their letters in your valued paper about taxation.

In my opinion they should have started at the city election but the majority that voted elected the same people that have run the money you have given them and as much more as they saw fit and called it an overdraft to be added to the so called floating debt for you to pay.

You go to the polls and vote for them or stay at home and don't vote at all and then whine at the results. They are there for the next two years and the results will probably be the same as the past two years and it is up to you to pay the bills to the value of your little homes.

In regard to more pay for the policemen and firemen is it any worse for them to ask for it than it was for these same city fathers to raise their own salaries? How about the mayor's increase from $1,000 to $2,500 a year for one hour each working day in the year, about $8 an hour and the rest of the time for his private business.

Gentlemen, it don't make any difference what you give them at the city meeting, it is the over draft and you can't stop them.

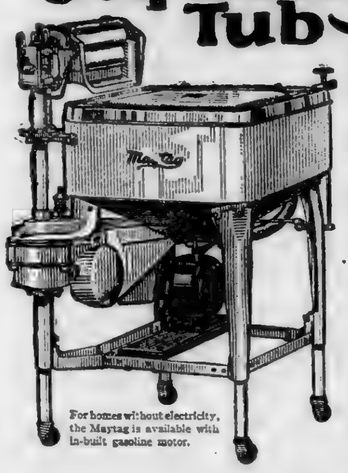
Self Cleaning Tub



For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor.

1 Washes faster.
2 Washes cleaner.
3 Largest hourly capacity. Tub holds 21 gallons.
4 Most compact washer made—takes floor space only 25 inches square.
5 Cast aluminum tub—can't warp, rot, swell, split nor corrode—cleans itself.
6 Easily adjusted to your height.
7 Clothes can be put in or taken out with the washer running.
8 All metal wringer. Self adjusting. Instant tension-release.
9 Electric motor for wired homes—Gasoline motor where no electricity is available.

THE Maytag heat-retaining, satin-smooth, cast-aluminum tub cleans itself inside, in 30 seconds after the washing is done. Just lower the attached drainhose to allow the water to run off—then throw in a bucket of fresh water—run the washer a few seconds and the tub is clean—ready for next washday. The Maytag tub is life-lasting because the cast-aluminum cannot warp, rust, rot, split nor corrode. It keeps pleasingly sweet and clean—and positively sanitary.

Try the Maytag. Do a week's washing in your own home at our expense. Then you will know quicker washdays. See big tubfuls washed spotlessly clean in 3 to 7 minutes. Remember—if the Maytag doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

OBITUARY

George H. Smith

Following a short illness, George H. Smith, 65, died Saturday morning at his home, No. 105 Roosevelt avenue. He was born in Worcester, in 1861, and came to Norwich about 30 years ago. Since coming to Norwich Mr. Smith had been employed by the U. S. Finishing company. About ten years ago he was united in marriage with Anna Wolfnesberger. He was well known in Greeneville and was highly esteemed by his many friends.

Surviving are his wife and five children, Georgianna M., Lillian, Henrietta, John W. and Susie M. Smith, all of this city.

James F. Sharvan

James F. Sharvan, 60, of West Main street, died in this city Saturday night about 11:30 o'clock, following an illness of about a week. Mr. Sharvan was stricken with a heart attack while on his way home about a week ago and was taken to the W. W. Backus hospital. He failed to rally, death overtaking him Saturday night.

Mr. Sharvan was born in Norwich and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sharvan. He had always resided in this city, following his trade as a stove moulder for years. He was a member of St. Patrick's parish. Surviving are two brothers, John Sharvan of Providence and Thomas Sharvan of No. 30 Cliff street, this city. There are also a nephew, William Sharvan, and three nieces, Miss May Sharvan, Mrs. Lloyd Ethier of this city and Mrs. Margaret Malone of Providence.

Mr. Sharvan was widely known throughout the city and the sympathy of many warm friends is extended the family in their bereavement.

WEDDINGS

Evans—Erwin

The wedding of Miss Amelia May Erwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Erwin of 279 Central avenue, and John Thomas Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Evans of 102 Smith avenue, took place in St. Andrew's Episcopal church Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. John Rees Jones officiated and the best man was Andrew Peterson.

The bride wore white crepe de chine trimmed with real rose point lace. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and garland. The bridal rose was caught up with orange blossoms. She was given in marriage by her father.

The maid of honor, the cousin of the bride, Miss Rose Alber of Willimantic, wore turquoise blue georgette with silver lace trimming with hat to match.

The ushers were Albert Evans and Charles Erwin Jr. A reception in the guild hall followed the service, covers being laid for 25 guests. The church was beautifully decorated with peling, daisies and snow balls by the Girls' Friendly society of which the bride is a member. Mr. and Mrs. Evans are both active in church work.

During the evening they left for Atlantic City and Philadelphia, where they will visit the sesquicentennial exposition. On their return they will reside in a newly purchased home at 96 Smith avenue. They will be at home to their friends after Aug. 1.

Invitations are being sent to several hundred prominent women throughout the state to attend the ball over the signature of Mrs. Trumbull. Admission to the ball will be complimentary to those persons who attend the convention of the state chamber.

GAS & ELECTRIC NET PROFIT FOR YEAR TO APRIL 30 WAS $121,003.28

A net profit of $121,003.28 for the year up to April 30, 1926 in the city gas and electrical department is shown in the 21st annual report of the department which has just been made to the mayor and common council by the commissioners, James L. Case, president; Samuel Goldberg, vice president; Jeremiah A. Desmond, secretary, Joseph P. Connor and William H. Cruickshank.

For Wiping Out Debt

General Manager C. W. Taggart, in his annual report includes a plan for wiping out by 1952 the city's funded debt thus far made by the gas and electrical department.

Commissioners' Report

The commissioners' report is as follows:

The board of gas and electrical commissioners beg to submit herewith an annual report of the operations of the department for the year ending April 30, 1926.

The results are exceedingly gratifying, and a careful study of the report of General Manager Taggart, to the commissioners, attached hereto, and made a part of this report, is respectfully suggested.

A net profit of $121,003.28, recorded in the financial statement, is particularly gratifying, when business conditions are taken into account, and also the fact that a substantial reduction in the gas rates which were effected during the year. The sum of $40,000 was added to the bond sinking funds, making a total now on hand of $148,-699.23.

For the first time in the history of the department a portion of the net earnings for any one year was paid into the city treasury for general expense purposes: $40,000 being the amount.

Because of many expressions of approval of the benefit to the city of the new white way, the commissioners had hoped to be able to extend this service during the year. It was, however, impossible to complete the necessary arrangements with cooperating companies, in order to carry out such a plan, but ways and means have now been provided for such an extension during the coming year.

The opening of a home service department, under the supervision of an efficient instructor, in the person of Miss Miss Grace Peckham, was most favorably received by the women of the community. We believe that there is an opportunity for the development of this particular service which will prove beneficial to the department not only from an income producing standpoint, but to the home makers of our community as well.

The number of electric meters now installed has reached a total of 7225, and in addition thereto, 4718 gas meters [illegible]

The accounts of the department were audited by Mr. M. E. Jensen, [illegible] under his supervision all business records have been carefully checked from week to week, in a most satisfactory and efficient manner.

The commissioners are constantly endeavoring to render a greater service to the community, and at the present time, two very important developments are under consideration which, if found practical and feasible, will be of great benefit to the citizens at large.

More than two miles and a half of gas mains were laid during the year and 42,000 was spent on the electrical distribution system.

The present condition of the property is in a most satisfactory condition, and improvements and extensions are being made as rapidly as conditions warrant.

General Manager's Report

General Manager Taggart makes the following report:

After charging off operating expense, interest on bonds and writing off depreciation, as required by statute, there remains a surplus of $121,-003.28 from the year's operation.

Sinking Fund

During the past year $40,000 has been placed in the sinking fund. This, with the interest earned gives a total of [illegible] In addition to this there is carried a reserve fund of $2,-027.33. This should be transfered to the general sinking fund, thus making a total of $150,217.50 with which to care for bonds as they become due. We have included in our estimate for the year the sum of $40,000 as an addition to this fund.

[illegible] for your consideration in [illegible] for the department [illegible] become due. The [illegible] that when the [illegible] during [illegible] mortgage [illegible] July 1, 1927 that we have [illegible] funds in the general [illegible] a portion of these [illegible] $300,000 which [illegible] refunded. The plan [illegible] renewing these [illegible] years, these [illegible] become due in 1952 and [illegible] twenty-one (21) annual [illegible] to care for these [illegible]

The [illegible] due in April 1951 [illegible] issued by the city for the [illegible] in order that [illegible] at maturity it will require an [illegible] payment to the general sinking fund of $44,285.72. This may be more than the department can stand, but it is a mark which should be aimed for and every effort made to set aside each year this amount. From that time on up to 1952 the amount required to meet bonds becoming due at that date would be comparatively small, approximately $4,000 to take care of the $300,000 which would be refunded in 1927, and $4,075 on the 1952 fund, making a total of $12,573 for these years. The years 1951 and 1952 would require but $8,498.

This plan as set up, you will note, wipes out fully the city's funded debt thus far made for the gas and electrical department.

Plant Improvement

During the past year we have added in the gas plant a new Connersville meter for recording gas make, and have equipped our 6'6" set with a Steere Engineering company back run. This new equipment increases the gas making capacity and gives the machines a greater efficiency.

From time to time for a year we have discussed the need of additional gas holder storage capacity, this is a matter which should be given your very immediate attention.

Ornamental Lighting System

This system will be extended during the present year by the installation of about thirty (30) additional units on Franklin street, extending from Franklin square to the vicinity of Chestnut Street.

The necessary amount of work has been done during the past year to ascertain the condition of the underground structures of the various utilities in the city. The work will be carried on as usual under the direction of the same committee that has had the matter in charge during the past two years.

General

During the past year we have organized a home Service Department. This department has apparently been very well received by the public, the classes have been well attended. Three classes are conducted each week and at the present time we are organizing a class at the St. Joseph's community house. The benefits to be derived are entirely free and it is our hope that the citizens of Norwich will avail themselves of the service we are able to give them in this way. The work in this department is under the direction of Miss Gladys L. Peckham who came to us from Providence.

The success of the public utility is greatly dependent upon the loyalty of its employes in their work, the good will of the people and the cooperation of all interested. I trust that the present fine spirit will continue, as it becomes more necessary as the business expands and our problems increase.

I wish to take this opportunity to express my appreciation to the present Board of Gas and Electrical Commissioners, as well as to those who have served on the commission in the past, and to the city officials for the support they have given in my work.

FORMER STATE POLICEMAN PLACED UNDER ARREST

Giles Watson, who was recently discharged from the state police force, having been stationed at the Groton barracks, was arrested in this city Sunday afternoon by State Policemen Watrous and Caron. No entry was made against him on the book at police headquarters but it was understood that he is charged with securing money under false pretenses.

WHY CATHOLICS VENERATE SACRED HEART OF JESUS

Preaching at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday, Rev. Myles P. Galvin considered the practice of devoting the month of June to special devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus, just as May is set aside for especial consideration of the attributes and virtues and example of the Mother of Christ. The spread of devotion to the Sacred Heart of Our Divine Lord is due, of course, to the fact that, while the, Redeemer had a human heart during His earthly ministry, it is as the Second Person of the Blessed Trinity that Catholics venerate Him and that His heart becomes the symbol of boundless love for man. This devotion has spread about the globe more particularly since the saintly Blessed Margaret Mary, in her vision of Christ, was enjoined to foster this special love for the heart which stands for the fountainhead of life—of that blood which was shed for all mankind.

In all nations the heart is considered the symbol of love. God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son for the redemption of men. The Son who gave His life asks but one thing in return—"Friend, give me your heart." And how is this heart's love to be given? "If you love me, keep my commandments." In a word, put love into action. Not all those who cry, "Lord, Lord," are to gain the kingdom of Heaven. Protests, professions, mean nothing, without actual practice. "Those who have done the will of My Father" are the Christians who are designated as the ones showing true love. The preacher exhorted his great congregation not to let their love for the Sacred Heart end with mere professions; but to make this month of June a renewal period for putting into execution in their lives and works that ardent love for Christ which will find its manifestation in obedience to the commands of God and practical charity toward men, for the love of God.

The epistle for the Sunday was I. Peter, V. 6-11 and the gospel Luke XV. 1-10, the parable of the lost sheep and the lost goat. Following the great total of week end confessions Father Galvin assisted Rev. John J. Reilly, who had read the low mass, in administering holy communion, with the words, in Latin, "Accept penitent May the body of Our Lord Jesus Christ preserve your soul to life everlasting. Amen." The singing of the Junior choir was directed by Organist Henry J. LaFontaine. As the date was the feast day of St. Anthony of Padua, altar hangings and vestments were green and gold.

CHILDREN'S DAY HELD AT THIRD BAPTIST CHURCH

An attractive programme in honor of children's day was given at the Third Baptist church, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The church was decorated with laurel, daisies, iris and other flowers. Mrs. Herbert I. Peckham and Mrs. Henry R. Sebastian were in charge of the programme and Mrs. William Lund presided at the piano. The programme, as announced by Superintendent Henry R. Sebastian, was as follows:

Each one attending carried a lunch. Mrs. Mitchell serving ice cream, cake and ginger ale. The children spent a delightful afternoon, boating, bathing and fishing.

WIFE TO GET MONEY TO PAY HUSBAND'S FINE

Joseph Gelinas, 32, New York city, was presented before Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Saturday morning, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The case was continued until Tuesday morning to allow time for his wife, who was traveling with him when he was arrested, to return to New York city and raise money to pay the fine that will be imposed on him. He said he had $35 with him. The fine, it is understood, will be $200 and costs.

Gelinas, when his case is disposed of here, will face trial in Jewett City for fraud. He was arrested here Friday evening at the request of Sheriff John Dolan of Jewett City who has a warrant for him. The warrant was left at police headquarters here and will be served on him after his case is disposed of in the local court.

Called for Chimney Fire

Burning soot in a chimney at the home of Joseph Panek on the Canterbury turnpike called out the Taftville company, No. 2, Sunday noon. Ten gallons of chemical were used to extinguish the blaze. There was no damage.

Recovering From Injuries

Fireman Harry K. Blackburn of No. 36 Pearl street is recovering from injuries received while at a chimney fire several days ago. Mr. Blackburn had just passed a full chemical tank up a ladder and was about to receive an empty tank in return when the tank slipped and fell on his left foot.

CORBIN RED SOX AND MERIDEN ENDEES FALL UNDER SHARP RIVERVIEW ATTACK

Playing in top form and getting hits when needed, the Riverview club chalked up two victories over the week end, defeating the Corbin Red Sox on Saturday at the Hospital grounds, 5 to 1 and winning 12 to 9 over the Endees of Meriden on the latter's home field on Sunday.

Fieles, a newcomer to the Riverview club, was on the mound in the Corbin Red Sox game and displayed wonderful form allowing but five hits for a single tally, the lone counter coming in the second inning when Huband tripled and scored on Snyder's single.

Riverview began its scoring in the first when Liberty doubled and scored on Mills' single. This ended all scoring until the fourth inning when Fieles put his own game away. With two out Farrell was passed and Belair singled, both men scoring on a double by Fieles, who later scored on a single by Normandin. The final tally came in the eighth when Farrell was again passed with two out and scored from first on a Texas leaguer by Belair, which was slowly handled by Smith. The score:

Hit by pitcher, by Fieles (Hall). Passed ball, Belair. Umpires, Hall and Hickey. Time, 1 hour 40 minutes.

In Sunday's game at Meriden the Riverview club had an easy time with the Endees. West being in top form and allowing his opponents but three hits. The Endees never threatened seriously although they managed to get men on bases in the first, sixth, seventh and ninth innings. West kept his hits well scattered, one in the first and sixth by Dwyer, the third in the last inning by Slater. Normandin in the seventh stopped the biggest bid for a score when he picked a liner near second and doubled Slater.

As in Saturday's game, Riverview scored in the first when Mills doubled to score Normandin who had singled ahead of him. In the second two more runs came in when Harrell, Belair and West, first three batsmen, found Cygan for doubles. West sailed the game away for Riverview in the sixth with a two-run circuit clout bounded for three runs. Two more came in the seventh on singles by Normandin and Belair and a two-bagger. The score:

FIVE HUNDRED EXPECTED TO TRY FOR NATIONAL TITLE

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP)—Leading golfers throughout the country, amateur and professional, tomorrow will start on a long journey that may lead one of them to the national open title won at Worcester, Mass., last year by Willie MacFarlane after 36 holes of playoff against the amateur champion, Bobby Jones.

There will be only one day of qualifying with courses in 14 widespread sections of the country being utilized. More than 600 players are expected to make the 36-hole rounds. Last year the men qualified in only four parts of the country, which brought heavy expenses without return to those who failed to meet requirements.

MALCEWICZ AND LEWIS TO MEET AT BRAVES FIELD

INDIANS MAKE IT TWO STRAIGHT FROM ATHLETICS

CLEVELAND, O., June 13.—(AP)—Ohio held Philadelphia to two hits today and Cleveland made it two straight by winning 4 to 1. In the fifth inning Hale made Philadelphia's first hit, a double that was the big factor in the Athletics escaping a shutout, as Poole drew a pass just ahead of the two base hit. Lamar little with Willis and nothing the ninth.

Cleveland knocked Gray out of the box in the first inning, but could do little with Willis and not did nothing with Pate.

Shortstop Galloway, of the Athletics was spiked and retired in favor of Engle, a young shortstop from North Carolina.

HOME RUNS FEATURE IN YANKS WIN OVER BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, June 13.—(AP)—Plowing out homers in the fifth inning, just when the New York Yankees needed them most, scoring a man apiece ahead of them, the New Yorkers' 6 to 5 victory over St. Louis Browns today was credited to Gehrig and Lazzeri. The Browns were leading 2 to 1 when Gehrig came to bat and drove the pellet out into the centerfield stands. The score:

GIANTS BREAK LOSING STREAK AND BEAT REDS

NEW YORK, June 13.—(AP)—The New York Nationals broke their losing streak here today by defeating the league leading Cincinnati club by a score of 10 to 3 in the first game of the series.

Meusel was responsible for five of the New York runs. He drove in three and scored two, while Ross Young stole three bases.

The Giants found the four Cincinnati pitchers easy, getting 14 hits for 21 bases. The defeat for Cincinnati brought the Pittsburgh Nationals who were idle to within a game and a half of the leaders. The score:

CHICAGO CUBS BEATEN BY BROOKLYN IN FIRST GAME

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 13.—(AP)—Burleigh Grimes weakened in the ninth inning here today but Jess Petty pulled Brooklyn out of a hole and the Chicago Cubs were beaten in their first 1926 appearance at Ebbets field. The score was 6 to 5.

George Milstead, Chicago southpaw was the victim of all three runs rallies. He was knocked out of the box in the second inning and Osborn and Blake finished the game.

Grimes was in constant trouble but managed to escape much punishment. Chicago runners were left stranded in every inning but one. Score:

WARRIORS TAKE MEASURE OF FORT WRIGHT, SCORE 2 TO 1

The Warriors came back strong from their recent slump when they went to Elkins Island Sunday and defeated the Fort Wright team, 2 to 1 in a tight contest. The game was a pitching duel between Couture of the locals and Novitsky of the soldiers, with the former having slightly the better of the arguments.

The feature of the day was furnished by Leo Hamel of the locals when he speared the ball in short left field after a long run cutting off a threatening rally. Leo Morin also Kampf also played a nice fielding game.

Lynn at shortstop and Parliamento at first were the mainstays for the Fort Wright team.

AMERICAN TENNIS TEAM INVADING ENGLAND FOR WIGHTMAN CUP TOURNEY

PARIS, June 13.—(AP)—Vincent Richards and Howard Kinsey finished up a fortnight's tennis at the Racing club by carrying off today the doubles title in the international hard courts championships. They won it through the defeat of Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, the French pair, in a four-set match, 6-4, 6-1, 4-6, 6-4. Incidentally they are the first Americans who were ever successful in the challenge round of the French international event.

The other final in today's series, the women's doubles, went to Mlle Lenglen and Didi Alonso, who easily defeated Mrs. L. A. Godfree and Miss Joan Colyer, of England, 6-1, 6-1.

Kinsey had his share of ill luck, as well as good luck, when with Miss Elizabeth Ryan, he was eliminated in the mixed doubles by Mr. and Mrs. Godfree.

He started in this match within ten minutes after the finals of the men's doubles and was too tired to carry the attack along.

Showers fell throughout the day, spoiling much of the enjoyment of another large crowd that came out for the events. It halted the doubles at the end of the second set for a time, and again, when Miss Ryan and Kinsey were playing the Godfrees they were forced to flee the courts to avoid a deluge. Only the marvelous drainage of the centre court made play possible.

Richards and Kinsey led almost throughout against Cochet and Brugnon; only in the third set, which they lost 4-6, were they pressed. Then the Americans softened for a time and served daintily shots right on to the racquet of Cochet who was waiting at the net to kill them.

In the first, second and last sets, however, Richards and Kinsey were easily masters of the Frenchmen and managed to keep the dangerous Cochet at a safe distance from the net most of the time; they even had him netting their drives at a good rate.

The American team, through with play here, will leave tomorrow for England where Richards and Kinsey will meet the British stars at East Bourne in an international match. The American women will play in the Wightman cup tourney at Wimbledon.

The finals in the men's singles will be fought out tomorrow afternoon between Rene Lacoste and Cochet.

CORBIN RED SOX DEFEAT J. B. MARTIN CLUB, 5 TO 2

At the J. B. Martin field Sunday afternoon the Corbin Red Sox of New Britain defeated the Velvet men 5 to 2 in a game filled with action. Heavy hitting by the Red Sox accounted for their runs but until the sixth inning the game was tight.

Finding Lemieux in the sixth the lock-makers pounded the ball and tucked away the game when they piled up four runs. Burr, pitching for the New Britain team, held the J. B. Martin team to eight hits which were well scattered and failed to figure in the scoring to any extent.

J. Murphy and W. Gley led the attack for the velvet men, while Smith of the Red Sox featured with three hits.

Next Sunday the attraction at the J. B. Martin grounds will be the fast Amherst Collegians. There was a large attendance at Sunday's game. The score:

OCEAN BEACH BOOZE JOINT KEEPER FINED IN NEW LONDON CITY COURT

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 13.—The police are determined that no liquor shall be sold at Ocean Beach or in its vicinity. The task is one that will require their best efforts, but they have set out to give that consideration to cleaning things up where they are satisfied they should be cleaned out. They raided one place Friday night and arrested the proprietress and charged her with violation of the prohibition law in selling, and they also took into custody half a dozen chief petty officers, who had rooms there. The place was called disorderly and on that charge the woman was prosecuted and fined, as were the chiefs, as frequenters of the place. All pleaded guilty when in court.

The detection was brought about through the activities of the Bridgman detective agency, at the head of which is an old-time state policeman, Mr. Bridgman. One of his officers secured a key to the place from a frequenter there and with it a couple of Bridgman officers entered. Cocktails made from gin and whiskey were being served and were on the tables in front of the guests or roomers. These were seized by members of the local police, who followed the Bridgman officers. Some of the cocktails had not been touched while others had been partially consumed. The evidence was so complete that there was no chance for escape.

Isabel Lewis, 50, was the proprietress of the place, at 149 Bentley avenue. Mrs. Lewis was fined $200 and given a 30-days suspended jail sentence on each of two counts charging her with the sale of liquor and with keeping liquor with intent to sell and a fine of $100 and a suspended jail sentence of 30 days on a charge of keeping a disorderly house. The frequenters, including one woman, were each fined $10 without costs. The frequenters, according to the police records were James Murphy of the submarine base, Rena O. Ring, Pawtucket, R. I., James Smith, submarine base, James Sullivan, 285 Bank street, Frank Porta, Hartford, Frank Sparks submarine base, and Ralph Whitmore, 285 Bank street.

A couple of negroes were fined $200 each for selling on the street. They carried bottles to serve the thirsty, and among the latter they supplied a couple of the Bridgman agency employes. When what goes for gin can be sold for $2 and $2.50 a pint, there seems to be an inducement to make the easy money.

The operators of the Fournier house on Bank street also fell victims of the Bridgman agency, for they are accused of having sold to the officers on different occasions. They were not put on trial as they asked for delay that they might secure counsel. This was granted and the cases went over till the 21st.

Henry Gavitt was charged with selling bottles of liquor and he will come to trial on the 21st also.

The effort to clean up the beach has not been abandoned, it is claimed, it will be resumed whenever circumstances appear to warrant activities in that direction. Rumor has it that there is need of police supervision in that section. The maintenance of the beach is an expensive proposition for the city and the purpose is to maintain it as a resort which can be safely patronized by people in general. It has always been represented that there was not amusement enough at the beach, but the police department and the prosecutor do not propose to permit amusement there that is not legitimate.

SAILOR'S BODY FLOATING NEAR MOUTH OF HARBOR

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 13.— The sea gave up its dead Saturday when the body of William Patterson, 18, a sailor attached to the United States coast guard service, local section base, No. 6, state pier, was found floating in the Thames river, near the mouth of the harbor. The body was buried in the military plot in Cedar Grove cemetery Saturday afternoon. Patterson's home was in Staten Island, N. Y.

Patterson was drowned May 5 while attempting to crawl hand over hand from a hawser attached to patrol boat 188, which was towing a suspected rum-runner to New York. As the patrol boat reached a point off the former Groton Iron works, Patterson lost his hold and fell into the water. It is believed that the boat being towed struck the sailor on the head for the body was not observed by the crew of the patrol boat to come to the surface, although the patrol boat remained in the vicinity a considerable length of time in the hope of recovering the body. Saturday morning when a fisherman, bound from the fishing grounds in the sound was on his way into the harbor, he sighted the body and as it was clad in sailor uniform the fisherman notified the coast guard authorities at the pier. Patrol boat 234 was dispatched to make a search for the body and located in but a short distance from where the fisherman had reported seeing it floating.

Sol Ockoneff has sold a house and lot on Tilley street to Barbara Hoops.

The master of the Norwegian steamer, Nordstrand, unloading a cargo at the state pier, reported to the police Saturday afternoon that two members of his crew had deserted and requested that if the men were found in New London they be arrested. The deserters are Bryzull Helgesen, 26, and Arne Madsen, 27.

William D. Hovey, 82, died Saturday morning at the residence of his son-in-law, James N. Sterry, 19 Prospect street. Mr. Hovey had been in feeble health for some time and had been confined to his home for several weeks. He was for many years employed as timekeeper by the Cortichelli silk company and was a member of the board of directors of the Methodist church.

John Craddock of Noank; Miss Emma Fendler, 46 Colman street; Mrs. Edgar Kierstead and infant daughter, 17 Masonic street; Miss Dorothy Whitmarsch, Mystic; Donald Harwood, 256 Ocean avenue; Miss Mary Murphy, Saybrook; Mrs. Lucien Parsons, 13 Manwaring street and Mrs. Leander Barstow and infant son, 27 Water street, Stonington, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

It is known that Dr. George E. Bradford, veteran physician, whose death occurred from heart disease several days ago and whose body was buried in Keene, N. H., Saturday, was possessed of considerable wealth. It is also known that he left a will and that instrument will be admitted to probate, it is expected, during the present week. It is understood that the bulk of the possessions of the physician will go to his widow, but a considerable sum will be distributed to numerous beneficiaries. What the estate will inventory is not known.

Eugene Sullivan, 28, of 76 Harrison street, and Bernon Mozingo, 20, a sailor attached to the U. S. S.-1, submarine base, engaged in a fight on Main street, near Douglass street, late Saturday night. Both were arrested by Patrolman Frank Philopena, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. They will be presented in the police court Monday morning. Sullivan and Mozingo obtained sureties on their respective bonds of $50 for their appearance in court.

Howard Oram, proprietor of the New London Cylinder Grinding Machine company, Mill street, has complained to the police because of the practice of youths smashing windows in the establishment, several windows having been broken within a few days.

John Pullin, carpenter, residing on North Bank street, will be in the police court Monday morning charged with intoxication. He was arrested Saturday night by Sergeant Samuel Rick, who found Pullin staggering about North Bank street. Pullin was in the police court June 1 charged with intoxication and committing a nuisance. He received at the time a fine of $10 with the execution suspended six months.

Mrs. Hannah Sheridan, widow of William J. Sheridan, formerly of New London, died Saturday at the residence of her daughter, Miss Esther Sheridan, New York and with whom Mrs. Sheridan had made her home for several years, ever since her husband's death. She is survived by another daughter, Mrs. Catherine Lewnett of New Haven, and by two sons, William Sheridan, of New York, and John J. Sheridan of this city

An automobile owned by Olaf F. Dietrich, a sailor attached to the United States coast guard destroyer Mojave, state pier, was stolen from its place of parking on Green street last night. The police at Norwich, Westerly, New Haven, Hartford and Middletown, as well as the state police at Canterbrook and Groton, were requested to be on the lookout for the stolen automobile, which has Connecticut, N-7837.

Louis A. Rounds, 425 Montauk avenue, complained to the police Saturday night because of lower thefts at his residence. Mr. Rounds stated that several times lately during the day thieves have entered his premises during the absence of members of the family and stolen flowers.

Louis Schwartz, 405 Williams street, made a complaint to the police late Saturday afternoon that some one had smashed the iron cover to a coal-hole in front of his residence and that it was apparent that the destruction of the cover was done maliciously.

The manhole on Williams street, near Main street, was smashed Saturday night by a heavy vehicle passing over it. The police were notified of the danger spot and a red lantern was placed beside the opening so as to warn autoists of the existing danger. A new cover was placed on the manhole today by city employes.

Another flock of sheep on the farm of John Ackley, at Groton, was attacked by two or three dogs Saturday night and as a result 13 of the sheep were killed. Several nights ago 12 of the animals were killed by the dogs, one of which was slain by Ackley. The dog was of the German police type, powerfully built. The loss Ackley has suffered is estimated at close to $1,100. Commissioner of Domestic Animals Howard Elliott, Hartford and state police officers from Groton barracks are conducting an investigation.

Louis Palau of Essex was arrested last night by Constables Fred Peabody and Charles Brigham of Waterford, charged with speeding and transporting liquor. He will be presented in the Waterford town court Monday night. In Palau's automobile when he was arrested was found two one gallon cans of alcohol and several pint bottles filled with alcohol. Palau was detected driving through Waterford at a high rate of speed by the constables who gave chase, overtaking the car and holding up the driver. The officers inspected the interior of the automobile and found the alcohol. He was ordered to appear in the town court Monday night on the speeding charge, and then he was delivered to Prohibition Enforcement Agent Joseph Fitzpatrick. After being locked up at the New London police station several hours Palau was taken before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran and held for trial on the more serious charge. Bail for his appearance was ordered in the sum of $1,000 and this was furnished by Louis Elfenbein.

Bank street, between Tilley and State streets, became a one-way street today. The plan worked well, but as was expected the influx of automobiles and trolley cars into state street brought about congestion between Bank and Main streets, particularly so at times when a number of trolley cars arrived at the State street terminal the same time as did the automobiles. Part of the congestion, however, was caused by out of town drivers of automobiles not being aware of the new rule.

For the first time this season the Connecticut company operated open cars to Ocean Beach today and as a result this afternoon a large crowd visited the shore resort. The crowd was very small during the forenoon because of threatening skies, but with the sun breaking through the clouds about noon the open cars were run and continued the greater part of the evening.

An automobile owned and driven by John Rurello of Orchard street and a truck of the Howard Street Coal company collided on Bank street Saturday afternoon, the collision resulting in one wheel of the Turello automobile being demolished.

MOHEGAN LANDLORD BEAT BORDER UNABLE TO PAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 13.—Mrs. Sophia Teserruk of Jersey City avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., visited the police station this evening, accompanied by three small children and sought aid in reaching her home. Mrs. Teserruk stated that she had expected to have received funds from her husband and failing to receive the money she had been ejected from the house where she had been boarding and where she had intended to remain during the summer. Mrs. Teserruk and her husband and children went to the farm of John Lazurek, Mohegan Hill, R. F. D., Norwich, last Sunday. The following day Teserruk returned to New York where he is employed as a window washer and since then his family have been residing at the farm. When Teserruk failed to send his wife money Saturday, Mrs. Teserruk declares that Lazurek struck her and ordered her from the house. She borrowed trolley fare from an acquaintance and came to New London with her children, believing that the police would supply her with funds whereby she and her family could return home. The woman and children were taken in charge by Superintendent Richard W. Mansfield, of the B. F. Learned mission and tomorrow arrangements will be made, it is understood, whereby the mother and children can return home.

Many a man has been true to his trust and made millions out of the combination.

FLORENCE OIL RANGES— DEMONSTRATION AT SWARTZ

"Cook the food—not the cook" was the slogan of Mrs. E. E. Lahne, who in a big display window at Swartz Brothers' Main street, Norwich, all week has been demonstrating the wonderful conveniences, economy and labor-saving merits of Florence oil ranges. Cooking in comfort with focused heat is made possible by users of the Florence, which comes in styles and at prices to suit all housewives. Better baking is possible with Florence ovens, as Mrs. Lahne proved by the delicious breads, cakes, rolls, etc., which scores of spectators watched and approved.

Bread Theater

A new Corinne Griffith—an amazingly saucy creature, with pep and impudence fairly exuding from every pore!

The stately and demure and essentially cultivated personality known as Corinne Griffith on the screen has undergone such transformation. And, if wondering admirers who read these lines still doubt, let them go to the Bread theater this week and see for themselves. Which they undoubtedly will do in any case.

Miss Griffith's complete change of personality is accomplished in a new June Mathis adaptation of an Edna Ferber story Classified, which comes to the screen from First National.

In it she portrays a sophisticated yet sentimentally inclined flapper type. She brings to the screen for the first time to our knowledge the want ad girl of the daily newspaper. The realism of Miss Griffith's work in this new direction is a revelation and represents another triumph for one of the screen's most versatile actresses.

Jack Mulhall ably supports Miss Griffith, and others who contribute striking characterizations are Ward Crane, Charles Murray, Edythe Chapman, George Sidney, and Jacqueline Wells.

Alfred A. Santell directed the picture.

Palace Theater

Isabella Echevaria (Barbara La Marr) was one of the most talked of women in Europe.

Thrones had been said to topple because of her—kings and princes sought her favor. Everywhere she went she left a trail of "slaughtered hearts."

While visiting at a fashionable hotel on the Riviera, she meets Gerald Rayford, a young Englishman in the diplomatic service. Gerald is indifferent to her charms. This is an insult which must be avenged and she determines to win the cold young man, then toss him aside and laugh at him.

That evening at dinner, by a subterfuse she manages to get rid of John Strong (a wealthy American who is madly in love with her) and meet Gerald in the hotel gardens. Isabella feels she has begun to triumph over Gerald, but the next day she finds he has left for Paris—run away from her. She determines to follow him.

To triumph over this cold Englishman becomes uppermost in her mind. With the aid of Henri Drouet, an artist friend of Gerald's, she poses in the alluring costume of Cleopatra. Through Isabella's contriving, Gerald comes to the studio. This time he completely succumbs to her charms.

Then she discovers suddenly that she loves him and then The Heart of the Siren is discovered. This is the greatest picture La Marr ever played. Come and judge for yourself.

In addition to La Marr, we are showing the daring Tom Tyler. You will thrill at seeing him astride his horse go over a cliff and drop many feet into a whirlpool rapids.

This young star, officially launched on his career only a few months ago has established himself solidly in the front rank of western screen heroes.

The International News and Fables complete this splendid program.

Broadway Theater

In their two most recent successes, Samuel Goldwyn and Henry King have indeed run the entire gamut of human emotion. In Stella Dallas, now creating such a sensation throughout the world, the heartstrings were strummed with a delicate touch, with a range from tragedy to a lighter note of delicious comedy, while in Partners Again —with Potash & Perlmutter, they had only one object in mind—the provocation of wholesome laughter and fun.

Partners Again, the current production at the Broadway theater, again brings to the world a contribution of gaiety long to be remembered. It is of course another episode in the hectic business career of the world-famous business partnership originated by Montague Glass.

In this latest adventure, Potash and Perlmutter hang out their sign as distributors of a new and mystifying automobile—the Schenckmann Six. Their business problems are ever ludicrous, but in this particular offering, perhaps the most fun is produced by their efforts at demonstrating the new car.

In the last half of the ninth inning, with three on base, there was no one left to go to bat but Joel, the green freshman who was tolerated on the team as clown and mascot. The opposing team was ahead, two runs.

Up came Joel, the pinch hitter. And what he did in this crucial moment of a crucial game is faithfully and excitingly told in The Pinch Hitter, Associated Exhibitors picturization of C. Gardner Sullivan's popular story, now showing at the Broadway theater, as the second feature on the double program.

Glenn Hunter and Constance Bennett appear in the stellar roles, with Antrim Short, Reginald Sheffield, and Jack Drumier in supporting roles. Joseph Henabery directed.

A new Kinograms completes this extraordinary picture program which is the finest seen here in some time.

B. P. S. Paint Demonstrations

The Shetucket Coal and Lumber Co., is to have a demonstration of high grade paints and varnishes, on Tuesday June 15, Wednesday June 16 and Thursday, June 17. See adv.

Jacob R. Slosberg, the progressive proprietor, after thorough investigation, and in line with his policy of handling only the best, has taken the agency for the famous B. P. S. (best paint sold) paints and varnishes. The manufacturers are the Patterson-Sargent Co., one of the oldest, lagrest and most reliable manufacturers of paints.

The Shetucket Coal and Lumber company has attained an enviable position in the coal and lumber trade because of its adherence to the slogan "Quality, Service and Satisfaction." In adding this new line Mr. Slosberg believes that he can render larger service to his patrons and others in need of paint for new buildings or to preserve and beautify the homes and other buildings they already have. The public is cordially invited to visit the new and attractive store at 203 North Main street, submit paint problems to the expert present and get a can of paint free.

GIRL FRACTURES ARM THRUST FROM AUTOMOBILE

WESTERLY, R. I., June 13—Rose Sposato, 5 year old daughter of Dominic Sposato of Central Park, Westerly, was taken to the Westerly hospital late this afternoon with a severe fracture to the right arm above the elbow. She was riding in an automobile driven by Rosario Legourie, a Westerly man, who lost control of the machine at the foot of Dayton hill, Westerly. The Sposato girl was in the rear seat of the car and had her arm held out. The injured member was pinned against a telephone pole. Thomas DeBartelo took the girl to Dr. Michael H. Scanlon's office. Dr. Scanlon then took her to the hospital, where he and Dr. John Champlin, Jr., gave her treatment. Dr. Scanlon reported tonight that the injury was serious.

In Auto Accident

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I. June 13—A Norwich doctor and his daughter, narrowly escaped injury tonight, when the touring car in which they were riding crashed into a culvert on East avenue, Westerly. The left front wheel of the car was wrecked and the windshield was smashed. The young woman who was operating the machine, in trying to avoid a collision with a bus of the Mooney company of Westerly, drove into the culvert by the side of the road.

During the past week Connecticut state policemen have been stationed at the Pawcatuck railway underpass, examining automobiles for defective headlights, tires, etc.

UNCASVILLE

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW.

NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—An impressive upward movement of stock prices under the leadership of standard railroad and industrial issues together with the establishment of a new high record for the year by the consolidated bond averages this week reflected returning public confidence in the security markets.

Rails made steady progress under the strong sponsorship for the specialties—U. S. Steel and General Motors. The former, selling at one time within a point and a half of its high record while the preferred motor stock crossed 125 to the finest level of the year. Buying of oils, merchandising, copper and coal stocks was on a broader scale.

New consolidation developments and favorable operating reports contributed to the strength of the railroad shares, the price average of this group advancing to within a fraction of the week's high mark. Many individual issues bettered their previous records.

Commodity prices drifted lower during the week, favorable weather reports promising a larger crop, started a heavy liquidating movement in cotton which carried prices of the active months down 87 to 115 points to the new low levels for the season. Cable rates on sterling exchange were unchanged but demand bills were heavy, with cotton [illegible] being chiefly responsible for the [illegible] below the 4 cent level.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

My Guests

Gallant and gay, in their doublets of gray
All at a flash—like the darlings of flame,—
Chattering Arabic, African, Indian—
Certain of springtime, my swallows came!

Doublets of gray silk, and surcoats of purple,
And ruffs of russet round each white throat,
Garmented brave they had crossed the waters,
Mariners sailing with never a boat!

Sailing a sea than the bluest deep bluer,
Vaster to traverse than any which rolls
'Neath kelson of warship, or bilge of trader,
Betwixt the brinks of the frozen Poles;

Cleaving the clouds with their moon-edged pinions
High over the city and vineyard and mart;
April to pilot the—May tripping after:
And each bird's compass has small stout heart.

—Sir Edwin Arnold.

Me

The birds are in the walnut-tree.
They seem to be a part of me,
They sing and flit and flit and sing;
They seem to say to me: "'Tis spring."
The sun is shining everywhere,
And everything is bright and fair.

The grass so green upon the hill,
The wind so soft and sweetly still,
The sun's soft rays so softly shed,
The soft, soft blue above my head,
The birds, their songs, the walnut-tree,
It takes them all to make me me!

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Streets and highways are always dangerous places for children to play in but they are far more dangerous during the summer season than at other times of the year. This, of course, is due to the fact that the number of automobiles in use during the warm weather is three or four times as large as the machines on the road durine the cold weather. Every day from now on until the late fall there will be great numbers of automobiles and motorcycles on the streets.

Boys and girls should be extremely careful in crossing streets and highways and they should not play in the streets. Many a young life has been snuffed out by the wheels of a heavy machine because the children darted into the middle of the street without looking where they were going. Small boys and girls are often thoughtless about their own safety. They often step off the sidewalk backwards, dart unexpectedly from the curb and try to cross a street full of machines without using any judgment or care.

If boys and girls only stop and look up and down the street before they try to cross many a deplorable accident would be prevented. If your baseball rolls into the street, don't rush madly after it. A machine may be tearing along towards you and if you make a sudden rush from the sidewalk the driver may not be able to stop in time. Let the ball stay where it is until you make sure there are no machines coming. It is far better to pause for a moment in the interests of your own safety than to lose an arm or a leg and have to go through life on crutches.

The summer vacation is at hand. Use a little care and judgment; practice safety-first and you won't have to spend the long recess in a hospital. Watch the machines and don't play in the streets!

LETTERS WRITTEN BY THE WIDE AWAKES

The Train Wreck

Dear Uncle Jed: I want to tell you about the train wreck at South Windham. As we were coming home we got as far as South Windham and there we saw a train had split the switch. They had the steam derrick trying to get the cars back on the track. They also had the wrecking train there too. The engine was helping to pull a car onto the track. Then the men put ties under the car. The engine was trying to pull one of the cars back on the track with a big steel rope. When all at once the rope let go and the engine went back with a rush. We stopped there an hour or two watching it.

When we went they hadn't got the car on the track. Two of the cars had partly buried themselves in the soft dirt on one side of the track.

Both cars had a load of steel rails on. There was one box car full of concrete and the other two were full of wire. One of the rails went through the water tank all most hitting the big water pipe.

John's Blind Decision

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you and I hope you will enjoy reading it.

John showed Bill his new knife as they both slowly wended their way down to the dock to fish. Not at all envious Bill admired it saying naturally, that he wished he had one like it.

When they reached their destination John put his hand into his pocket to get his knife to cut the bait. It was gone! Making a quick decision he tapped Bill on his shoulder and asked him to hand it over, accusing him of having taken something that did not belong to him. Very much surprised Bill denied that he had even seen the knife since John had put it back.

A quarrel was the result. John called Bill a thief and stubbornly insisted that his friend still had the knife in his possession. Bill, as angry as a hornet, remarked between his teeth that "gentlemen didn't come to conclusions without investigations." Hopping mad, John gave Bill a few blows with his knuckles in his back, but he quickly received stinging blows in return on his eyes and nose.

A crowd gathered as the fight grew serious, and a policeman not understanding the explanation about the missing knife, took both boys to the station house and sent for their mothers.

Mortified and disgraced Mrs. Smith, John's mother, looked her son over and then in a tone that John had never heard before asked into what pocket he had put the knife. Showing the right pocket she bid him to shake the leg of his trousers. John did so, and the knife dropped out.

Ashamed John apologized, and Bill, taking in a friendly manner his chums hand, said, "Let's forget about it."

John went home a more thoughtful and much wiser boy, saying over to himself many times a little sentence he had once heard, "Be careful of your thoughts, and be loyal to all."

Orioles

Dear Uncle Jed: Once a farmer in Holland many, many years ago raised a field of tulips. When they had grown quite high and pretty, a late tulip shot up out of the warm earth. The other flowers made fun of the little one for being so small and late, but the tulip did not mind them. Soon most of the tulips were withered and most of them were dying. The late tulip was beautiful, with colors of orange and black. After awhile the whole field of tulips died, leaving the one flower alone. One day the little flower was lonesome. She watched the birds overhead and wished that she could fly among them. A good fairy hearing the flower wishing this, granted it and the orange and black tulip became an orange and black oriole.

The Escape of Mr. Bluejay From Fluff

Dear Uncle Jed: Mr. Bluejay sat perched on a cherry tree pecking at a cherry. After each bite one could hear him say, "Thief," at a distance.

Fluff is our large gray cat and is very fond of good things to eat. He happened to spy Mr. Bluejay in the tree and

GREENEVILLE

The Greeneville Congregational S. S. celebrated Children's day, Sunday, with special services in the church. In the morning

The church was beautifully decorated. The Sunday school marched into the church in a body and was seated in a section reserved for them.

The service opened with the baptism of children by the pastor, Rev. Carle H. Eichner. The following children were presented: Warren George, Robert, Donald [illegible] and Mary and James Anthony Camera.

After an anthem by the choir, the superintendent, Mrs. Harry H. Royden gave a brief address of welcome. This was followed by an interesting program by the Sunday school, which was greatly enjoyed by the congregation. Welcome Song, Junior department; Charles Buchanan; Told by Pansies, Helen Wenzel; Only a Little Robin's Nest, kindergarten; Anchor Here, Senior Department; Concerto for Mildred Turner; Flower Children; Marjorie Buchanan, Natalie Anderson, William Wilson, Donald Wallace and Isabel Hague; Beauty and Song Everywhere, Lois Bausch; The Buffalo Jean West; What Are You Giving, Arthur Abell; song by Miss Fowler's Class; Turning the Tables, Rose Morton, The Aviator, Russell Jacobson; Pansies, Lorraine Prentice, Jean Mitchel, Pearl Lockwood, Margorie Wentworth; Three Helpers, Shirley Prentice; [illegible] Sunday Children's Day, Alice Quincy; Take Time, Russell Brooks; Summer, Ruth Thomson; Time to Know, Marian Drescher; A Serenade, Helen Anderson; The Childhood of Jesus, Lois Zahn, Sunbeams Bright, Edna Wallace.

After the program by the Sunday school the pastor read a passage from the scriptures and gave a very enjoyable [illegible] to pupils and parents. The service closed with a hymn and benediction. The program committee were Mrs. W. H. Stebbins and Mrs. Archibald Torrance.

Miss Nellie Hayes, Mrs. Samuel Throp and Miss Florence Tilley had charge of the decorations. The beautiful basket of flowers on the communion table was in memory of Dwight [illegible].

TAFTVILLE

Wohlleben-Monty

Miss Bertha Monty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene N. Monty of Riverside Grove, became the bride of John Wohlleben at one of the prettiest home weddings of the season, Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Edgar Gordon Crowdis, pastor of the Taftville Congregational church, beneath an arch from which was suspended a floral wedding bell, and which had a background of ferns and palms. The double ring service was used.

The bride looked charming in white bridal georgette over satin crepe. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor, Miss Melba Monty, sister of the bride, wore sunburst georgette crepe and carried tea roses. Little Miss Marion Monty, the flower girl, wore peach colored crepe and carried a basket of tea roses. Eugene Monty, cousin of the bride was ring bearer. The groom had for his best man his brother, Louis Wohlleben. The wedding party entered the living room as the wedding march was played on the piano by Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis.

Following the ceremony, dinner for 30 guests was served in the attractively decorated dining room. Only relatives and close friends of the bridal couple were present. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and valuable gifts including linen, silverware, a bridge set, furniture and checks.

The bride presented her bridal and the flower girl Joan of Arc necklaces, and to the ring bearer she gave a gold signet ring. The groom gave his best man gold cuff links. Late in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Wohlleben left in their automobile for a motor trip through Massachusetts, Vermont and Canada. The brides traveling dress was of powder blue and grey with hat to match. Upon their return they will reside on South A street.

The groom is the son of Fred Wohlleben of South A street, and is in the employ of W. E. Baldwin. He is well and favorably known throughout the village, having resided in Taftville all his life. His bride was born in Masonville, Canada, and for the past few years has resided in Taftville where she is a popular member of the younger set. The many friends of the young people wish them much prosperity and happiness in their new life.

The session at the Taftville Congregational church school Sunday, was devoted to a rehearsal of the Children's day exercise which is to take place next Sunday. Another rehearsal is to be held at the regular school hour preceding the morning service of the church next Sunday. Envelopes for the annual childrens day offering were distributed. The offering is to go to the Sunday School Extension Society. At the morning service of the church, the anthem after the offertory was I Will Bless the Lord. The decorations on the altar were yellow iris and in the chancel blue day lilies. In the evening the regular meeting of the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor was held in the church vestry. The leaders were Miss Gladys Kinder and Miss Dorothy Hunt and the topic was How to Get Things Done.

Miss Dorothy Wood of Coventry spent the week end at the home of her parents Mr. and Mrs. John Wood and family of South Second avenue.

Edwin Pollard of Boston, Mass., spent the week end with his father, William Pollard of South Second avenue.

Ambrose Kinion and Jack Gallagher of Pawtucket, R. I., have been recent guests of Lewis M. Wood of North Third avenue.

Harold M. Pingree of Goodyear spent a short time this week at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Pingree and family of North Third avenue.

Hervie Heroux of South B street has resigned his post on night tour No. 4 weaving department of the Ponemah mills.

Miss Helen C. Aberg has returned to Willimantic after spending a few days at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Axel L. Aberg of North Third avenue.

The things that cost more than they are worth are the things that we do not know what to do with.

ODD FELLOWS ATTENDED MEMORIAL SERVICE AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Members of Uncas lodge No. 11, Shetucket lodge No. 27 and Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21 I. O. O. F., attended the Sunday morning service at the First Baptist church in a body on invitation of the pastor, Rev. Edward C. Dunbar. Special pews were reserved for the visiting Odd Fellows and Rebekahs. A violin solo by Reginald Loubrin and an offertory duet, God Cares for Me, (Nolte), by Miss Briggs and Miss Browning, were features of the musical part of the service.

Rev. Mr. Dunbar, in his address to the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, spoke on the topic, Our Faith in God. His text was John 7:29—I know Him, because I am from Him and He sent me. Rev. Mr. Dunbar said in part:

Oliver Wendell Holmes in the Autocrat of the Breakfast Table says that when John and Thomas talk together, [illegible] personalities are taking part in the dialogue, i. e. three Johns and three Thomases. The three Johns are the real John, known only to his Maker, John's ideal John, never the same two days in succession, and often very unlike him; and Thomas's ideal John, unlike either of the other two Johns. In the same manner there is the real Thomas, Thomas' ideal Thomas, and John's ideal Thomas. I believe that Dr. Holmes is right for in most people there are these three personalities, we have a conception of our ideal self, and there is personality which other people believe we to be.

Our relation to God is somewhat of the same situation. There is the real God, regardless of what we believe about Him. There is our intellectual idea of God, which we are able to set in the terms of a definition. Again there is a feeling of God which intellect cannot describe but which our heart knows through emotional experience. The difference between the last two conceptions is easily distinguished.

Every individual has some belief about God, although not always a belief in God. The atheist may express himself with these words, "I do not believe there is any God." This, however, is just as much a belief about God as is the loyal Christian's testimony, "I believe there is a God." One can easily imagine when the theory of the world's rotundity was first proposed of one saying, "I do not believe this satanic theory that the world is round" and another making answer, "Well, I do." As a matter of course, the denial of the one or the re-assurance of the other did not make the slightest difference in the fact that the earth was round. God is God. No denial of Him alters the fact of God. No testimony of a belief in Him changes Him or God.

God is infinite and when we limit human beings talk of God we have to use terms common with our human experiences. Because of this we come far short of actual defining God. Martineau, the great Unitarian preacher and philosopher, in discussing this point says, "God being infinite, can never be fully comprehended by our minds, whatever thought of Him he takes, His real nature must still transcend; there will yet be deep after deep beyond, within that light ineffable; and what we see, compared with what we do not see, will be as the raindrop to the firmament. Our conception of Him can never correspond with the reality, so as to be without omission, disproportion, or aberration; but can only represent the reality, and stand for God within our souls, till nobler thoughts arise and reveal themselves as his interpreter."

One recognizes two kinds of faith concerning God. These two types I have called intellectual faith and emotional faith. The first is the type that is represented by this text, "Thou believest that God is one, thou doest well, the demons also believe and shudder." The second type is described by these two, "O my God, in thee have I trusted" and "Father into Thy hands I commend my spirit."

An intellectual faith tends toward the realm of theory. Formal creedalism is usually of the intellectual type, and creeds and intellectual faiths can be handed down from generation to generation like family jewels. When left only in the realm of the mind, faith become static and external. At least 75 per cent of Baptists are members of Baptist churches simply because their parents were Baptists. As children they received Baptist doctrines in the home and in the church schools, hence they are Baptists. This is true of other denominations.

I have no quarrel with an intellectual faith. I believe that there should be this side of our Christian experience. Christianity is greatly indebted to intellectual men of the past. And each individual Christian's faith is strengthened by creeds and doctrines of the past. The danger is that one will leave his faith in this type of belief. "The demons believe and shudder."

The faith of the soul is deeper than that of the intellect. It springs from some unique experience in life. "O my God, in thee have I trusted." It may be a faith that does not conform to any orthodox creed. Perhaps the individual is unable to define it, in fact a real faith of the soul may be myste[illegible] It is [illegible] it comes from a spring of living, internal feeling, "I know Him."

To know that God is good is a vastly different thing than simply believing that He lives.

The best argument of the necessity of this type of faith is from Jesus' life and teachings. One needs only to read the gospels to see its force. While the [illegible] logic in the New Testament at times is a minor note. The major is the certainty of faith which Jesus describes in simple story and parable, so simple that we too often miss the [illegible] We [illegible] was unconcerned concerning the faith He [illegible] reply was, "I know Him, because I am from Him, and He sent me." It was a statement of fact. On the cross, if ever a man had excuse in deserting a belief concerning God, Christ said, "Father into thy hands I commend my spirit." Paul knew in whom he believed and was persuaded that God would keep him to the end. Many a life has tested with its [illegible] All of these come from a heart faith.

BOZRAH AID SOCIETY SERVED FINE SUPPER

[illegible] brown bread, rolls, relishes, cake and coffee, served Saturday at Buckingham Memorial by the Ladies' Aid society [illegible] was largely patronized. Mrs. Avoret A. STATE GOVERNMENT COSTS $14.02 PER CAPITA

(Special to the Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C. June 12—The department of commerce announces [illegible] Statistics of the State of Connecticut for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925.

Expenditures

The payments for maintenance and operation of the several departments of Connecticut for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1925, amounted to $21,275,926 or $14.02 per capita. This includes $1,535,974 apportionments for education to the minor civil divisions of the state. In 1924 the comparative per capita for maintenance and operation of general departments was $12.55, and in 1917, $6.13. The increase in the cost for maintenance and operation of general departments for 1925 over that for 1924 was due to greatly increased expenditures for maintenance of highways. The expenses of public service enterprises amounted to $18,718; interest on debt, $556,565; and outlays for permanent improvements $1,743,316. The total payments therefore, for expenses of general departments and public service enterprises, interest and outlays were $26,734,825. The totals include the payments for the year, whether made from current revenues or from the proceeds of bond issues.

Of the governmental costs reported above, $10,536,133 was for highways, $7,440,563 being for maintenance and $3,095,550 for construction.

Revenues

The total revenue receipts of Connecticut for 1925 were $29,276,057, or $19.30 per capita. This was $7,313,528 more than the total payments of the year, exclusive of the payments for permanent improvements, and $2,560,212 more than the total payments, including those for permanent improvements. This excess of revenue receipts over governmental cost payments is reflected in the purchase of investments and increased cash balances, not shown in this summary. Property and special taxes represented 26.6 per cent of the total revenue for 1925, 25.2 per cent for 1924 and 38.4 per cent for 1917. The increase in the amount of property and special taxes collected was 2.1 per cent from 1917 to 1924 and 21.2 per cent. from 1924 to 1925. The per capita property and special taxes were $5.13 in 1925, $4.51 in 1924 and $4.82 in 1917.

Earnings of general departments, or compensation for services rendered by state officials, represented 11.4 per cent of the total revenue for 1925, 10.9 per cent for 1924, and 6.2 per cent for 1917.

Business and nonbusiness licenses constituted 50.8 per cent of the total revenue for 1925, 53.7 per cent for 1924 and 49.8 per cent for 1917.

Receipts from business licenses consist chiefly of taxes exacted from insurance and other incorporated companies and from sales tax on gasoline, while those from nonbusiness licenses comprise chiefly taxes on motor vehicles and amounts paid for hunting and fishing privileges.

Indebtedness

POETRY

The Making of the Flag

A quiet home, a quiet street,
A needle and a thread,
A scissors and a square of blue,
Some stripes of white and red.
A slender hand that deftly stitched
The shining stars across,
'Twas thus the flag of liberty
Was made by Betsy Ross.

Though Father Time has worn to rags
The ermine robes of kings,
And left the guns of war to rust
Amongst unforgotten things;
Though crowns and sceptres at his touch
Still not a broken stitch has marred
The work of Betsy Ross.

In ancient halls and humble homes
Today its colors wave,
The shelter of the world's oppressed,
The beacon of the brave,
Let glory of our Nation's shield
Amongs the stars emboss
The thread, the needle and the name
And fame of Betsy Ross.

The Old Flag

Off with your hat as the flag goes by!
And let the heart have its say!
You're man enough for a tear in your eye
That you will not wipe away!

You're man enough for a thrill that goes
To your very fingertips—
Ay! the lump just then in your throat that rose
Spoke more than your parted lips.

Lift up the boy on your shoulder, high,
And show him the faded shred—
Those stripes would be red as the sunset sky
If Death could have died them red.

The man that bore it with Death has lain
These twenty years and more—
He died that the work should not be vain
Of the men who bore it before.

The man that bears it is bent and old,
And ragged his beard and gray—
But look at his eye-fire young and bold
At the tune that he hears them play.

The old time thunders through all the air,
And strikes right into the heart—
If ever it calls for you boy, be there!
Be there, and ready to start.

Off with your hat as the flag goes by!
Uncover the youngster's head!
Teach him to hold it holy and high,
For the sake of its sacred dead.
—Henry Clyer Bunner.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Do you enjoy bridge, Mr. Grump?

No, but I play it quite often.—Detroit News.

Shopper—If this is an all-wool suit, why is it marked "cotton"?

Clerk (confidentially)—That, madame, is to deceive the moths.

Her Adorer—She has the fatal gift of beauty. Such glorious hair and complexion.

Oh, they're not gifts. I was with her when she bought them!—Progressive Grocer.

She—That woman knows how to get what she wants of that old sentimental fool you have him on his bald head.

He—Yes; she takes him on his weak side.—Paris Life.

"Pay for it on installments—as you ride" said the salesman who was showing a motor-cycle.

"All right," said the customer, "but remember, I'm a very slow rider."—Good Hardware.

Shade (with woman)—Have you any Lenten suits?

Clothier—Yes, but there are still some [illegible] years.

Studie—Who's buying these tickets?—N. Y. Medley.

Mrs. Pryer—When my husband goes fishing he always brings home a big string of fish.

Mrs. Gruyer—Well, when my husband goes [illegible] he always brings home a big string of lies.—New Bedford Standard.

"I wish to complain," said the bride, [illegible] about the flour you sold me. It was tough."

"Tough, ma'am?" asked the grocer.

Yes, tough. I made a pie with it and my husband could hardly cut it.—Weekly Scotsman.

Only one farm in ten in the United States has plumbing. Even at this figure, American farmers have proportionately more plumbing than the farmers of any other nation. The latest census figures, compiled by agriculture department experts, show that 655,599 farms out of the 6,488,342 in the country have water piped into the house. The wooden and tin tubs and basins are still leading factors in washing farm faces, the report points out.

For three miles, a silver fox ran ahead of a logging train at Klamath Falls, Ore., racing over the ties in the glare of the headlight. Seeing that the animal was nearing exhaustion and would not leave the track, the engineer stopped the train. The fox allowed him to pick it up and release it in the brush. Later the engineer learned that the fox had been bred in captivity, had escaped from a neighboring fox farm, and was worth more than $1,000.

At least three vessels have gone over Niagara Falls, says the Boston Globe in reply to a query. The first was in 1827, when an old craft was sent over with a bear, a fox, a buffalo, a dog and some geese as passengers. The bear jumped from the boat before it reached the rapids, swam to the shore and was rescued. The geese went over the falls and came to the shore alive, while the other animals were not seen. Another vessel, the Detroit, that had belonged to Commodore Perry's fleet, was started over the cataract in the winter of 1841, but grounded midway in the rapids and was finally broken up by the ice. In 1837 a burning vessel was sent down the rapids and over the falls. This was described as a most magnificent sight. No accounts of later attempts were found.

YALE SIGNALLY HONORS THE CROWN PRINCE OF SWEDEN

At the Third Special Convocation in Its 225 Years of Life Yale University Yesterday Conferred Upon Prince Gustavus Adolphus the Degree of Honorary Doctorate of Laws—No Other Royal Person Has Been Placed on Its List as an Alumnus—The Audience Included About 1,500 Persons of Swedish Birth or Immediate Descent.

NEW HAVEN, June 14—(AP)—Gustavus Adolphus, crown prince of Sweden, became a Yale man tonight. He received an honorary doctorate of laws from the university at a special convocation in Woolsey hall. Thereby, he added to his princely distinctions one which places him in a two hundred and [illegible] group. He had Yale held [illegible] convocation. No other person on record has been placed on its list as an alumnus.

The ceremony covered in detail to that which custom has laid down. James Rowland Angell, the president, conferred the degree after Professor William Lyon Phelps, the public orator, had presented the candidate. On the platform were the crown princess and members of the suite of the royal guests, fellows and deans and university officers and a number of prominent Swedes of this and other state.

The audience of about 2,000 embraced not only a number of persons of Swedish birth or immediate descent, the guests were largely of the university families and friends.

The convocation followed a half day of activity for the prince and princess in New Haven. It gave them opportunity to see the inner workings of the institution, to meet many of those who are connected with it, to see [illegible] and Workshops and [illegible] which stand as memorials, and the [illegible] long chain to have dinner at President Angell's house. There was [illegible] luncheon shortly after arrival of the [illegible] at noon and dinner this evening. Among the luncheon guests were Robert Woods Bliss, American minister to Sweden, and Mrs. Bliss, Wollmar Boustedt, Swedish minister to the United States, and the party of the royal guests.

At the convocation Professor Phelps introduced the crown prince for the honorary degree of laws in parts: It would be [illegible] ceremony to welcome a American and hear [illegible] come to this particular occasion [illegible] crown prince of Sweden [illegible] by race or ancestry, but because of [illegible] he belongs to the higher type of physical, mental, and religious culture. He is a [illegible] proof of the power of religious [illegible] His life has been one of severe [illegible] for public service. [illegible] Because [illegible] country with such a [illegible] Gustavus not only university in [illegible] to [illegible] man who has already [illegible] in mind and character shown [illegible] ways of one of the great [illegible] in the history of the world—[illegible] Adolphus.'

President Angell, in conferring the degree said: 'As the chosen representative of a great people over whom [illegible] rule, and to whom we gladly [illegible] know also the personal obligation as a distinguished scholar and [illegible] to your own right; a [illegible] prince Yale university honors [illegible] humanity. With the fleet of royal [illegible] to grace our household, we confer upon you the degree of doctor of [illegible]

'Let me first of all,' the crown prince replied, 'convey to you my most heartfelt thanks for the very great honor you are doing me in making me a doctor of laws at your world famed university. I feel altogether most unworthy of this great distinction, because my profession unfortunately precludes me from becoming a real devotee of science. Having become to a certain extent a colleague of so many prominent scientists is, however, a thing which I value very much indeed. I, however, congratulate myself on not having to pass your examinations. I feel I should fail hopelessly at the very start, for my knowledge of American law is a very scanty one.

'Yale university is one of the oldest in the U. S. A., with scientific traditions of the highest value. Perhaps more than any other nation the U. S. A. have utilized science for practical purposes. Your people have as a result of their practical mind, so to speak, straight away turned scientific results into means for furthering material as well as mental development. Discoveries within the vast field of natural science have made it possible to improve communications, industrial means and means of trade.'

Stating that international law is coming more and more to the front the crown prince recalled that the name of Grotius, eminent and learned jurist of the 17th century, was closely connected with the policy of Sweden during that period of history when his country took a leading part in international politics.

'I believe I am not exaggerating too much in stating,' he declared, 'that Sweden has in the course of the last few centuries to some extent contributed to the maintenance and growth of international law. We feel that efforts of that kind will always be met with sympathy in your country, because you fully realize the pleasant trend of thought, which so definitely runs through this nation.'

The prince sees in the peace problem a problem of better organization of international relations, the crucial point being how to avoid disputes and if they arise, how to settle them in a peaceful way, using rules and regulations, mutually agreed to beforehand instead of resorting to armed force.

'Yale university,' he concluded, 'is well known the world over in connection with the study of international law. And we may therefore all be allowed to hope for and to expect that its prominent men of science will in future, as hitherto, make their voices heard in this important field of learning. It is after all one of those subjects, which are of real vital importance to peace and to the welfare of humanity. May we all join hands in a common effort to attain this great goal: Universal peace.'

The crown prince and princess were the guests overnight of President and Mrs. Angell. They will leave for Newport, R. I., tomorrow morning on the yacht Corsair of J. P. Morgan, which vessel brought them here from New York today.

DEPUTY SHERIFF COMMITS SUICIDE IN SALISBURY

SALISBURY, June 14.—(AP)—Horace C. Kelsey, 55, deputy sheriff of Litchfield county, killed himself in his office today by firing five bullets into his body. He lived but a short time. He was also a coal dealer and building contractor.

Suits against Kelsey were to come into the superior court within a short time. In all about $160,000 damages were claimed. Kelsey who was said to have been in an unfit condition at the time to drive an automobile ran into machines on the highway near Canaan in 1921 and a number of persons were hurt. Kelsey drove away and his machine was traced into the garage.

The plaintiffs were George E. Davis and his wife, Florence, and son, Paul, of New Haven, and Alvis Doersan, of Springfield, manager of a taxi service. They claimed damages for injuries received.

Kelsey leaves two sons and two brothers, one of the latter being Isaac Kelsey, former postmaster at Taconic. His wife died a month ago.

BRAZIL RESIGNS FROM LEAGUE OF NATIONS

GENEVA, June 14— P—The league of nations was officially notified today that Brazil resigned from the body. This followed more quickly than had been expected Brazil's resignation a few days ago from the council of the league. It caused much concern among the delegates of the other countries and every effort was expended to induce Brazil to change its decision.

The Latin-American delegates were of the opinion tonight that no Latin-American countries would join Brazil and withdraw from the league of nations and a popular manifestation designed to bring a change of front among the Brazilian statesmen was considered a probability by the September assembly.

The spokesmen remarked that this could be done by unanimously electing Brazil to a temporary seat in the council, this launching the idea that Brazil would be re-elected in the future, virtually giving her that permanent membership which was her ambition. European delegates, it is said, may participate in the suggested pro-Brazilian demonstration.

Notwithstanding her resignation, Brazil remains a member of the league for two years by virtue of the covenant which provides for notification of intention to resign two years in advance.

CELEBRATED ANNIVERSARY OF THE STARS AND STRIPES

PHILADELPHIA, June 14.— (AP) — The 13 original colonies today joined Philadelphia, birthplace of the American flag, in a colorful celebration of the 149th birthday of the Stars and Stripes.

Governors of nine of the original states, representatives of the chief executives of the other four and historical military organizations of all participated in the exercises which included patriotic speeches, stirring music, picturesque pageantry and a patriotic pyrotechnic display.

Coincident with the Flag day celebration, the sesquicentennial international exposition, marking 150 years of American independence, was formally dedicated by Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick of Philadelphia.

The ceremonies started shortly after noon when, with Mayor Kendrick and General Robert Lee Bullard, U. S. A., retired, in the lead, several thousand men, garbed in uniforms of American soldiers from the time of the revolution to the present, formed a parade which marched to the sesquicentennial grounds.

Upon arrival, the governors, with their military escorts, were conducted to the forum of the founders, a plaza in which are erected 13 pylons in honor of the 13 original states.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

GARDONE, Italy, June 14.— (AP) — The desire to devote every bit of his energy to literary work without the interruptions entailed by the necessity of acting as host at the frequent pilgrimages to his exotic home here, has prompted Gabriele D'Annunzio, soldier-poet, to shut himself off from contact with the world.

SEC'Y MELLON OPPOSED TO THE M'NARY FARM BILL

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon came out today in opposition to the principles of the McNaory farm bill, pending in the senate, and the Haugen proposal recently rejected by the house. He outlined his position in a letter to Chairman Haugen of the house agriculture committee, and Representatives Dickinson of Iowa, and Anthony of Kansas, republicans, who recently sought his views on the controversial equalization fee question.

While the treasury head, who expressed doubt as to the constitutionality of the proposed equalization fee and declared the legislation would prove "neither workable nor beneficial," was making public his opinion, President Coolidge and the administration were assailed in the senate by proponents of the McNary bill, who charged the president was blocking legislation.

The administration was attacked particularly by Chairman Norris of the agriculture committee, who said an agreement had been made between President Coolidge, Secretaries Hoover and Jardine and representatives of co-operative organizations to confine farm relief to co-operative marketing legislation.

"The co-operatives have a right to do that," he added, "but they ought to come out in the open and not do it in secret."

In lining up definitely against the McNary and Haugen measures, along with Secretary Jardine, Mr. Mellon said that while the fee "purports to be paid by the farmers it will be included in the increased price of the commodity."

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

President Coolidge nominated four of the five members of the board of mediation.

Constitutional amendment to limit campaign expenditures was drafted by Representative Rainey, democrat, Missouri.

Opponents of diversion of water from Lake Michigan presented their case to the senate commerce committee.

Secretary Mellon opposed the principles of the McNary farm bill while the senate continued its discussion.

Prohibition modification measures were given a place on the senate calendar, with an adverse judiciary committee report.

The senate campaign committee went deeper into Pennsylvania republican primary expenses. Secretary Mellon held they would be found essential.

USING AIRPLANE IN FIGHT AGAINST THE GYPSY MOTH

BOSTON, June 14—(AP)—The airplane has been enlisted in the perennial fight against the gypsy moth, and on Cape Cod, the U. S. department of agriculture is applying a method that has elsewhere proved its worth. A specially equipped plane flew above the tree tops today and blew powdered arsenate of lead into the foliage. State and federal and state authorities prepared to take careful note of the results.

$250 WAS STOLEN FROM RECTORY IN HARTFORD

HARTFORD, June 14—(AP)—Complaint was made tonight that a thief had stolen $250 from the rectory of St. Patrick's church at 295 Church street. It was believed that entry had been gained by climbing a fire escape and entering through an unlocked window. The theft occurred between 8 a. m. and 3 p. m., today it was reported.

MIDDLE WEST HAS BEEN DELUGED BY RAIN

CHICAGO, June 14—(AP)—A million dollar property loss and a million dollars benefit to crops, along with a toll of 12 dead and scores of injured was the net result of a three day rain and electric storm which centered in Illinois and Iowa and was less severe in other middle western states.

Entanglement in the Tacna-Arica Dispute

Plebiscitary Commission Finds That Chile Has Frustrated the Award of President Coolidge.

ARICA, Chile, June 14—(AP)—The plebiscitary commission today approved a resolution declaring that Chile had frustrated the award of the arbitrator (Pres.dent Coolidge) in the Tacna-Arica dispute, and that for this reason a plebiscite was impossible.

General Lassiter, American chairman of the Tacna-Arica plebiscitary commission, recently introduced a resolution before that body to establish the sovereignty of the disputed territory declaring that a plebiscite was impossible because of the alleged failure of the Chileans to guarantee fair voting conditions. This was a substitute for a Chilean resolution that the commission proceed with the plebiscite.

All late advices from Arica indicated an early breakup of the negotiations there, notwithstanding the fact that efforts were being made at Washington by the Chilean and Peruvian ambassadors and Secretary of State Kellogg to find some common ground on which to base a settlement.

It is nearly a year since the plebiscitary commission began its work. General Pershing was for many months its chairman. General Lassiter was appointed his successor when General Pershing's health made it advisable for him to return to the United States.

SHERIFF SHOT WHILE SEARCHING FOR LIQUOR

LIVERMORE FALLS, Maine, June 14—(AP)—Sheriff W. Burton Small and Deputy Sheriff Percy W. Gould, both of Farmington, were shot but not critically wounded this afternoon while searching for liquor at the farm in Jay of John Fortier, an armed posse was searching the woods and watching roads in adjoining towns for Fortier, who was alleged to have done the shooting.

Sheriff Small was shot through the right side of the face, while Deputy Sheriff Gould was shot through the shoulder.

The town officers had returned to the Fortier farm in Jay, opposite Livermore Falls, with Fortier, who had just been arraigned and held for the September grand jury for an alleged liquor seizure, made at his home yesterday afternoon.

They expected he would arrange to furnish $1,000 bail made, which he was ordered over by Trial Justice Stillman V. Harlow. While they were looking about the premises for possible additional liquor, Fortier produced his rifle and ran in wait for them in front of the house, according to the officers who were shot as they emerged from the door together. Sheriff Small was shot first, then Deputy Gould.

After the second shot Fortier ran into his orchard and was soon out of sight in the woods. Sheriff Small sent the bullet after him.

Deputy Sheriff Joseph B. Hanscom of North Jay, who also is fish commissioner of Jay, happened along soon after the shooting. He ran to the hardware store of W. A. Stuart and obtained a supply of revolvers, rifles and ammunition and quickly formed a posse of about 30 volunteers, with he headed in the search for Fortier.

The officers went to the home of Trial Justice Harlow, where they received medical attention, and later directed the man-hunt.

In response to a request from the Franklin county officers Sheriff Benjamin B. Billings, of Oxford county, and some of his officers immediately left South Paris to aid in the search. They were informed that Fortier was heading for Canton, in the general direction of South Paris.

They were warned that Fortier was armed with a rifle and threatened to shoot on sight anyone who stood in his way.

Fortier was described as five feet, 11 inches tall, about 60 years old, large of frame and of dark complexion. He has a bald head, is stopped-shouldered and walks flat-footed.

LATEST CONGRESSIONAL ACTION ON PROHIBITION

WASHINGTON, June 14.—(AP)—The wet block group of proposals for modifying the dry law were assured today of a place on the senate calendar, but then will go there accompanied by an adverse report from the judiciary committee.

After nearly two hours of debate in committee today, the measures were ordered adversely reported with an accompanying recommendation that action on them be indefinitely postponed. However, they are placed in a position so that the wet leaders in the senate can make a fight for them.

With Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, implacable foe of prohibition, absent because of other official duties, the committee didived at first on the proposition of adversely reporting the measures or pigeonholding them in committee. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, wanted separate treatment given the Bruce resolution, to amend the prohibition amendment, asserting it should be sent back to the senate so that its proponents could call it up and have it adopted if they could muster the necessary two-thirds majority.

The upshot was a decision to send in all seven measures together.

Explaining that the bills on which the wets desired to concentrate already had been offered as amendments to the pending administration bill for tightening up the Volstead act, Senator Edge, republican, New Jesey, said the committee action was "a sort of anti-climax."

ESTATE OF WALTER CAMP, $328,061, LEFT TO HIS WIDOW

NEW YORK, June 14—(AP)—Appraisal of the New York estate of Walter Camp, noted sports authority, of New Haven, Conn., who died on March 14, 1925, was filed today in the office of the state tax commission, showing gross assets of $3,596, and a net estate of $21,907.

The entire estate, wherever situated is $328,061. Alice S. Camp, the widow, receives the entire estate. The New York estate consists of stocks and bonds held by the decedent and taxable in this state. Executors are the First National bank of New Haven, Conn., and Walter Camp, Jr.

Earl of Dunraven Is Dead in London

British Yatchman Had Been Challenger For the America's Cup—Prominent in Politics.

LONDON, June 14—(AP)—The Earl of Dunraven one time challenger for the American cup, famous yachting trophy held by the United States, died today.

Upon the constitution of the Irish Free State President Cosgrave appointed Lord Dunraven a member of the senate. He resigned his seat early this year on account of ill health. While in the senate the earl was of the opinion the boundary dispute between the Free State and Ulster could be solved only by means of an agreement.

Last April he denied a report that he was to join other British yachtsmen in an effort to lift the American cup, which Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrocks had failed to do on many occasions.

The fourth Earl of Dunraven and Mount-Earl will be remembered best in the United States, perhaps, as the British challenger on two occasions for the American cup. He was famous not only as a yachtsman but also as an explorer horse fancier, soldier war correspondent and author, member of the House of Lords and president of the Irish Reform association.

The Earl of Dunraven was born Feb. 12, 1841 and succeeded to the title upon the death of his father in 1871. He was a war correspondent for the London Daily Telegraph in Abyssinia in 1867, in the Franco-Prussian war and the seige of Paris. In 1868, he was aide-de-camp to the Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland and served as Under-Secretary to the colonies from 1885 to 1887.

The Earl was chairman of the notable Irish Land conference in the winter of 1902-03. During the Boer war he served in South Africa as commander of a battalion of sharpshooters. Among his writings were:

"The Great Divide"; "The Upper Yellowstone," (1874) "The Irish Question" (1880); "Self Instruction in the Theory and Practice of Navigation" (1906); "The Legacy of Past Years," (1911); "Canadian Nights" (1914).

The Earl was the owner of nearly 40,000 acres. Dunraven castle at Glamorgan and Adair Manor in Limerick were two of his largest estates.

The Earl married the daughter of Lord Charles Lenox Kerr in 1869. She died in 1916. They had one daughter, Lady Aidee.

$9,213,730 EXPENDED IN 1925 BY ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION

NEW YORK, June 14—(AP)—In the cause of world-wide public health the Rockefeller Foundation during 1925 spent $9,213,730 through its departmental agencies.

These agencies, it was stated in a review of the year's work made public today by George E. Vincent, president fought hookworm disease in 13 countries; worked to stamp out yellow fever in Brazil and its last stronghold, western Africa; assisted in demonstrating the possibilities of malaria control, and aided medical education in many countries.

Yellow fever, Mr. Vincent said has almost vanished from the Americas.

"In 1925 only three cases of yellow fever were reported from all the Americans," his review said. "These occurred in northern Brazil . . . With the gradual disappearance of yellow fever from the Americas, West Africa becomes the last stronghold of this stubborn enemy."

In fighting hookworm disease, the international health board treated nearly 1,500,000 people and aided local health organizations in 329 counties in the southern United States and 13 countries in Brazil.

The disease, Mr. Vincent stated is easily detected, readily cured and effectively preventable.

Experiments in malaria control by the use of paris green in extirminating the malarial mosquito were successfully made during the year in Italy, and assistance was given other countries in malaria control.

The aid given to scores of medical institutions from Toronto to Singapore was based on the belief that "men and women must be trained for public health as a whole-time vocation which has its own peculiar problems and technique."

About $3,000,000 was spent in aiding medical institutions these funds being supplemented by funds from other sources.

MELLON JUSTIFIES LAVISH PRIMARY EXPENDITURES

Secretary of the Treasury Declares That a Primary Campaign in Pennsylvania Could Not Be Carried on For Less Money Than Was Expended—Says Expenditures Were Principally For Watchers and For Advertising—Asserts That Watchers Were Indispensable Under the Pennsylvania Primary System and Were Authorized by Law.

WASHINGTON, June 14. — (AP) — While the senate campaign fund committee was unearthing today more intimate details of the spending of something like a million and a half dollars in the recent Pennsylvania republican primary, Secretary Mellon declared informally he believed the committee would find the expenditures to have been essential under the prevailing system.

At the same time, Representative Rubey, democrat, Missouri, drafted a constitutional amendment under which persons spending huge sums for their election would be barred from congress. He would limit senators to $10,000 for the primary and general election and members of the house to $5,000.

For five hours today the senate investigators pounded away at two witnesses who are associated with the so-called Grundy political organization in Pennsylvania and learned that the president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers association supplied cash up to a total of $351,575 in such sums and at such times as the citizens' committee supporting the Pepper-Fisher ticket wanted it.

Swinging into another night session tonight, the committee sought information on the expenses in Philadelphia and eastern Pennsylvania of Representative Vare, victor over Senator Pepper and Governor Pinchot in the three-way senatorial contest.

Secretary Mellon, who returned to pittsburgh just before the May primary to make the first political speech of his life, talking for the Pepper-Fisher ticket, gave his observations on the expenditures today in response to persistent inquiries from newspaper correspondents who crowded his office at the treasury for a semi-weekly conference.

The secretary declared that a primary campaign in Pennsylvania could not be carried on for less money than was expended, explaining that the expenditures were principally for the hire of watchers and for advertising. He added that watchers were indispensable under the Pennsylvania primary system and were authorized by law.

Adverting to the pay, $10 a day to watchers at the polls, Mr. Mellon said he considered that fair compensation for a day's work.

The secretary estimated at $42,000 the cost of mailing one letter to each voter in Pennsylvania, and said that where one candidate resorted to newspaper and other advertising all of them would be obliged to do likewise.

The constitutional amendment which Mr. Rubey said he would introduce tomorrow in the house would declare that congress shall have power to prevent fraud and corrupt practices in the nomination and election of senators and representatives.

Members of the investigating committee declined to comment on the proposal, or to express any view as to whether it would meet the situation developed by the inquiry. They explained they were acting as judges in this case and would refrain from discussing it on matters pertaining to it.

Testimony given to the committee during the day by W. H. Powell, treasurer, and Frank J. Gorman, manager of the Pepper-Fisher coalition citizens' committee in Philadelphia made it increasingly clear the senatorial fight was a subsidiary as far as the political organizations of eastern Pennsylvania were concerned, that their real interest was in the gubernatorial race between John S. Fisher and Edward E. Beidleman.

PENNSYLVANIA PRIMARY EXPENDITURES ABOUT $2,000,000

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP)—Testimony given tonight before the senate campaign committee carried expenditures in the 1926 Pennsylvania republican campaign, almost to the $2,000,000 mark. Total expenditures for Representative Vare, the winning candidate, were placed at $785,756.

The totals thus far established are: Pepper-Fisher ticket, $1,045,000; Vare-Beidleman $785,756; Pinchot $195,000; total $1,835,744.

BOARD NAMED TO ADJUST RAILROAD LABOR DISPUTES

WASHINGTON, June 14—(AP)—With the exception of one member, the board of mediation created under the Watson-Parker act for adjustment of railroad labor disputes is appointed today by President Coolidge.

Those selected were former Representative Samuel E. Winslow of Massachusetts, for a term of five years; former Governor Edwin P. Morrow of Kentucky, for four years; G. Wallace Haskell of the District of Columbia, for two years, and Harry Dawes, of California, for one year.

The name of the fifth member is expected to be sent soon to the senate for confirmation. The delay is understood to be due to a desire of Mr. Coolidge to examine more closely the qualifications of several names submitted for the three year term.

Mr. Winslow is a former chairman of the house interstate commerce committee, retiring two years ago when he did not stand for re-election to the house. Both Mr. Morrow and Mr. Haskell were members of the public group of the national labor board which was abolished by the act creating the board of mediation. Mr. Haskell having been vice chairman. Mr. Dawes is a conciliator in the labor department here.

SCHOOL BUILDING IN NEW BRITAIN CLOSED

NEW BRITAIN, June 14—(AP)—Because members of the board of education refused to accept the responsibility for the safety of 800 pupils and 21 teachers in one of the oldest buildings in the city today, Superintendent Seaman H. Holmes ordered the building closed and sent the children home. In just two weeks the regular school vacation period will start.

The decision to close the two-story frame school, which is in a thickly settled and rapidly growing section of the city, was reached when Building Inspector E. J. Hennessy sent a formal, written report of the condition of the building to the superintendent of schools. In his statement Mr. Hennessy wrote that "the floor beams were pulling away from the center wall, the walls were bagging, and the joints in the attic were several inches out of place."

He further stated that general conditions were "very unsafe" and recommended a number of emergency measures which could be taken at once.

The new Theodore Roosevelt school, which is now under construction in the same section is expected to be ready for use when the fall terms begins.

MOONSHINE IN THE YARD COSTS KASHABA $200 FINE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, June 14—In the city court today, Joseph Kashaba, of 11 Chapman street, against whom two charges were preferred, possession of intoxicating liquor and sale of the same, was found guilty on the latter charge and acquitted on the sale charge. For possession, he was fined $200 and costs. Attorney Arthur T. Kelley appeared in the interests of the accused. His plea was not guilty to both charges. The raiding officers rushed into the house and seized a one dollar bill in the hand of Kashaba, who had just received the currency from Michael Kozik, the latter requesting that Kashaba purchase some liquor for him. Kashaba testified that he told Kozik that he didn't sell any and that he could not procure any. He was about to return Kozak his money when the officers arrived. The raiding party, which was led by Alderman William E. Jackson found two jugs in the yard in the rear of the house, partially filled with a quantity of moonshine. Attorney Kelley took issue with Acting Captain Frank McLean when the latter, who was one of the raiding party, said that he was positive the moonshine was found on Kashaba's premises.

In police court Monday morning, Arthur J. Tardiff, 28, and Nelson Derosher, 23, were fined ten dollars and costs each on charges of violation of the traffic rules, in violating the section which concerns licensed operators. Both were arrested while driving without license.

Billy Amidio of New Haven was fined, $25 and costs for reckless driving and Arthur Smith of High street, Stafford Springs, was assessed $10 and costs for evasion of responsibility in connection with an automobile accident Saturday afternoon. Percy Maschoco or Wilson street who was presented before the court for breach of the peace, his wife making a complaint that he was causing a disturbance at their home, entered a plea of not guilty. His case was nolled after the testimony of the complainant.

The case of Louise Brettschneider on a charge of possession of intoxicating liquor was continued to Saturday. Bonds of $25 were called in the case of John Sant of Walnut street, this city, who was said to have been charged with intoxication and refusal to pay car fare and who failed to appear.

Delia Kerosch, of Plainfield, obtained judgment before Justice of the Peace Charles Deal, Saturday against Martin F. Shea of this city. The sum amounted to $32.50, the total of an unpaid bill for room rental and care of defendant's wife. The costs of the case amounted to $8.90. Attorney John B. Harvey appeared for the plaintiff.
